LONDON, Ont., April 21.—Frank Carroll, Toronto, manager of the Sprngfield Indians for the past five years, held a conference with directors of the London Hockey Club yesterday, but a definite decision has not yet been reached regarding next year's manager of the London Tecumsehs. Carroll was the third candidate to be considered by the local directors. M. R. ("Mickey") Roach, manager of Buffalo for the past two years and Clem Loughlin, defense player with the London Tecumsehs, are the other two men in the "field."

PIVOTAL STOCKS STEADY.

TORONTO, Ont., April 21.—(CP)—Toronto Stock Exchange market hung motionless in extremely dull trading this morning. Oils were firmer following statements from Imperial Oil and McColl Frontenac officials but the market as a whole seemed to lack assurance.

Calgary Power Company Shows Higher Earnings

TORONTO, April 21.—Calgary Power Company, Limited, for the year ended December 31, 1930, reports further substantial development. Gross operating earnings at $1,833,415 show an increase of $326,586 over 1929 figures and of $883,993 over those of 1928, while total income available for interest, reserves and dividends amounted to $1,195,911, an increase of $338,783 and $661,911 respectively. Interest on funded debt for the year was earned 3.87 times before depreciation. The net available for dividends was equal to more than twice the distribution on the 6 per cent preferred stock and left a balance equivalent to $9.38 per share of common stock on which $6 per share was paid. In 1929, after dividends on a smaller amount of preferred shares, the net was equal to $8.24 on the common shares now outstanding.

Increased earnings for the year, under review are attributed partly to the enlargement of the company's field of operation and the saving in operating expenses through the closing down of auxiliary steam plants following the completion of the Ghost power development.

Wheat Prices Hold Steady At Chicago

CHICAGO, Ill., April 21 (C.P.):—Rumors that there had been a change in plans to sell $35,000,000 bushels of wheat abroad from the holdings of government sponsored agencies bearishly affected the wheat market at the opening today. It had been announced some time ago that such an amount of wheat would be exported by July 1. Rumors were thick and fast and caused much confusion. The chairman of the Farm Board later issued a statement, saying there had been no changes either as to export sales or the decision not to support the 1931 crop. Opening unchanged to ¾ cents lower the market in wheat soon stabilized. Corn started unchanged to 3-8 cents off and continued weak.

COMMONS DOWNS

by the horror of Russian labor. It was cowardly, un-English and caddish to encourage it, he said.

R. A. Taylor, Labor member for Lincoln, moved rejection of the bill. He declared there were worse conditions of labor to be found in the British Empire than in Russia. "Where, where?" a Conservative shouted. "In India, Africa, the West Indies," Taylor returned.

The Laborite charged that all the talk about the Russian forced labor was simply a "ramp" to prejudice the market for Russian timber in this country. The Russians would be pleased if world conditions allowed them to sell at higher prices. It was ridiculous to suggest that Russians were building up a system in order to dump goods on Britain, he argued.

Rumor Of Oil War Meets With Denial

TORONTO, April 21.—The further break in prices of leading oil shares to new low ground on the Toronto and Montreal Stock Exchanges yesterday has given rise to much gossip in brokerage circles. The talk of a price war crops up again, despite official assurances that the oil companies have taken definite steps to avoid such an occurrence.

Gasoline is coming into Canada under over of rebates that has enabled gasoline importing companies to undersell Canadian refinery prices, in spite of the new tariff and the fixing of prices by the government for import duty purposes. This seems to be the point on which the price-war rumor is based, as it is known that the so-called independents are getting a good share of the available business.

STONE DENIES WHEAT RUMOR

Board's Policy as Regards European Sales Policy Announced Some Time Ago.

"DUMPING" BREAK MARKET.

WASHINGTON, D.C., April 21.—(By Ken Clark, Canadian Press Staff Correspondent)—Denial that the Federal Farm Board has yesterday decided to dispose of its holdings of wheat in Europe for what they would bring was issued by James C. Stone, chairman of the board, this morning.

The policy of the board as to sale was outlined some time ago as follows "stabilization supplies of wheat will be handled in such a way as to impose the minimum of burden upon domestic nd world prices."

The story published this morning to the effect that government wheat is to be sold in Europe as rapidly as possible without depressing home prices is accepted in informed circles here as not entirely without basis, but it is pointed out that any "dumping" in Europe would undoubtedly bring United States prices tumbling.

There is no question that the Federal agencies which by July 1, are expected to have on hand nearly 300,000,000 bushels of wheat would sell at a loss, but at as small a loss as possible, and any disorganization of the world price through a move such as is suggested in to-day's reports would defeat their purpose.

Washington anxiously awaits the result in Liverpool of the "erroneous" reports.

THOMAS QUERIED ON DEPORTATIONS

Minister of State Claims Matter Being Taken Up With Canadian Gov't.

DELICATE SITUATION.

LONDON, April 21 (C.P. Cable).—The question of deportations from Canada, of British subjects who had become public charges, or were suffering from diseases, was again raised in the House of Commons this afternoon. Right Hon. J. H. Thomas, Secretary of State for Dominion Affairs, said he was taking steps to get in touch with the Canadian Government.

When the questioner pressed to know if the principles of the matter could be taken up with the Canadian Government, the Minister replied the principles involved were very far-reaching. The situation was difficult and delicate.

Common Citizenship.

"Could not common citizenship in the Empire be established," the Minister was asked.

Mr. Thomas said nothing would please him better, but the questioner must be aware that "if you boss your own show, you cannot interfere."

"Could not suggestions be made to the Dominions," Mr. Thomas was then asked.

"Certainly," he replied.

The questioner first asked the Minister about the recent arrival of 36 persons deported from Canada on the liner Asonia. They included the family of a man who went from Yorkshire in 1926 with his wife and four children, and another family who had been in Canada since 1923, it was said. The questioner wanted to know whether the Secretary of State for Dominion Affairs had any facts relating to these deportations, and whether he intended to make representations to the Canadian Government.

Mr. Thomas said he understood that of the persons concerned, 25 had become public charges in Canada, four had been convicted for offenses and four others had medical defects. As regards the general considerations involved, he had already taken steps to get in touch with His Majesty's Government at Ottawa, he said.

Delegates Will Be Present From Each of 21 or More Clubs Represented in Union.

MEET IN CLUB ROOM.

The Central Ontario Lawn Bowling Association, which saw birth in this city last November, and which was formed to control and look after the interests of the game in this section of the Province, will commence to function in earnest this evening. It is expected that delegates will be present from each of the 21 or more district clubs which are represented in the Association at the meeting which is to be held in the premises of the Peterborough Lawn Bowling Club Limited.

Upon the Association devolves the responsibility of setting tournament dates, to avoid the possibility of clashing, a factor which has caused considerable trouble in lawn bowling circles in this district in the past. The question will be discussed fully to-night, as also will the question concerning the feasability of a district championship event. It had been suggested at the inaugural meeting of this Association, that a play-off on a date to be decided on by the Association, could be played off between the winning schedule rink from each club.

The chair at this evening's meeting will be taken by President Mark Bredin. Other officers of the Association are: Honorary-President, Hary Rosevear, of Port Hope; Vice-President, M. Booth, of Cobourg; Secretary-treasurer, Jack Mayneord, and a committee of five, composed of Messrs. Dr. H. G. Carelton, of Norwood, William Oke of Port Hope, A. E. Sturgess of Whitby, E. J. "If Lyons takes care of himself he'll be ready to pitch in a week," said Dr. Kreuscher. "There is a strained ligament in his shoulder, but there is no hemorrhage or fracture of the bone."

Lyons, who won 22 games last year, came here to-day for the consultation after being unable to pitch for his team.

President of American Telephone and Telegraph at Associated Press Banquet.

(Over Biggar & Crawford Wire)

Statisticians of the world's largest business enterprise, the American Telephone and Telegraph Co., report that the immediate present shows signs of improvement, Walter S. Gifford, president of the company, said at annual luncheon of the Associated Press. Special significance was attached to the statement in Wall Street because of the broad scope of the Company's business and the elaborate care with which it's gauges of business activity are prepared. This is the first statement of its kind from Mr. Gifford since the depression began. How fast that improvement will be measured in weeks or months I do not know Mr. Gifford said, but in the Telephone Co. we have every confidence in the future, not only confidence but the keenest interest in the possibilities ahead of us.

Chief Of Stratford Beaten Up In Fracas

STRATFORD, Ont., Apr. 21. — Following a fracas on the main street of Listowel last night, in which Chief of Police Rocker received nasty gashes on his face and a severely wrenched left hand, David Kemp of Listowel appeared before Magistrate Makins in police court here this morning charged with assault occasioning bodily harm to Chief Rocker.

Accused was not asked to plead and the case was adjourned until Friday afternoon.

It is alleged that Kemp was driving the car while under the influence of liquor and struck another machine on the main street. Chief Rocker went to arrest him and had succeeded in getting the handcuffs on the prisoner when the latter swung around and hit the Chief on the forehead and nose. In the scuffle the Chief also had his left hand put out of commission. A charge under the Liquor Control Act may follow the assault charge.

$150,000 Damage Halifax Warehouse

HALIFAX, N.S., April 21.—(C. P.)—The four storey brick warehouse of Howards, Limited, on the corner of Barrington street and Bell's Lane, was gutted by fire that caused a total loss of $150,000 early to-day. Groceries, provisions and other contents destroyed were valued at $100,000. The building and supplies were partially insured, but the amount of insurance was not revealed. Howard Wentzell is the principal owner.

Three alarms called out all the fire-fighting apparatus here. The whole interior was in flames upon the arrival of the firemen, who were able to prevent the fire from spreading. Tenants in an adjoining block were forced to flee in their night attire.

MRS. W. REW GIVEN $800 JUDGMENT BY JUSTIICE LOGIE

and even a prolonged rest might not have eked out the full two years.

Dr. Waite cited among the cariac defects and disabilities an excessive dilatation which he ascribed to old age and other causes operating prior to the accident. And on that point Dr. Raymore Scott, called by the plaintiff, declared that there was no dilatation indicated in his stethoscopic examination less than an hour after the accident. Dr. Scott said he believed this condition had developed from that time until Mr. Rew died, early the following morning, and was due partly to the degenaration accompanying old age and also to shock and other effects of the fatal injuries.

Mr. Justice Logie stated that he accepted Dr. Waite's testimony because he had performed the post mortem examination. He also accepted the evidence of Miss A. Giroux, an eye witness, in preference to that of Miss Gillespie and her mother, who was in the car with her, and also of Darcy Davis, C.G.E. engineer, who also saw the accident.

Driver's Negligence

"I find that the driver of the car (Miss Gillespie) was negligent in not keeping a proper lookout as she approached Lock Street," His Lordship proceeded in his summation. "She is presumed to have seen that which she should have seen. She failed to see the deceased until she was only fifteen feet away from him. As to her statement that she then looked up and down Lock street, I think she became confused when she saw the man so near her, and she really did not know what she did.

She also failed to sound the horn of the car. That was reasonably necessary in this case. I think the accident would have been avoided had she done so. I say nothing about putting on the brakes or turning the car to the right or left. That is all bound up in her keeping a proper lookout. All the witnesses say she was not driving at an excessive speed."

His Lordship then dealt with the contributory negligence on the part of Mr. Rew, and concluded by assessing $800 damages against the defendant.

First Witness

Samuel Robertson, an employee of the Brinton Carpet Company, said he saw Mr. Rew leaving his home on Gladston avenue at twenty minutes to one o'clock.

"The last I saw of him was at the corner of Gladstone and Lock streets, on the east side of Lock street. I also saw Mr. Davey, his brother-in-law, follow him also going to work, and about two and a half minutes later I saw Mr. Davey hurrying back to Rew's home. I went out on the street and saw a commotion at the Lansdowne street corner. When I got there, Mr. Rew was in Easterbrook's grocery store."

Witness said that Mr. Rew had appeared to be in good health while at work.

Frederick Davey

Fred Davey, an employee of the Brinton Carpet Company and brother-in-law of the deceased, testified that he saw Mr. Rew at the corner of Lansdowne and Lock streets at the time of the accident.

"I was about 150 feet away from him on the east side of Lock street."

Mr. Kerr: "Did you see him struck by the car?"

"No, sir."

"Did you see him enter upon the road?"

"No, sir. The first I saw of him at Lansdowne street was when the wheels of the car were going over him. He was in the middle of the street."

To Mr. Justice Logie, witness said his attention had been momentarily distracted from Mr. Rew by some children.

Mr. Kerr: "Could you estimate the speed of the car?"

"No, sir. It went over him and on past the west side of Lock street. I saw he was hurt and I went back and told his wife."

To Mr. Kerr's question as to who was driving the car, Mr. Gordon said that point was not disputed. Miss Gillespie was driving with her father's consent.

Mr. Gordon's only question was: "Lansdowne street is between the city and the township? It is the boundary?"

Mr. Davey: "Yes, sir."

Witness stated, in reply to Mr. Kerr, that there was no motor traffic on Lock and Lansdowne streets at the time of the accident.

Harold Esterbrook, grocer at the corner of Lock and Lansdowne streets, said he saw Mr. Rew just before the accident. Mr. Rew was on the east side of Lock street about forty feet north of Lansdowne.

Witness did not see the accident nor hear the impact.

"A woman came into the store to phone about the accident. I saw Mr. Rew lying on the road a little north and west of the centre of the intersection of the streets."

Mr. Kerr—The sidewalk at Grady's store was torn up at that time?

Mr. Esterbrook—I think it was.

Witnessed the Fatality

Myles Rundle was called as the next witness. He is a loom fixer at the carpet factory.

Mr. Rundle was walking south on Lock street about 125 feet north of Lansdowne. He saw Mr. Rew crossing Lansdowne and also a car about five feet east of the Lansdowne line.

Mr. Kerr—You saw the car travelling towards Mr. Rew? Yes.

Witness said he had driven a car for five years.

Mr. Kerr—Did you see the impact?

Yes. The car knocked Mr. Rew down and rolled him over. The wheels went over him.

Mr. Justice Logie—Did you hear any warning?

No sir.

Mr. Kerr—What do you say as to the speed of the car?

"I'd judge it was going at about fifteen to twenty miles an hour.

Mr. Rundle said there was no other traffic at the corner. Mr. Rew was about the centre of Lansdowne street when he was struck.

Witness said Mr. Rew had never complained about his health at work.

To Mr. Gordon, Mr. Rundle said his opinion as to the speed of the car was just a guess. It might have been twelve miles an hour.

William Taylor, an employee of the Brinton Carpet Company said he saw Mr. Rew going to work on the east side of Lock street between 20 and 15 minutes to one o'clock. Witness did not see the accident.

Saw the Accident

Miss Azilda Giroux, 191 Lock street is an employee of the Brinton Carpet Company.

"I was at Esterbrook's store and was going to cross Lansdowne street. I saw the car coming from the east. Mr. Rew was walking slowly south on Lock street. He had not come to the corner when I saw him first. I saw him leave the northeast corner to cross to the southwest corner.

Mr. Justice Logie—Did you see Mr. Rew look to see if a car was coming?

"He was walking slowly with his head down. I did not hear the horn of the car. I thought there was going to be an accident."

Referring to a surveyor's map of the intersection, Miss Giroux stated that Mr. Rew was on the sidewalk crossing Lansdowne street, and not in the roadway as if to cross diagonally. Mr. Rew did not look up as the automobile approached from the east. He was about quarter way across Lansdowne from the north side of the street.

Mr. Gordon, cross-examining—Were you at the Esterbrook corner? —Yes sir.

Where did you see Mr. Rew just before the accident?

"About seven or nine feet out on Lansdowne street."

To Mr. Justice Logie witness said the car's speed was about ten miles an hour when it hit Mr. Rew. Miss Giroux said she thought the driver of the car had tried to brake it.

"Mr. Rew noticed the car just before it struck him. He looked toward it and tried to jump back out of the way. He put his hands out toward it just as it struck him."

Miss Giroux said she believed that if the horn had been blown it would have aroused Mr. Rew from his abstraction as he walked smoking his pipe across the street.

Mr. Rew's Earnings

Wm. Ferguson, treasurer of the Brinton Carpet Company, presented a record of Mr. Rew's earnings for three years. The total was $4,989.59, as follows: $1,685.19 in 1928; $2,004.80 in 1929 and $1,299.60 up to his death in 1930.

Mr. Ferguson stated in regard to Mr. Rew's prospects of work at the factory, that he could have remained as long as he wished. He was very regular, and was seldom known to be away from his work.

Long Years of Health.

Mrs. Eliza Rew, widow of the deceased, said her husband was 67 years old at the time of his death. He had suffered no illness and had no occasion to require medical service. There were no children or other dependents. The house which he had paid for was valued at $3,000.

Mr. Kerr: What was the state of his health the day of his accident?

Mrs. Rew: The same as it usually was.

P. C. John Naples.

Police Constable John Naples was the first witness for the defence. He investigated the accident as soon as the police were notified. There was only one mark on the road where the car had rolled over the body. It was about 8 feet east of the centre of the intersection of the two streets and two or three feet north of it. There were no skid marks.

Another Eye-witness.

Darcy L. Davis, C.G.E. engineer, saw the accident from his car parked in front of Grady's Store. He estimated the speed of Miss Gillespie's car at about 15 miles an hour, with a reduction to about 12 miles when the accident occurred.

Mr. Davis gave his opinion that Mr. Rew was crossing from the north-west corner at Esterbrook's store diagonally across to the south-east corner. He appeared to change his course when he saw the car and inclined his way toward it.

To Mr. Gordon's question, witness said that if Mr. Rew had continued his way diagonally across the street he would not have been hit by the car.

Mr. Davis said Miss Gillespie and Rew saw each other when she was 10 feet east of the east side of Lock Street and he was about 8 or 10 feet out from the Esterbrooke corner.

Mr. Davis said he noticed no appreciable change in the speed of the car. If Miss Gillespie had applied the brakes when she first saw Mr. Rew, witness said he thought the accident might have been avoided.

Jean Gillespie.

Jean Gillespie, daughter of the defendant, said she lived in Otonabee, 2½ miles from the city. She is 22 years old and is employed as a clerk in the Bank of Commerce. On the day of the accident she was returning with her mother from lunch at home. She had driven a car for two years.

Witness said she looked north and south on Lock Street as she approached it.

Mr. Gordon: When did you see Mr. Rew?

"When I was about 15 or 20 feet away from Lock Street. He appeared to be moving south-easterly toward the south-east corner."

"What did you do?" "I didn't do anything."

Mr. Justice Logie: "Why didn't you see him before that?" "I saw him walking and thought he would keep on going. He hesitated in front of my car. I knew I was going to strike him. I didn't have time to do anything."

Miss Gillespie's car was going at 10 or 12 miles, she said.

"Did you blow the horn?" "No."

"Why?" "I was positive the pedestrian saw me and it would not be necessary."

Mr. Justice Logie: The pedestrian? You mean the deceased?

Miss Gillespie: Yes.

Mr. Kerr: You were 15 feet away from him, and between that moment and the time you struck him you thought he saw you?

Miss Gillespie: Yes. His face was toward me and I presumed he saw me.

"If you had blown the horn inside that 15 feet do you think he would have escaped?"

Miss Gillespie: I don't know. I think it would have startled him.

Mr. Kerr: You say you saw him hesitate. It might have been the hesitation of a man who found himself in that predicament? Yes, it might have been.

If you had turned north, as a previous witness suggested, do you think you would not have struck him? I don't think I could have turned. I was too close to him.

Did you see he was an elderly man? Yes.

Did you check up any on that account? I thought he'd keep on walking.

Mrs. Gillespie.

Mrs. Gillespie, wife of the defendant, who was driving with her daughter, said she did not see Mr Rew until he was directly in front of the car, about 6 or 8 feet away. He jumped one way and then the other. The left hand side of the front of the car struck him. The car continued about two of its lengths.

Mr. Kerr: In that 6 or 8 feet Mr. Rew had time to jump two ways at once before the car struck him?

Witness smiled at that expression.

Mr. Justice Logie: Don't smile, Mrs. Gillespie. Don't treat this matter lightly. If you don't like a question, simply don't answer it.

Mr. Kerr quoted from the evidence at the inquest to the effect that witness could not offer any explanation of how the accident happened in its circumstances in which the car was going about 12 miles an hour

Mr. Kerr: Can you give any explanation now?

Mrs. Gillespie replied that she could not.

Medical Testimony.

Dr. C. P. Waite testified that the autopsy which he performed disclosed acute inflammation of the inner lining of the heart. He described it as a very alarming condition, but unlikely to cause pain just prior to the accident. Dr. Waite estimated that Mr. Rew would not have lived more than two years.

Barring of Canadian Believed Result of Embargo on Soviet Goods.

TOURISTS ALLOWED.

TORONTO, Apr. 21 (CP).—On Mar. 21 last a Toronto paper published the following: "Residents of Canada and the United States are now free to visit Soviet Russia, providing they travel with an organized tourist group. . . . The announcement comes quickly upon the heels of the recent speech of Vyacheslav Mlotov, Prime Minister of the Union of Socialist Soviet Republics, who challenges publishers throughout the world to send reporters to investigate allegations of convict labor."

Commenting on this, George Hambleton, European staff correspondent of the Canadian Press, ecently refused a visa by Moscow, writes from London: "I was over to the Soviet Embassy today to see if there was any likelihood of any change in attitude. I was informed that the embargo placed by the Canadian Government on imports from the Soviet Union had been regarded as a mark of hostility to Russia, and that so long as the attitude of the Canadian Government remained unchanged, some resentment must be expected.

Refused at Moscow.

In London they had thought the visa would be granted as the e was nothing personal in the refusal. But the application had reached Moscow about the time when the Dominion Government announced the embargo, and, although they had not been so advised, they felt that was the real reason for the refusal. Other Canadians had been refused visas.

"I pointed out I knew of one case where a visa had been granted for a Canadian passport since the embargo. Further, that the Canadian and Soviet delegations had conferred together, with other wheat exporting countries, at Rome.

"I was told that it was against newspapermen travelling as such that Moscow raised objection. The invitation of Mlotov to newspapermen mant n wspapermen resident in Russia and not outside. As to the second point I made, the reply I got was that Societ exports were still barred from Canada.

"It is of course possible to join some tourist party. But I am informed these parties are so carefully shepherded that travelling with is not of much practical use."

Mr. Hambleton's proposed visit to Russia was purely economical and not political, being for the purpose of reporting on Soviet wheat production methods in which Canada has so direct an interest.

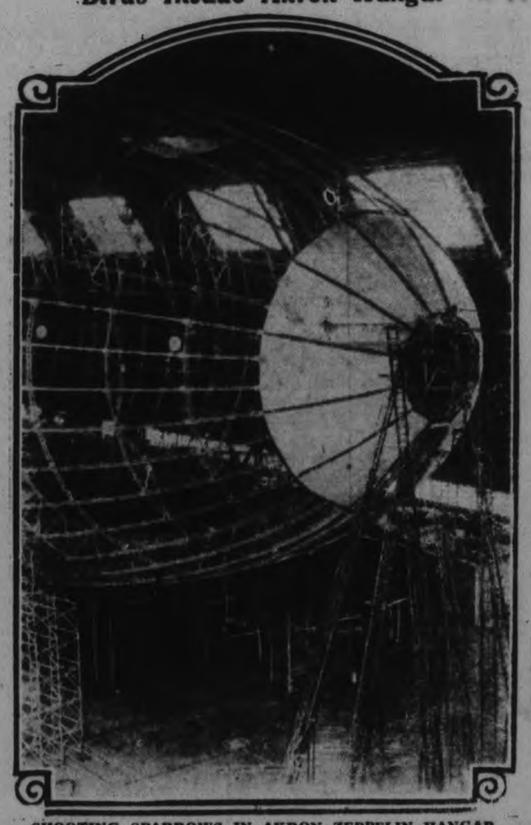
Birds Invade Akron Hangar



SHOOTING SPARROWS IN AKRON ZEPPELIN HANGAR

Armed and uniformed guards now patrolling the Zeppelin hangar at Akron, Ohio, are not hunting Communists or other saboteurs, but sparrows. The birds entered the huge building during the winter by flying through ventilators and have since made their homes there. Now that the craftsmen are beginning to cover the airship's metal ribs with the fabric envelope as shown in this picture, they are afraid that sparrows will start nesting inside the big 'bird." In their war of extermination, use is being made of small calibre rifles whose bullets won't injure the airship, but will knock out the birds.

GARAGE WORKER IS BADLY BURNED

George Dean of Bailieboro Burned While Working in Oshawa Garage.

TAKEN TO HOSPITAL

BAILIEBORO, April 21 (Examiner Correspondence) — George Dean, a local young man, who a week ago left for Oshawa to take a position in that city, happened with a very serious accident a few days later. While polishing a car in the garage where he was employed the can of liquid he was using came in contact with a heated part of the motor and exploded, causing his clothing to take fire. The unfortunate young man fled to where one of his fellow employees was engaged and a blanket was quickly wrapped around his burning clothing. The fire was extinguished but not before his legs, arms and face were badly burned.

He was rushed to Oshawa hospital where medical attention was rendered.

George expects to be able to leave the hospital in a few days as his burns are improving rapidly.

REV. R. TAIT IS GUEST SPEAKER

Rector of St. John's United Church at Campbellford Addresses Zion League.

REGULAR SERVICE.

PETHERICK'S CORNERS, April 21 (Examiner Correspondence)—Rev. R. Tait of St. John's United Church, Campbellford was the guest speaker at Thursday evening's Zion League service. As it was the regular missionary department meeting, Mr. Tait based his talk on a missionary theme, "Imitation the most sincere form of flattery." He spoke briefly of his work in the western provinces and then dealt with the young people of the Orient particularly the 250 young Chinese who are each year sent by the government to the leading universities of Europe and America. It was regrettable, said Mr. Tait, that so many of the young educated Chinese saw only the worst side of our civilization. When one of these clever young men absorbed a western education with the spirit of Christ dominating his life, he went back to China, a power for good in whatever branch of work he took up.

Forty-six league members were present with the Hustlers leading by two. Lindsay Anderson was in charge of the program with Fred Fry as leader. A short talk by Rev. Mr. MacTavish and two musical numbers by Miss Evelyn Barnum and Fred Barnum, violin and piano, were well received.

The members of the local dramatic club are busy practicing the play "My Irish Rose," which will be presented early in May.

Association Forms New Group System

Members of Central Home and School Association spent an enjoyable evening last night at their regular monthly meeting, which took the form of a social evening.

A short business session was first in order and was presided over by Mrs. Wilfred Boorman, the president. Minutes of last meeting were read by Mrs. A. Metheral, secretary, and adopted. An encouraging financial report was given by the treasurer, Mrs. F. Skitch.

A report on relief work was given by Mrs. Metheral, in the absence of Mrs. Flannery, and several letters of appreciation, which were sent by mothers who had received benefit were read.

A group system has been formed by the members, and the names in the various groups were read.

After the business meeting a social hour was spent in games and contests. Mrs. S. Gibbs, as convenor of one of the groups, had charge of this program, which was greatly enjoyed by those present. Winners in the contests were: Mrs. S. Gibbs, Mrs. J. Wylie, Mrs. Soulby, Mrs. Millar and Mrs. Lush.

Dainty refreshments served by Mesdames J. Kingsbury and J. Wylie were enjoyed by the ladies, which ended an enjoyable evening's entertainment.

1827 EXPENSE STILL RULES

At an inquest at Omagh, Ireland, Coroner W. H. Fyffe protested against the inadequate expenses he was allowed to pay witnesses attending from a distance. All he could pay a witness who had come from Newtonstewart was 50 cents. This amount was fixed in 1827 and had not been changed. The matter may be placed before the next Legislature.

Palm Sunday Celebrations In Madrid

For the first time in history the Palm Sunday ceremony in the Royal Palace at Madrid, Spain, was photographed this year, and it might also be the last time a King of the Bourbons ever participates in such a ceremony. The photograph above shows King Alfonso, and behind him the still popular Queen, with the palms, leading the procession which wends its way round the corridors of the palace to the church.

FEEDING BABY CHICKS TOBACCO MAKES BIGGER, BETTER BROILERS

High Percentage of Nicotine a Secret of Effectiveness of New Diet.

WHOLE PLANT GROUND.

(By Howard W. Blakeslee, Associated Press Science Edito .)

STATE COLLEGE, Penn., April 21 —Tobacco fed to baby chicks is making them into bigger and better broilers at the Pennsylvania State College.

This same nicotine diet, in the fully grown old fowl, makes healthier hens and roosters — and, what is more, may emancipate their farm owners from having to keep them so closely watched for fear of a parasitical infection that chickens may pick up when economically foraging for their own food.

Value Recognized Years.

A high percentage of nicotine in tobacco is the secret of the effectiveness of the Pen State tobacco diet. The value of tobacco as a vermicidal agent in chicken feed has been recognized for years, but sometimes its use has yielded uncertain results. It is likely to make hens ill, some being more susceptible than others.

Suspecting that the harm may come from other tobacco ingredients than nicotine, Dr. J. E. Hunter and Dr. D. E. Haley of the department of agricultural and biological chemistry, have been feeding tobacco rich in nicotine, a diet with less tobacco but a bigger "kick."

The material is made by grinding the whole tobacco plant. The most successful brand is a plant, Nicotiana rustica, containing five per cent. or more of nicotine. Tobacco with barely one per cent. of nicotine has "decidedly harmful" results on chickens, the details of which the scientists promise to publish later.

Between the low and the high nicotine types they are now seeking the "level" of nicotine content at which the best results may be obtained. A wider range in effective plants may mean increased markets for tobacco farmers.

Reason Not Wholly Clear.

The reason for the greater growth of baby chicks is not wholly clear. It is not necessarily ascribed to nicotine. If the cause is nicotine, then this is something new in such effects, Dr. Haley says. Better health may come from the killing by nicotine of ascaridia lineata, commonly called round worm, a type of fowl parasites farmers have been forced to raise their chickens on ground free from such organisms.

Like boys with their first smokes, the chicks can be made ill by too much tobacco at the start. And, like the humans, they develop "tolerance to increased amounts."

However, there is no other parallel between smoking and feeding tobacco to chickens. In smoking, nicotine's stimulation works through the blood and the nerves. In the chickens' diet it is only a disinfectant passing through the body, but not necessarily being absorbed into the system and therefore not affecting the flavor or meat or eggs.

QUEENSBORO Y.P.S. HEARS FINE TALK

Miss Margaret Delyea Speaks on Paper Entitled "Life's Triumph."

QUEENSBORO, April 21.—(Examiner Correspondence.)—An interesting program was given at the Young People's meeting in the church on Friday evening. The topic was given by Miss Margery Delyea in a paper entitled "Life's Triumph" which was a discussion of the words uttered by Jesus while on the cross, "My God, Why hast thou forsaken me?" It was pointed out that Jesus had lived a stainless life and yet his friends had forsaken him in the hour of his need and he had suffered a cruel death. This raised the question, "Will the world back up goodness or is it indifferent or does it hate goodness? How far can slander go? Can men be depended upon at all? Jesus had been lied about and apparently the lies spoken about Him prevailed. His life of unceasing self-denial and painstaking for others fell to nothing in his death and yet in death he triumphed and put an unconquerable courage at the heart of life.

Miss Jessie Lynn gave a paper on, "Why go to Church?" Four reasons were given, first, Church going is good for the individual; it takes him apart from the world. Secondly, it gives God an opportunity to reach human lives. They are in His special presence. Thirdly, people should attend church because of their influence on other people. Fourthly, because it enables the church to function.

The scripture lesson from St. Matt. 27, 39-46 and 28: 5-9, was read and explained by Mrs. Everson.

The meeting was opened by singing, "I am thine, O Lord" and closed with "He leadeth me."

ADMIRAL HALTS RUNAWAY PAIR

Son of British Author Loses Bride When Overtaken Returning From Wedding.

MARRIAGE OPPOSED.

LONDON, April 21 (A.P.)—Using a fast motor car instead of the post-chaise of the story books, the father of a girl who had just gone through the form of marriage over the famous blacksmith's anvil at Gretna Green stopped the runaway couple on the high road as they were returning to London last night and separated them.

The lovers, whose affairs have been entertaining the public through the newspapers for several days, were Elizabeth, daughter of Vice-Admiral Edward Wemyss, and Charles, son of the author, Archibald Pechey.

Opposed Marriage

Both parents were opposed to the marriage, principally because Charles is only 20 years old and they wished to postpone the union until he was 21, but the lovers were impatient and rushed hurriedly to Gretna. Elizabeth, who is 24, telephoned her father after the ceremony, and the father, surmising the route by which they would return, set out to meet them.

His surmise was correct, and the Admiral, spotting their car, called it to a halt. After a fatherly lecture he persuaded his daughter to enter his car while the young man continued the journey to London alone.

The parents on both sides were indignant at the incident but the young people, while admitting that the ceremony was not binding, are determined that they will not be separated long.

U.E. LOYALISTS WERE INCLUDED AMONGST PIONEERS OF MURRAY

Many Veterans of 1812 Also Settled in Murray Township.

PRINCE OF WALES' VISIT

TRENT RIVER, April 21 (Examiner Correspondence)—Early Settlement in the Township of Murray: The Township of Murray is bounded on the north by Seymour, west by Brighton, and east by the Township of Sidney, in Hastings County. The township was one of the earliest settled by United Empire Loyalists.

Asa Weller kept a tavern at the Carrying Place, and also a sled and oxen with which he conveyed passengers up the lake shore. Many settlers from the Bay of Quinte after a short stay at Carrying Place, took up holdings along the lake shore in Northumberland.

Hugh McQuoid was a prominent farmer and settled many years ago. He had been reeve of the township and was at one time a Justice of the Peace. Colonel Bullock was another old settler who drew considerable land in Murray.

Descendants of Peter Maybee reside in the north of Murray, as do families of the Wessels, other early settlers. The Fiendalls were an English family among the first settlers. George and Stephen had farms and also ran the brewery at Trenton. One of the Sherwoods kept the lighthouse. Wooler village on the 5th Concession, where the Town Hall was built, had many of the old settlers in the neighborhood, amongst them being the Ganaforths, one of whom, James, kept the Post Office.

There are large numbers of the descendants of the Germans, also a family of old settlers. The Squires were numerous about the village of Brighton, as were the Segars on the lake shore.

James Striker, on Presque Isle Point, was a son of the original grantee. There are lots of Wessels at Wooler, and Hazzards still farther back. The Dorlanders removed to Percy, engaged in milling. Youngs are still plentiful in Murray, one Stephen was reeve of the township. There were many Potters, and any number of Coles about Codrington, all farmers of respectability. Captain Roberdt Wilkins obtained large grants and deservedly so. He had raised a company of militia in the beginning of the war of 1812. When appointed chief commissary, he asked for written instructions and authority that he might not be hindered in his work—that militia colonels and sub-officers should yield to his demands for men to act as batteaux men or do any other required duty. He was asked if he would be ready to set out in a day or two, the reply was, "I will start in half an hour." However, Captain Wilkins quickly wrote his resignation as Captain of the Company, settled his hotel bill and was on his way up the Bay the same day. Commissary Wilkins had many difficulties to contend with. There was the disposition among them to hold over provisions required, until higher prices were obtained. For pork worth $14 a barrel, $20 was asked. The result was that provisions wherever found could be taken at a fair valuation. John M. Lawson (commonly known as John Muskrat) was one of the few survivors of Commissary Wilkin's band. He resided on what was known as the Lawson Settlement, two miles east of Brighton. He was one of the 1812 men who drew his $20 pension. When at the age of 84, while at Cobourg, he challenged any man to run him a foot race for the amount of the pension. Matthew his father took up 200 acres of land in Murray to which John M. his brother succeeded. John M. was drafted several times.

Joseph Gibson was also an 1812 veteran and went to Cobourg for the annual $20 pension. Both men could tell wonderful stories of their early experiences and exploits, and the many changes that had taken place since their boyhood days, when they had daily and nightly encountered with bears and wolves, which then infested the township of Murray in large numbers. Lawson said it was quite a common occurrence to see five or six bears in company, leisurely eating beech-nuts as they went along. He also said that he spent only 25 cents for medical assistance in the course of his life and that was to draw a tooth. Colonel Rogers was the first judge of the District Court, and Captain Sullick.

There were three other 1812 men in Murray, Samuel Dockstater, John Colby and Joseph Talmage, the latter was a United States pensioner, who received $8 a month.

Edward Goodyear, one of the canoe men who conveyed Prince Edward, Duke of Kent (the late Queen Victoria's father) up the lake, was long a resident of Murray. It was remembered that the Prince and suite, put in at Presque Isle Point. They stopped at Herrimans, on the lake shore, and had dinner.

DEFENCE DENIES DRAIN'S STORY OF DRUNKEN PARTY

by the barrel and said he would like to shoot a deer; the gun fell from his grasp, and went off. The shot entered my right ankle and I fell back against a rock."

"After the shooting 'Dick' came up. He pulled his handkerchief from around his neck, and Suggitt tied the wound up."

"When we got back to the house," declared witness, "Mrs. McIlmoyle said, what was the boy doing, he has no money, and Suggitt replied, never mind son, I will see you through."

Medical evidence stated that the fractional impairment is such that the injured ankle will never get back to the same strength as the uninjured ankle."

Previous to the noon adjournment Mr. Huycke made application for permission to have a medical man examine the injured right ankle of the plaintiff, Garnet Drain. Mr. O'Brien raised strenuous objection, which was overruled by His Honor, and Dr T. W. H. Young made an examination. Dr. Young was not called by the defence, however.

Clarence McIlmoyle of Port Robinson, the first witness of the afternoon session, stated he was at Mrs. McIlmoyle's cottage on November 5 and 6 last year. He was guiding. He helped to unload the Suggitt party's luggage among which was included a large quantity of beer.

Defendant and his companions played cards that evening and drank heavily. When they left for the boats next morning Suggitt was a "little shaky." Witness saw Suggitt later in the day, after Garnet had been taken away to hospital. Suggitt was then in fairly good condition.

Harry McIlmoyle of Burleigh Township, was also at The Club House on that occasion. He stayed up until three o'clock on the morning of the sixth, he said, and Suggitt was then well under the influence of liquor.

Not in Fit Condition

"The following morning Suggitt and his companions were still under the influence of liquor. They were not in a fit condition to carry firearms. Witness warned them to be careful of the firearms, because he was afraid of getting shot, and also because Mr. Price had dropped his gun before getting into the boat, and had broken the sights of the gun.

In cross-examination witness stated, that the men came to the cottage on the night of November 4th, a Tuesday and left again on the Saturday of that week. During that period they consumed 94 bottles of beer and eight bottles of whiskey. Witness had had a few drinks also during that time.

In answer to Mr. Huycke, witness stated that after the accident he went from his own house a distance of fifteen miles, to Mr. Price's cottage at Stoney Lake. He went there to see about the adjustment of some money he thought was owing to him. He was ordered off the property by Mr. Price.

Hilliard McIlmoyle, 17, also of Burleigh Township, gave similar evidence regarding the party on the evening of the 5th November. "The night before the shooting," he said, "they could call 'Cinderella' to bring them another hot toddy. Mr. Price was the most insistent caller."

Witness was not feeling well the next morning, which was the reason he was unable to go guiding. He had not been drinking.

Elizabeth McIlmoyle, who keeps the house at which the Suggitt party was staying, and who is a resident of Burleigh Townhip, related how she had accompanied Suggitt and his companions from Burleigh Ranch to the cottage. On the night of November 5-6 she was the last to go to bed. Suggitt was the last of the men to retire.

"I would not say he was sober, neither would I say he was drunk," she declared. "He was the most sober of the party."

Witness did not see any of her guests the next morning, until about ten o'clock when Suggitt and Garnet returned. Suggitt said the gun had fallen. There was no evidence of liquor about Suggitt, but he was talkative."

"He said he was as sorry for the boy as if he were his own son," exclaimed witness. "I said, he has no money, and he replied, 'I will see the boy through and will give him a purse.

Ten-year-old Raymond McIlmoyle was the next witness, whose only testimony consisted of part of a conversation he remembered having heard while he was in the presence of the injured youth, his mother, William Drain and the defendant. "Suggitt said he would pay all expenses and Give Garnet a purse," said the boy.

The final witness for the plaintiffs was Hazel McIlmoyle, dining-room girl and bedroom girl. She stated the parties occupied two double rooms, and one single room. Suggitt occupied a room by himself and on the morning Garnet was shot, she found an empty whiskey bottle on Suggitt's wash-stand.

The Defence.

The defence was a complete denial of any such drunken party as had been sworn to in the evidence given on behalf of any by the plaintiffs themselves.

James Suggitt, who described himself as Chief of Police in the Township of Etobicoke, County York, and with six constables under him, on oath that on the 5th of November he took a long walk with Harry McIlmoyle. He was tired out on his return to the cottage, and retired early. He did not have anything to drink that day, and on the morning of the 6th "was just as sober as I am now."

He declared that he did not hire Garnet Drain as a guide, Mr. Price had charge of all the arrangements.

Price did drop his rifle as he was getting into the boat, and broke the sight, but he slipped on a moss-covered rock.

Describing the incidents immediately prior to the accident, witness said he saw Garnet Drain coming towards him, from a place some distance away where he had previously been standing. Witness was on top of a high rock. He had a Winchester 32-40 rifle laying over the crook of his arm. The rifle was at half cock. Garnet was half a mile away, when witness first saw him. He turned his back on the youth because he wished to shelter from the wind which was very keen. The next thing he knew Garnet was alongside him.

"I asked him what he was doing up here, and why he had left his position."

Witness denied having used his rifle as a walking cane, and stated that when Garnet came up to witness, he still had the rifle in the crook of his left arm. His fingers were beginning to get numb from the cold. He had a pair of thin cotton gloves on, and he commenced to set the rifle down on the ground.

Rifle Slipped.

"My hand was about eighteen inches from the ground, when the rifle slipped. The barrel was pointing to the left of the boy. Not directly at him. As the rifle hit the ground there was a report and the boy was wounded in the right ankle.

Witness rendered what aid he could, and offered to carry the boy to the boat, but he preferred to walk.

He reached home with the boy. The boy's father said, "My God don't tell me he's been out hunting."

Witness had a first aid kit, but he alleged the boy's father would not allow him to use it.

"I did not make a promise to give a purse, nor to pay the expenses. I did not commit myself regarding the payment of expenses at any time."

Evidence was also given by the other members of Suggitt's party, which included John R. Price, Norman Daniels, Fred Geary, and Arnold Bucknell. Generally speaking their evidence was of a negative quantity. None of them denied that there had been drinking at the cottage, or the possibility that Suggitt had been drinking, but none of them were able to state that they had seen defendant drinking.

Fred Geary, a commercial traveller of Toronto, stated he has known Suggitt for seven years, and during that time had not known him to take a drink of liquor.

The injured boy's father was recalled by Mr. O'Brien, he had not allowed Suggitt to attend to the boy at the house, he stated, because Suggitt was not in a fit condition to do so.

Evidence was also given by this witness and by his brother, David Drain, regarding the possibility of a Winchester rifle discharging at half cock. Both witnesses who were described as "rifle experts" thought it an impossibility that the gun could be so discharged.

RAILROAD-BUS BATTLE STARTS

Commissioner For London Area Deciding Whether to Grant Coach Companies Licenses.

CONDITIONS OUTLINED.

LONDON, April 21 (By Thomas T. Champion, C.P. Staff Correspondent). — The battle between the railways and the motor coaches opened in earnest to-day when the Traffic Commissioner for the London area under the new Road Traffic Act sat for the first time to consider the granting of licenses to motor coach companies to operate in the area.

The railways opposed the requests practically en bloc and the representative of the London and North-Eastern Railway alleged that his railway alone had lost a million passengers through the motorbus competition.

The Traffic Commissioner announced that some of the conditions which would have to be met by the motorbuses would be a maximum speed of 30 miles an hour, a minimum return fare of fifty cents, and passengers must be taken up and deposited only at specified points. Such regulations would not affect the ordinary London omnibus service, however.

Nearly 7,000 tractors were shipped from the Irish Free State to the United States last year, as compared with 1,409 in 1929.

Thieves recently stole a tombstone from the grave of Lieut. C. E. F. Lloyds, a World war hero, in Henley, England, cemetery and dumped it into a ditch 26 miles away.

CAMPBELLFORD ROTARY CLUB ELECT OFFICERS

Rev. R. C. Tait is President for Coming Year—A. D. Bennett and Elie Brunelle, Directors.

R. C. DOLMAN RE-ELECTED

Edgar T. Jones of Toronto Addresses Club on Boy Scout Movement

CAMPBELLFORD, April 21 (By Examiner Staff Correspondent)—The Rev. R. C. Tait will preside over the Campbellford Rotary Club for 1931-1932 as the result of the annual election of officers which took place yesterday at the weekly luncheon of that body, staged in the St. Lawrence Hotel, here. President, H. N. Carr occupied the chair. The other officers elected were, vice-president, H. N. Carr; secretary, E. C. Dolman, re-elected, and directors, A. D. Bennett, Elie Brunelle and the officers.

The guest speaker for the day was Edgar T. Jones of Toronto, field secretary for the Boy Scout movement in the province, who gave an interesting address on the work of that organization explaining the benefits that are derived from it by the youth of the nation.

He stated that the movement was started twenty-three years ago by Baden Powel, and since that time the idea has so gripped the imagination of the youth of the world that to-day there were over two million Scouts and leaders from all countries, 70,000 in Canada and over 19,000 in the province of Ontario. He spoke of the appeal the scout ideal had to the youth of the country and what the movement stands for, declaring that the objection often raised that the idea inculcates military principals is ridiculous. It was a factor for peace the speaker declared, teaching self-reliance, consideration for others, a reverence for God and King, it was an agency for peace and good will and helped to break down racial barriers and create a better international spirit.

Mr. Jones stated that the evidences of the success of the movement were often found during his travels through the province, and pointed out that Judge Mott of the Juvenile Court of Toronto had stated that "During the whole of his career in that capacity not one case had come before him where the offender had been a Boy Scout," declaring that this in itself was the finest recommendation that one could desire as a evidence of the success of the Scout movement. The speaker also gave other personal instances of the way the boys respond to the principals laid down in the Scout law.

"There was evidence of the need of this Christian development work in the world to-day," Mr. Jones stated and apealed to the club as business men, to realize this fact, declaring that the Scout training was a real preventative work, training boys along the lines of honesty and integrety. He outlined a series of tests, both verbal and practical, which had been made on the school children of many institutions, unknown to them, stating that these revealed that over one half of the children of to-day will give way to the temptation of lying and stealing. These tests covered a wide range from the return of excess change given at stores to the dishonesty shown at examinations. He was glad to say however that the highest score was made by a group who were Scouts, there only being seventeen per cent who were not honest and trustworthy, and some individuals in this group had a 100% mark to their credit. The second highest score for honesty was made by another group comprising Scouts of only six months' standing with an 80% mark, the third on the list being a group from a private school.

In conclusion Mr. Jones appealed to the members of the club to see that there was suitable leadership in the local troop and to get behind and boost the local Scout masters.

In moving a vote of thanks to the speaker, G. A. Kingston stated that the community owed much to M. H. Sergeant, the Campbellford Scoutmaster for the time and hard work he had put into the training of the 1st Campbellford Troop. Seconding the motion N. Alex MacColl echoed the sentiments of Mr. Kingston, declaring that because boys' work was one of the chief objects of the Rotary Club, the club should do something for the Scout movement in Campbellford. The vote of thanks was conveyed to the speaker of the day by President Carr.

LAKEFIELD BAND ELECTS OFFICERS

Band is Entirely Self-Supporting and Genuine Asset to Village.

SCRIVER IS PRESIDENT

LAKEFIELD, April 21—(Examiner Correspondence)—The annual meeting of the Lakefield Citizens' Band was held on Thursday evening in the Town Hall with a good attendance present. The report of Mr. Clark, the secretary-treasurer, showed a healthy condition financially as well as in membership and interest. The band is entirely self-supporting and is a genuine asset to the village and is doing well.

The following officers were elected:

Hon. President—W. H. Casement.
President—Gordon Scriver.
Vice-president—G. G. Connell.
Secretary-treasurer—A. H. Clark.
Band Master—Walter Madill.
Music committee—Messrs. Connell, Scriver and Madill.

Following the business a very pleasant event took place when Gordon Scriver read an address expressing to the bandmaster the appreciation the members of the organization felt for his faithful and efficient services. For several decades Mr. Madill has been identified with the band and various musical organizations in the village, always giving his best and by his appreciation of good music and his high standard, has done much to inspire his fellow members with something of his spirit. On behalf of the members of the band G. G. Connell presented Mr. Madill with an ebony baton silver mounted with silver.

The presentation was a genuine surprise to Mr. Madill, who thanked his friends for the gift. They could have giving him nothing he would have liked better and in thanking them for the gift he thanked them also for their co-operation.

'Hard Times Dance"

The "hard times dance" held on Friday evening last under the auspices of the Lakefield Post of the Canadian Legion was a real success although the name was a bit of a misnomer as the costumes were dainty and exceedingly pretty for the ladies and the last word in the fashion of the day for the men. Moncrief's orchestra furnished excellent music for the dancing, which included many square dances. The Ladies' Auxiliary co-operated with the men and were, as usual, faithful and efficient in their service. The committee in charge consisted of Comrades A. B. Burrows, O. E. M. Grier, J. R. Earnshaw, K. A. Mackenzie, C. C. Stenner, W. H. Adamson and Ellis Simpson.

Old Time Concert.

A very delightful old time concert was given by Mrs. W. A. Greenslade and company of Peterborough under the auspices of the Ladies' Guild of Knox United Church on Friday evening in Knox Church. There was a fair attendance but by no means as many as the quality of the entertainment warranted. The old songs, the songs with the soul and the costumes of the old days of chivalry when "knights were bold and ladies fair." To real music-lovers the entertainment was a real treat, the greatest treat of the season. Mrs. Greenslade is well known to a wide circle in the village as a musician of real worth and she has on many occasions lent a helping hand to Knox Church congregation.

SKIRT MATCHING LONG COAT POPULAR FOR SPORTS WEAR

Mesh Weaves Have Vogue, Latest Hats Recall "Bustle" Era.

VIVID FLANNELS.

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J., April 21.—The boardwalk continues to be resplendent with the colorful dash and charm of new creations. Every day something new, some gay accessory, some novel idea in the various appointments or expressions of the perfect costume appear from an apparently inexhaustible source.

One of the smartest and most practical ideas noted on the boardwalk during the past week is the skirt that matches the spring coat. By this is not meant the short ensemble suit-coat or past years, but the long, dressy or sports coat of 1931. For instance a navy blue cheviot belted coat with an ascot scarf of white galyak has a matching skirt of cheviot. With this is worn a variety of blouses, a rather long overblouse of white crepe, buttoned in a bias line with large, white pearl buttons; a dressmaker blouse of white crepe coin dotted in blue, and also a monotone blouse of bright royal blue crepe. How varied! How sensible!

Mesh weaves, both wool and cotton, have found a tremendous vogue this spring; and will be most popular during the summer. One marvels at the number of porous fabrics. From fish net to pin hole meshes, one sees this weave in dresses, coats, separate skirts, hats and accessories.

Signs of Summer.

The beach is beginning to show signs of summer. Baseball is being played on the strand by boys and men and sun bathers are noticed stretched out on the sand. The beach chairs are crowded and horseback riding is immensely popular. However, with the advent of summer the horses must go to make way for the bathers.

Small boys are especially picturesque on the beach in smart little English jacket suits. These suits, cut like a single breasted sack coat, rounded at the corners, with three or four patch pockets, are worn by little men from three or four years up. These are in bright powder blue, royal blue and navy, with white flannel trousers and white buckskin shoes. In the reddish browns, in various tweeds and in gray or blue flannel, these mannish little suits are swagger on older boys. Reefers with belted backs and large flap pockets have no end of swank on manly looking youngsters.

An irregular saw-tooth edging on a deep shawl collar is the smart finish, on a number of youthful belted suits observed on fashionable girls and women. Such a suit in blue basket weave wool was charming with a white vestee embroidered in a colorful plaid design. Plaid taffeta will be an effective suubstitute. Bright tweed with sometimes as many as three colors combined, with always one shade predominating like the lovely Linton English tweeds are contributing smart suits on exceptionally well-dressed visitors.

A big word of praise must be said for the polo and "swagger coats" which are increasing in popularity. Many of these models are in the natural camel shade, but quite loveliest are in a deep tone of powder blue—a soft blue, yet an accented shade. Some powder blue polo coats have fur collars of baum martin, stone martin, or red fox. Dyed yellow furs are good on these blue coats. They are also effective without fur.

Raglan Popular.

The Raglan sleeve is highly popular in bold coats, which are also appearing in light peach, egg-shell, white, navy and the pale rose tones. An important summer fashion will be found in the polo coats.

Flannel skirts flared, and in "high" meaning vivid, shades, are being worn with soft suede jackets in shades of tangerine, copenhagen blue, green, rose beige, natural and sun tan. These skirts match or contrast with the jackets.

The furless coat is observed most frequently. Some have reveres of pique or shantung. However, most of the models are self-trimmed. The collarless coat is among the outstanding fashions, which is increasing in favor as spring advances. It makes the perfect background for handsome neckpieces, scarfs or bandannas of fur. These coats fit like dresses.

There is a brand new hat silhouette this week. It is a happy relief from the omni-present Watteau. On there model the brim dips in the front in a rather quaint line, curves outward on each side-front, and turns downward in the back. Its outlines are strongly reminiscent of the bustle period, but it is altogether charming, showing the youthful curls of 1931. Of charmeuse straw, with a fan-shaped, gros grain, chi-chi at the side-back, this hat is delightful. Blue is the dominant color on the boardwalk. Besides skipper blue, one notes a prevalence of royal blue and the lighter blues, something like "Alice blue," powder blue bluebell, and some lovely soft paler blues. Navy or skipper combined with royal blue is among the outstanding color combinations. King's blue, as it is sometimes called, white and black make a telling trio.

Pleasing Program By Wooler W.M.S.

WOOLER, April 21. — (Examiner Correspondence).—The Women's Missionary Society held its monthly meeting in the United Church parlors with a large gathering at the lunch hour. Lunch was served by Mrs. F. A. Dorland, Mrs. L. E. Dorland, Mrs. J. J. McCall, Mrs. N. Easterly, Mrs. Bruce Ellis, Mrs. Hugh Gainsforth.

After quilting the meeting opened with the president, Mrs. S. L. Terrill, in the chair. After the devotional period, a vocal duet was given by Mrs. George Chapman and Mrs. Caleb Cole, Mrs. Curry at the piano. A reading of interest was read by Mrs. Curry. Mrs. Alden Arthur gave a report of the morning and afternoon sessions of Cobourg Presbyterial held at Cobourg. Mrs. A. Smith gave a report of the evening session, and an interesting synopsis of Dr. Margaret McKellar's address on India. A hearty vote of thanks was tendered the delegates on these excellent reports. Mrs. M. Waite gave a few thoughts on Christian stewardship.

Conference Held.

On Thursday a Mission Band conference was held in Smithfield. The speaker was Mrs. Gundy, of Toronto. Mrs. L. H. Rowe, superintendent of the band, attended this conference.

College Beauty

Students at the University of Georgia may flunk in calculus, Greek or trigonometry, but they hit the 100 per cent mark in voting Mary Myers, 17-year-old freshette in the school of journalism, the "most beautiful girl in the college." She was born in Honduras, but her parents are natives of Georgia.

NEIGHBORS TALK

"I am employed in a theatre and it is a problem to make ends meet, as I help support my mother and sisters. I like to dress well but haven't very much to spend on clothes. To give the appearance of variety to my slender wardrobe I change the color of a dress or stockings as soon as the things become faded. I always use Diamond Dyes for the work—using them as dyes for dresses and as tints for stockings. I have always gotten such perfect results that our neighbors talk about the great number of new things I have.

"I learned about Diamond Dyes from our wardrobe mistress. She says she has tried all the dyes on the market but none do such splendid work and are so easy to use as Diamond Dyes. I understand they are the world's most popular dyes—and they deserve to be."

SCOTCH NIGHT.

Christian Endeavor Society Put on Fine Program in Havelock Church.

HAVELOCK, April 20 (Examiner Correspondence).—The Scotch banquet held in the basement of Knox Presbyterian Church under the auspices of the Christian Endeavor Society, on Wednesday, April 15th, was a decided success from both a social and financial standpoint, over a hundred people partaking of the sumptuous supper.

The banquet was opened with the old-time custom of "Piping the Haggis," Mr. Donald Plunkett playing the march on the bagpipes, and, following him, Mr. T. C. Jamieson carried the "haggis" on a platter. Rev. John Lennox, D.D., after the supper, presided. In opening the program, he proposed a toast to the King, which was received with enthusiasm. The community singing was led by Mrs. C. Jamieson in real style, which was joined lustily in good rotund voices. Miss Maude Sexsmith sang "Do You Ever Sit and Dream," which was well sung and received. Miss Katie Anderson and Mr. Frank McLaughlin were the pianists for the evening. Mr. Isaac Anderson of Round Lake gave very humorous Scotch recitations which gave great delight to the audience. Also Mrs. William Martin recited about the evils of lady nicotine which produced a variety of thought and laughter.

Rev. Mr. Hugh Brown, who had just returned home after being away for a year in New Carlisle, Quebec, gave an interesting talk about the Gaspe coast, and the church of which he was pastor. He also complimented Rev. Dr. Lennox on his well-earned degree of D.D. by examination. The banquet was closed by singing "Auld Lang Syne" and the benediction by Dr. Lennox.

WEDDINGS

BLAND-BOYD

CAVAN, April 21 (Examiner Correspondence) — The marriage took place on Wednesday at Cavanville parsonage of Gordon Aubrey Bland, son of Mr. Harry Bland, and Greta May, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Boyd, Mount Pleasant, by the Rev. J. E. Whitham. The young couple were attended by Mr. Ray Boyd and Miss Evaline Bland.

The bride looked charming in an independent blue crepe dress, black moire hat trimmed with roses, black satin shoes and beige hose. She wore a navy blue coat trimmed with squirrel.

After the ceremony a reception was held at their home, on the boundary between Emily and Cavan by their immediate friends and relatives. On Friday evening a largely attended shower was tendered them in their new home, when they received many beautiful and useful gifts.

THE HOME ETERNAL.
(II. Corinthians, 5:1.)

Although, beneath Time's beating blast
Our fragile house of clay
Should be dissolved, and sink, and fall in ruinous decay.

We will not yield to faithless fear
For, a better house is ours,
A Mansion, built by Heavenly hands,
Up-reared in fadeless bowers.

God's building, which shall never know
A breath of earthly blight,
But stands her ageless walls serene
On Zion's glorious height.

A home, by Jesus's loving care,
Prepared for you and me,
The blest abode of life, and love,
The dwelling of the free.

Maple Sugar Social Is Greatly Enjoyed

NORHAM, April 21.—(Examiner Correspondence).—The climax of the winter's contest in the young people's class was held on Friday night when the two losing sides entertained the winning side to a maple sugar social.

The original plan was a party in the woods and a boiling down. But on account of the inclemency of the weather, the party was held in the church hall.

A pleasant time was spent in games and contests, after which everyone enjoyed the maple taffy served with biscuits.

SPAIN EVEN MORE A MAN'S COUNTRY

long before anything happened him.

At the foot of fishy black steps the barge was parked and roped. The woman picked up the screaming hog and held him on her head. The girl, not more than 16, but stalwart as an ox, picked up the calf. They started up the seaside steps while the main guy sat in the stern of his barge igniting another cigarette. One of the old Spanish customs, you have observed, is that men don't believe in working, while they have women.

I've never tried carrying a screaming hog on my head or a calf either but I have a sneaking idea that there are simpler ways of earning a living even before these women reached the top step. They swayed a bit helplessly under the weight while other women loaded down with such trifles as bushels of sardines, huge cheeses, eight gallon cans of water and kegs of wine, went clumping past in bare feet as their men looked on admiringly.

Just as the women reached the top of the steps a ship's tender, floating flags in front, astern and amidships, touched the quay and camera clickers by the score came tumbling off the decks.

The pig screamed and squirmed in renewed indignation. He called on all the prophets to save him and rescue came in the shape of a perfect battalion of cops. Blue cops, green ones and cops of olive hue bore down with threats, notebooks and waving batons. "Away, away. Vamos! Vamos! What do you mean coming here with stock when the Americanos are arriving? Get out of here now and stay out of here" These in effect, were the bitter instructions of the gayest gathering of bobbies I ever expect to see.

The girl, being young and spunky, made a wise come back, dropped her calf and let her go hippity hop down the steps to the barge again. Calfs don't ordinarily climb up and down steps even in Spain but this one did well. The man, unwilling to be disturbed by this uproar, got up and vanished in the direction of the nearest cantina. Meanwhile his black shrouded wife was holding the pig on her head with cops in all directions telling her to vamos and to vamos pronto. You don't need Spanish to know what this means.

Another woman rushed to the rescue. She brought a rope. The pig was set down on the ground and tethered while cameras snapped all over the place. But the cops were being reinforced every moment. They had a perfectly glorious time giving orders. The Americanos could do no wrong. They must not be disturbed. The Spaniards could do no right. They should disappear quickly, thoroughly and permanently. The woman picked up her pig again. She struggled down the steps. The hog fell into the sea and his squawk positively tore holes through the air.

The woman stood on the steps wailing and screaming that her pig would surely be drowned and her fortune lost, but he wasn't because a gallant boatman, who must surely have been a bachelor, put out for him, drew the complaining hog aboard and carried him far out to sea where he was not seen or heard again. Thus was the day saved for the Americanos.

At this point your private reporter was a "personally conducted" tourist, so don't expect excitement in this report. A personally conducted tourist is one facing all the dangers of a babe in a cradle and having about that much fun. In this case he spends one day in Spain and for the next six months gives lectures about the country.

The tourists were here milling up and down the quay snapping pictures of delighted policemen and bored oxen which drew monstrous solid wheeled carts loaded with wines, hay, wood, kegs of beer, and cork. Women passed to and fro with astonishing loads on their heads. Many carried big wicker baskets of fish just from the sea. The fish dripped smellishly down on their faces and soaked into their hair and clothes. Peasant women in Spain don't bother much about baths. Figure that one out.

The men, of course, were on the choice seats, or in the bars, or selling postcards to the tourists. The boys carried the babies. There were always babies. Boys up to about 14 are the official baby minders. Their sisters have to carry things about on their heads and babies sometimes fall off heads. After 14 the boys retire to that happy state where the heaviest thing they carry is a cigarette. One result of all this is that women are worn and leathery by 30 but still erect at 70. To see some of these grandmothers striding through the streets with the carriage of the guards, is to realize that after all work doesn't kill people but idleness does.

Spain, even more than Mexico, is a man's country. I'll tell you how they make love tomorrow.

Just Between Us Women

A daily chat with Examiner neighbors conducted by Anne Wilcox

Perhaps you housewives have noticed that to-day there appear to be more varieties of breads than ever before.

• • • • • • •

But it seems that it is the fashions of breads that change rather than the number of their kinds.

• • • • • • •

In olden days there were more kinds of corn breads commonly used than today when the corn muffin holds precedence. We find among old recipes those for rice breads, apple bread, buttermilk biscuits and all sorts of rye, graham and brown breads to say nothing of the great varieties of tea and other biscuits.

• • • • • • •

Today nut bread, raisin bread, fruit loaf, etc. are very popular and all of them are excellent to serve at teas.

• • • • • • •

In England and on the Continent buttered bread is featured at afternoon teas. This is followed by cakes in endless diversity, one, two or three being served at one tea.

• • • • • • •

Today tea biscuits is the name given to small raised biscuits. In bygone days tea biscuits were made with soda as the raising element or soda and cream of tartar if sweet milk were the liquid.

• • • • • • •

The size of the biscuits might be large or small. In the early days in this country tea and supper were one and the same. Afternoon teas came in years later on.

• • • • • • •

The biscuits were named for the meal at which they were ordinarily served and had nothing to do with the size.

• • • • • • •

And while we are on the subject of bread I happened to find the following recipe for Hot Water Ginger Bread with Ginger Cream. Have you ever tried it?

• • • • • • •

The following are the ingredients: 2¼ cups flour, measured after sifting; 1 teaspoon soda; 1½ teaspoon ginger; ½ teaspoon salt; 1 cup molasses; ½ cup boiling water; 4 tablespoons melted fat.

• • • • • • •

Sift together the flour, soda, ginger and salt. Combine the molasses, hot water and fat and stir into the dry ingredients. Beat vigorously and pour into a shallow greased pan, baking in a moderate oven 25 to 30 minutes.

• • • • • • •

The bread is served hot with Ginger Cream made as follows: 1 cup whipping cream; ½ cup confectioner's sugar; tablespoon of preserved or crystalized ginger cut fine.

• • • • • • •

Fold the sugar into the whipped cream, add the ginger or flavor as desired, serving on the hot ginger bread.

Court House Insurance Is Used As Protection

(Special to The Examiner.)

KINGSTON, April 1.—The corporation of Kingston carried $50,000 insurance on the Court House but in the settlement with the County of Frontenac ,no consideration was given to the city's loss as it was intangible and difficult to appraise. The insurance was only a protection in case the county asked the city for a sum to help restore the building. In case the costs of repairing reach $60,000 or $70,000 the county might ask the city to share in the overplus over insurance paid to them, the city might be indemnified for its loss. This is the opinion as expressed by the city solicitor.

Elaine And Her Ideas From Paris

Grand-daughter Of Late Marshal French Wedded To English Peer At Westminster

LONDON, April 21 (A.P.)—Miss Valerie French, grand-daughter of the late Field Marshal, the Earl of Ypres, was married to-day at St. Margaret's Church in Westminster to the young Lord Brougham and Vaux.

Eleven bridesmaids wore frocks of white tucked chiffon and hats of fine white straw. They carried small white vanity bags. A small page boy wore a suit of white satin.

Among the hundreds of wedding presents was a smart hearth brush which bore the inscription, "Trusting his Lordship will not be offended; from Mrs. Dyke." It was the humble gift of an old family caretaker at the London home of the bridegroom's mother.

The bride's sister, the Honorable Moya Beresford, matron-of-honor, wore a gown similar to the bride's, without the long train.

The Archbishop of Canterbury issued a special license for this wedding.

Both Miss French and the bridegroom are 21 years old. Last year Lord Brougham and Vaux inherited nearly a million dollars.

The bride's wishes for all white wedding were gratified, even to the extent of the mounted policemen outside the church riding white horses.

Lord Brougham brought his staff and retainers from the Westmoreland and Somerset family seats to London for the brilliant ceremony.

Y. W. PAGEANT SET FOR MAY 1

Everything is New for the Big Pageant This Year at Grand Opera House.

MANY STRIKING NUMBERS.

Blue and silver gowns with silver slippers—soft clinging frocks of pastel-shaded voile to weave dreams with—butterfly dresses with frail wings of purple, yellow and mauve—these are some of the lovely things that the girls will wear who are dancing in the Y.W.C.A. pageant this year, to be presented at the Grand Opera House on Friday and Saturday evenings, May 1st and 2nd.

Everything is new for the big pageant this season. And all the costumes are new, brilliant and colorful. The big dancing event will be the "Glimpse Into Fairyland," and there are some gorgeous costumes for this lovely number. The tiny Earth Child who goes peeping into that wonderful country will wear a simple, dainty dainty frock of rose-pink organdie, with Dresden panels and tiny frilled edges.

For the Sailors' Hornpipe, always a popular number, there are suits of white, with long white 'slacks,' sailor caps and blue and white middy blouses.

The Baby Bandit dance will be one of the most striking of the numbers. These little things wear red panties, wide sashes of orange and black and three-cornered scarfs. They are out to steal hearts and four of the larger girls who come in bearing red hearts in their hands, provide them with an opportunity. These girls will be in gowns of brilliant futuristic chintz, with Pierrette neck and wrist ruffles of brilliant red tulle.

For the Russian Rhapsody, a vivid number, the costumes are of gorgeous crimson and there is plenty of color too, in the bright Ukrainian dance, with skirts of futuristic chintz, little white aprons and blouses banded with bright colors, and typical Ukrainian headbands of bright ribbons, with side-pieces over either ear, falling over the shoulder.

The Mexican hat dance will be a novelty. The girls have colored their big straw hats to suit themselves, and the effect, with the deep fringe, is very striking. They will wear costumes of khaki and scarlet, with fringed gauntlet cuffs and red scarfs.

Then there is the picturesque Silver Balloon dance, another lovely spectacle, with the most beautiful frocks, perhaps, of the lot. These are of the Grecian type, with picoted hems and bloused tops. They are of celestial poudre blue with silver ribbons at the waist. The girls wear silver slippers and use silver balloons for their pretty dance.

PAJAMA RAGE IS NOT NEW

Eskimo Girls of Northwest Territories Have Worn Them For Many Years.

ON BEACH AND AT BRIDGE.

TORONTO, Ont., April 21. (CP)—Feminine Canada is becoming pajama-minded. This spring, as never before, the girls are turning to the wide-bottomed trouserettes of varying shades and shapes. Pajamas for beach wear, for teas, bridges and just lounging, seem to be all the rage. But—pajamas are really old. Old stuff. For years and years Eskimo girls have worn them.

Authority for this statement is contained in a report on Keewatin and the Northwest Territories made by G. H. Blanchet for the Canadian Government. Mr. Blanchet is one of the Dominion's outstanding explorers and authorities on Eskimo life who returned recently from the northland.

The Eskimo costume, says Mr. Blanchet, is essentially the same for man and woman, though somewhat different in design. It is as follows:

The artikee, or inside shirt, is made of short haired summer skins with hair inward against the body. It hangs nearly to the knees and is provided with a hood. This is the sole upper garment worn inside the igloo.

The kolekuk, or outer coat, is practically the same as the artikee but slightly larger. It is made of longer-haired skins and considerable skill and good taste are employed in mixing white and brown fur to produce a tribal design. The hood is trimmed with wolverine fur which is not frosted by the breath. Kokaleek is the name given to the trousers which are in the nature of "shorts" hair inside and with leg bottoms wide. Over these canvas shorts of similar shape are worn sometimes, which sounds very much like the "pajamas" which are scheduled to be so popular on beaches this summer.

BEDTIME STORY

Howard R. Garis

UNCLE WIGGILY'S FUNNY BATH.

"This certainly is very funny!" said Uncle Wiggily. The old rabbit gentleman wasn't talking about his bath then. That comes farther on in the story, I'll tell you when. "Very funny indeed!" murmured Mr. Longears. "I wonder what does it?"

He was sitting at an ice-cream table in the five and ten cent store. Uncle Wiggily had taken Jackie Bow Wow to get some ice-cream as a treat and, all of a sudden, into the store popped the Fox. The Fox was just going to nibblee the bunny uncle when, all of a sudden, while Uncle Wiggily had his paws held high in the air over his head, the ice-cream table began to tip and dance and bob about. This frightened the Fox and he ran away.

Uncle Wiggily didn't know why the table had tipped, making the Fox think it was fairy magic which, perhaps, might turn him into a pig. That's what Mr Longears was saying was so funny.

"Why does this table tip and dance and bob about so?" asked Uncle Wiggily out loud.

"Maybe you are doing it yourself" said the little mousie girl who waited on the customers.

"How could I be tipping the table when I have my paws raised high in the air?" asked the rabbit.

"That's so, you couldn't very well," said the mousie girl. "But why do you hold your paws up in that silly way?"

"He fell in the tub himself."

"Because the bad Fox made me so he could nibble my ears better, I guess," said Uncle Wiggily. "Oh, dear!" He was speaking to himself not to the little mousie girl who waited on the ice-cream tables.

"Well," she said, "the Fox is gone, so you may put your paws down now, Uncle Wiggily."

"Thank goodness!" murmured the rabbit.

"How did you know my name was Goodness?" asked the mousie girl and she laughed again. But Uncle Wiggily was too busy to notice. For though he lowered his paws and though the Fox had run away the table was still tipping as if invisible, or unseen, fairies were under it.

"Who is tipping that table?" cried Uncle Wiggily all of a sudden.

"I am!" shouted a jolly voice and out crawled Jackie Bow Wow.

"Why you queer little tyke!" exclaimed the rabbit. "I thought you were sitting at this table eating ice-cream with me."

"I was," Jackie barked with a laugh. "But I dropped some of my ice-cream so I crawled under the table to pick it up. And when I was under the table I heard the Fox come to get you. I heard him tell you to put your paws up and then I began to make the table dance. Did I scare him away?"

"Indeed you did!" cried Uncle Wiggily. "Jolly clever of you it was, I'm sure! Most extraordinary! Have some more ice-cream!"

"Thanks! I will!" barked Jackie. And he did.

Then Uncle Wiggily hopped home to tell his wife and Nurse Jane his adventures and when he reached his hollow stump bungalow Mr. Longears found something happening. Nurse Jane and Mrs. Longears were outside the bath room door and they were calling:

"Get in now! Get in that tub! Stop fooling! Soap yourself well and get clean! No, you can't have any more things to play with in the bath tub! Get in and wash!"

"What's the matter?" asked Mr. Longears forgetting about the tipping table. "Is the Bob Cat in my bath room again?"

"No, it's your little boy, Buster," explained Nurse Jane. "Buster went up to take an afternoon bath because he is going to a party to-night. But instead of getting in the tub and soaping himself, Buster is playing the cake of soap is a raft. And his floating the hair brush for a ship and I think he has one of his little wooden boats also in the tub. We can't make him finish his bath."

"I'll go up and take everything away from him except the soap, the wash cloth and a towel," Uncle Wiggily said "I'll make Buster bathe."

Uncle Wiggily hopped up stairs, opened the bath room door and said:

"Buster, give me all those playthings you are floating in the tub and go on with your bath." All of a sudden Nurse Jane and Mrs. Longears at the foot of the stairs heard a loud splash.

"What's Buster got in the tub now?" cried Nurse Jane.

"He's got—blub—glub—slub—he's got—got—m-n-n-ne!" cried Uncle Wiggily And the ladies could hear Buster laugh.

"Oh dear! What happened?" asked Nurse Jane.

"Daddicums leaned too far over to take the cake of soap away from me!" chuckled Buster, "and he fell in the tub himself. Oh, what a funny bath for Daddicums! With all his clothes on! Ho! Ho! Ho!"

So that's how the rabbit had a funny bath.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D.

CURING DEMENTED AND PARALYZED PATIENTS BY DIATHERMY

Some time ago I spoke about the wonderful results that were being obtained in treating dementia and paralysis, by means of malaria. The malaria organisms were injected into the patient, and he went through the regular attack of malaria—high fever and chills—and was then treated and cured of his malaria by means of quinine.

It was first thought by many that the attack of malaria, because of the organisms, was the cause of the cures that occured in some of these cases.

However, that it was the heat, the high temperature induced in the body by the malaria, that caused the cures was the belief of most investigators.

Therefore different methods of raising the temperature in the body were tried—injecting certain substances, the use of hot baths and so forth—with some degree of success.

However, a method that has given brilliant results has just been reported by Clarence A. Neyman, M.D., and S. L. Osborne, B.P.E., Chicago. It consists of the application of heat to the inner part of the body be means of electricity, diathermy as it is called. By means of a specially designed experimental machine the inner part of the body is so heated that the temperature rise several degrees, and is maintained there for hours at a time. Tempera ures of to 106° F were obtained in some cases. Twenty-five cases are reported. Three were of the depressed type, seven of the grandiose type (thought they were kings, emperors and so forth) eleven were slowly losing their minds, and five were totally demented. The eleven that were slowly dementing (losing their minds) all had lapses of memory, and showed lack of judgment.

Of the twenty-five after the treatment by diathermy, sixteen were able to leave the institution and maintain themselves. That is 64 per cent. of the entire number. Two were able to maintain themselves at home with some supervision. Seven, including five who were totally demented were unimproved.

I believe that you'll admit that this system of raising the temperature, of creating this extra heat within the body is doing a wonderful work in giving these individuals back to the world.

Remember, however, that it is only a certain type of case that can be helped by this application of heat.

SOCIETY WEDDING SMART AFFAIR

Church of St. Martin-in-the-fields Crowded as Lady Mary Graham Weds.

TENANTS SEND GIFTS.

LONDON, April 21 (C.P. Cable).—Spacious as is the Church of St. Martin-in-the-Fields, Trafalgar Square, it was not large enough to contain all who would have attended the marriage to-day of Lady Mary Graham, elder daughter of the Duke and Duchess of Montrose, to John Townshed Boscawen.

It was an all-white wedding, though the bride's 15 attendants had red shoes and wore red wreaths to make a definite color relief to their white frocks. The bride's gown was of ivory satin, and she wore a veil of old Brussels lace, which had been worn by her mother at her own wedding.

The tenants of the Montrose estate in the Island of Arran were largely represented among the guests. Some time earlier a presentation from these tenants was made to Lady Mary at her home at Buchanan Castle, Drymen, near Loch Lomond, the Duke and Duchess of Montrose being present.

Twelve women from the different villages in Arran made the pilgrimage to the castle in order to hand to Lady Mary a cheque from the islanders for the purchase of a grand piano as their wedding gift. From the tenants and employees the bride-elect received a silver spirit kettle and lamp. Lady Mary also received a gift from the tenantry and employees on the Montrose estates.

The wedding was also celebrated to-day of Hon. Eileen Beresford, daughter of Lord Decies, to Robert O'Brien. The ceremony, which took place at Grosvenor Chapel, was a quiet one, the bride's sister being her only attendant. Lady Decies died in February.

DEPUTY VISITS EASTERN STAR

Mrs. Carrie West of Madoc Honored by Belleville Chapter.

ANNUAL INSPECTION

BELLEVILLE, April 21—Belleville Chapter No. 55, O.E.S., was honored last night by the annual inspection visit of the District Deputy Grand Matron, Mrs. Carrie West, of Madoc. She was greeted by a hall completely filled with members from the whole district and the capacity crowd seemed to urge the officers to greater efforts and the result was that Sister West complimented the chapter on the quality of the work done and in her remarks said that she could make no criticism whatever. This was certainly very gratifying to the chapter members. The degrees of the order were conferred upon Mrs. Welland Reid and Mrs. Victor Graves, both of Albert street, Belleville.

At the conclusion of the initiation ceremony Sister West was presented with a gift as a memento of her visit to the chapter and it was very suitably acknowledged. Not to be outdone in the matter of drawing the notice of the chapter members to anniversary occasions, Bro. Barlow informed them that the date was the twentieth anniversary of the wedding of the Worthy Patron and the chaplain Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Adams, and congratulated them on the occasion.

After the chapter had been closed light refreshments were supplied by Sister Stillman's refreshment committee and we don't mind saying that it would not be any hardship to board at the home of any member of this committee. The new silverware just purchased by the chapter was used for the occasion. Dancing then was the order of the evening and was indulged in until about two o'clock in the morning, music being furnished by Sister Hibbard. The large crowd made dancing somewhat difficult but that only seemed to add to the fun of the evening. Worthy Matron, Sister Nayler was very much pleased with the success attending this annual occasion, and we are sure those who attended will have pleasant memories of the evening.

WEDDINGS

VINETTE—FREEMAN

The marriage took place at St. Helen's Church, Toronto, on Saturday, of Audrey Freeman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Freeman of 486 Cambridge street, Peterborough, and Edward Vinette, son of Mr. Edward Vinette of Lisburn street, this city, and the late Mrs. Vinette. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Monsignor Whelan.

The bride was in white georgette, with white veil and bouquet of roses.

The bridesmaid, Miss Irene Brioux of Toronto, wore a printed georgette ensemble and carried roses.

Joseph Brioux of Toronto acted as best man.

After the ceremony, the bridal party was entertained at breakfast at the home of Mrs. Bryett, Dundas street, Toronto.

Mr. and Mrs. Vinette are spending their honeymoon in Peterborough and return on Wednesday to make their home in Toronto.

DEFOSSE—ASPERO

A very pretty wedding took place at eight o'clock at St. Peter's Cathedral on Saturday, when the Rev. P. Costello, rector of the Cathedral, performed the ceremony which united in the holy bonds of matrimony Mary, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Aspero of 290 Smith street, and Anthony Defosse, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Defosse, of Trenton.

The wedding music was played by Miss L. Hurley, who also sang during the progress of the Nuptial Mass.

The bride was very attractively attired in white satin, made ankle length, with white satin slippers and white silk hose, veil of white tulle caught with orange blossoms, and bouquet of red roses and lily of the valley.

The two bridesmaids were Miss Mary Defosse of Trenton, sister the bridegroom, and Miss Bary Basciano of Peterborough, cousin of the bride. They wore lovely frocks of pale pink georgette with pink hats and black satin slippers and flesh-colored silk hose. They carried bouquets of dark pink carnations and lily of the valley.

The two little flower girls, Angeline Aspero, sister of the bride, and Catherine Defosse, sister of the bridegroom, were charming in gowns of dark pink silk, carrying baskets of sweet peas and carnations.

The little page boy, small Benny Defosse, brother of the bridegroom, preceded the bride, carrying the ring on a heart-shaped satin cushion. He wore a trim suit of navy blue, with boutonniere of roses, carnations and lily of the valley.

Supporting the bridegroom were Messrs. Don Gangine of Oshawa and Fred DiCarlo of Peterborough.

After the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, followed by a dance. Many gifts were received by the young people, who left later by motor to spend a week in Trenton and then go on to Detroit. On their return, they will live in Peterborough.

The bride travelled in a suit of navy blue, with matching small hat, black slippers and matching hose.

Guests were present for the wedding from Trenton, Belleville and Oshawa.

Four Teams In Tie For International Lead

TORONTO LEAFS LOSE TO BEARS IN 9TH INNING

Herb Thomas Drives Liner Through Richardson to Score Deciding Tally.

LEAFS WEAK AT BAT.

Rabbit Drives in Both of Visitors' Two Runs—Final Count 3 to 2.

NEWARK, N.J., April 21. — Baseball heroes, like the tides, pass quickly. Nolen Richardson, third baseman of the Leafs, hero of Sunday's triumph, fell from his pedestal yesterday and that fall cost the Maple Leafs a victory and undisputed hold on first place in the league race.

With the score a tie to 2-all in the ninth and two out, Richardson blew from his usual steady playing, and away went victory, for the Bears triumphed 3 to 2. Although defeated, the Maple Leafs retained a grip on first place, along with the Buffalo Bisons, who also took it on the chin at Baltimore.

George Loepp, who replaced Harry Layne in centrefield in first frame due to the latter being spiked when trying to score, began the trouble. He got in a dinky double to centre, the reason for two bases. Sheedy, Rogell, and Morehart all tried to snare the haist and second was left uncovered and Loepp raced to the keystone sack. That happened after Al Harvin, the Bear twirler, had been fanned by Art Mills former Buffalo flinger for the fourth time. Andy Cohen then lifted to Ken Strong and extra innings loomed.

Rabbitt Drives in Runs.

Joe Rabbitt drove in oth of Toronto's runs and was the only visitor to collect two hits. The Leafs tallied in the first and again in the sixth, while two of the markers for the Bruins went over in the fifth.

Hits are essential in ball games, and the Leafs didn't hit yesterday. They pushed their first run over in the opening frame with two out. Rogell singled to centre and pilfered second. Strong then hit a drive to deep short which knocked Thomas down, who managed to recover it, but not until after Rogell had perched on third. Rabbitt then hit a slow roller between third and short, and Barrett and Thomas collided in going after it and Rogell was home. Sheedy ended the session by whiffing.

Layne inaugurated the Bears' halff with a triple to left centre. Cohen failed, rolling to Mills and Layne held third. Bejin tapped to Rogell, who made a quick throw to Richardson and Layne was caught between the bases. Richardson threw to Stack as Layne darted back, but Rogell came in and ran Harry down. In doing so he fell on the Bear and his shoes cut Harry's left leg, causing his retirement. This injury brought Loepp into the picture.

WRESTLING.

Belanger Gains Decision At Toronto

Another Thrill For Canadian Racing Motorboat Men

THE FIRST OF THE NEW 125 CUBIC METRE FLIERS

The arrival of "Century Thunderbolt," the first of the latest fad in racing motorboats, the new 125 cubic metre class recently established by the American and Canada Power Boat Associations, marks the introduction to Canada of the tiniest inboard racing class recognized by the governing bodies of the sport on both sides of the Atlantic. The boat shown ABOVE is a copy of the fastest boat of her class on the American continent. She is owned by "Young J. R." Ardiel, seventeen-year-old son of Harris Ardiel of Toronto, and will race in the colors of the National Yacht Club of Toronto. Young Ardiel is the Upper Canada College student who has stood at the head of Canadian sea flea in Class "C" for the past two years and who, last fall, not only won the national Class "F" championship of the United States, but set up a world's record for speed in competition in the same class. This record still stands. The photo reproduced ABOVE shows young Ardiel and his buddy, Kitchie Russell, himself a crack sea flea driver, driving "Century Thunderbolt" on her trial trip in the National Yacht Club basin. C. L. Turnbull of the N.Y.C. is having a boat designed by Hawker and built in Canada for this class, and Dick Lucas of Cobourg has also ordered one. These will likely represent the N.Y.C. in inter-club team races against boats which members of the Iroquois Yacht Club of Montreal have purchased or built this spring. These boats are equipped with 45 horsepower engines and have a speed of 42 miles per hour. They are only fourteen feet long and weigh, minus gas, oil and crew, around 750 pounds. The cost of the engine is limited by the rules to $750.

ROBINS DISPLAY PUNCH TO POUND FOUR PHILLY HURLERS FOR 10-5 WIN

Brooklyn and Cincinnati Break Into Win Column for First Time.

CARDINALS TAKE LEAD.

Ruth's Two Homers Aids Yankees Defeat Quaker Club For 5-4 Count.

The National League, it seem to have an eight club race after all. Brooklyn and Cincinnati, after taking it on their respective chins with alarming regularity since opening day finally have broken into the winner's circle.

Brooklyn fandom, possibly the most rabid in either major league feels certain the Robins have gotten a lot of bad baseball out of their system early and are ready now to romp right on to the flag. Cincinnati enthusiasts have harbored no pennant hopes to speak of, but they are happy to see Colonel Howle's charges get a start even if from the bottom. Both clubs chose yesterday to come out of their five day trance. Brooklyn's batting power pretty dormant these several days, came to life and blasted a 10 to 5 victory over four Philadelphia pitchers. Every Robin joined in the fun, with Lombardi, big rookie catcher, leading the way with a pair of doubles and a single. Joe Shaute kept the Philly hits strung out.

Nick Cullop, former American Association home run king, led the Reds into the light. His circuit drive off Meine with two on beat the Pittsburgh Pirates, 7 to 5. Red Lucas held the Pirates to eight hits.

Meantime, the St. Louis Cardinals took over the undisputed leadership by downing the Chicago Cubs, 3 to 2, Burleigh Grimes besting Bob Smith and Guy Bush in a mound duel when Bottomley's homer in the sixth provided the "difference."

The New York Giants and Boston Braves battled their way into a tie for second place by dividing their Patriots' Day double-header. Rookie John Berly pitched McGraw's clan to a 4 to 3 win in the morning, aided by Freddie Lindstrom's home run, but the Braves came back with a 1 to 0 verdict later in the day. Sibold finally got the nod over Carl Hubbel when the southpaw filled the bases in the ninth and Spohrer lifted a long fly, scoring Richbourg.

Ruth Connects For Two

Babe Ruth enjoyed one of his most spacious days as the Yankees squared accounts with the Athletics. His two wallops into the stands, each time with Lyn Lary on base, accounted for all but one run in their 5 to 4 victory over Earnshaw. Gomez and Wells pitched brilliant relief ball after the champs had fallen on Johnson hard in the early fhnings.

The Boston Red Sox abruptly halted Washington's four game winfling streak, 13 to 3. While Russell kept eight Senator hits scattered, his mates piled into four opposing hurlers for 18, driving Crowder out in the seventh.

Although hit hard, Willis Hudlin was tight in the pinches and Cleveland stayed in the thick of things with a 9 to 3 decision over Detroit. Every Indian contributed to a 14-hit assault on Waite Hoyt and Hogsett. Rain stopped the Chicago White Sox and St. Louis Browns in the latter city.

A $25,000 HOME RUN

When a home run is worth $25,000 it is something worth while. A home run caused trouble valued at that amount anyway. Recently in the United States' supreme court a baseball fan by the call letters of William Vipond, a structural iron worker, claimed damages to the extent of $25,000, due to one of Hack Wilson's home run clouts of the 1930 model. Here's the story: During one of Wilson's circuit smashes last June Mr. Vipond was pushed over the railing in the excitement. Vipond claimed that the ball park was packed so full that he was forced to lean against the top rail of the upper deck of the grandstand. When the crowd jumped to their feet to cheer a Wilson homer he claimed that he was pushed over the railing and fell fifteen feet to the cement floor of the lower deck, thus suffering a fractured right arm and leg, and a loss of personal dignity.

ST. CATHARINES WILL GO WEST

Ontario Champions Win Game and Round From Nalacs of Montreal.

SUPERIOR PLAY.

TORONTO, Ont., April 21.—(By the Canadian Press.)— There was much activity in basketball circles here today. Last night the Grads of this city, Ontario senior champions, qualified to leave for Vancouver to meet University of British Columbia in the Dominion final, by defeating Montreal North American Life Assurance five, 27 to 20, in the second and deciding game of the Eastern Canada final.

Having won the first tilt here on Friday, 39 to 36, the Grads won the round an the long journey west by 86 to 56. The Dominion championship series of two games, total points to count, will be played in the coast city on April 27 and 29.

The Montrealers departed for home to-day as their conquerors prepared for departure on the last long quest for Canadian basketball's highest honors. Added importance is attached to this year's Dominion final as the winners will be granted permission to represent the Maple Leaf at the 1932 Olympiad.

A dashing offensive which bewildered the Nalacs at times brought victory to the Grads in last night's hectic clash. The Quebec champions, conquerors of the Maritime province and Ottawa and district representatives ,fought back valiantly in the first half which ended with the Grads leading, 13 to 12.

During the final 20 minutes intense excitement prevailed amongst the spectators and ill feeling flashed momentarily between several players. Supported by better substitutes the Grads forged to the front, led by their dashing centre player, 'Ace' Cambray, six foot giant. The Nalacs fought to the very end in a fruitless effort to square the count on the round, but with their two star marksmen closely checked, they were held to only two baskets.

Berg 7-5 Favorite To Beat Canzoneri

CHICAGO, Ill., April 21 (C.P.). — Just a little more work and Jack (Kid) Berg, the Whitechapel windmill, who holds the junior welterweight championship, will make the weight qualification for a shot at Tony Canzoneri's lightweight title in the Chicago Stadium on Friday night.

Berg feared he would have trouble making the lightweight limit of 135 pounds, and went to a Wisconsin camp for his early training. To-day, however, he was close to the required poundage to assure a double-barrelled title bout.

Berg to-day was a 7 to 5 favorite to wake up on Saturday morning with two titles, but Canzoneri has performed so well in training that it was expected he would be close to even money by Friday.

SKEETERS GET THIRD IN ROW

Jersey City Smothers Rochester —Royals and Orioles Also Victors.

WINGS SNOWED UNDER.

JERSEY CITY, April 21.—Bouncing upon a trio of Rochester hurlers for a total of fourteen singles, Jersey City's Skeeters registered their third consecutive victory and their second in a row over the Rochester Red Wings at West Side Park here yesterday by a score of 13 to 2.

"Sonny" Horne, on the mound for the Skeeters, pitched a masterful game, holding the slugging Wings to but four hits over the nine-inning route.

BISONS LOSE SECOND STRAIGHT.

BALTIMORE, April 21.—The Baltimore Orioles made it two straight over the Buffalo Bisons by annexing yesterday's game, 7 to 5. Home run clouts by Gill and Stroner accounted for four Oriole runs. Shinners hitting one out of the lot for Buffalo.

ROYALS RALLY IN EIGTH.

READING, Pa., April 21.—Reading lost its sixth straight game of the season here yesterday when Montreal rallied for three runs in the eighth inning to defeat the Keys, 4 to 2. Clayton Van Alstyne, Reading righthander, wild-pitched the tying run across the plate in that inning and Ripple then homered with a man on base. Barrett hit a home run for Reading in the fourth.

COUNTESS LEAPS TO DEATH

VIENNA, April 21.—(AP)—Countess Dina Apponyi today jumped or fell from a window of a nursing home here and was killed.

The Countess was suffering from a nerve disease. She was the wife of Count Anton Louis Apponyi, former member of the Hungarian Upper House and son Ludwig Apponyi, Imperial Court Chamberlain.

The Countess was Russian by birth and bore the name Kindes before her marriage.

HEAVYWEIGHTS PROVIDE GOOD FISTIC BATTLE

Canadian Champion Gains Decision Over Art Weigand of Cleveland.

BRISTLES WITH ACTION.

Clevelander Has Belanger Groggy in Second and Seventh Rounds.

TORONTO, Ont., April 21. (CP)— In one of the most spectacular heavyweight bouts seen here in years, Charlie Belanger, Winnipeg, dusky hued Canadian light heavyweight champion, last night gained the decision over Art Weigand, aggressive Cleveland heavyweight, in the eight round feature bout of the Shamrock Athletic Club's boxing show.

Bristling with action from start to finish the slug fest completely banished the prejudice against bouts between the heavyweights here following Tom Heeney and slow moving Johnny Risko.

There were some 6,000 fans at the Henney-Risko fight but only 2,500 turned out for last night's thrilling bout. Weigand caused all the excitement by his consistent boring in tactics and Belanger was forced to show his best to avert a knockout.

Groggy at Times

In the second and seventh rounds Belanger reeled groggily about the ring when Weigand connected with his wild, portside hooks to the head. Weigand too had his moments. In the third the Canadian champion unleased a vicious attack to the head and body which had the crowd leaping from their seats calling for the finishing smack. This, however, Weigand managed to avoid. Again in the sixth Weigand barely managed to weather a storm of short, jolting blows to the head and body.

Ringside critics gave Belanger four rounds, Weigand two, and two were even. Weigand outweight his opponent, tipping the beam at 186½ compared to 175½.

Belanger expects to leave for New York City to-day to complete arrangements for training with Max Schmeling, world's heavyweight champion, for the latter's coming bout with Billy Stribling, Jr.

Yesterday's Stars.

Babe Ruth, Yankees— Hit two home runs, each with one, to beat Athletics 5-4.

Harry Seibold, Braves—Blanked Giants 1-0, with six hits in second game of double-header.

Charley Berry, Red Sox — Clouted Senato pitching for two doubles and pair of singles, drove in three runs and scored three.

Jim Bottomley, Cardinals—His homer beat Cubs 3-2.

Willis Hudlin, Indians—Pitched effectively to stop Tigers 9-3.

Nick Cuppol, Reds—Homer with two on to beat Pirates, 7-5.

ENTERTAINMENT BILL PROMISES STIFF SCRAP IN HOUSE OF COMMONS

Opponents of Measure Claim They Have Support of 230 Members.

COMES UP TO-NIGHT.

LONDON, April 20 (By George Hambleton, C.P. Staff Correspondent) —The rival armies are moving up for to-night's battle in the House of Commons over the Sunday Entertainment Bill, a measure designed to delegate to local authorities the power to permit or prohibit certain Sunday entertainments, notably moving picture shows.

Rt. Hon. J. R. Clynes, Home Secretary, will move second reading of the bill, and J. Ian Macpherson, Liberal member for Ross and Cromarty, Scotland, will move rejection. All the parties are hopelessly divided on the measure, and the vote will be free. Opponents of the bill claim they have promises of the support of 230 members of the House, and if this is correct the bill will have a rough road, if it is not actually defeated.

"All Sunday performances will cease if the bill is thrown out," declared W. R. Fuller, secretary of the Cinematographic Exhibits Association to-day.

The Daily Herald, semi-official Government organ, said that the bill was rejected. "The only Sunday diversion which will remain will be the bands in the parks."

A large number of Labor members are understood to be prepared to support the bill in view of the assurance it contains that holding the Sunday performances must not prejudice the six-day week.

SIXTY-ONE HORSES ENTERED FOR HISTORIC KING'S PLATE

Only 17 or 18, However, will Face Post in America's Oldest Classic.

72ND RUNNING

TORONTO, April 21—The 72nd running of the King's Plate, the oldest turf fixture run continuously on this continent, will take place at Woodbine Park, Toronto, on Saturday, May 23. There are 61 horses entered for this year's race and the many candidates for the rich prize are in hard training at Woodbine and Thorncliffe tracks. The favorite for this year's Plate race is the 3-yearold brown colt, Froth Blower, by Cudgel-Chrysoberil, owned by R. W. R. Cowie of Oakville and trained by Harry Giddings. Froth Blower wintered well and has developed into a splendid-looking 3-year-old after a successful 2-year-old campaign. Two of his chief opponents in his juvenile year the Seagram stable's Sphersette and Conny Smythe's Rare Jewel, died during the winter, so that he is conceded to be the outstanding choice for the Plate—much as Sun Beau was in the Agua Caliente Handicap and Easter Hero in the Grand National.

Money Reduced to $10,000

Last year the King's Plate was won by an Oakville horseman, Ryland H. New, with the 3-year-old Aymond with the Thorncliffe stable's Whale Oil (since deceased) second and J. C. Fletcher's Ichitaro third. The winner was ridden by Jockey H. Little of Toronto. The Ontario Jockey Club added $15,000 to last year's race, which amount this year has been reduced to $10,000 of which the winner will receive $7,000, the stakes and the 50 Guineas donated by His Majesty King George V, the second horse $1,500, the third horse $1,000 and $500 to the breeder of the winner.

Origin in 1859

The royal donation of 50 guineas was originaly made in 1859 by Queen Victoria, upon the petition of the Toronto Turf Club, through Sir Edmund Head, the then governor-general. The headquarters of the club were at W. C. Keele's farm at Carleton and the secretary-treasurer was Colonel R. L. Denison. The prayer of the petitioners was for a Queen's Plate of £50, which was granted "to be run for at Toronto or such other place in Upper Canada as Her Majesty might appoint." That was the origin of the race and for four years, 1860-1863, it was run at Carleton, and subsequently under political pressure, at Guelph, London, Hamilton, St. Catharines, Whitby, Kingston, Ottawa, Barrie, Woodstock, Prescott and Picton. In 1883 Her Majesty Queen Victoria, at the instance of the present Duke of Argyll, gave her sanction to an understanding with the founders of the Ontario Jockey Club, that the race should thenceforth be established permanently in Toronto. The race has steadily grown in importance and the royal donation being continued by His Majesty, King Edward the Seventh, has been run annually without interruption; so that when His Majesty, King George the Fifth, decided to continue the gift, the King's Plate was already established as the oldest fixture run continuously in North America. The race was known as the Queen's Plate from 1861 to 1901 inclusive when it was changed to the King's Plate.

The conditions of the King's Plate make it a truly Canadian turf classic. The race is for 3-year-olds and upward, the property of a British subject resident in Ontario, foaled, raised and trained in Ontario, that have never won a race on the flat or across the country other than a race exclusively for two-year-olds, have never left Canada, and have never been for a period of more than three months out of this province. The distance of the race was a mile and a half till 1887, when it was reduced to a mile and a quarter, at which it remained till 1924, when it was further reduced to a mile and an eighth, at which distance it now stands. H. Gidding's St. Bass, winner in 1911; J. E. Seagram's Belle Mahone, victorious in 1917, and George M. Hendrie's Springside, which won in 1918, are joint holders of the 2.08 4-5 record for the mile and a quarter distance. Ryland H. New's Troutlet, winner in 1927, has the best time to date for the mile and eighth distance, her mark being 1.55 4-5.

SCHOOL LEAGUE OPENS ON WED.

Fast Opening Fixture Promised When Queen Mary Nine Tangles With King George School.

PARENTS' AID SOUGHT.

The Public School Baseball League opens its schedule on Thursday night at the King George School grounds, when the Queen Mary nine meets the home team. There are six school teams in the league this year and the race promises to be a real one. The schedule finishes the end of May, and the school officials are requesting other leagues not to use any of their players until that time. The league is using the small diamond and junior league balls.

The teams representing their schools are Queen Mary, King George, Queen Alexandra, Prince of Wales, Central and King Edward. All the games will be played on these school grounds. Parents and friends of the boys playing are invited to come out and watch them. The games will be played after four and this should make it convenient for the mothers and the fathers to attend at least part of the contests. The home team is responsible for the game umpire.

Players who were in the minors with John Berly, young right-hander with the Giants, say that he has a good curve ball and knows what to do with it.

ORGANIZATION MEETING WILL TO BE HELD AT DUFFUS' TO-NIGHT

Last Call Made for Sponsors to Help Minor Baseball Advertise City Again This Year.

SESSION CALLED 7.30.

Once more, the Peterborough City Baseball League prepares for a busy summer. Six teams are entered to date, and several more are expected to come in at the league meeting to-night at Duffus'. Officers for the year will be elected at this time, and probably an opening date to begin the schedules arranged. The session is called for 7.30 and everyone interested in the City League is urged to attend.

In the bantam section, three entries are in and one more is hoped for to round the division out. Pat Calladine has his Maple Leafs in again with most of his championship players of last year on the line-up. Jack Deannard will pilot a Kiwanis bantam outfit and he always gets a smart crew together. The Kinsmen Club are backing a team this year which is managed by "Shocky" Mein. The latter had a winning bantam team in the South End City Hockey League last year, and expects to repeat in baseball.

Two in Juvenile

So far, there are only two entries in the juvenile section. But it is likely two more teams will enter, Kiwanis for one. Ches Mowry is running a Rotary outfit, and he has had them working out three or four times already. While the team is not picked yet, he will have no difficulty in fielding a seasoned bunch when the campaign starts. The other juvenile team is Pat Calladine's Maple Leafs. Some of his older bantam champs of last year will line up with this squad, and Pat has several dark horses picked to make it a nicely-balanced nine.

Jack Deannard is also managing his Kiwanis junior team again. They were a classy bunch last year, and Jack still has the nucleus around which to build another winning outfit. This division may not get more than one or possibly two, more entries, although Johnson Motors or Choates' Hardware might yet enter a junior team. At any rate, it is hoped the division will have two or three strong teams to fight it out before making a strong bid for provincial honors.

The officers and the league executive will come in for a lot of attention at to-night's meeting. No headway has been made at two meetings held before, it was decided at the last session, to name a number for each office, and vote them in at this meeting to-night. The men named are invited to attend, if only to indicate their willingness to assist the City League.

Those nominated for the presidents' office were Dr. Long, Tommy Holyman, Fred Scates and Mike O'Brien who was last year's president. Vice-presidential nominees included Dr. Honey, Art Moffat, H. Dinsdale, J. Poolman and E. Hollingsworth. Those named for secretary-treasurer were F. Neary, Cliff Cadd and "Shocky" Mein. The executive named were Bill Prindible, Ches Mowry, Pat Calladine, Len Foster and Jack Deannard.

If those named attend the meeting along with all others managing teams or interested in any way in the league, the business of the evening should be pushed through fast, and everything squared around to start the organization functioning again. Peterborough has been fortunate in having so many experienced baseball men back of the City League in other years, and the teams have made a name for themselves in O.B.A.A. playoffs. This year should see history repeat itself as far as this league goes, and it will with the right men behind it.

Montreal Y.M.H.A. Will Meet Windsor

MONTREAL, Que., April 21.— (By the Canadian Press.)—Young Men's Hebrew Association juvenile basketball team of Montreal, Quebec-Ottawa Valley champions, will play Y.M.H.A. of Windsor, Ontario title-holders, at Windsor in the Dominion semi-finals according to word received from Toronto by Joe Hornstein, C.A.B.A. representative. The winner of two-game playdown will receive the Maritime champions, McAdam Junction, N.B., for the Canadian title.

It is expected that the games at Windsor will be played on April 23 and 25 or April 25 and 27.

Ulster United Seeks Match With Glasgow

TORONTO, Ont., April 21 (C.P.)—Application for permission to arrange a match on June 27 with Glasgow Celtic, winners of the Scottish Cup this season, has been made by Ulster United, local National League soccer club. The Ontario Football Association and the Toronto and District decided last night to recommend to the Dominion Football Association that the permission be granted.

Officials of the Ulster club point out the proposed match would not clash in any way with the fixtures of the touring English Football Association team. On June 27 the tourists will be in British Columbia. Celtic are scheduled to begin a series of matches in the United States on May 25.

CASUAL COMMENT

The City Baseball League meets to-night at Duffus at half past seven, and a big turnout is expected. There will be more entries made in each division and officers elected for the year.

* * * * * * *

Some difficulty has existed in getting reliable men to accept positions on the league executive. This should not be the case in a live baseball town like Peterborough. This town has always had a good City League, and the same thing will be true this year if enough interested will get behind the boys and help them along.

* * * * * * *

The local clubs are all entering one or more teams, and there are any number of good players, so it is a pity if a good executive cannot be elected. It is hoped there will be a big crowd out at to-night's meeting, and that something will be accomplished.

* * * * * * *

And tomorrow night, the Men's City Softball League meets at Duffus' at 7.30.

* * * * * * *

Jack Deannard will have the Kiwanis Juniors out for a trial Thursday night at the James Stevenson Park. The practise begins at six bells, and players wanting to try out for a place on the team should be on time. Jack has several of his last year's juniors to build around.

* * * * * * *

There's been quite a few pro hookey players seen around the city and district lately. The latest one is Doug Brennan who is back in Havelock again, after a good year with Vancouver. He is getting over that wallop he got over the head with a stick. It put him out of the game the last part of the season.

* * * * * * *

Some of the other puck-chasers seen around here lately were Bert McLeod of the Kansas City Pla-mors, 'Dit' Clapper, the big Hastings defenceman of the Boston Bruins, and Mickey Murray, star goal-minder of the Providence, R.I. Reds.

* * * * * * *

All the lacrosse players in Peterborough should be at the Exhibition Grounds at six tomorrow night so that a line could be had on material available for an intermediate team to join a league composed of three or four outfits throughout the district.

* * * * * * *

Efforts are being made to get R. A. Wainman to manage the local team, and he probably will if the players turn out in force. Mr. Wainman is an old lacrosse player himself, having played with "Newsy" Lalonde, "Punch" Broadbent, and others like them, when he went in for the game in Ottawa. He'd make a good, experienced manager.

* * * * * * *

The Stirling Men's Bowling Club hopes to have a big season. The six greens are being put in shape, and President Dr. Carleton is arranging for special opening day ceremonies. The Club wants to see many new bowlers out this summer.

* * * * * * *

This is the evening for the Rotary Juveniles. They will work out at Stevenson Park at six, and the manager wants to see a big crowd of players on hand. Most of the positions are open yet.

* * * * * * *

The Senior team is holding a practice tomorrow night at the Exhibition Grounds. They will get started early, at 5:30 and work up a nice sweat. "Shiner" Johnston is looking for a good turnout at this warm-up, and they should be on time.

* * * * * * *

The Public School Baseball League has the jump on them all again. They start their regular schedule this Thursday with six teams participating in the league. Of course, the kids finish their race about the time other loops are just getting rightly going.

* * * * * * *

The blondes and brunettes and others meet a week from tonight to close entries and arrange a schedule for the Girls' Softball League. A half dozen or maybe eight teams will compose the league, and the girls are plenty enthusiastic, and why not?

SOCCER SCHEDULE STARTS SATURDAY

Caledonians and Brintons Meet on King Edward Park—Other Items of Interest.

A night of routine held a large and enthusiastic number of fans of the soccer code to wait and hear the last item for discussion at the meeting of the Peterborough and District Football Association last evening, with a full attendance of the Board present.

Referee Appointed.

Official notification was received from Alex. McKinley to act as referee during the season and to become fully registered under the Ontario Football Association. His application was carried unanimously.

O.F.A. replied to the association's letter in reference to the English team touring the country and informed them that the Dominion Football are running the tour and that the itinerary had been fixed months ago.

Goal Posts Erected

This season, the local board have had to provide new goal posts on King Edward Park for the use of the contestants. They were completely destroyed at the end of last year by boys on the night of frivolity. William Grant made an excellent job of the paint work which makes a great improvement.

Caledonian Players

The following players have been registered by the Scots in the city, namely: H. J. Fowler, Robert Carmichael, Sam Agnew, William Grant, David Best, Ian McPhate, Archie B. McPhate, John M. Pottie, Charles Griffin, William McCracken and Thomas S. Craig.—11 players.

It was arranged that Jack Hodson be the official person in charge of the goal nets during the season. The question of marking the ground and other details to be decided next Monday night.

League Game Saturday

Owing to the lack of the necessary information from the Canadian Packing team, the board could not definitely settle the league schedule until the representative had attended the meetings. Eventually the Caledonians and the Brinton Athletic agreed to open the league, on King Edward Park, on Saturday afternoon, at three o'clock prompt. Referee, Alex McKinley. Linesmen to be chosen by the clubs playing.

Next Friday evening in the Woodmen of the World Hall, the Caledonians will hold a social evening for the purpose of raising a fund to pay for their new equipment: sweaters, pants and boots. All fans will be made welcome. During the evening many interesting items will take place.

Two well-known soccer fans have left the city recently, Alex. Anderson, who played for many seasons with the Scots of the city, until he received an injury that kept him out of the game, has taken up residence in Cornwall. Another being Albert Musther, who was associated with the Canadian General team. He sails for England on Thursday to take up residence in Sunderland.

The Caledonians will be without the services of Andrew Bogie this season. He sailed from New York yesterday for Scotland, after a prolonged sojourn in this city.

Baseball Gossip.

The Kinsmen Bantams will have a workout to-morrow night at the James Stevenson Park, starting at six o'clock. Any player who wants a place on this team is invited to come out. "Shocky" Mein is managing the Kinsmen outfit this year.

PETERBORO' GOLF CLUB THIS YEAR GOES INTO 18-HOLE COURSE COLUMN

New Outlay Represents an Investment of Nearly $40,000.

ON TEE AND GREEN.

By Ralph H. Rivelle.

TORONTO, April 21.—Quite the sensation of the Ladies' London Foursomes last month at Camberley was the defeat of Miss Joyce Wethered and her partner Mrs. Kennedy in the semi-finals of Miss Enid Wilson, English Lady Close Champion and Miss Rudgard on the 19th green. Miss Wilson, who is generally looked upon as Miss Wethered's successor in British golf, and Miss Rudgard in the final defeated Mrs. Harrison and Mrs. Guedalla 4 and 3. Miss Wethered and Mrs. Kennedy had previously won he tournament three years in succession. Mrs. Guedalla, also an Ex-English Close Champion was the former well known Miss Edith Leitch and in 1921 participated in the Canadian Ladies' Championship at Rivermead, Ottawa, which was won by her famous sister, Miss Cecil Leitch, who of late years like Miss Wethered has unfortunately given up competing in Championship golf.

Owing to the increasingly large number of entries for the U.S. Amateur, the U.S.G.A. will this year inaugurate Qualifying Rounds of 36 holes under m dal play to be held in twenty cities. Only players with a handicap of four strokes are eligible to compete in these Qualifying Rounds.

Peterborough this season, goes into the 18-hole golf course column, thus boasting one of the few full regulation courses in Central Ontario. The new lay-out represents an investment of about $40,000 and it is practically all paid for. Last year, more than 1,300 paying visitors from out of town played on the 9-hole course, an increase of about 50 per cent over other years. The new course this year will doubtless attract a great many more visitors, as tourists much prefer to play over an 18-hole than a 9-hole course. The Peterborough Links are practically within the city borders and are accounted amongst the most picturesque in the Province.

During the past winter, fourten "Holes-in-One" were reported from British Columbia, members of the Victoria and Vancouver clubs being the chief offenders. Ontario too is off to a record start this year. To Mr. Frank Selway of Toronto, goes the honor of being crowned the first 1931 "Oner" in the East, the last week turning the trick at the 6th hole on the Royal York course, Toronto. This is nearly a month ahead of the regular schedule. Last year 226 Canadian golfers registered the 20,000 to 1 stunt. Judging from the early start this year, the total in 1931 will be greatly in excess of the 1930 figures.

Bobby Jones' wonderful collection of five World's Championship cups which have ornamented for the past eight months a table in the lobby of the Atlanta Athletic Club, Atlanta, Ga., has been broken up. Two of the cups were last week removed from the record collection and shipped back to England—the British Amateur trophy and the British Open Trophy, the World's most historical golf cups. The three remaining cups are the U.S. Open, the U.S. Amateur and the Walker Cup. The former two will also soon have to be returned, and this will leave only the Walker Cup. As Captain of the U.S. Walker Cup Team, Jones will retain possession of this cup until it is played for again in 1932. It is a safe wager that the five cups will never a ain be in possession of one player. Jones himself will not compete for any of the five trophies again so he emphatically has stated.

The Tillsonburg, Ontario Golf and Country Club was unfortunate to lose its pretty club house and all equipment last October but nothing daunted, this season the officers and members are bending all their energies on rebuilding and fire replacements and expect by the of May to occupy the new club house. Last year a water system costing $1,650 was installed and paid for out of current revenue and this season an energe ic Green Committee is suvperising the rebuilding of two greens, Nos. three and six so the course this summer will be in better shape than ever, With a handsome new club house and a greatly improved course, Tillsonburg will, this season have a particularly well equipped golfing property.

The Royal Canadian Golf Association this year is devoting a great deal of time to its green section activities and has laid out a very comprehensive program which is bound to be of great benefit to the member clubs. The following Provincial Committees have been formed. Ontario—Dr. A. B. James, Chairman, Gordon T. Cassels, H. C. Grout, Frank Hay, Quebec—W. W. Maxson, Chairman—G. H. Forster, James Buchanan. Manitoba, C. W. Jackson, Chairman—Robt. Jacob, K.C. —J. L. Leggo. The first bulletin on the selection of seeds for golf courses and the upkeep of greens and fairway have been prepared by the Dominion Department of Agriculture and is now on the press This invulnerable bulletin will be distributed to clubs through the Provincial Association in the course of the next few days.

I have just received a letter from Henry Cotton the outstanding young British Professional asking me to enter himself, his brother, Percy Allis and Aubrey Boomer for the Canadian Open Championship at Mississauga, Toronto, July 9-11. This is particularly good news as all four of these Britishers are outstanding players and will add greatly to the International aspect of the Canadian Open.

Henry Cotton is recognized as the greatest young professional developed in Great Britain since the war. He was selected to play in the British Ryder Cup team but refused to accept the nomination as one of the conditions was that he would be compelled to return with the team and this he declined to do as it is his intention to be a free lance and play in tournaments and exhibition games in the States and Canada.

Pery Allis is an English pro who has a club in Berlin, Germany and is therefore not eligible for the Ryder Cup Team. He is looked upon as one of the world's leading professionals and has many German and French Championships to his credit.

Aubrey Boomer is another outstanding player. He is pro at the St. Cloud Country Club, France and therefore like Allis is not eligible to play on the British Ryder Cup team. Both otherwise would undoubtedly have been selected.

The play of these brilliant young British pros will be followed by large galleries at Mississauga next July. The quartette will be quite one of the attractions of this year's Open. No Old Country pros have competed in the event since 1928 when Archie Compston at Rosedale tied for runner-up honors with Walter Hagen and MacDonald Smith. As previously announced the whole of the British Ryder Cup Team headed by its Captain C. A. Whitcombe, the ranking professional of Great Britain will also enter for the Open at Mississauga.

Ernie Parkes, former hockey star, and now a valued member of the O.H.A. referee staff, has, in conjunction with associates, taken over the Grand River Country Club at Bridgeport, Ontario, according to advices from Kitchener. This is the splendid 9-hole course and club house operated by the Grand River Club, which has this season opened a fine new 18-hole course. Mr. Parkes and his associates should make a "great go" of the old course along "pay-as-you-play" lines as it is a very fine little property and Kitchener can easily support two golf courses.

The official announcement has been made of the appointment of Mr. Justice W. L. Walsh, of Calgary, as Lieutenant-Governor of Alberta, who will retire from his present post on the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court of Alberta. The new representative of the King in Alberta has for many years been a keen supporter of golf. He is an ex-president of the Calgary Golf and Country Club and a charter member of the Senior Golfers of Alberts, who every year hold a most successful tournament. The honor is well deserved, and "His Honor" is receiving congratulations from friends in all parts of Canada.

COMMISSIONER VISITS HAVELOCK FOR ENROLLMENT OF GIRL GUIDES

Company Under Capt. Jean Moore Congratulated on Smart Appearance.

SPLENDID TALKS.

HAVELOCK, Apr. 21 (Examiner Correspondence).—The official enrollment of First Havelock Company Girl Guides took place in the Continuation school on Saturday afternoon, on the occasion of the first official visit of Commissioner Mrs. Rogers of Peterborough.

The spacious school room, flooded with sunshine, and with all desks removed, presented the appearance of an assembly hall. Punctually at three o'clock, the enrolling officer arrived and was escorted to her place by a guard of honor compos d of two patrol leaders, Marguerite Roche and Marie Bedford, who presented her to their captain, Jean Moore.

At a signal from Captain Moore the guides entered the room, first the patrol leaders, afterwards the members who fell into place behind their leader. The command to extend on the left was given, the company came to attention, and was inspected by Commissioner Rogers, followed by Captain Moore.

Warmly Commended.

The girls were warmly commended by the inspecting officer on their spic and span appearance. They then went through a number of movements in a smart and efficient manner. The drill was formal, but not stiff, though exacting. After the inspection the color party withdrew, and returned with the company co'ors, a handsome Union Jack, the gift of Dr. Embury, M.P., of Bancroft. At the entry the company came to the salute, and sang the National Anthem. A horseshoe was then formed, and the enrollment was made.

Marguerit Roche, first patrol leader, was first presented by Captain Moore. She in turn presented her fellow leaders, Roxy Rutherford, Reta Leeson, and Marie Bedford, who, after enrollment, presented the members of their patrols in order of numbers, one, two, three and four.

Each guide was required to answer the meaning of her honor, which is that "I am to be trusted to be truthful, and honest." The commissioner then asked, "Do you promise, on your honor, to do your best, to do your duty to God and the King, to help others at all times, and to obey the guide law?" The answer was, "I promise to do my best, etc."

When all were enrolled, and presented with the Guide pin, the color party were marched off, and the gu des received the command to stand at ease. They then were seated on the ground, guide fashion, and with Commissioner Rogers had a little informal talk. The girls were completely captivated by the charming graciousness of their visiting commissioner, and hung with rapt attention on her every word. Mrs. Rogers expressed her delight in meeting with such a smart-looking company, and complimented their captain on her splendid work among the girls. She told them of a big rally of guides, to be held in Peterborough, in the near future, and expressed the hope that Havelock guides will be present. The idea of the rally is to have the companies become acquainted, before going into camp. She asked them not to forget that the patrol leaders are the future captains, and they must set an example to the others of neatness, and orderliness. "Your uniforms stand for service, and this must begin in the home. Home duties must come first. You must see that your home duties are fulfilled before you attend a meeting. You as a guide will be watched by others, to see if your guideship means what you say it does. Service to others is the meaning o your uniform. A guide does not go to war, but guides always help where help is needed. In the Great War, guides carried on splendidly, and in many instances took the places vacated by men who were required to fight."

She also read passages from a little book which sh carried, and which expressed beautiful sentiments, expressive of unselfish service.

Rector Speaks.

Rev. P. C. Howard, rector of St. John's Anglican church, who was present, was called upon, and spoke briefly, "It has given me gr at pleasure to be present and witness this imposing ceremony, which has been carried out so precisely, and to see the company appearing so smart in their blue uniforms. This vast organization, of which you are now members, is intended to develop you mentally and physically, and in another way that will react to your spiritual welfare. Your uniform, which I realize plays no small part in your guid life, is smart and built for service. It deals with two kinds of pride. In uniform all are alike, and so it cov rs up that feeling that you are better than your companions. The pride that is in all of us, in a greater or lesser degree, is smothered when we don a uniform, and when anything is smothered long enough it dies out. To replace th s personal pride there comes another kind of pride, that is the pride of keeping that uniform smart and clean, and in conforming to the laws for which the uniform stands. We are all equal in the eyes of God; we all have our opportunity to do our duty, to God, the King, and our fellow workers. Some time you will come across two words. They are big words, and, though something similar in sound, are different in meaning. They are Autocracy, and Democracy. They have one underlying principle, co-operation. The difference in them is, that autocracy commands or compels individuals to do certain things, whether willingly or not. Democracy means that numbers band together and appoint leaders, and voluntarily follow those leaders, and are satisfied and willing to do whatever they decide. The sooner we have free co-operation, which the guide law instills, the sooner will Communism be stamped out."

Concluding, Mr. Howard said: "I am sure Havelock as a community will be able to say, We are proud of this organization, in our village."

Rev. Dr. Lennox was present and was then called upon for a few words. Very briefly, Dr. Lennox congratulated the company, their captain, their commissioner, and the ladies who were behind the guide movement. He stated the guides were a well-behaved, well-regulated group of girls, and that to the efforts of their captain, Mrs. Jean Moore, must go a great deal of credit for their splendid showing. He gave a brief outline of the steps leading up to their organization here, and the origin and need of discipline for which the uniform stands.

Mrs. Kinnaird, of Havelock Mission hall, was then called. In a few words she expressed delight in the great strides the movement has made here. It is largely due to her efforts, and to those of Mrs. T. P. Lancaster, that a company of guides was formed here. She said that it was a real joy-day for her, when she looked around at the company, and realized to what extent the movement has developed in such a short time.

Afterwards the guides served lunch to the visitors present, among whom were the mothers of the girls, and one friend each. The girls really went to a great deal of trouble, serving salads, cold meat, bread and butter, cakes and tea, all on small tables daintily covered with teacloths, and matching serviettes.

Commissioner Rogers had brought pictures of the Rota'ian camp, near Peterborough, and these were afterwards thrown on the screen, to give the girls some idea of the treat in store for those who avail themselves of the privilege of attending camp in the coming summer.

Cake Plate Presented.

The guides took the opportunity of this first visit of Mrs. Rogers to present her with a lovely cake plate, as a memento of her first visit to the company here. Mrs. Rogers, who wa completely surprised, expressed her delight in a few well-chosen words, and said that she would alway remember the great pleasure that was hers on this occasion, when she had been so courteously received.

Grid-Ironing Eastern Ontario With Transmission Lines

This map illustrates the remarkable program of the Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario for bringing power from Quebec and from plants on the Ottawa and St. Lawrence rivers, some of which power, no doubt, will be passed on to Western Ontario. From Paugan Falls on the Gatineau, 250,000 horsepower of purchased company power is now reaching Toronto. A development is being made at Chats Falls on the Ottawa river, a joint Hydro and company undertaking, from which 220,000 h.p. will be obtained. The Hydro has contracted to buy 125,000 h.p. from a company on the Lievre river. It also has agreed to buy 250,000 h.p. from the Beauharnois company. The amount to be paid for this purchased power over a 40-year period reaches 500 million dollars. The total quantity of 845,000 h.p. is almost equal to the quantity being obtained by the Hydro from the Niagara river.

In addition, the Hydro has contracted to buy another 100,000 h.p. of Gatineau power for use in the Ottawa district, and 100,000 h.p. from the Abitibi company for use in Northern Ontario. It is expected that another joint development at Carillon will supply the Hydro with 220,000 h.p.

Two 220,000 volt transmission lines have been built by the Hydro between Toronto and Chats Falls to carry Gatineau power, being 203 miles long. Another is being built to carry Chats Falls power. Four similar high voltage lines will be built between Toronto and Beauharnois and Carillon, with a spur line running to the Lievre river. This will be 270 miles long. Four more lines will be built between Toronto and publicly-built plants on the international section of the St. Lawrence river at Morrisburg and Cornwall, where 1,000,000 h.p. will be secured as a result of the deep waterway project. Each transmission line will carry 125,000 h.p.

100,000 Saplings Destroyed By Fire

CAMPBELLFORD, April 21 (By Examiner Staff Correspondent)—One hundred thousand pine and spruce trees, reforested last year on the northwest shore of Mud Lake by Zarefield McGuire, were burned out on Saturday evening when a fire, supposed to have started by the negligence of visitors camping in the vicinity, swept the area and totally destroyed this young growth of forest.

Near-by farmers and neighbors rushed to the scene when the alarm was given and after hard work were able to get the fire under control and extinguish the blaze.

A gigantic avalanche recently swept down on the summer resort near Martignay, in the Valais, Switzerland, carrying away all the chalets, which are unoccupied in winter.

FALSE TEETH ARE A GREAT INVENTION but KEEP YOUR OWN AS LONG AS YOU CAN

FALSE TEETH are worn in thousands of mouths today because these simple rules of health were almost unknown a few years ago

Most people can now escape this penalty!

ANY dentist will tell you what infected teeth and unhealthy gums will do to the human body.

When gums are spongy, swollen, inflamed, there is almost certain to be a germ-laden discharge into the mouth—virulent germs which travel with food through stomach and intestines, spreading infection along the way.

Then, of course, teeth must come out, and the dental profession deserves high recognition for its crusade against infected teeth in recent years.

But why invite this condition? Half the adult teeth lost are pulled because of pyorrhea—and most pyorrhea can be prevented if you start in time.

Start now to brush your teeth with Forhan's. This famous dentifrice was originated by a specialist in pyorrhea. Use it twice a day to clean the teeth—its safe, gentle action removes discolorations and deposits, and gives teeth the sparkle of their natural beauty.

But Forhan's does more—it tones up the gums. Every time you brush your teeth, massage the gums (full instructions with every tube)—and feel the health-bringing tingle of circulation which helps to keep gums snug and firm.

Do not delay until gums are spongy, tender. Many people have pyorrhea for ten years before they see the symptoms. Visit your dentist twice a year—and begin, at once, the use of Forhan's. The whole family needs this protection. Forhan's comes in two sizes, 35¢ and 60¢—just a few cents a tube more than ordinary toothpastes, and exceedingly well worth it. Forhan's Ltd., Montreal.

Fire Chief Pleased With Johnson Pumper

With the success of the little Johnson pumper which did such excellent work at the fire in North Monaghan Saturday noon will come a new phase in the history of the company which manufactures them. Such is the opinion of Fire Chief Gimblett.

In an interview with the Chief this morning The Examiner was told that great satisfaction had been expressed by all those viewing the try-outs of the pumper. The firemen have been asked to give frequent trials, once out on the ice after a hole had been cut through which to draw up the water. But the Chief said that the performance of the pumper on Saturday revealed to him the real worth of the apparatus.

In fact he was so pleased with it that he has forwarded a recommendation to the Johnson Motor Company. This has been put in circular form, and is being shown to customers throughout the provinces of Quebec and the Maritimes.

Suckers Are the Main Item on Menu Of Peterborough Tables These Days

Fish will form the main item on the menu of many a Peterborough home during the next few days.

The sweet aroma of frying suckers will spread from many a kitchen, and many youngster will come to think that all meat has little bones that get stuck in the throat if the meal is hurried.

Fathers, mothers, and big brothers were engaged in legion numbers in hooking the suckers from the Otonabee river last evening. About the locks and other vantage points where the moody sucker run thickest there was hardly elbow room to cast a pole. So they fished, patiently, eagerly, anxiously from late afternoon far into the night.

They were catching 'em, too. Fish were being hauled in on every quarter and there wasn't a pole that didn't get its quota. If all the fish caught last night were laid end to end, the smell would be terrific.

Many of the ancient rodsman, who annually go out to raise their fish percentage during the plentiful sucker run, stated that it was a big run. "Where they come from I dunno," said one sage. "But they're always thick at this time of year. We fish and fish and never seem to make a depression among 'em."

Look out! Up she comes. There's another dandy!

REV. DR. MILLSON ADDRESSES FATHERS AND SONS AT BANQUET

George Street United Church Fathers and Sons Hold Enjoyable Banquet.

SPLENDID PROGRAM.

The annual Father and Son banquet of George Street United church was held last evening in the Sunday School auditorium when nearly two hundred lads and their dads enjoyed a sumptuous banquet served by the ladies' classes under the convenorship of Mrs. G. Robertson. The tables were very artistic with runners of yellow and green baskets and vases of daffodils, snap dragons and pussy willows and yellow and green candles.

Rev. J. E. J. Millyard was toast master and after a few congratulatory remarks thanked the ladies for the splendid banquet and Leo Copp who had arranged the program. He then proposed the toast to the King, which was responded to by singing the National Anthem. The toast to the Dads was proposed by Jack Mark and ably responded to by Tom Shields who pleaded for the fathers to be boys with their little sons.

The toast to the Lads was proposed by L. M. Richardson and responded to by Arthur Stinson.

The address of the evening was given by Rev. Dr. Millson who kept the large gathering intensely interested as he outlined his work among boys and girls at the boy's school in Fullerton township and the girl's school at Georgetown where they take care of police court cases. There is also a number of Armenian refugees in these schools and he told of the good citizens they were making. He mentioned one case of an Armenian boy who was sent to a home, not far from Peterborough and who was loved as one of the family.

In addressing the boys he warned them not to consider the lack of money a handicap as most of the prominent men of the day had worked their way to the highest rung of the ladder. He referred to the case of a young man in his fourth year in Toronto University and an outstanding athlete who was the son of a char-woman.

In speaking to the dads he emphasized the power they exerted on their sons by their example. He referred to the great evils of cigarette smoking and its prevalence in Peterborough saying "it has you bound hand and foot—if you don't believe me try to quit. Arnold Spencer rendered two splendid violin solos.

The program was intercepted by community singing with Harry Northrope at the piano; class yells and several amusing stunts which consisted of a farical drama in three acts by "The Be Yourself Class" in which the prince finds the lost dog instead of the lost cat and claims the hand of the princess.

A singing forfeit stunt in which Dr. Yelland, A. A. Fowler, Howard Moyer and Jack Thornton figured prominently, created much amusement and as a penalty, each was required to drink a pint of milk from a nursing bottle. The I.O.B. class staged a Pillow, Pillow, Pillow stunt giving the dads a glimpse into the active life of the boys. A Boat Contest between the Dads and the Lads provoked gales of laughter when several demonstrated their ability to paddle their own canoe, seated on an ironing board across the top of a wicker clothes basket. Many accidental flounderings resulted.

Thus another entertainment of George St. passed into history with its laughter and wholesome pleasure but with some deeper and lasting impressions for good left on the minds of all present. A very hearty vote of thanks was voiced to all taking part in the program by C. S. Thompson, superintendant of the Sunday school who particularly mentioned Leo Copp who had charge of the program.

FINLANDER IS NOT RIGHT MAN

GETS SUSPENDED SENTENCE

Provincial Police Comb Kinmount District for Man Wanted in Toronto.

LINDSAY, April 21 (Examiner Correspondence)—On Saturday Provincial Constable Porter received a phone message to the effect that Inkinin, the Finlander who is wanted in Toronto for shooting a compatriot, was seen on the C.N.R. tracks between Kinmount and Burnt River. The officer motored to Fenelon Falls, where he picked up Constable Gordon. The tracks were patrolled to a point north of Burnt River where they joined forces with Provincial Constable Warren of Haliburton, and Constable Pritchard, of Minden. In a little shack near the tracks they found a Finlander, but he was not the man they were looking for.

On Sunday Provincial Constable Porter received another message that a man answering the description of the Finlander was seen on the railway tracks near Woodville. The officer later located the man, but he proved to be the Finlander which the posse had rounded up on Sunday.

It is believed by the authorities that Inkinin has succeeded in finding his way through to Algonquin Park.

Break Into Bread Company.

The Purity Bread Co. Bakery was entered by burglars on Saturday night. They evidently expected a big week-end haul, but they were disappointed. They rifled the drivers' pouches, but only secured ten dollars in silver.

Arthur Southern, of Blackstock, who forged his foster mother's name to a cheque, and presented it to a local auto wrecker, was placed on a five years' suspended sentence by Police Magistrate Jordan yesterday. A bond of $2,000 must also be provided with conditions imposed that he must obey his foster mother, must make all restitution for the expense caused her, must not drive or own a car during that period and pay the costs of the court. The prisoner received a severe reprimand from the magistrate.

Fred Lodge found a large Arctic owl on Sunday northwest of the town. The bird had been shot in the breast, presumably while flying, its long wings enabling it to cover quite a distance in its flight. It had a wing spread of a little more than five feet and its curved talons were two inches long. It will be mounted by a local taxidermist.

U.S. Dog Population Continues To Grow

WASHINGTON, D.C., April 20 (C.P.)—There is about one dog to every twenty-six humans in the United States, the Department of Commerce finds out.

The movement of population from the country to the city during the past decade has not resulted in decreasing the dog population, but has changed its makeup by reducing the size of dogs and increasing the number of pure bred animals to make up for the decrease in the number of just plain dogs.

The department discovers that the well-known fox terrier maintains a high degree of popularity because it is small and does well in cities.

Men are not so keen for the Pekingese, Chow and Pomeranian, and they prefer the Terrier as "a lot of dog in a small package."

PLANE MAKERS POOL PATENTS

F. H. Russell Announces Plan at Detroit Aircraft Show to Enlarge Research.

PREVENTS FREAK TYPES

DETROIT, April 21.—Directors of the Manufacturers Aircraft Association, Inc., adopted recently a plan of patent research and development of inventive ideas for the improvement of flying craft.

The plan was announced and described by Frank H. Russell, president, who characterized it as the most important forward co-operative step taken by the industry since the war. He spoke from long experience having been the first manager of the Wright Brothers Airplane Company. During the war, as vice president and general manager of the Burgess Company, he helped to organize the association, which, by cross licensing, made patents available to all builders, prevented litigation and permitted the constructors to use what devices they needed without interference.

"The development of commercial and military planes still revolves about the problems of engineering and design" Mr. Russell said. "Some 4,500 aviation patents have been issued in this country, and these are increasing at the rate of three a day. One of every forty of all patents issued in this country pertains to aviation. While a small percentage of all that work proves to be of practical benefit, it nevertheless indicates the enormous interest among creative minds.

Agreement Prevents Freak Types

"Seventy-five per cent of the planes exhibited at the show here this week were produced under the association's patent cross-licensing agreement. Nearly all the important manufacturers work under agreement. In fact, every plane that flies embodies at least several of those patents, and to that may be attributed the absence of freak and unsafe types. One can use what is good without being forced to adopt makeshifts to circumvent another's patent.

"The new plan is another long step forward toward the perfection of American planes. Without in any way disturbing the present patent agreement, it pools the ideas and thoughts of the industry as they reach the stage of development which warrants a patent for every idea developed. Thousands have been abandoned through neglect, lack of interest or inability to carry it past the initial stage. Every member of the industry now will have immediately available the development work and progressive ideas of all other members. Instead of each designer or manufacturer working alone at a problem, everybody can get at it and contribute to its solution."

Mr. Russell forcast the creation of a patent research department for all members and a system of ethics whereby inventors may receive their just reward.

THE SON OF TARZAN No. 44 (Metropolitan Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.) By Edgar Rice Burroughs

The son of Tarzan—
Korak would not permit Meriem to go unarmed. A light spear and a long knife he taught her to use were her weapons of offense and defence. Sometimes she even hunted alone. Her figure, rounding into the fulness of an early maturity, took on the lines of a Greek goddess and as she strode through the jungle fastness, she was as beautiful a huntress as the young Diana. Often she brought down a deer.

In the stamping ground the trio were familiar figures. The little monkeys knew them well, often coming close to chatter and frolic. When Akut and Korak were away the small folk would tug at Mariem's ornaments and play about as she fed them, helping to pass the long hours until Korak's return. Nor were they worthless as friends. They often brought her luscious fruits or raced to tell her of the near presence of antelope or giraffe.

One day Meriem had stretched her lithe body, catlike, along a swaying branch when the sudden plunge of an excited little monkey, landing on her shoulders, startled her. "Climb," he cried. "Climb! The Mangani are coming." The language of the great apes being similar to that of the monkeys, Meriem understood, but she only glanced lazily over her shoulder at the excited disturber of her peace. "Climb yourself, little Manu. I'm not afraid."

But the monkey only screamed his warning more lustily from a higher terrace. "Mangani" was their word for apes. To Meriem, Akut and Korak were apes "They are returning," she thought, as she heard the sound of approaching bodies swinging through the trees. Meriem decided to play a joke on Korak. She would pretend to be asleep. She heard the two come closer. They stopped. Why were they so quiet?

Jabs and Jottings as Picked Up by an Examiner Reporter

"I Must Tell Truth."
During the hearing of a County Court action here yesterday afternoon before His Honor Judge L. V. O'Connor, a small boy ten years of age was called to the witness box by counsel for the plaintiffs. He barely could see over the edge of the box which encompassed him, and His Honor after learning of the witness's extreme youth, asked him, "What must you do when asked a question, after kissing the Bible?"
"I must tell the truth," was the somewhat hesitating reply.
"And if you do not tell the truth, what is going to happen," questioned the Judge, not unkindly. There was no reply. The little fellow stood silently, the Book of Scripture clutched tightly in his right hand.
"Will there be any serious results if you do not tell the truth," His Honor prompted.
"Yes. I will be punished," was the simple rejoinder.
When and how? A lenghty pause followed. "God."

32 GORGEOUS BLOOMS.
Thirty-two stems, each crowned with gorgeous red flowers, on one pansy geranium plant is the proud record of Mrs. Thomas Meredith, Lansdowne Street. The original plant grew out of doors all last summer, but failed to blossom. A portion was transplanted into a box and placed in a south window of the owner's house. The winter sun gave the plant the necessary vitamins, and it thrived and spread in every direction. Now the whole is a mass of beautiful bloom. Every one of the 32 stalks bear perfectly formed flowers and presents a sight worthy of the best florist in the country.

CROWDING LIVE STOCK.
In this age of making oneself as comfortable as possible, there is the danger of forgetting to make our animals comfortable, at least to a humane degree, as possible. Passers-by have often noted overcrowded truck loads of live hogs being whisked along in a southerly direction down Aylmer Street from outlying points in the country. On one occasion some forty pigs were jammed into a small truck, and in their midst was a young calf who was being gradually trampled to death. At another time, a similar number of young hogs were penned in a small conveyance, and one large one was rooting around to make room for itself. The result was that several of his friends were badly torn, and many of them were partially bled before arriving at the packers.

CHECK UP ON CARS
A pile of summonses may go out to local motorists within the next day or so.
Police were engaged to-day in checking up on cars parked too long on George, Charlotte and Water streets. A flock of motorists were found to be breaking the city parking by-law.
Asked whether any action was to be taken, police hinted that summonses may be issued.

SHEDS COAT AND VEST
When Tommy Hooper, the hustling proprietor of three confectionery stores, appears on George street in his shirt sleeves, then Spring is not only here but Summer is well on its way. Mr. Hooper was seen to-day minus coat and vest, giving full landscape to a striped shirt.
Comfort is his motto, but in his desire to be unirked by the more sedate and hot garments, Mr. Hooper seldom makes an error. Never does he doff coat and vest until those "rare days" come upon us about which the poet wrote.

ANSON HOUSE.
Anson House is the name by which the Peterborough Protestant Home will be known in future. The change was considered advisable by the Board of Management, who discussed it carefully some time ago, and a recent Order-in-Council has been passed by which the well known home for old people will be known in future as Anson House. The name is taken from the street on which the home is built.

DROP IN FIRE CALLS.
Things have quietened up considerably at the Fire Hall following the 45 fires so far this month. Only one fire has been reported since yesterday afternoon, an automobile fire at the corner of Park and Hunter streets at 6.59 p.m. Some wires in the car had short-circuited and flames shot out for a minute. The timely appearance of the firemen saved the car from any material damage.

YOUNG GIRL WANTED.
A lady living about three miles out of the city on the Port Hope Highway is anxious to get a young girl who will come and live in her home, to help with the work and be also a companion to her daughter. She would like a young girl of about eighteen years for this position, which is in a comfortable home in pleasant surroundings.

OPEN THREE DAYS A WEEK.
Until Further Notice, the Peterborough Relief Rooms above 435 George street will open each week only on Tuesdays, Fridays and Saturdays, from two to five o'clock. The used clothing bureau at the rooms will be open on Friday only.

The shooting match which is expected to attract a large number of entrants, will be under the supervision of Q.M.S. R. Turner, R.C.R., Instructor.

Claim Silicosis Starts Tuberculosis

OTTAWA, Ont., April 21 (C.P.).—Silicosis, a disease frequently contracted by miners breathing dust-laden air, has been definitely proven to lay a foundation for the more dreaded disease of tuberculosis. Addressing the tuberculosis committee of the National Research Council here, Dr. Oscar Klotz, of the University of Toronto, said it had been found the germs of tuberculosis are stimulated by the presence of silica, a mineral substance often present in mine shafts in the form of dust.

French Ships Will Bring Coal To Canada

MONTREAL, Que., April 21.—Five of the largest vessels of La Compagnie Delmas Freres and Vieljeux have been diverted from the West African trade to carry coal from Cardiff, Wales, to Canada via the St. Lawrence, the first of the French vessels to reach Montreal next Sunday. The Delmas ships will carry Canadian wheat to Europe on their return voyages.
Pierre Vieljeux, managing director of the shipping firm is in Montreal completing arrangements for the new service between Montreal and European ports.

ROYAL PROPERTY WILL BE SEIZED

Disappearance of Rare Jewels From Showcase in Palace Being Probed.

SPAIN GENERALLY QUIET.

(By Clarence Dubose, A.P. Staff Correspondent)

MADRID, April 21 (A.P.)—The Republican Government is moving rapidly to seize for the nation all property of the exiled King Alfonso which can be considered the property of the nation rather than of the man, Alfonso de Bourbon, aside from his titles.
A special Judge has been appointed to investigate reports that valuable jewels and documents relating to the Moroccan wars have disappeared from a showcase at the Royal Palace which has been sealed by the Government. The disappearance is attributed to some of the highly-placed members of the palace staff.
The mediation of the British Embassy was understood to-day to have been sought in connection with transfer of money deposited in the Bank of Spain by Alfonso XIII, the bank deciding after a lengthy conference to turn over part of the deposits, which run into a high figure.
Appeal Sent Out
An appeal to the patriotism of all Spaniards, particularly aristocrats and capitalists, to stop their withdrawals of funds from the banks and industries of Spain to be taken abroad for investment was published to-day by Indalecio Prieto, new Minister of Finance, who warned that if the practice had not ceased within four weeks, drastic measures would be inaugurated.
The Government has constituted boards in each of the provinces to inventory property of Alfonso and Determine which of it can revert to the national Treasury. Rents from such property are already being turned to the national coffers.
The country generally is quiet, but disturbances continue in Catalonia. President Pedro Matos of the "Libre" Labor organization at Sabadell, was shot and killed last night by opposing "Sindicataunico" members. Matos was returning from work when waylaid.

Allege Assault Made On Minister

ELDER ALLEGED TO HAVE STRUCK ESSON MINISTER

Scrap in Session Meeting Follows Church Service Near Orillia.

OBJECTED TO SERMON.

Elder Demands That Minister Furnish Scriptural Proof for Statements.

(Special to Examiner)

ORILLA, Ont., Apr. 22. — Truman McMahon of Hawkestone, is alleged to have struck his minister Rev. R. W. Ellis in Esson Presbyterian church last Sunday morning following an argument over a statement made by Rev. Ellis in the course of his sermon. Mr. McMahon is an alder in the Esson church and the alleged altercation took place in the church at an informal meeting of the session held after the morning service. Only the four elders and the minister were present.

Objects To Sermon

The story as told is that Mr. McMahon charged Mr. Ellis with being unable to offer scriptural proof of a statement made in a sermon preached on March 22. Mr. McMahon it is said claimed that this minister had declared "that all who are baptized are undoubtedly regenerated".

Rev. Mr. Ellis denied have made that statement. This argument kept up every time the two men met until it came to a head on Sunday last. Mr. Ellis is then alleged to have not only reaffirmed his denial but to have accused his elder of going to sleep during sermons and catching only a part of his statements. This was followed by further arguments. The elder again charged Mr. Ellis with making the above untenable statement. Mr. Ellis again sounded his denial then according to the minister, the elder clenched his fist and struck him on the face. Mr. Ellis made no attempt to retaliate, but turned and walked out, leaving the meeting.

"The source of all these rumors is an incident that occurred at Esson

TERRIFIC BLAST WRECKS HOUSE

Explosion Felt Over Niagara Falls—Fire Spreads to Nearby Homes.

CAUSE LAID TO BOMB.

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., April 22 (CP)—The home of Louis Gatto of this city, was completely destroyed by a terrific explosion which was felt all over the city early to-day. Fire which swept through the frame building spread to the houses on both sides and did considerable damage before the firemen arrived. There was no one in the house at the time. It is believed that a bomb was thrown through the cellar window. The Gattos say they have no enemies and cannot account for the outrage. A house on the same street was partially wrecked by a bomb some time ago. The district is largely populated by Italians.

GOV'T SURVIVES MAJOR DIVISION DEBATE FINISHED

Liberal and Progressive Amendments Defeated By 43 and 31 of Majority.

MAIN MOTION PASSED.

Eleven Non-voting M.P.'s Just Miss Ejection For Breaking Rules.

OTTAWA, Ont., April 22 (C.P.) — Having cleared its decks for the real progress of the session, Parliament today began stripping the Order Paper of an accumulation of business that has been collecting since opening day. One of the largest number of questions ever on the Order Paper—233—were dealt with by the Government, and then notices of motions, calling for production of papers, received attention.

Tumultuous Scenes

Amid tumultuous scenes, not the least of which was the near-naming of eleven members of the House, the Government yesterday survived its first major division of the session. It was a whirlwind finish to the debate on the address in reply to the Speech from the Throne. In three divisions, the House passed the main government motion and rejected two amendments, one moved by Rt. Hon. Mackenzie King, Liberal Leader, and the other by Robert Gardiner, U.F.A. Leader.

Not in the memory of the oldest Parliamentarian was there a precedent for the tense incident that attended the recording of the vote on the King amendment. Eleven members, including Miss Agnes Macphail, the only woman member, all in the so-called "ginger group" refused to vote either for or against the motion. At one stage Mr. Speaker Black was on the point of having them retired from the chamber by the Sergeant-at-Arms. It would have been tantamount to contempt of court, and the members would not have been permitted to return to their seats until the House had decided what penalty —in the form of enforced absence would have been meted out of them.

Under the rules of the House a member must vote in he be in his seat when the motion is read by the Speaker. Each of the eleven members refused in turn to vote, being under the impression they were acting within their rights. After several minutes of tense excitement, with both Conservative and Liberal members pressing the Speaker to force them to vote, the incident ended. Under representations from both Premier R. B. Bennett and Rt. Hon. Mackenzie King, the little band of eleven were permitted to absent

Half-Hour Trans-Atlantic Mail Service By Rockets is Predicted Within 2 Years

NEW YORK, N.Y., April 22 (C.P.). — "Half-hour trans-Atlantic mail service with commercial rockets as the carriers." That was the prediction discussed to-day by G. E. Pendray, vice-president of the American Interplanetary Society, who has just returned after conferences in Germany with leaders of a similar society.

He said German scientists predict that in two years rockets powered by liquid fuel will fly across the Atlantic every half-hour, carrying 50 pounds of mail or merchandise.

"When I left Germany a few weeks ago plans were complete for sending up the newest type rocket by liquid fuel," said Mr. Pendray. "German scientists working secretly on the rocket seem to have solved the basic problem of sending rockets soaring for miles into the sky by liquid power. Our trouble here has been that the dry fuel now used does not yield sufficient power for the long flight."

The first rocket to go up, according to the plans learned by Mr. Pendray, will be gauged for an ascent of two miles. It will carry a barometer, a camera, and a parachute adjusted to open automatically when the rocket reaches its greatest altitude.

"The Germans have already charted the course from a field in Germany to a field in the vicinity of New York where the projectiles will land," said Mr. Pendray. "A parachute will be used for the landing. The same rocket will then be shot back across the Atlantic over another course with a different cargo."

TRAFFIC BY-LAW TO BE ENFORCED DECLARES CHIEF

There is to be No Warnings Given Chief Constable Tells His Men.

PARKING OF CARS.

Plain Clothesmen Will Probably Be Put on to Put Stop to Law Breakers.

"Motorists will either observe the city's parking and traffic by-laws or take the consequences before Magistrate Langley in fines," declared Chief Newhall this morning in making known the police department's intention of laying a heavy hand on motorists.

"There will be no more warnings. Traffic congestion on the streets has reached such a stage that the by-laws must be obeyed," stated the Chief in issuing instructions to his men to go out and enforce the traffic laws. "We are through pampering motorists; warnings seem to have no effect."

The Chief then dealt with some of the specific infringements of the motoring laws which he said were causing dangerous traffic congestion. Special attention will be directed to cars parked outside theatres and stores, and if the one-hour for parking is over-stepped, owners will get a ticket.

Put On Plainsclothesmen.

The Chief threatened to put plainclothesmen on the street if the full

AUTO HITS POLE ON KENT HIGHWAY FOUR ARE KILLED

Two Women, One Man Have Close Call as Machine Turns Turtle.

ALL VICTIMS COLORED

Party Returning From Getting Fish Supply—Inquest Adjourned to April 28.

CHATHAM, Ont., April 22 (C.P.). —Although still suffering from shock two women and one man who escaped death in the motor accident at Cedar Springs late yesterday when the car in which they were riding crashed into a telephone pole and killed four of seven occupants, are reported to be resting comfortably this morning. They are not confined to the hospital. The crash that claimed four lives was the worst in the history of the county.

The car, a large sedan, travelling south on the Harwich Raleigh townline, suddenly left the road half a mile north of Cedar Springs, crashed into a telephone pole, and turned over in the ditch.

The dead are: Isaac Jefferson, 42, his wife Lena Jefferson, aged 32, William Fowler, 30, and May Ladd 32, all of this city.

The injured are: Willis Johnson, 37, of 3633 Ardnett Street, Detroit, Helen Seever, 16, Dover Township, and Mrs. Margaret Fowler, 30, Chatham.

The dead and injured are all colored. The party left the city during the afternoon for Erie Beach to secure a supply of fish. It was on the return trip that the accident happened.

Lost Control.

Mrs. Fowler's version of the accident was that Jefferson, who was driving, reached forward apparently to turn on the windshield wiper, and in doing so lost control of the machine. Statements of the survivors, the officers say, are to the effect that the car was not going fast at the time of the accident. It would seem he said, that it must have been travelling at more than a moderate rate of speed for it went a distance of 95 feet from the point where it left the road to the spot where it rolled and crashed into a telephone pole. The left side of the car was torn from the chassis, while the top was reduced to matchwood. The rest of the car was reduced to a mass of twisted steel, and the whole is a total wreck.

Mr. and Mrs. Fowler were with Jefferson in the front seat of the

Roadster Ditched Near Indian River Two Not Injured

Mrs. Archie Stevenson, of Havelock, and Four Campbellford Women, One With an Infant, Were in a Bad Auto Accident—Four Received Injuries.

DRIVER OF THE CAR, MRS. STEVENSON, BADLY HURT MRS. E. RUNYANS, CAMPBELLFORD, WRISTS BROKEN

Automobile Went Into the Ditch When the Driver Turned Out to Pass a Truck Which Was Parked Directly in the Path of the Car.

HAVELOCK, April 22. — (Examiner Correspondence) — Four women were severely injured in a motor accident on the brow of Cameron's Hill, near Indian River, about eight miles East of Peterborough, on No. 7 Highway, at about 6:15 p.m. yesterday, when a new light roadster with rumble seat, owned and driven by Mrs. Archie Stevenson of Havelock, swerved to avoid hitting a truck, that was parked directly in the path of the oncoming car. The automobile went into the ditch and came to a stop resting on its side. It was badly damaged, wheels and fenders torn off, and was afterwards taken to Peterborough by an auxiliary truck.

The driver of the car, Mrs. Stevenson suffered a concussion of the brain, and severe body injuries, and possible internal injuries. Mrs. Edward Runyans of Campbellford had both arms broken above the wrists. Miss Lilian Runyans received lacerations about the head and body. Mrs. Wilbert Reid also of Campbellford, had her hip injured, but is not as seriously hurt as the other ladies. In the car at the time also were Mrs. Manson Reid of Campbellford and her infant daughter.

Mrs. Reid escaped with slight bruises, while the baby came out of the accident without a scratch. The injured ladies were brought to Havelock to the home of the driver, by Alex Miller and Arthur King, both of Peterborough, who were on the scene shortly after the accident.

Doctors Joseph and Donald Holdcroft were called and rendered medical aid. Mrs. Stevenson regained consciousness at 11 o'clock last night and this morning her condition was not considered as serious as last night. Mrs. Stevenson's husband recently had $1,000 stolen while on a visit to Toronto. Thieves pried open the lock of the rumble seat, removed a thousand dollars in currency and left a draft for the same amount untouched.

FOREST FIRES UNDER CONTROL

Several Outbreaks Reported In Hastings and Peterboro' Counties.

THOUGHT INCENDIARY.

That outbreaks of bush fires in Methuen Township over the past week-end were of incendiary origin is the positive belief of District Forester Crosbie of Tweed. He has accordingly enlisted the aid of Provincial Police Officers Gray of Marmora and Morris of Bancroft, and hopes to procure enough evidence against certain suspected persons in order that he may prosecute to the fullest extent of the law.

The fires in question were in the Apsley district, and all available men were called upon to get the blaze under control. Rumour has it that the fires were started with the object of providing settlers with an opportunity to earn wages.

House and Barn Destroyed

Several fires of a more or less serious nature have been reported from the look-out tower near the Blue Mountains in the past few days. On Tuesday night in Monmouth Township a fire destroyed a farm house, barns and outbuildings and spread into the bush before being brought under control by the Rangers. This fire is believed to have been caused by trespassing trappers.

Mr. Crosbie in conversation with The Examiner, stressed the fact that it will only be by diligent watchful-

PROBE CONTINUING.

LONDON, Ont., April 22 (C.P.). —The first case in connection with a Province-wide investigation into the forgery of old-age pension cheques was disposed of in County Police Court here to-day when Magistrate C. W. Hawkshaw meted out a one-to-two years' term to Ronald Stiltz, aged 21, of Caradoc Township.

Stiltz pleaded guilty a week ago to forging the name of John A. Howe, 75-year-old pensioner, to his monthly allowance of $20.00. Since that time the investigation into other cases where aged persons were victimized has been widened to include many Ontario centres. It has already resulted in a second arrest in this district, and in Toronto a clerk in the Pensions Department is charged with 36 such offences.

OSHAWA KNIGHTS VISIT PETERBORO

Thirty Members of Knights of Columbus Pay Fraternal Visit to Local Council.

ELECT OFFICERS IN MAY.

Thirty members of Oshawa Council of the Knights of Columbus paid a fraternal visit to Peterborough Council last night. Their officers conducted the meeting with E. J. McCaffery as Grand Knight and R. J. Findlay performing the duties of Lecturer. Their entertainment included vocal selections by a male quartette and instrumental numbers by one of the visitors, who is a member of the Corn Huskers Orchestra. Past State Deputy J. J. Duffus complimented the Oshawa officers upon the manner in which they conducted the meeting, and other tributes were paid to them by members of Peterborough Council. Oshawa extended an invitation to the Peterborough Knights to return the visit on May 11, and this fraternal opportunity will likely be accepted. A notice of motion of general interest to the members was passed last night, proposing to hold the nomination and election of officers during May instead of June.

SPANISH CAVALLERO MUST TAKE WHOLE FAMILY AS WELL AS GIRL

But Senorita Supplies All the Furniture and Must Have Dowery.

MAKE LOVE BY RULES.

By GORDON A. SINCLAIR

VIGO, Spain, March 30.—Copyright, 1931)—How would you like to be "trunking" for years with the definite idea of a big splashy church wedding and then have the boy friend's mother step in and pooh pooh all your efforts as quite unworthy of her son? That's one of those old Spanish customs you hear about. It helps to make Spanish love the most complicated long drawn out in all the world.

Spanish brides must supply every stick of furniture for the new home, every piece of linen, every dish and all the cash she can dig up. After that they are never expected to go places or do things alone.

Not So Raw At All

This sounds like a raw deal put over by the men but it's not so raw after all because the boy friend had to be a sort of fairy godfather to his sweethear't entire family for at least five, and usually seven, years before they march up the centre aisle.

Suppose I am a young Don of good family. To name a real case I am a lieutenant of artillery at Barcelona. I see a senorita, young, beautiful and of good breeding. I

Cattle purchased must conform to certain health requirements.

TENEMENT BLAZE TAKES ONE LIFE

Seventeen Injured in Fleeing as Apartment Burns Like Matchwood.

NEW YORK, N. Y., April 22.—Flames that consumed a tenement house as if it were a match box, killed one man, injured 17 persons and left 100 homeless just before dawn to-day.

Passersby saw a wisp of smoke curling from a five storey building. In a few seconds fire was belching from many windows.

Policemen, almost surrounded by flames, dashed through corridors arousing the sleeping people, some of whom leaped screaming from windows. Julius J. Marshall, 24, braved the flames to assist women and children to safety over roof tops.

When firemen subdued the fire after a two-hour battle, an unidentified man was found burned to death on the top floor. Carmine O'Farry, 22, and her sister, Isobel, 9, were trapped in their third-floor apartment and had to jump. The former suffered a fractured pelvis and the child a possible skull fracture.

NOTED AVIATRIX IS NIGHT IN JAIL

Police Arrest Lady Mary Heath on Charge of Being Intoxicated.

CAUSED TRAFFIC JAM.

WINDSOR, Ont., April 22. (CP)— As the result of an altercation with her secretary over who should drive the car in which they were riding, Lady Mary Heath was arrested last night at 11 o'clock at the intersection of London Street and Bruce Avenue. At 5 o'clock this morning she was formally charged with being intoxicated and at 7 o'clock posted cash bail of $16.50 and was freed.

Lady Mary, whose fame as an aviatrix is world-wide, has been visiting in Windsor since the opening of the National Air Show in Detroit more than a week ago.

Attended Two Functions

She has been registered at the Ambassador Hotel. Last night she attended two functions, one of them a banquet of the business and professional women's club in the Y.W.C.A., at which she spoke, and the other a private dinner afterward.

Noticing a traffic jam at Bruce and London at 11 o'clock, Constables Haggeth and Carter of Windsor Police Department investigated, and reported that they found Reginald C. Williams, Lady Mary's secretary at the wheel of an automobile, with Lady Mary vociferously trying to induce him to let her drive. Lady Mary, they said, appeared to them to be intoxicated while Mr. Williams was sober. They placed the titled English flier under arrest and took her to the police station, and the police matron, Miss Lettie Begg, was hurriedly called in to attend to the unusual "guest." Police said that Lady Mary walked into the station all right, and was able to navigate but claimed she was somewhat unsteady on her feet.

ANGLICAN DIOCESE OF PETERBORO' OUTLINED TO ST. JOHN'S LAYMEN

Rev. M. R. Kingsford Outlines Plan Which He is Greatly Interested In.

MAYOR DENNE APPROVES.

"The time has come when the church in Peterborough and the adjoining counties must face one of four alternatives: It must either continue under the jurisdiction of the Bishop of Toronto who is able to spend only a few hours a year in any one place, a separate diocese must be formed, we must be amalgamated with the Diocese of Ontario, or a Suffragan Bishop must be appointed to take up residence in Peterborough," said Rev. M. R. Kingsford of Gore's Landing in an address before a joint meeting of the Advisory Board, the sidesmen, and Men's Club of St. John's Anglican Church in their Parish Hall last evening. The meeting was preceded by a supper given by the Church Women's Association.

Rev. Dr. R. C. Blagrave acted as chairman of the meeting. At the beginning of the meeting he conveyed the greetings of the Rector's Warden, M. Dela Fosse, who had returned from hospital that afternoon. Dr. Blagrave also welcomed those attending the meeting and introduced two newcomers to the church, Gordon Langhorn of London England and Mr. Jaggar. Speaking of the Parish as the final unit in the organization of the Church, Dr. Blagrave stated that there were spiritual, administrative and financial sides of the parish's activities. He urged the laymen to take an active part in the church's financial work. Distinguishing between the church's allotment and its assessment, he explained the former by SHREWSBURY, N.J., April 22 —Mickey Walker, middleweight champion of the world, and his bride, the formed Clara Helmers of Hempstead, Long Island, today denied that their marriage had been annulled.

Anncuncement was made yesterday by Jack Kearns, Walker's manager, that the marriage had been annulled. This was subsequently denied by Mrs. Walker's father, and a search of the court records failed to disclose that any annulment had been granted.

BIG TIMBER FIRE IN ADIRONDACKS DEFIES CONTROL

Flames Roar Through Forest Toward Saranac River 12 Miles Off.

3,000 ACRES RAZED.

Hundreds of Fire Fighters Out —Oil Field in Path is Razed.

PLATTSBURG, N.Y., April 22. — What was threatening to become one of the State's worst forest fires in years was roaring through some of the Adirondack's finest timber on a three-mile front southwest of here today, entirely out of control after an all-night fight by almost 700 men.

Those directing the battle were fearful that rain alone could halt the flames short of the Saranac River, twelve miles away.

Half a dozen houses and a schoolhouse lay close in its path, and families had removed their belongings and were prepared to flee.

Carelessness Blamed

Somebody's carelessness was blamed for the fire, which started beside a road near the Salmon River, between Peasleeville and Schuyler Falls in mid-afternoon yesterday and had a front of a mile before it was discovered. Throughout the night an ever-increasing force of men was thrown into its path in the vain effort to stem its advance.

At midnight it had burned over more than 3,000 acres and was being carried rapidly through the dry woods on the lap of a light but steady wind.

Oil Field Swept Over

BUFFALO N.Y., April 22 (CP)— With showers predicted for to-day in Western New York, state rangers and farmers who have been fighting forest fires for several days, saw hope of relief.

The most serious damage reported this morning was at Richburg Hills, between Bolivar and Wirt, in Alleghany County, where the flames invaded an oil field and licked up two power houses, an oil well, tank of oil and a drilling outfit. The oil field blaze according to Chief Ranger R. L. Witherell, had been brought under control. Chief Witherell is in charge of the forest in three counties of Southwestern New York—Allegany, Steuben and Cattaraugus.

All fires had been extinguished in the Alleghany state park, although the thick bed of dry moss over the ground provides ready tinder for smoldering sparks, which the wind is apt to fan into flame again at any time if there is no rain.

CANADA NOT HIT HARD BY SLUMP

Sir Josiah Stamp Claims Normal Will Return When Peace is Assured.

TRADE ALWAYS TWO-SIDED.

WINNIPEG, Man. Apr. 22. — (CP) —Peace and prospects for its constitution must be fixed conditions before the world industry and commerce gets back to normal, Sir Josiah Stamp, noted British economist and chairman of the Royal Commission inquiring into grain-futures trading in Canada, told 1,000 members of the Canadian Club here.

He thought "right thinking" was required to help the world recover from its economic depression. Compared with other nations, Canada is not so hard hit by the depression, Sir Josiah thought.

"The way out of economic troubles" he said, "is often along an entirely different road than the way in." He referred to arguments that cheap money would be a contributory solution to present troubles.

"No amount of cheap money itself," he said, "will give the solution we wish. Cheap money is essential to recovery but not in itself an agency to bring it about." Tariffs, Sir Josiah commented, had their places—"but one must not overlook the fact that trade is two-sided, buying and selling."

Mother Faces Term For "Badger Game"

NEW YORK, April 22. — So she might care for her six children when she and her husband were convicted a year ago of an attempted "badger game," Mrs. Maria Cozza, of White Plains, was placed on probation. She was given a job in Grasslands Hospital.

Yesterday, having left her job and failed to report to the probation officer, she was sentenced by County Judge Coyle to three and a half to seven years in Auburn. Her husband is in Sing-Sing. Public charity organizations will care for the children.

THREE ACQUITTED IN MURDER TRIAL

Who Slew Gerald E. Buckly, Detroit Radio Announcer, Remains Unsolved.

TWO ARRESTED.

DETROIT, Mich., April 22. (CP)— The Gerald E. Buckley murder trial, with its eight weeks of legal details, testimony and arguments, was ended to-day with all three defendants acquitted, but two of them were back in custody on other charges.

Ted Pizzino was re-arrested almost before echoes of the jury's verdict had died away in Recorder's Court at 7.50 o'clock last night on an indictment charging him and "Black Leo" Cellura, notorious Detroit gangsters, with murdering William Cannon and George Collins, reputed dope runners, last July 3. Cellura has not been arrested.

Angelo Livecchi still was receiving congratulations when police took him in custody for Rochester, N.Y., authorities on a charge of robbery while armed. Only Joe Bommarito of the defendants won actual freedom.

Pizzino and Bommarito were accused of firing the shots which ended the career of the militant radio crusader in the lobby of the La Salle hotel early on the morning of July 23. Livecchi was accused of signalling the gunmen, waiting outside the hotel, when the scene was set for the assassination.

WOULD CANCEL GREAT WAR DEBT

Federation of Labor Chief Outlines Steps to Restore World Confidence.

ADOPT 5 HOUR DAY.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., April 22. — Cancellation or sharp reduction of Great War debts was urged last night by William Green, President of the American Federation of Labor, in an address before the Harvard Business School Club.

Mr. Green declared that this was one of the fundamental steps necessary to end the present economic depression by reducing tax burdens and restoring world confidence and purchasing power.

Warning that despairing masses of the unemployed would not much longer tolerate an industrial system which permitted recurrent periods of depression and degradation, Mr. Green suggested these further steps by which employment might be stabilized and private industry justified:

The calling by President Hoover of a national economic conference of Labor and Industrial leaders to work out a long-range industrial and employment program.

The establishment of a permanent Federal council to help keep industry stable.

General adoption of the five-hour day.

Maintenance of wages at a high level.

Amendment of the anti-trust laws.

Assurance of steady employment given to workers by plants employing them.

SHIP WILL FINISH CAREER ON BEACH

Orita to be Driven Ashore at Morecombe to Save Breaking Up Labor.

SELL WRECKAGE AS JUNK.

LONDON, April 22 (C.P.). — The old salt's counterpart of Thomas Edison's secret ambition to throw an egg into the whirling blades of an electric fan is to be realized in the case of the Orita, 9,000-ton steamer which has been in the Liverpool-South American service for thirty years.

With flag flying and full steam up the Orita will be dashed at top speed on the beach at Morecambe, Lancashire, to break herself up instead of being sent to the ship breakers for salvage, said a Liverpool despatch to the Daily Mail to-day.

A skeleton crew will take the Orita, whose name is a Spanish contraction which might be translated "Just This Very Minute," out from Liverpool and launch her toward the shore. They will leave the ship in small boats and watch the smash from afar.

The wreckage will be sold to scrap dealers. The ordinary expense of towage to a shipyard, where tearing to pieces is a lengthy process, will be made unnecessary by the smash.

FUNCHAL REBELS TO BE ATTACKED

General Dias Ignores Orders to Cease Insurrection on Madeira.

LISBON, Portugal, April 22.—(A.P.) —The Lisbon Government to-day announced commencement of military operations against the rebel garrison at Funchal, Madeira.

A high official of the War Department said that no alternative was left after rejection by General Sousa Dias, head of the revolutionary Junta there, of an ultimatum demanding cessation of the insurrection.

A radio message has been received by President Carmona signed Sousa Dias, stating that he would hold Carmona and the Portuguese Government responsible for any loss of life which may occur incident to an attack on the island.

The Foreign Office to-day published a decree lifting the blockade about the Azores, where a revolt similar to that at Funchal was suppressed without the firing of a shot.

Uneasiness in Lisbon.

There is considerable uneasiness in Lisbon at reports of growing Communistic agitation in Spain and of a movement for establishment of an Iberian Federation, in which Portugal would be included. The idea probably would find little favor here. Infiltration of Communistic ideas particulary is feared in the Oporto region where there is considerable unemployment.

A Lisbon dispatch to Le Journal, Paris, to-day quoted President Carmonas stating that new Portuguese elections would be held before the end of the year with women having family responsibilities participating.

"You may add," the President is quoted, "that the legislative body will not hamper the executive as in all other countries. Parliament will make laws and will not incessantly overthrow ministri The President of the Republic will appoint ministers and be responsible for them." He added that this role could not fall to him for once his reforms were accomplished he would resign.

Resident Bites Thief Trio Make Hasty Exit

TORONTO, Ont., April 22 (C.P.). —A new method of routing housebreakers was demonstrated here early to-day by Bert Nash, resident in the north-western section of the city. Entering his home Nash surprised three men ransacking the dwelling. He immediately grappled with one of the men, and when he could not overpower him sank his teeth into the thug's arm. One of the other two then joined the fray and succeeded in releasing his companion. The robbers, however, had had enough of Nash's masticating ability and fled without stopping to take anything. One leaped through an upstairs window 20 feet to the ground below.

RUMOR DEPOSED SPANISH KING IS FAR FROM BEING WEALTHY MAN

Claim Alfonso Invested Surplus Income in Homeland Utility Concerns.

VISITING IN LONDON.

LONDON, April 22. (AP)—Small groups of people gathered outside the Hotel Claridge from dawn on today, gazing at the windows of what was said to be the apartment of the deposed Spanish King, Alfonso, in the hope of catching a glimpse of him.

He arrived here yesterday from Paris for a week's business visit.

At the hotel he was said to be early astir, taking breakfast in his room with the Duke of Miranda, his chamberlain and faithful companion and sending out for London papers and such from Spain as were available. Early callers left their cards but were not admitted to his suite.

Far from Wealthy

The London Daily Mail in a story which it said was inspired by Alfonso himself stated that the deposed monarch was far from well off financially, and that he had invested the surplus of his income as King in Spanish utility concerns, a practice which was now proving of considerable disadvantage.

By noon the crowd outside the hotel had grown to large proportions and police had to shove a way through for Alfonso when, accompanied by the Duke of Miranda, he left for an unnanounced destination in an automobile loaned by Lord Londonderry.

Alfonso appeared fatigued. He wore a dark brown outfit with a derby. While it was mere conjecture a number who saw the deposed king leave thought his secret trip was to Windsor, where he could visit with King George, uncle of his wife.

Two Labor Members of the House of Commons to-day gave notice of their intention to ask the Home Secretary, Rt. Hon. J. R. Clynes wheher Alfonso had asked or would be given the right of sanctuary.

Will Lunch In Rome Have Tea In London

LONDON, April 22.—(A.P.)—Captain Frank Hawks, who holds most of the United States' air speed records, set out to-day before breakfast to have lunch in Rome and return here in time for dinner to-night.

"See you at tea-time," he called cheerily to a small group which gathered at Heston airdrome to see him begin at 6:30 a.m., (12:30 a.m. E.S.T.), a projected flight of 1,700 miles with only two stops, Rome, and on the home trip, Paris for more fuel.

Trip is being made in the same fast monoplane in which he flew the 200 miles from Brussels to London Saturday in just one hour.

Tom Dutton Addresses Members of the Lindsay Rotary Club.

OBSTRUCT THE POLICE

LINDSAY, April 22 (Examiner Correspondence)—F. R. A. Beal and K. Sylvester, he motored to the scene of the fire. Mr. Wilford has about sixty thousand trees planted on his farm, and a stiff fight was put up in order to prevent the fire from spreading to his property. South Africa Ships Oranges Pre-Cooled Increasing Fruit Export Trade Has Resulted in Latest Loading Facilities.

CAPE TOWN, South Africa, April 22 (By The Canadian Press) — The extent to which the fruit export trade from South Africa is increasing is evidenced by the fact that 9,000,-cases of oranges were shipped from Cape Town during the year 1930 as against 400,000 in 1928, according to The Cape Argus. This satisfactory state of affairs has been brought about largely through the pre-cooling facilities provided by the South African Railways and Harbors at Durban as well as Cape Town.

The pre-cooling store at Cape Town is situated on the East Pier—No. 8 berth—whence the mailboats depart. When No. 8 berth is occupied it naturally follows that only one ship can be loaded from the store, and the Administration has, therefore, decided to construct an overhead gallery round the bend of the East Pier, which will permit of ships at No. 7 berth being loaded with fruit from the store simultaneously with those at No. 8 berth.

The gallery will consist of a covered insulated overhead curved passage with double tracks, and will run from the second story of the pre-cooling store to the upper story of the cargo shed. The pre-cooled fruit will be packed on barrows in the store and a specially designed electrical trolley, with trailers, will convey these barrows along the gallery to the loading platforms. The steel-work reinforced concrete in the foundations are at present being designed, and every endeavor will be made to have the entire work completed at the earliest possible date. The increased loading facilities will ensure swifter dispatch of traffic, and will considerably lessen the movement of ships in the basin.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Apr. 22.—Grains recovered late yesterday from world-wide bearish effects of a jolt given by rumors of a radical change in United States Farm Board export plans.

Helping to bring about rallies in prices was an explicit statement from James C. Stone, chairman of the Farm Board, that no decisions had been made in regard to wheat stabilization operations except those previously announced. He also denied outright that the Farm Board at this time contemplated any other action. Freezing temperatures Southwest causing anxiety as to possible crop damage counted also as a late stimulating factor.

Wheat closed irregular ⅝ cents low to ⅝ cents advance. Corn ¼c to ⅝c up, oats at ¼c decline to¼ gain, and provision unchanged to 12c down.

WINNIPEG WHEAT.

WINNIPEG, April 22. — Liquidation and nervousness caused by reports that the United States Farm Board would sell wheat surplus in European markets caused the wheat prices to break on the local exchange about 1½c in early trading yesterday. Denials of these reports, however, and news of heavy frosts in Kansas caused values to snap back, and the close was unhcanged to ¼c lower tan Monday's finals. May closed 62¾c, July 64¼c, and October 65¾c to 65⅞c.

Only small export business was worked in Canadian wheat overnight and yesterday morning Broomhall cabled that he expected European demand for wheat to continue active, with the United Kingdom, France, and Germany among the buyers. He also advised that Belgium had purchased further quantities of United States hard winters.

Wheat delivered by farmers to the country elevators on Monday totalled 270,000 bushels, compared with 93,000 on the same date a year ago.

Actual sales of coarse grains were confined almost entirely to a small export business in barley. Speculative selling of flax was blamed for a decline of more than 2 cents in that commodity.

St. Lawrence Channel To Take Biggest Ships

MONTREAL, Que., April 21.—(C.P.).—In a few years, stated Hon. Alfred Duranleau, Minister of Marine, he believes the St. Lawrence River ship channel would be able to accommodate the largest liners now entering the port of New York. The Minister spoke at the launching of the largest dipper dredge now on the waters of this country, the ceremony taking place at the plant of Canadian Vickers, Ltd., on Saturday. The dredge, named "Midland," was christened by Miss Hope Grant, of Midland, Ont.

In Father's Footsteps

YOUR boy has never a care because of the child's faith he has in his Dad.

In case you do not live to see him enter the business or professional world, make sure that he will have a long, happy memory of how his Dad's forethought made his success possible.

It seems absolutely unbelievable that, for a deposit of approximately $25.00 a year, a father (age 30) can guarantee such far-reaching benefits as education for his young son or daughter. It can be done the London Life way:

A "Son's Inheritance" policy," in case the father's life were cut short, would furnish funds for support and training covering the periods of primary education, high school and university, as follows:

$150 a year until your boy is age 11
$250 a year from ages 12 to 16
$500 a year from ages 17 to 21

(These amounts may be increased in proportion.)

CUTTING OFF TRAINS.

Curtailment of passenger train service by Canada's two railway systems has been announced, and it is to be expected that the lopping off of unprofitable trains in various districts in the drawing up of the summer schedule will result in vehement protests from the sections affected.

At the same time it should be obvious, however, that railways cannot logically be asked to maintain services upon which they are losing money—in some cases a large amount of money—merely for the convenience of a few people or to maintain the prestige of a community that feels itself affronted when a train which it refused to patronize is cut off the schedule.

The Brockville Recorder and Times is quite correct when it says that the people themselves are very largely to blame for the conditions that have made curtailment of service necessary.

Instead of giving the railways the patronage required to make ends meet, the tendency has been to seek the newer forms of travel; the privately-owned motor car and the motor bus have taken a great deal of business away from the railways, and it is not to be wondered at in the face of this development that the two great systems have been driven to cutting their services on lines where the loss has been particularly heavy.

The railways cannot be expected to carry on where every year a falling off in revenue is encountered, and so the losing services must of necessity be scrapped.

THE PROGRESSIVE PLAN.

It is one of the weaknesses of our political system that in the interest of party prestige worth-while proposals are often voted down.

In this category was the sub-amendment to the address in reply to the Speech from the Throne, introduced by Robert Gardiner, the Progressive leader, who knew, of course, that, brought in at that time and in that way, his plan had no hope of succeeding.

However, his suggestion that the present economic situation justified the appointment of a special committee of Parliament to inquire into "the causes and extent of the present depression," and to suggest "such appropriate action as might best correct the present situation and relieve present suffering and as might also render less probable the recurrence of such disasters in the future," will appeal to many Canadians as a sensible proposal well worthy of earnest consideration.

There is no doubt that the tendency of the two old parties to play politics is interfering with a successful solution of the problems with which Canada is confronted.

Concern for those who are suffering because of the existing situation has to take second place to concern for the political fortunes of the two parties, as the mere fact that the debate has been strung out to intolerable lengths unmistakably shows.

The Progressive plan of a non-partisan inquiry by a committee representative of all the political groups would be an improvement over the hammer-and-tongs political bickering that has been going on since the House opened.

NEW USES FOR WHEAT.

The suggestion brought forward in the Voice of the People column to-day, and also referred to in an editorial for Printers' Ink, which is also published on this page, to the effect that a national research laboratory be formed for the purpose of discovering new products that could be made wholly or partly from wheat, is of great importance.

Obviously, if new uses can be found for wheat one of the most serious problems Canada is facing would be solved.

The marketing of the surplus wheat produced by this country means prosperity not only for the wheat growers of the West but for the manufacturers and industrial workers of the East, indeed prosperity for all Canada.

There is nothing fantastic about the idea.

Intelligent research work has done wonders in arriving at new processes of manufacture, in discovering fresh uses for raw materials.

Here we have a country capable of producing an enormous wheat crop, but confronting a situation that prevents the profitable sale of that wheat for the purposes for which it is normally used.

It is quite reasonable then to arrive at the conclusion that it would be well worth while to give some thought to the chance of developing new avenues by which this wheat may be profitably used, and that intensive research in that direction might well produce surprising results.

The proposal has its possibilities, and the new field of opportunity its successful evolution would make available certainly would justify going ahead with the suggested research.

CANADA'S GREAT NORTHLAND.

A profusely illustrated and brightly written booklet which arrived in this morning's mail furnished just another proof of the vast extent of this country and the immensity of the natural resources that still await development.

The publication in question, issued by the Department of the Interior and written by G. S. Blanchet, B.Sc., D.L.S., F.R.G.S., deals with Keewatin and the Northeastern Mackenzie, giving a most interesting general survey of the life, activities and natural resources of this section of the Northwest Territories.

As the author points out, Northern Ontario is receiving increasing public attention.

The airplane has enabled many people to fly over vast tracts of the northern woodland and the open plains beyond, reaching to Hudson Bay and the Arctic.

In Mr. Blanchet's booklet the treeless northern plains, which have been also called both the "Barren Lands" and the "Arctic Prairies," are described as they have been found to be by close observation at many points and at all seasons.

Both the possibilities and the limitations of the country are considered in an endeavour to advise those interested in its resources as to what they may find, and to forewarn the traveller and investigator of what he must meet. The treeless portion of the northern plains comprises about 400,000 square miles, and the woodlands which separate it from settlement in the south and the mountains in the west are about 800,000 square miles in area.

There is a normal expansion of settlement and development from the prairie and park lands of the south into the bordering woodlands. The interest in the Far North is in its extraordinary resources. In the past these have been chiefly fur and the whale fisheries of its coastal waters.

To-day is has attracted the attention of mining interests which have undertaken a combined aerial and ground exploration for minerals.

The necessity for the observation of exposed rock sets a limitation on prospecting to-day in the North where only a comparatively small portion of the country rock is uncovered.

A development of geophysical methods for mineral detection would open up vast new areas for prospecting and more intensive methods may result in many new discoveries.

The present operations in Northern Canada have done much to arouse public interest and to cultivate a better understanding of the country as it is, dissociated from misconceptions of the Arctic.

CANADA COUNTS CHILDREN.

(Cleveland Plain Dealer)

Canada is sharpening her pencil to take a census. Like the United States, the Dominion counts its children every ten years, but does it one year after we do.

This census means much to Canada, for it is expected to put the Dominion over the 10,000,000 mark. If it should fail to do so, there will be much gnashing of teeth and demands for recounts, just as some States and cities on our side of the border were doing last year. An official estimate as of last June 30 placed the population at 9,934,500, but there was some fear that this figure might be a trifle optimistic. In 1929 the population was 8,788,483.

Two or three years ago some Canadians were annoyed because of their slowing rate of growth. Especially were they disturbed that immigration from Great Britain was averaging only a half to a third of what it had been before the war. Also the 100,000 new citizens a year the Dominion was getting from the United States in the boom days of the Canadian Northwest had dwindled to 25,000 or 30,000. There was likewise protest because so many young Canadians were going to the United States, where wages were higher and automobiles cheaper.

Then the depression came and the slower growth seemed much less of a disadvantage. Canada has apparently kept its percentage of unemployment considerably under the United States figure, although this belief cannot be proved until the new census is complete.

One wishes Canada joy in her census, with the friendly hope that it will prove everything she hopes it will.

A RESEARCH LABORATORY FOR WHEAT?

Every industry profits by research, but in easy times intensive research is sometimes passed over. Better than any market analysis or search for new markets is research that goes to the heart of an industry and looks at it with new eyes from an engineering standpoint. Later on, the engineering and chemical analyses can be turned into a type of advertising that will be socially advantageous.

A good example of intensive research was suggested a short time ago at a meeting of textile men. Cotton men were told that the time had come for the cotton manufacurer to consider his products, not merely as a collection of fibers, but as a chemical entity with all the capacity for change which that fact implies.

Dr. Arthur D. Little, the man who sent the message, told the cotton men that every new aldition to a chemist's knowledge of the chemistry of cellulose has led to the establishment of great new industries, such as rayon, cellophane, lacquers, smokeless powder, photographic film and so on. Yet the cotton textile industry continues to regard cotton merely as a fiber and deals with it along old-fashioned, unscientific lines. He stated that the chemical possibilities which could be developed through research had been totally neglected by the men who depend upon cotton.

The same statement might be expanded to apply to several other of our basic products. With all the talk about wheat, but very little has been said about research, either market or chemical. When a manufacturer applies a machine process to wheat and puts out puffed wheat, he increases its value to a price per bushel that would make the wheat grower's eyes snap with eagerness.

It is more than possible, it is probable that real research on wheat might develop a group of new products that would help mightily in the present surplus. Turn George W. Hill loose, for example, on a new cigarette rolled in wheat paper which the chemists might discover had four new talking points to interest the smoker, and lots of action would be the result.

Our basic industries must have applied to them the skill of the true research mind, later to be translated by sales and advertising minds into exciting and interesting news of value to consumers.

Research is essential.

There is waste to be eliminated. There are new products to be worked out. A start is needed.

Won't some millionaire endow a chemical research laboratory, turn it loose on wheat and other products and release the results?—Printers' Ink.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

As the Border Cities Star puts it, "This is the year Canada comes to her census."

Only ten magicians, it is reported, attended a convention of their kind. Premier Bennett is not listed as among those present.

It does not speak well for the Canadian broadcasting stations that many listeners-in found the reception of Mr. Bennett's speech Monday night much better over an American station.

The arrival back in Parliament of Hon. H. H. Stevens, who has been absent on account of a lengthy illness, will be generally welcome. Men of his calibre are needed at Ottawa.

Opponents of Sunday movies in Great Britain submitted a petition ten miles long, or about equal to the combined length of the line-ups outside the cinemas on Sunday.

TANAR OF PELLUCIDAR

BY

EDGAR RICE BURROUGHS

"Why?" demanded Tanar.

"I do not know," replied Mow. "I simply wish to live."

"Then I take it that you would like to escape from this cavern, if you could," suggested Tanar.

"Of course I should like to escape," said Mow, "but if I try to escape and they catch me they will kill me."

"They are going to kill you anyway," Tanar reminded him.

"Yes, I never thought of that," said Mow. "That is quite true; they are going to kill me anyhow."

"Could you escape?" asked Tanar.

"I could if I had someone to help me," said Mow.

"This cavern is filled with men who will help you," said Tanar.

"The Coripies from the grotto of Xax will not help me," said Mow, "because if they escape there is no place where they may go in safety. If Xax recaptures them, they will be killed, and the same is true if the ruler of any other grotto captures them."

"But there are men from other grottoes here," insisted Tanar, "and there are Jude and I."

Mow shook his head. "I would not save any of the Coripies. I hate them. They are all enemies from other grottoes."

"But you do not hate me," said Tanar, "and I will help you, and so will Jude."

"I need but one," said Mow, "but he must be very strong, stronger than you, stronger than Jude."

"How strong?" asked Tanar.

"He must be able to lift my weight," replied the Coripi.

"Look then," said Tanar, and seizing Mow he held him high above his head.

When he had set him down upon the floor again, the Coripi gazed at Tanar for some time.

"You are, indeed, strong," he said.

"Then let us make our plans for escape," said Tanar.

"Just you and I," said the Coripi.

"We must take Jude with us," insisted Tanar.

Mow shrugged his shoulders. "It is all the same to me," he said. "He is not a Coripi, and if we become hungry and cannot find other food, we can eat him."

Tanar made no reply, as he felt that it would be unwise to voice his disgust at this proposal and he was sure that he and Jude together could prevent the Coripi from succumbing to his lust for flesh.

"You have noticed the far end of the cavern, where the shadows are so dense that one may scarcely see a figure moving there?" asked Mow.

"Yes," said Tanar.

"There the dim shadows hide the rough, rocky walls and the ceiling there is lost in total darkness, but the ceiling is an opening that leads through a narrow shaft into a dark tunnel."

"How do you know this?" asked Tanar.

"I discovered it once when I was hunting. I came upon a strange tunnel leading from that along which I was making my way to the upper world. I followed it to see where it led and I came at last to the opening in the ceiling of this cavern, from whence one may see all that takes place below without being himself seen. When I was brought here as a prisoner I recognized the spot immediately. That is how I know that one may escape if he has proper help."

"Explain," said Tanar.

"The wall beneath the opening is, as I have discovered, inclined backward from the floor to a considerable height and so rough that it can easily be scaled to a little ledge beneath the opening in the ceiling, but just so far beneath that one may not reach it unaided. If, however, I could lift you into the opening you could, in turn, reach down and help me up."

"But how may we hope to climb the wall without being seen by the guards?" demanded Tanar.

"That is the only chance of capture that we shall have to take," replied Mow. "It is very dark there and if we wait until another prisoner is brought and their attention is diverted we may be able to succeed in reaching the opening in the ceiling before we are discovered, and once there they cannot capture us."

Tanar discussed the plan with Jude, who was so elated at the prospect of escape that he almost revealed a suggestion of happiness.

And now commenced an interminable wait for the moment when a new prisoner might be brought into the cavern. The three conspirators made it a practice to spend most of their time in the shadows at the far end of the cavern so that the guards might become accustomed to seeing them there, and as no one other than themselves was aware of the opening in the ceiling at this point no suspicions were aroused, as the spot where they elected to be was at the opposite end of the cavern from the entrance, which was, in so far as the guards knew, the only opening into the cavern.

Tanar, Jude and Mow ate and slept several times until it began to appear that no more prisoners ever would be brought to the cavern; but if no prisoners came, news trickled in and one item filled them with such alarm that they determined to risk all upon the hazard of a bold dash for freedom.

Some Coripies coming to relieve a part of the guard reported that it had been with difficulty that Xax had been able to suppress an uprising among his infuriated tribesmen, many of whom had conceived the conviction that Xax was saving all of the prisoners for himself.

The result had been that a demand had been made upon Xax for an immediate feast of flesh. Perhaps already other Coripies were on their way to conduct the unfortunate prisoners to the great cavern of Xax, where they would be torn limb from limb by the fierce, hunger-mad throng.

And, true enough, there had been time for but one hunger before the party arrived to conduct them back to the main grotto of the tribe.

"Now is the time," whispered Tanar to Mow and Jude, seeing that the guard was engaged in conversation with the newcomers, and in accordance with their previously made plan, the three started without an instant's hesitation to scale the far wall of the cavern.

Upon a little ledge, twenty-five feet from the floor, Tanar halted, and an instant later Mow and Jude stood upon either side of him. Without a word the Coripi lifted Tanar to his shoulders and, in the darkness above, Tanar groped for a handhold.

He soon found the opening into the shaft leading into the tunnel above, and, too, he found splendid strongholds there so that an instant later he had drawn himself up into the opening and was sitting upon a small ledge that entirely encircled it.

Bracing himself, he reached down and seized the hand of Jude, who was standing upon Mow's shoulders, and drew the Himean to the ledge beside him.

At that instant a great shouting arose below them, and glancing down, Tanar saw that one of the guards had discovered them and that now a general rush of both guards and prisoners was being made in their direction.

Even as Tanar reached down to aid Mow to the safety of the shaft's mouth, some of the Coripies were already scaling the wall below them. Mow hesitated and turned to look at the enemies clambering rapidly toward him.

The ledge upon which Mow stood was narrow and the footing precarious. The surprise and shock of their discovery may have unnerved him, or, in turning to look downward he may have lost his balance, but whatever it was, Tanar saw him reel, topple and then lunge downward upon the ascending Coripies, scraping three of them from the wall in his descent as he crashed to the stone floor below, where he lay motionless.

Tanar turned to Jude. "We cannot help him," he said. "Come, we had better get out of this as quickly as possible."

Feeling for each new handhold and foothold the two climbed slowly up the short shaft and presently found themselves in the tunnel, which Mow had described. Darkness was absolute.

"Do you know the way to the surface?" asked Jude.

"No," said Tanar. "I was depending upon Mow to lead us."

"Then we might as well be back in the cavern," said Jude.

"Not I," said Tanar, "for at least I am satisfied now that the Coripies will not eat me alive, if they eat me at all."

Groping his way through the darkness and followed closely by Jude, Tanar crept slowly through the Stygian darkness. The tunnel seemed interminable. They became very hungry and there was no food, though they would have relished even the filthy fragments of decayed fish that the Coripies had hurled them while they were prisoners.

"Almost," said Tanar, "could I eat a toad."

They became exhausted and slept, and then again they crawled and stumbled onward. There seemed no end to the interminable, inky corridor. For long distances the floor of the tunnel was quite level, but then again it would pitch downward, sometimes so steeply that they had difficulty in clinging to the sloping floor. It turned and twisted as though its original excavators had been seldom of the same mind as to the direction in which they wished to proceed.

On and on the two went; again they slept, but whether that meant that they had covered a great distance, or that they were becoming weak from hunger, neither knew. When they awoke they went on again for a long time in silence, but the sleep did not seem to have refreshed them much, and Jude especially was soon exhausted again.

"I cannot go much further," he said. "Why did you lure me into this crazy escapade?"

"You need not have come," Tanar reminded him, "and if you had not you would by now be out of your misery since doubtless all the prisoners have long since been torn to pieces and devoured by the Coripies of the grotto of Xax."

Jude shuddered. "I should not mind being dead," he said, "but I should hate to be torn to pieces by those horrible creatures."

New Autogiro

IT GOES STRAIGHT UP

ABOVE is a picture of an autogiro. The four arms extending out over the pilots head are the "rotor" blades and the shaft in the front of te rotor supports is used to start the blades in motion. An especially wide landing gear is supplied to take up any unusual shock. The autogiro can rise almost straight up from the ground.

WHERE WE ARE AT

To The Editor of The Examiner,

Sir,—Many years ago Labour formed itself into a league of unions and by means of a general strike could hold up industry or by collective bargaining could defy it. Industry then proceeded to develop machines with the result that Labour found itself out of work altogether. Behind industry is capital.

Political parties or politics as we call it is a fight for power regardless of principle or patriotism. Whichever party wins gets the plums and the country pays. Labour has no leaders with brains. Capital has all the brains (and the money). Political parties count capital. Industry of all kinds has a hard time of it just now. Machines, capital, politics, brains on one side; on the other, Labour without work and without prospects.

NEW USES FOR WHEAT

Editor of the Examiner:

Won't some millionaire endow a research laboratory for wheat?

The above suggestion was made in an editorial in that well-known and progressive magazine, Printers' Ink of New York.

With the wheat situation more serious in Canada than in the United States we consider this suggestion worth bringing to the notice of Canadian business men. To quote from the editorial:

"With all the talk about wheat, but very litte has been said about research, either market or chemical. It is more than possible, it is probable, that real research on wheat might develop a group of new products that would help mightily in the present surplus."

This suggestion causes us to wonder why more market and chemical research has not been done on behalf of Canadian wheat. The research that has been done has been largely in the direction of improving the varieties. "Marquis" and "Garnet" varieties are two outstanding results of this type of research. There is every reason to expect that important discoveries would result if research were turned in the direction of discovering new uses for wheat and new products made wholly or partly of wheat.

Possibly a healthful, new, non-intoxicating beverage made from wheat might be discovered that would rival ginger ale in popularity? Or a new medicinal discovery?

Possibly a distillation of wheat might be combined with tomato juice, or with cod liver oil, or with juice of the grape, or with barley malt, or with some other fruit, grain or animal product?

Possibly wheat might be crossed with some other grain to form a new product that would have great market possibilities?

Possibly wheat might provide a new fuel element that might be mixed with is not merely a grain or a food product. It is composed of a number of chemical elements that might be combined with other chemicals to provide a wide variety of new uses for wheat entirely distinct from its use as a food product.

Ideas that seem fantastic often prove feasible. Think of the once despised coal tar which is now used to produce the beautiful aniline dyes and various medicinal preparations. And who would have thought that wood fibres would produce the beautidul rayon fabrics? Just think of what Dr. Banting has accomplished in medical research and you have an idea of what might also be accomplished in wheat research. Put money and brains into research for wheat and there's no telling what wonders creative imagination and chemical skill might discover.

The automotive industry, the steel industry, the chemical and dye industry, the electrical manufacturing industryand other industries on this continent spend millions in research to discover new products, ways to improve old products and new uses for them. Why shouldn't millions be devoted to wheat research?

We suggest that a non-political group of business men get together and take this matter up with the Dominion Government, or themselves organize a National Wheat Research Laboratory to be endowed by patriotic subscription. The Government, the Wheat Pool, the transportation companies would be justified in investing millions in this work.

What do you think of our suggestion?

Yours sincerely,
W. H. Bowman.

A Thought

SELF-KNOWLEDGE

When man rises from cradle ruts to fully know himself and who he is, he will have no more fear of death than a child has of its loving mother who lovingly takes it from darkness to light.

What To-day Means To You

"TAURUS"

If April 22nd is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10:15 a.m. to 11:30 a.m., from 2 p.m. to 4 p.m. and from 8:30 p.m. to 10:10 p.m. The danger hours are from 8 a.m. to 10 a.m. and from 5:15 p.m. to 6:45 p.m.

The planetary aspects of April 22nd denote energy, initiative, and power of overcoming adverse and contrary conditions. There will be, in all probability, some sinster influences at work, but these will all be successfully conquered by the strength within you foretold by the stars.

A child born on this April 22nd promises to be strong, hearty and robust, and capable of working at high pressure. It will mature early, and be bright and witty, and entertaining: a general favorite. The signs denote that its life will be eventful, and that it will emege with success.

Born on April 22nd, you have a high regard for yourself, and your own judgment. This self-appreciativeness and self-confidence are not entirely unjustified, but it does make you rather disposed to undervalue the efforts of others. In times of stress, this is a danger, and you will be often sadly "let down," not by your own inability to conquer, but by underrating the efforts of your opponents. Your cocksureness militates against you, at all times, doing your utmost.

Your disposition is generally a good one, and, when crises arise, you show calmness and courage. You are, however, liable to fly off at a tangent when some trifle—not worthy of serious consideration— upsets the even tenor of your way. If allowed the freedom of choice, you should follow your vocation "far from the madding crowd." Quiet and solitude bring out the best that is in you.

Your nature is not a particularly unselfish one, and you are thoroughly capable—without outside assistance—of looking after your own interests. When you marry, the signs denote that your decision will be more influenced by your head than by your heart. A fair degree of success is assured, but you will never reap the happiness incidental to self-sacrifice and self-denial.

Lone Girl Pilot To Fly Atlantic, Starts in 2 Weeks

NEW YORK, N.Y., April 22 — (C.P.).—Ruth Nichols, within two weeks, will attempt the first woman's solo flight across the Atlantic, Col. Clarence D. Chamberlain, her aeronautical adviser, said to-day.

In the Red Lockheed-Vega monoplane which she flew at a speed of 210 miles an hour at Detroit a week ago, she will take off from Harbor Grace, Nfld., to follow the Lindbergh trail to Paris.

The airplane is being overhauled at the New Jersey aireraft factory of Colonel Chamberlain, who, it is said, vainly tried to dissuade her from the attempt.

Miss Nichols, tall, slender and in her middle twenties, started flying less than five years ago. Before that she was known only as a society girl.

Byrd's Terrier Dies After Life In Arctic

BOSTON, Mass., April 22 (C.P.). —Igloo is dead.

He was only a little white fox terrier, with a brown right ear and a quizzical face. But his passing yesterday plunged the home of one of the world's greatest explorers in grief and called Rear-Admiral Richard E. Byrd, himself, home from a lecture tour in the Middle West and South.

The soft ways of civilization did not agree too well with Igloo, who had lived so much of his six-year span of turbulent life in cold and hardship and danger, the inseparable companion of his explorer-master.

Igloo was presented to Byrd six years ago by an admirer in Washington. He grew from puppyhood in the bleak wastes of Spitzbergen, while his restless master was making history in his aerial conquest of the North Pole. He also accompanied the Byrd party to the Antarctic. In those days there grew a mutual devotion between dog and master that became stronger with the years.

FRACTIONAL LOSSES FEATURE TORONTO STOCK CURB TRADING

C. P. R. Affected By Smelters' Annual Report Eases to New Low Under 37.

OIL SECTION EASIER.

TORONTO, Apr. 22 (CP). — This morning's market on the Toronto stock exchange differed not at all from that of previous days this week, in fact for several weeks past. Stocks opened about where they had left off last night and before the end of the first hour had joined a movement of slow decline. Liquidation was neither hurried nor heavy in volume, but nevertheless stocks were easier to buy than sell and with offerings in majority fractional recessions were the outcome.

An outstanding feature was consolidated Smelters, which broke 16 points to a low of 120, the minimum price at which the stock has sold over a long period. Publication of the annual statement to-day showed a drastic cut in earnings due to lower base-metal prices. C.P.R. was also affected by the Smelters report and eased to a new low under 37. Brazilian was under 20 at new low ground, and several other issues equalled former lows.

Nickel, Noranda, Massey-Harris, Bell Telephone, Ford, Walkers, Building Products, were off fractionally. Oils were easier to-day and turned over in heavier volume.

Some signs of resistance appeared around mid-day but the list was still weak and at noon most stocks only halted in their decline.

STANDARD LIST MOVES LOWER

International Nickel and Noranda Are Leaders in Downward Trend.

GOLDS UNIFORMLY LOWER.

TORONTO, Ont., April 22 (C.P.).—Prices moved lower on the Standard stock and mining exchange, during a dull early session today. Volume was below that of the previous session, and transactions were made in a listless manner.

International Nickel and Noranda were leaders in the decline, losing 40, and 75 respectively. Hudson Bay was slightly lower at $5.10. Sheritt Gordon, Columario, and Eldorado had losses of a cent or so. Federal Kirkland and Chibougamou were fractionally higher.

Golds were uniformly lower. Big Missouri had an outstanding decline of 7, dropping to 37. Premier was off 3, Howey 1, Lake Shore 10, Wright-Hargreaves 3. Siscoe 1½, Teck-Hughes 10, Dome, 10, and Barry Hollinger ¼. Mining Corporation went against the trend to show a 5-cent gain at $2.20. Macassa and Kirkland Lake sold unchanged.

Oils were dull. B. A. Oil and Imperial were practically unchanged, while Sarnia and Acme had small recessions. Nordon was up 1, at 33.

NORGE OCCUPY DODGE PLANT

Distribution Totals 3,000 Units in First Three Weeks' Operation.

STATES D. H. POLLITT.

"To meet the demands of our rapidly expanding business we will remove our factory and offices to the Dodge Plant on Dufferin Street on or before May first," stated Mr. D. H. Pollitt, President and General Manager of Norge Corporation of Canada, Limited, in an interview to-day. "In the first three weeks of field operation we have achieved a distribution of three thousand Norge Refrigerators. This in itself bears ample testimony to our pressing need for larger quarters."

It is estimated that the new Norge plant is the largest in the British Empire devoted exclusively to the manufacture of Electric Refrigerators. "The plant, which was formerly occupied by Dodge Brothers Ltd., was chosen because it offered the advantages of modern mass production. Norge Corporation will introduce the straight fine me hod of manufacture, for which the factory is so admirably adapted, effecting thereby those material economies which it is our policy to pass on to the consumer," continued Mr. Pollitt. "We feel that the project undertaken at the present time represents an important step toward the alleviation of the unemployment problem in Canada." It is further estimated that Canadian Industry will be enriched to the extent of a million dollars in 1931 by Norge Corporation.

Extensive structural repairs and alterations are going forward at the new plant to equip it for accuracy on the specified date. Machinery is being installed concurrently in order that operations may commence at the earliest possible date. Present plans call for production prior to May first, it is learned, and it is significant that Norge Corporation will manufacture the complete unit within the confines of its own plant. In this connection Mr. Pollitt stated, "that Norge Corporation would employ Canadian labor, and as far as possible use only Canadian Raw Materials in the production of tis Refrigerators."

Nearly 40,000,000 will be spent in two weeks this year by buyers of the spring cocoon crop in Kiangsu, Chekiang and Anhwei Provinces of China.

HEAVY RAINS SEND WHEAT ON DECLINE

Crop Reports From Winter Wheat Regions Also Favorable at Chicago.

CHICAGO, Ill., April 22 (C. P.).—Rains affording drought relief in spring wheat territory had a bearish effect on cereals today. Crop reports from winter wheat regions southwest were aalso favorable. Opening at 3-8 cents off to ¼ to 3-8 up wheat afterward underwent declines all around. Corn started unchanged to ½ down and subsequently showed a general setback.

In addition to the bearish influence of moisture various places northwest and in Ohio, Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas said that although frost was reported no damage had been done to wheat. Supplementing these advices were official weekly crop summaries showing domestic winter wheat conditions generally good to excellent.

Unsteadiness of securities tended to pull wheat down.

Higher closing quotations at Liverpool than were expected served to promote rallies here. Corn and oats were governed chiefly by wheat.

Provisions reflected downturns in hog values.

Company Reports $3.74 a Share Earned on the Common.

TORONTO, April 22.—Earnings of $3.74 per share of common stock are reported by Canadian Dredge and Dock for the fiscal year ending Jan. 31. That compares with dividend requirements of $3 per share, and with earnings of $4.13 per share for the previous fiscal period. DIESEL MOTOR PROVES SUCCESS unker Production is Tested Out in Nine Passenger Monoplane.

INCREASE FLYING RANGE.

BERLIN, April 22 (A.P.).—The Junker company's new Diesel airplane motor whose builders claim for it a wide margin of advantage over the gasoline engine, drove a nine-passenger monoplane in a successful trial flight from the Tempelhof Airport today.

It had been built into a ship ordinarily powered by three gasoline motors. Officials of the Transport Ministry and the Lufthansa Airline were aboard for the test. The engine is to go into the Lufthansa freight service, and after extensive tests will be mounted in passenger planes.

It has no spark plugs or other electrical ignition. Compressed air fed from a special tank starts the motor and in flight a small auxiliary Diesel recharges the tank. Combustion in the cylinders takes place when a jet of fuel oil is sprayed into a temperature raised by high compression to 752 degrees fahrenheit.

The motor weighs 1,760 pounds and its builders say it will increase the flying range by forty per cent. and will double the payload.

HUDSON BAY PROFITS 40 CENTS PER TON

Treated 250,000 Tons in Quarter With Gross Return of $4,000.

TORONTO, April 22.—Reviewing operations at the Flin Flon Mines, R. H. Channing, Jr., president of Hudson Bay Mining and Smelting Company, who presided at the annual shareholder's meeting yesterday, stated that to make a survey and give details of last year's operations might convey a wrong impression due to the fact that construction and operaitons were carried on simultaneously. Dealing with operations for the first quarter of this year he stated that for January and February and estimating figures for March, the smelter treated 250,000 tons of ore, which after deducting freight, refining and salary charges returned approximately $4.90 per ton in gold, silver, copper and zinc. From this is deducted operaing costs of $3.60 per ton, leaving a return to the company of $1.30 per ton, for the three months.

During the quarter approximately 90 cents per ton was charged against construction and winter hauling, leaving net profits of 40 cents per ton.

Hollinger Improves Grade Of Ore Milled

TORONTO, April 22.—In the three months ended March 31, Hollinger Consolidated Gold Mines, Ltd., treated 405,451 tons of ore, returning gold and silver to the value of $2,613,342.23, which compares with 416,198 tons treated with gross production of $2,539,995.59 for the quarter immediately preceding.

The official statement shows that during the quarter under review the average recovery of gold and silver from the ore treated was at the rate of $6.44 per ton, which is a recovery rate well above that obtained throughout the year 1930. In the first nine months of 1930, Hollinger recovery was at the rate of $6.38 per ton, whereas the average recovery for the entire year is reported at $6.31.

70,000 SKINS ALREADY SOLD TO THE DEALERS

Muskrat Catch This Season Will Excel That of Last Year.

QUALITY OF PELTS LOWER.

With the close of the Muskrat trapping season in this section of the Province last night, the five leading fur dealers of this city have handled some 70,000 skins, to date and will continue to buy during the next ten days which is the period of grace allowed trappers to dispose of their catches.

In quantity the catch exceeds that of last year by 20,000 to 30,000 skins although the general quality of the pelts is stated to be of a lower standard, caused primarily by the abnormal dry season and the serious lack of water in the rivers and creeks.

The price of the skins has been well maintained, the average per skin, for the higher grades, being in the neighbourhood of $1.50, although skins from the world-famed Rice Lake region have in some instances brought a little higher price.

William Lech and Sons have already handled approximately 15,000 muskrat pelts, which after having been prepared by the dressers will be made up in their local workrooms.

$10,000 In Three Days

In three days during the rush, stated K. Lech, to The Examiner, his firm paid out the sum of $10,000 in cash to local trappers. The same thing is of course applicable in greater or lesser degress to all the other fur dealers here, which is quoted to show that Muskrat trapping is something of a live industry in this section of Ontario.

Thomas Barrie Limited purchased something in the neighborhood of 10,000 skins; Curvin and Peeling 20,000; T. Brightman and Company, 10,000 and Harry Jopling, 15,000.

Mr. Curvin in conversation with The Examiner, thought the reason the quantity of skins procured this year was so heavy, was because there were a greater number of trappers out.

His opinion and that of the majority of the fur dealers, is that while there are a considerable quantity of very high grade skins, there are also a large percentage of 'paper skinned' rats this season. He accounted for this condition as being due to the abnormally dry season, and explained that when the muskrats built their nests last fall the water was almost normal, and had since gone down leaving the rats frozen-in and stranded. This condition deprived them of the normal source of food supply, which consists of green herbage, etc., obtained under water, and naturally resulted in under-nourishment, which accounts for the large number of thin skinned rats.

Rats Reported Starving

Several trappers brought in reports of having found dead rats, imprisoned within their nests, starved and frozen, while others state that foraging around for a means of subsistence some of the rats became so tame that they would be seen around farm barns accepting scraps of food that were thrown to them, or taking it without leave.

Paradoxical as it may sound, Mr. Curvin thought that conditions which prevailed this season, would react beneficially next season, in a large increase of muskrats. This he explained as due to the fact that owing to the lack of water many of the trappers were unable to get into the regular muskrat haunts, and the muskrats will therefore have a chance of breeding.

Although the season for trapping muskrats is closed here, it is now in full swing north of the French River, where the season is a month behind ours.

New Hampshire Bush Being Swept By Fire

MANCHESTER, N.H., April 22. — (C.P.). — A forest fire which, in 24 hours, had swept hundreds of acres of brush and timberland, was raging to-day between Manchester and Dunbarton.

A farm-house on the West River Road, Manchester, escaped destruction only after Manchester firemen had back-fired the flames into a nearby pond.

Crews of the public service company were fighting the fire near the company's right-of-way on the Goffstown line where several high tension electric power transmission lines carrying 66,000 volts were menaced. Last night the fire swept across the company's right-of-way a few thousand feet east of the lines now threatened but the 33,000 volt lines there were unharmed.

Head of U. S. Bankers Reviews Failure in That Country.

HIT MUNICIPAL FINANCING.

TORONTO, April 22.—Unspoken recommendation of the Canadian banking system was inferred in the address of H. T. Ferriss, president of the Investment Bankers Association of America, before a meeting of the Canadian branch yesterday, when he reviewed the trials and problems that had beset the banking system of the United States during the past two years.

Mr. Ferriss referred to a practice in that country which had allowed hundreds of small banks to tie up large amounts of customer-deposits in varied forms of securities. He believed that this had been chiefly responsible for the very large number of bank failures in the U. S. during 1930. These failures in turn had hit a vital spot in municipal financing; in fact, had led to an unprecedented number of defaults by municipalities and had impaired their credit for years to come.

"You, of course, have no such problem as this to contend with in Canada," continued Mr. Ferriss. "The Canadian banking system eliminates these difficulties in times of stress." Many of the states in the U. S. were now giving consideration to legislative enactments which would strengthen municipal securities in the future and eliminate the risk of depositing municipal funds in private banks, he added.

Winnipeg Review

Special Service to The Examiner through the courtesy of E. J. Bawlf Company, Grain and Stock Brokers, of Toronto

The wheat market was very erratic yesterday and susceptible to bearish and bullish news. The report published in the Winniepg Morning Free Press, which came from New York stating that the U. S. Farm Board had decided to sell their large surplus of wheat on European market at the best price they could secure and while this was denied unofficially before the market opened, was construed as decidedly bearish and led to heavy liquidation of long wheat during the first period and prices on the extreme break were 1½ to 1¾ uncer the close Monday night. Chicago was also selling here which helped the decline which went well through the daily bids, the sellers of which were forced to protect themselves on the way down. Around mid-session reports were received of frost dmaage Monday night in Kansas and other areas of the winter wheat belt. The Chicago market early broke about 1¼ cents but recovered later. The demand for cash wheat was slow yesterday and spreads on the active grades were 1-8 to ¼ lower. The first crop report of the Searle Grain Company with 811 stations reporting, showed wheat seeding nine per cent. completed in Alberta and Saskatchewan and 24 per cent. in Manitoba. Top six inches of soil shows about 45 per cent. dry to very dry and 55 per cent. suzcient moisture for time being. Light snow flurries were received in the West yesterday and more was forecasted for today with cool temperatures.

Censuring Of Walker Is Approved By Club

NEW YORK, N. Y., Apr. 22.—The National Republican Club has expunged references to the private life of Mayor Walker from a report of a committee of the club.

Action was taken last night after three hours' vigorous debate before 200 members on a report which had been drafted by the club's city affairs committee.

Other than references to private life, the club approved the report censuring the mayor.

The city affairs committee, a group which has no connection with the committee of the Republican Club, has called upon Governor Roosevelt to act in the case of the mayor as he did in the case of District Attorney Thomas C. T. Crain. It suggested an open trial to be presided over by the Governor or a commissioner appointed by him to take evidence and report findings.

The railway line between Hythe and Sandgate, England, has been closed and will be replaced by a motor bus service.

"FORMIDABLE COMPETITOR" LABEL PLACED ON RADIO BY PUBLISHERS

Privilege of Over-exploiting Costs Newspapers 25,000,000 Lineage Loss.

SESSION IN NEW YORK.

NEW YORK, N.Y., April 22. (CP) Radio was labelled a "formidable competitor" of newspapers by a committee of the American Newspaper Publishers' Association to-day. The report was submitted by the radio committee for action by the association.

Citing statistics to show that the ratio of radio advertising to newspaper advertising had increased from nothing in 1926 to 59.2 percent in the first quarter of 1931 and that 107 leading radio advertisers cut their newspaper lineage from 200,000,000 lines in 1929 to 175,000,000 lines in 1930, the report, prepared by the committee, said:

"The conclusion is inescapable that a large part of the 25 000,000 linage loss of newspapers is the price paid by them for the privilege of over-exploiting radio."

"Radio competes with newspapers to-day in news, editorials, features and advertising and when you have named those four you have about encompassed the whole newspaper" said the report.

"Where was the great mistake of newspapermen and the early broadcasters who figured that radio would never be a direct advertising medium? They were not wrong in their analysis of human nature. The United States mind does resent having anything forced on it—the mistake must have been in not recognizing the power of the press to popularize radio even to the extent that it would carry direct advertising.

Two Views

"In considering future radio competition we must look at it in two ways: First, radio continuing to develop unregulated, unrestrained, nurtured by the press, assisted with free publicity, receiving free news for which we pay vast sums of money and otherwise aided in its growth in every conceivable manner by newspapers.

"Second, Radio properly regulated, subject to the same laws of lottery and other Federal restrictions as newspapers, subject to the same restrictions in plainly labelling advertising as such, radio bearing its own burden of the news-gathering expense, and radio recognized by the newspapers for what it is, namely, a formidable competitor in news, entertainment, editorials, features and advertising.

"If radio of the future is to develop under the first plan, then it will probably compete with newspapers in about the way that busses and trucks are now competing with railroads. The railroads ridiculed this new competition in its early stages and to-day it presents their greatest problem.

DESIRES GOV'T TO SUPERVISE FUTURES MART

McPhail Makes Plea Before Royal Commission on Wheat Pool's Behalf.

U.S. EXPERIENCE BE GUIDE.

Says Farmers Believe Effect of Trading is Detrimental to Price They Get.

By GILLIS PURCELL
C. P. Staff Writer

WINNIPEG, Man., Apr. 22.—Canada's wheat pool today entered a plea for the Government supervision of the Winnipeg grain futures market. First member of the pool's central selling agency to testify before the Royal Commission on grain futures, A. J. McPhail, president of the Saskatchewan Wheat Pool, asked that the futures market be placed under supervision of a department of the Dominion Government, subject to its rules and regulations.

Chairman of the central selling agency of the organization which handles half of the Canadian wheat crop, Mr. McPhail said it was his firm belief that the great majority of western farmers are very strongly of the opinion that the effect of futures trading on the price they receive is detrimental.

For some years, Mr. McPhail pointed out, livestock exchanges of Canada have been under the supervision of the Dominion Department of Agriculture. If legislation were passed in Canada, he added, experience of the United States with the workings of the exchange-controlling grain futures act should be avaluable guide to Canadian authorities as to the nature and extent of the legislation necesary.

NEW YORK, N.Y., April 22 (C.P.) — Arrangements to ship $6,000,000 in gold from Paris to New York on the liner Europa, leaving Cherbourg Saturday, were announced to-day by the Guaranty Trust Co. of New York.

The consignment will constitute the second large shipment of the metal in the current movement.

McNamara-Laporte Lead Bike Grind

MONTREAL, Que., April 22. (CP) Wearing the colors of the world champion hockey team, the Montreal Canadiens, the eam of Reggie McNamara and Joe Laporte to-day headed the pack of 22 riders in the six day bicycle race which started last Monday morning. At eleven o'clock these riders have covered 890 miles and seven laps and had earned 92 points.

Trailing the leaders by one lap were "Torchy" Peden of Victoria, B.C., and Henri LePage, Montreal, but these two had amassed a total of 143 points, leading all others in this respect. Gachon and Stubecki, Montreal-German team, had 139 points but were six laps behind the winners while Black and Fielding, all-Canadian team, were four laps behind with 124 points.

RUSSIA MENACE TO WHOLE WORLD

Soviet Figures Largely in Canadian House of Commons Debates.

CONSERVATIVE WIT.

OTTAWA, April 22.—Russia has figured largely this session in the debates in the House of Commons.

The most extreme denunciation was that of Armand La Vergne, deputy Speaker, who said; "Here is a nation that murdered its emperor, murdered three young royal princesses in a dark cellar, and put the Czarevitch, a young boy to death. This country has denied civilization, it has denied the teachings of Almighty God, it has denied the sacrament of marriage, and it has denied the right of the individual to hold property."

This attack was provoked by the following comment from Mr. Woodsworth a few days earlier. Having quoted the text of the order-in-council which announced banning of Russian imports because of "forced labor" exploitation of political prisoners, low standards of living, etc., the member for Winnipeg North Centre said: "I regard that as an absolutely gratuitous insult. The charges with regard to the mining of coal have never been proven. It is stated that political prisoners are exploited. What about political prisoners in Italy? It is stated that the standard of living in Soviet Russia is low, I will admit that, but it is higher than that under the czarist regime and higher than the standard of living in China or in India."

John Vallance, Liberal member for Battleford South, argued that so far from helping the farmer, the action against Russian coal would be harmful. "What we are looking for to-day is markets for our wheat. Russia suggests to this government that we take certain quantities of coal from her. This government says: 'No' Russia, simply because of the fact that our government refuse to have any dealings with her, will make a deal with some other government, to which she may not be able to sell coal, but to which she may be able to sell wheat, and every bushel of Russian wheat that finds a place in any of our export markets makes it just that much harder for Canada to sell a like number of bushels on the markets of the world."

Second only to LaVergne's attack was that of T. A. Thompson of Lanark. "There is one thing," he said, "that confronts Canada to-day and we must not minimize its importance, and that is the menace of Russia. Russia to-day is producing practically the same thing that Canada is producing. The product of their forests and farms, the products of their mines, are coming into competition with those of Canada on the markets of the world. And they are produced to-day by self-labor. They are produced by a form of slavery, and until Russia conditions have become normal no self-respecting country should trade or make trade relations with them. Russia to-day in her present condition, is a menace to the whole civilized world."

a cell, police scratched their heads and pondered what they should do with her. Finally, at 5 o'clock this morning a formal charge of being intoxicated was entered, and a 7 o'clock, completely herself, Lady Heath posted $16.50 cash bail and went away. She would have to appear for arraignment in Windsor Police Court this morning or forfeit her cash bail, which was the usual sum required on ordinary drunkenness charges.

This morning as she was arranging her bail, Lady Heath's chief reaction to the situation, police said, was annoyance at Mr. Williams. She appeared to be very angry at him, it was stated.

The defendant, Lady Mary Heath, failed to appear when her name was called in Windsor Police Court this morning. Her bail bond of $16.50 was estreated. This closes the incident so far as local authorities are concerned.

SCENIC ROUTE BEING MOOTED

Suggest Road Embrace Ft. Erie, Niagara Falls, St. Catharines and Port Colborne.

INTERESTING TRIP.

WELLAND, Ont., April 21 (C.P.).—That at the next meeting of the Niagara Parks Commission the question of the completion of a circular road as a scenic trip, embracing Fort Erie, Niagara Falls, Niagara on the Lake, St. Catharines, Merritton, Thorold, Welland, and Port Colborne would come in for serious consideration was the statement of Major J. R. Bond of Chippawa, engineer for the Niagara Parks Commission, made in the course of an address before the Welland Lions Club last evening.

The Parks Commission at the present time had jurisdiction over the park way from Fort Erie to Niagara on the Lake, Major Bond stated, and should the circular road idea be carried out, with the Welland Ship Canal as an added attraction to Niagara Falls, the present centre of interest, then 100 miles would be completed with unequalled attractions and diversity to tourists, he said.

CALGARY HONORS PATRICK BURNS

Chosen by Cosmopolitan Club as One Who Has Rendered Greatest Service to City.

LINDSAY, April 22 (Special to The Examiner).—Patrick Burns, the "Cattle King" of the West, and who is a native of Kirkfield, Victoria County, has been signally honored in Calgary, his adopted city. The Cosmopolitan Club, of Calgary, has chose him as their first selection as the one who has rendered the greatest service to the city.

"Pat," as he is affectionately known, was to the live stock industry of the Canadian West what J. R. Booth was to the lumber industry of Eastern Canada. Mr. Burns was the playmate of the late Sir William MacKenzie at Kirkfield. Many years later each was to be king in his own realm, with Mr. Burns supplying meat to Sir William's construction camps that were pushing the steel westward.

In 1890 "Pat" established a modest little store and slaughter house in Calgary, and this was the germ of the $10,000,000 enterprise which, for many years, bore his name. In 1928 Mr. Burns sold out his packing business to the Dominion Securities Corporation in a deal involving $15,000,000.

Mr. Burns is an intimate friend of the Prince of Wales and selected the E. P. ranch at Pekisko, near High River, Alberta, which the Prince purchased in 1919.

'Lunge are running already in the Scugog river and lake. Unscrupulous parties are taking advantage of the absence of patrols and are catching the fish and selling them in the town.

The Provincial Police have been unable to locate the Finlander who broke jail at Minden, Haliburton County, and who is wanted in Toronto on the charge of stabbing a compatriot. He has been traced to the borders of Haliburton and Victoria Counties.

RECEIVER AIDED YOUTHFUL GANG WITNESS STATES

Charge He Told Boys of "Good Place to Knock Off."

ALL ARE REMANDED

COBOURG, April 22—Evidence to show that Roy Russell, car ferry workman under arrest for receiving stolen goods, had suggested to five boys, now in county jail awaiting sentence for robberies, that they break into the Mulhall home in Cobourg while the owners visited in Rochester, was adduced at the trial of accused yesterday before Police Magistrate Col. W. H. Floyd.

"He told me that Mulhall's house was empty and the people were in Rochester. He said it would be a good place to knock off," Austen Brewster, 19, one of the boys awaiting sentence, told Col. F. D. Boggs, crown attorney, yesterday.

The other witnesses were: Thomas Brewster, 18; Vincent Guy, 18, and Leslie Hedger, 17. Each of them along with Gerald McGrayne, 20, awaits sentence on Saturday before Judge L. V. O'Connor for a series of thefts extending from May of last year to March of 1931.

Russell was remanded by the police magistrate until Thursday morning and will probably then be remanded to some date next week. T. F. Hall, K.C., is appearing for the five boys and A. R. Willmott for the accused Russell.

Appoint Assessor

Harry McGuire, former mayor and councillor, was appointed assessor for the town of Cobourg at a salary of $650, and Hugh Cameron, former assessor, was appointed his clerk at a salary of $350. In making the appointment the council ruled that the assessment must be started by May 1 and completed by Sept 1.

Estimate Tax Rate

Cobourg's tax rate for 1931 is tentatively estimated at 57¾ mills by the finance committee, which made its report at the regular meeting of the town council last night. The tentative rate will probably be less when a special meeting on Monday night of next week further trims the estimates of committees, but the increase over the 51-mill rate for last year is necessitated by the 12.23 mills to be paid to the counties. This county rate is 5½ mills higher than the 1930 rate.

HASTINGS

HASTINGS, April 21 (Examiner Correspondence)—Fire Chief Wellman called a practice of the local volunteer brigade on Friday night with a full turn out of members. The fire engine which has been brought out for fires and other occasions was brought out by the emergency truck of the Willman garage on Friday night and was also taken up the hill after. This method of getting the engine out will mean a great deal to the village, as under former circumstances when an alarm was sounded it was necessary to get some one to get a team out which meant a delay. When interviewed by The Examiner the chief was very enthusiastic over the new method.

The engine under engineer George Lynch was able to force a good stream from the water front up Bridge street hill past Trinity United Church.

HEADQUARTERS OF COMMUNISM IN WINNIPEG SAYS MAYOR WEBB

Would Handle Menacing Hand of Russia Through League of Nations.

27 SOVIET AGENTS.

WINNIPEG, April 22—The menacing hand of Russia, grasping out for control of world markets, is a problem which should be handled by the League of Nations, thinks Mayor Ralph Webb, the man who perhaps more than anyone else in western Canada is fighting energetically to stem communism in Canada.

The six-foot stalwart chief magistrate of Winnipeg is serious about the threat of communism. To fight it has been his chief plank at election times. He is fully persuaded, he declared that unless the countries of the world get together and boycott Russia, Canada, Great Britain and United States will be ruined.

Blames Wheat Pool

Mayor Webb was thoroughly in accord with Premier Bennett's decision to have no truck with Russia, until Sir George Paish made the suggestion that perhaps it would be a good thing if Canada helped Russia make a success of her five-year plan on the grounds that communism could not grow in good times.

"Perhaps Sir George is right" he said. "It is certainly a fact that communism only raises its ugly head in the western provinces when times are bad. They are making the most of the present depression."

He blamed the wheat pool for Russia's capturing part of the world wheat markets. "The wheat pool blames Russia for the present prices of wheat simply because they now realize that in holding up the marketing of Canada's wheat they forced Europe and Russia too, to grow wheat."

Centre of Communism?

Mayor Webb contends that there are only 27 genuine communists in the western provinces. "The rest of them are sheep who blindly follow their leaders," he said. "And don't make the mistake of thinking all our foreigners out here are communists. They aren't. Many of our best Ukranian citizens are deeply grieved that they have been associated with the activities of a few of their countrymen."

It is his belief that the headquarters of the communists in Canada are situated in two buildings eight miles out of Winnipeg. "Some day soon I am going to have a detachment of Mounted Police go out there and raid the place," he said.

The writer later visited the houses he mentioned and found them labelled "Labor-Ukranian Old Folks' Home." He was refused admission on the grounds that visitors were not allowed. Mayor Webb insists that there are no old people in the home, and that a constant trek of communists is seen walking to and fro from the buildings.

Allow No Parades

Mayor Webb does not agree with Detroit's mayor in allowing communists to parade the city streets. He was recently successful in having a by-law passed which prohibits parades unless the Union Jack is carried. Flags of foreign countries are prohibited.

"I object most strenuously to the way communists try to foist upon Canadians a mode of living which has not yet proven a success in the country where it is being tried. When it has been a success there, and not before, is the time for other countries to experiment with it.

"They are making proposterous demands" Mayor Webb went on. They want non-contributory unemployment insurance. Where do they think the money is coming from if they don't share in raising it? There is nothing constructive about their program, and Britishers who prize their traditions will not be anxious to lose the liberty they have fought so hard to win."

Spit on Union Jack

Mayor Webb cautioned newspapers against using photographs of street disturbances "They are all sent to Moscow," he said, "and the sender who is a paid representative here, receives so much commission for each picture."

He told of a visit made to his office recently of five members of the Fish Commission who went to Russia to study conditions there. They told the mayor that they felt certain Russia would have another revolution before the end of the five-year plan.

Mayor Webb deplored the communistic teaching going on among the children of western Canada. "In Winnipeg there are kindergartens operated after the public schools, where children are taught to spit upon the Union Jack. Religious pictures are destroyed, and in their place are hung photographs of Lenin and Stalin."

MEMBERS ADDED TO ASSOCIATION

Right-of-way Association Will Probably Hold Meeting on Saturday, May 2.

PREPARE RESOLUTIONS.

The Peterborough Farmers' Right-of-Way Association has received a few more memberships since the organization meeting here ten days ago. Others who are interested in the aims of the association are requested to send in their names to County Clerk E. M. Elliott. The membership fee is one dollar.

It is expected that another meeting will be called for Saturday, May 2nd, which the township representatives will be requested to attend. Some details of the work of organization are to be completed, and another important item is the preparation of resolutions to be forwarded to the Hydro-Electric Commission.

Reeve McIntyre of Otonabee is also suggesting that letters be sent to the councils of the townships of Hamilton, Cramahe, Haldimand, Brighton and Murray in Northumberland county urging them to encourage the formation of a branch of the Right-of-Way association because of the fact that four power lines are likely to be routed through these townships. Further announcements of the proposed meeting here a week from Saturday will be published later.

TRUCK IS VICTOR RACING ENGINE

Vehicle Clears Track Only Few Inches Ahead of Locomotive Near Havelock.

DISREGARDS WHISTLE.

HAVELOCK, April 22. (Examiner Correspondence).—As a light engine driven by Richard Sanderson and Steven McQuigge of Havelock, approached the level crossing on Provincial Highway number seven known as Logan's crossing about 2½ miles west of the village, at 2.25 p.m. yesterday, a light truck was seen approaching rapidly and in spite of repeated blasts of the whistle kept right on going. It cleared the engine only by a few inches. Fireman McQuigge first noticed the car and told engineer Sanderson who pulled the whistle cord all the way to the crossing, but thinking the car had stopped did not apply the brakes. The occupants of the car must have been greatly surprised to hear the thundering locomotive pass a few inches behind their car, or if they were trying to see how much they could clear the track by, they sure had a close shave. At any rate the men in the cab of the locomotive had an exciting moment. If the trains applied the brakes every time a car was seen to be coming close to the crossing, the trains would be seldom running on time, as it is a bad habit with motorists of racing to the track, only stopping when a few feet away.

FIRES MENACE FARM PROPERTY

Several Men With Teams Required to Subdue Conflagrations in Fenella District.

HORSE DIES FROM HEAT.

FENELLA, April 22. (Examiner Correspondence).—Two grass fires occurred in this community a few days ago, requiring the services of several men with teams working for several hours to prevent the fires from doing serious damage.

In one instance a fire that was started to burn brush burned over ten acres of land and 100 rods of fence on the farm of Thomas Bates. A horse that was being used to fight this fire, dropped dead a short time afterward, its death thought to have been due to heat.

In the second instance a fire thought to have been started by someone dropping a lighted match, broke out on the farm of Robert Couch and it was necessary to plow a guard to bring the fire under control.

The unusually hot dry weather prevailing this month makes it a serious matter to start a fire as once the long dry grass becomes ignited the fire sweeps on at a terrific pace.

GOV'T SURVIVES

themselves temporarily from the chamber while the result of the vote was announced. This satisfied the rules of the House.

The Members

The members concerned were: Robert Gardiner (U.F.A., Acadia); Henri Bourassa (Ind., Labelle); A. M. Carmichael (Prog., Kindersley), William Irvine (U.F.A., Wetaskiwin); D. M. Kennedy(U.F.A., Peace River); E. J. Garland (U.F.A., Bow River); Miss Agnes Macphail (Prog., South-east Grey); M. N. Campbell (Prog., McKenzie); H. E. Spencer (U.F.A., Battle River); Michael Luchkovich (U.F.A., Vegreville) and G. G. Coote (U.F.A., McLeod).

Government majorities of 31, 34 and 43 were recorded in the three votes. The main motion, which extended thanks for the Speech from the Throne—but which amounted to acceptance by the House of the policies enunciated—was carried by 34. It was supported by all the Conservatives and by A. W. Neill (Ind., Comox-Alberni). All the Liberals and as many members of the Independent group as were in the House, voted against it.

Support for the King amendment came from the Liberals and all the Laborites, with the Government members opposed, together with Alfred Speakman (U.F.A., Red Deer) and W. T. Lucas (U.F.A., Camrose). It was defeated by 43 votes.

The Gardiner sub-amendment was negatived by 31 votes, with Liberals, Progressives, United Farmers, Laborites and Independents pitted against the Government and its supporters.

The King amendment attacked the Government's policies advanced at the Imperial Conference, and regretted "lack of action to deal with unemployment and rural distress." The Gardiner sub-amendment demanded the appointment of a Parliamentary committee to deal with economic conditions, Federal credit assistance for farmers, and immediate action to relieve unemployment.

Bennett's Speech.

Climaxing the debate, was the speech of Premier Bennett, in which he declared no Government of which he was the head would peg wheat prices in Canada. No permanent solution for distress conditions lay in that direction.

Denouncing members who referred to Western Canada as being insolvent and bankrupt, the Premier said they were doing their country a real injury. Tens of thousands of farmers in the West had bank deposits; the Prairie Provinces owned cars valued at $300,000,000, and in the past two years the two million people in that part of Canada produced two billion dollars of new wealth.

A definite, clear-cut understanding existed between Hon. Robert Weir, Minister of Agriculture, and representatives of the Western Governments regarding agricultural credits, Mr. Bennett declared. Standing committees of Parliament existed for discussion of questions relating to agriculture, trade and commerce and industrial relations, asserted the Prime Minister, referring to the Gardiner sub-amendment, which would have created a special committee to deal with economic problems.

Earlier in the debate, Rt. Hon. Mackenzie King stated he was prepared to support the Gardiner sub-amendment. This drew criticism from the Premier, Mr. King had demonstrated he had no fixed opinions, except the desirability of securing more votes to embarrass the Government.

The Liberal leader said he approved the idea of a parliamentary committee to study the causes and remedies of the distress conditions in Canada to-day. The Government estimates contained no provision to meet the serious distress in rural and urban parts of the country.

Premier Criticised

Before the main motion was carried, Premier Bennett received severe criticism from the independent group for his speech. Attempts had been made, said Alfred Speakman, to deal with conditions without partisanship but the Government had thrown the suggestions back in the faces of the members.

The wealth produced on the prairies had gone into high interest rates on mortgages and bank loans, asserted Mr. Gardiner. The legal bank rate of seven per cent. had been disregarded by the banks and interest as high as 10 per cent. was being charged.

"The banks" the U.F.A. leader asserted, "are the largest group of law breakers in the country."

PREMIER OF AUSTRALIA HAS TROUBLES OF OWN

Defeat of His Financial Proposals by Senate Will Mean Early Election.

ONCE A FARMER'S BOY.

(This is the first of a series of sketches of Australian political leaders, prepared by The Canadian Press, in view of the prospect of an early election in Australia.)

Once a farmer's boy, James Henry Scullin became prime minister of Australia on Oct. 22, 1929, after the Labor Party's victory in the general elections and the defeat of the Coalition Government of Prime Minister Stanley Bruce.

A small man, no more than five feet six inches tall, Mr. Scullin is well-built, with clear features and an attractive head. He is level-headed and sincere and inclined to be a little impetuous. He does not nurse grievances. He had an agreeable and dignified personality, with a direct method of speech.

Mr. Scullin has faced many difficult problems since he came into office. The premiership of Australia in these days is a thankless task. Between ill-health and the unflinching manner in which he flung himself into the heart of Australia's troubles, his hair turned white within the first six months of his appointment. On top of everything else, he wages unrelenting battle with the extremists of his own party.

Mr. Scullin was in ill-health when he left Australia last summer to attend the Imperial Conference. While he was in London the party caucus had been stampeded into a proposal to postpone paying holders of maturing loans, for a year. Mr. Scullin would have nothing of this. His able lieutenant, Hon. J. A. Lyons, carried through with great success a $140,000,000 conversion loan which was over-subscribed by the Australians themselves.

When Labor came into power Mr. Scullin had appointed Hon. E. G. Theodore, former premier of Queensland, as commonwealth treasurer and deputy prime minister. But Mr. Theodore was forced to hand in his resignation when the present Queensland Government commenced action against him for damages in connection with the purchase of coal mines by the old Theodore administration.

After the Imperial Conference, Mr. Scullin returned to find a powerful array of extremists grouped solidly and aggressively pushing their policies on the Labor Party as a whole. Trying to gain some semblance of unity, he took Mr. Theodore back into the cabinet—and thereby alienated Mr. Lyons and Hon. James Fenton, minister of trade, both of whom resigned. Now Mr. Lyons, condemning all the government's proposals and especially its proposal for an issue of $90,000,000 in fiduciary notes, is probably Prime Minister Scullin's most formidable opponent.

Early in 1930 Prime Minister Scullin succeeded in removing Hon. Frank Anstey and Hon. John A. Beasley, representing the extremists, from the cabinet. The extremists promptly established their own little party in the house, and held the balance of power. In fact the Government staved off defeat on many times only with the aid of the extremists. On April 14 last, the government's majority was only two.

Undoubtedly the chief thorn in the side of Prime Minister Scullin and his colleagues is the extremist Premier of New South Wales—Hon. John Thomas Lang. State and Commonwealth Labor parties are closely related in Australia—or were until extremism practically swept aside party lines—and Mr. Lang was to all intents and purposes the leader of the Federal as well as state extremists. Prime Minister Scullin and Premier Lang had many clashes from the beginning of the year, especially over by-elections in commonwealth divisions in New South Wales, when Mr. Lang persisted in putting up extremist candidates and the prime minister was forced to find his own candidates.

The prime minister also fought Mr. Lang stubbornly during the conference of premiers in February. The commonwealth Government's platform of endeavoring to balance the budget in three years at most, of taxing interest payments on government and private loans, and cutting wages, was finally approved by the majority of state governments. But Mr. Lang, after several drastic speeches, left the conference with a warning to the prime minister that New South Wales would follow its own pathway.

Born in 1876.

Born near Ballarat on Sept. 18, 1876, Mr. Scullin lived and worked on a farm after a brief period as a grocer's boy. He went to Balarat and became interested in debating societies. He acquired some reputation as a speaker, formed a branch of the Labor Party and in 1906 opposed Rt. Hon. Alfred Deakin, Liberal leader who was three times prime minister. Mr. Scullin established his reputation even if he did not get into parliament in a stoutly-fought campaign.

Mr. Scullin entered the house of representatives in 1910 as member for Coramgamite. He lost this seat three years later, and became debtor of the Ballarat Echo, a Labor new paper. He was victorious in Yarra in 1922 and has represented that constituency since, being returned by acclamation in the general election of 1928 and 1929.

On the resignation and death of Matthew Charlton in 1928, Mr. Scullin became leader of the Labor Party. The results of his leadership were soon apparent. In November, 1928, general elections, the Labor Party secured more seats than any other group, but Premier Bruce remained in office with a coalition of Nationalist and Country Party members. On Oct. 12, 1929, the Labor Party secured a comfortable majority over all others combined. This, however, was cut to a dangerously slim margin by defections, by the independence of the extremists with whom Premier Scullin will have no dealings, and the withdrawal of Mr. Lyons and Mr. Fenton.

Mr. Scullin for 14 years was an adjudicator at the South Street oratorical competitions at Ballarat. He is fond of music—especially the violin. He gives great credit to his wife, formerly Marie MacNamara of Ballarat, whom he married in 1907. "She has always given me wonderful help and encouragement in politics with enthusiastic and unfailing sympathy," he says.

N. S. WALES BANK WILL BE CLOSED PENDING MERGER

Sydney Officials and Gov't Issue Assurances Bank is Solvent.

ALL DEMANDS MET.

Effect of Situation on Extremist Gov't Fortunes Being Closely Watched.

(C. P. Cable via Reuters)

SYDNEY, Australia, April 22.—The State Savings Bank of New South Wales will not open its doors tomorrow, but from bank officials here and in Melbourne, and from the Commonwealth Government there were quickly forthcoming assurances that the bank was solvent. Ever since Premier J. T. Lang's Extremist State Ministry defaulted interest payment due on April 1, there nas been a heavy run on the state bank, which has deposits of $425,000,000. Rumors of the bank's circulated last night and there were heavy withdrawals again today, but the bank met all demands and the run slackened off before closing time.

Await Merger Outcome

The President of the Bank explained that it was considered best to close down pending the outcome of negotiations to merge the bank with the Commonwealth Bank of Australia. The State Government has approved the recommendation of the State Bank directors, that the Commonwealth Bank should be asked to "take over" the state institution, and the President of the State Bank is confident that in view of the solvency of his institution a speedy decision will be made on the amalgamation proposal. Such a change would need to be ratified by the Commonwealth Parliament and the State Legislature of New South Wales.

One of the most interesting aspects of the situation is the effect the merger of the State Bank and the Commonwealth Bank will have upon the political fortunes of the Extremist Government of New South Wales. Premier Lang, shortly after his election last October, charged the opposition in the legislature with bringing about heavy withdrawals from the bank through election campaign statements as to the effect of a Lang victory. The ministry decision to default interest payments due on state bonds on April 1 had an immediate effect on the bank's position, for most of the bank's collateral consists of state bonds.

TREATIES REDUCE STOLEN CAR SALE

Underwriter Claims Market Price of Car in Montreal Was 50 Cases Whiskey.

WOULD STANDARDIZE LAWS.

DALLAS, Texas, April 22.—J. Ross Moore of New York, Manager of the National Automobile Underwriters' Association, told the American Association of General Agents here that treaties between the United States and Canada had assisted in the downward trend of automobile theft rates.

He said the treaties had made the theft of large, fast automobiles less profitable by depriving thieves of a market in Canada.

"The Canadian sale of used cars is now more difficult," he said. "Formerly the market price of a large car in Montreal was fifty cases of whiskey. The thief could steal a small Canadian car to return the liquor to this country."

He urged the great need for standardization of automobile theft laws and vigorous enforcement.

The nominating committee recommended J. A. Shepherd, Little Rock, Ark., for election as president.

AMERICANS FLEE TO CITY OF TELA

Rebels Meet Gov't Troops Near Town and Are Driven to Mountains.

SEVERAL CASUALTIES.

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras, April 22 (C.P.). — Fear of attack by a rebel band operating near La Lima, banana and sugar settlement in the Cortez zone, has led to the evacuation of United States women and children to Tela, now considered safe from molestation by revolutionary forces.

The principal rebel activity to-day appeared centred about San Pedro Sula, key city on the railway line between the capital and the coast. A large force of Government troops has been sent there.

Captain Peter C. Geyer, American naval attache, has gone to San Pedro Sala to seek a conference with the rebel leaders in the hope of assuring a neutrality zone in the area. The legation has arranged with the Honduran Government for such a zone.

Believe Revolt Near End.

With only two instances of renewed fighting reported there is widespread feeling here that the revolt is near termination. One of yesterday's clashes occured when Government troops and rebels engaged in a skirmish four miles from Tela, the rebels being driven back into the mountains.

Government troops arrived at Corozito, banana settlement, in time to repulse a rebel attack, killing two and wounding several others in a short, sharp battle. All danger of an attack at Trujillo was considered past to-day with the rebels reported entirely cleaned out of the region.

The U.S.S. Trenton has arrived at Puerto Castilla and the U.S.S. Marblehead at Puerto Cortes.

SNELL MAKES BID FOR SPEAKERSHIP

Declaration Against Higher Tariffs Seen as Move to Catch Democrat Votes.

Backed Hawley-Smoot Bill.

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 22 (By Ken Clark, C. P. Staff Correspondent).—The latest move on the political chess board, the declaration by Representative Bertrand H. Snell of New York, staunch Republican, chairman of the House Rules Committee, against higher tariffs, has slight representation in Washington.

Representative Snell's committee is the body which shoved the Hawley-Smoot Tariff Bill through the House without amendment. Mr. Snell was one of the so-called "four horsemen" who drove the Hawley-Smoot Bill through Congress. Nevertheless, he was not personally an advocate of ultra-high protection.

Candidate for Speakership

Mr. Snell is a candidate for the Speakership of the House, a position made vacant by the death of Nicholas Longworth. In order to be elected Speaker in the next House any Republican needs one or two Democratic votes. Democrats consider, therefore, that his statement of last week concerning the tariff was a bid for some Democratic support.

Representative John McDuffie, Democratic Whip, has this also to say, "The astute Congressman Snell evidently has sensed the approaching storm of indignation which in 1932 will restore control of affairs in this Government to the Democratic Party." He adds, "The leopard cannot change its spots."

There are two ways of regarding Representataive Snell's apparent disaffection from the high tariff policy of the Republicans; his statement may be looked upon simply as a neat political gesture or it may be considered the beginning of a revolt within the party against very high protection.

The latter supposition is considered in some quarters to be as good as the first, since the strongest contender for the Speakership in the Republican Party is John Q. Tilson of Connecticut, presumably President Hoover's favorite.

RECITAL WELL RECEIVED.

LONDON, April 21 (By The Canadian Press).—London critics speak favorably of the qualities of Leslie Holmes, formerly of Toronto, Ont., who gave a song recital at the Wigmore Hall. An ambitious feature in the programme was his performance of the entire 'Dichterliebe" cycle of Schumann, consisting of 16 numbers, set to poems of Heine. "His interpretations of them showed great sympathy, considerable insight, and abundant evidence of close and conscientious study," says The 'Daily Telegraph.' "The chief defect lay in a certain monotony of tone-color, also a slight lack of the requisite flexibility and ease in the execution of the more rapid numbers. On the whole, however, the performance reflected great credit upon the singer, who was well supported at the piano by Reginald Goodall apart from an occasional gruffness of tone in the lower register."

April Meeting Of Grace Church W.M.A.

MILLBROOK, April 22 (Examiner Correspondence). — Mrs. Z. Seaton was hostess for the April meeting of the Woman's Missionary Auxiliary of Grace Presbyterian church, the attendance being most gratifying, and the interest in the work well sustained.

The chair was taken by the president, Mrs. (Rev.) John Riddell, and the roll-call answered with a verse containing the word, 'Spirit."

Business items received the necessary attention, including encouraging reports from the various officers concerning activities under way, among these being the number of quilts completed in recent weeks, while two or three more are ready for putting in the frames, and quilting.

Quiltings during the winter months have been held in the church basement, concluding with the service of tea and a social hour each time. One more such gathering will probably be held before June, and extra quilts on hand will either be sold, or donated where need is evident.

The topic for study, "Women of the Bible," which has been followed for some months, was taken up Mrs. Seaton, her subject being Mary, the mother of our Lord. The study was made both interesting and profitable, and will be continued, under another heading, at the next meeting.

A vocal solo by Mrs. John Thompson was much enjoyed, and the hymns were chosen with particular reference to the Easter season.

The invitation of Mrs. John Armstrong to hold the May meeting at her home was gratefully accepted, the third Wednesday in the month being the regular time for the gathering.

Lime Making Company May Pick Port Stanley

LONDON, Ont., April 22—Mayor George Hayman announced yesterday that negotiations were underway with a large Ohio Lime Manufacturing Company, for the establishment of a $50,000 industry at Port Stanley. Culmination of the negotiations will mean much to the London and Port Stanley Railway, he said, as the Canadian shipments of the finished product would average over ten carloads a day.

Big Booming Scheme For Trinidad Limes

PORT-OF-SPAIN, Trinidad, B.W.I., April 22 (By The Canadian Press)—A huge advertising scheme to boom West Indies limes, particularly the limes of Trinidad, is being undertaken by a Canadian company which states that it will give away 1,000,000 lime drinks in connection with the campaign. The million free drinks will be emphasized in the Dominion, where it is hoped to secure a valuable market for West Indies limes by educating the people of Canada as to its uses. The free drinks will be given away at important centres. The proposal, however, is subject to the co-operation of the lime growers of the West Indies, who will be asked to supply the limes required for the campaign free of charge in view of the company undertaking the heavy expenses entailed in the scheme, including the advertising campaign. It is proposed to do the advertising through the medium of newspaper advertisements, radio broadcasts and free recipe booklets, informing the Canadian public as to the true merits and the variety of uses for the British West Indies limes.

"BABY'S OWN" TABLETS (Dr. Williams')

COASTING CASE IS FINALLY SETTLED AT CAMPBELLFORD

Dr. West's Appeal Against Magistrate Payne's Decision Dismissed by Judge Huycke.

WILSON'S ACTION UPHELD

CAMPBELLFORD, April 22 (By Examiner Staff Correspondent) — "I find the decision of the magistrate is quite correct and the appeal is therefore dismissed with costs. It would almost seem to me as if the court was called into operation not so much to prevent danger or pain to persons interested, but rather to prohibit innocent pleasure to others." So stated His Honor Judge E. C. S. Huycke in handing down the judgment in the West-Wilson case.

This case has caused great interest in Campbellford from its commencement, when Dr. Simon West brought action against his neighbor, James Wilson, both of Campbellford, for the violation of a municipal by-law prohibiting the practice of coasting. J. D. Lynch acted for the plaintiff and N. Alex MacColl for the defence.

In the evidence submitted at this trial it was brought out that Wilson had returned from town with three bags of coal on a hand sleigh. Dropping the bags at the foot of the hill, which is a boundary road between the town and Seymour township, and on which both Wilson and West live, Wilson had drawn the bags up the hill one at a time to his residence, giving his six year old boy a ride down on the sleigh to get the remaining bags. This had offended West who claimed that Wilson had made the hill dangerous for traffic and slippery. He also objected to the necessity of Wilson having to up the hill a piece in front of his property to gain momentum to carry the sleigh to the foot of the hill.

Mr. Lynch, in pleading the case, stated that an infringment of the municipal by-law had been made, claiming that Wilson had established a practice of coasting. Mr. MacColl however pleaded on point of law, claiming that according to the Municipal Act a joint by-law was needed in all cases of boundary lines before action could become effective. Reserving his decision, Magistrate Payne gave judgment on February 22, dismissing the case with costs.

Appeal was Entered

West entered an appeal against the decision of Magistrate Payne, and the case came before His Honor Judge Huycke on April 2 in the Divisional Court held at Campbellford. In handing down judgment Judge Huycke stated, "The charge is the infraction of a certain by-law of the town of Campbellford. The alleged offence was that Wilson on various occasions made a practice of coasting down a hill on a public highway, and this by-law is brought into requisition. The highway in question is the boundary between the town of Campbellford and the township of Seymour. The Municipal Act provides for dealing with such a boundary highway, but it must be done jointly, not severally, by the two municipalities interested. For this reason the by-law of the town alone is not sufficient to constitute the offence and provide for punishment. The matter must therefore fall to the ground; but if the by-law were operative it must show continuance or "practice" of so doing; there is no evidence sufficient to indicate the existence of such a practice.

It is admitted that Wilson with his child did ride down this hill, or part of it, for purposes of his own, which I find he had a perfect right to do, so long as he did not become a nuisance to endanger public safety in which case proceedings might or might not have succeeded regardless of the by-law in question.

RECOMMENDS COMMISSION.

OTTAWA, Ont., April 22.—(C.P.)—Before Ottawa City Council, Alderman Fulgence Charpentier last night recommended that a permanent body, above politics, be appointed to act between the Dominion Government and civic authorities so there would be a continuous policy for development of the national capital, regardless of changes of administration. The motion was referred to Board of Control.

OFFICIALS RENEW NAVAL PARLEY

French Delegate Told Not to Yield Nation's Right to Replace Superannuated Units.

HOPE TO PREVENT FAILURE.

PARIS, April 22 (A.P.)—Count Rene Massigli, France's chief naval negotiator, went to London this afternoon with precise instructions not to field the nation's right to replace superannuated units of her fleet.

He was charged by Premier Laval and Aristide Briand to maintain that France has just as much right to substitute new tonnage for old as Great Britain, Japan, the United States or any other nation, and that any agreement made now cannot affect what is to be done after 1936.

The Foreign Office spokesman who disclosed the Count's instructions emphasized, however, the belief that there is plenty of opportunity for negotiation in the drafting of the final version of the tripartite accord among France, Italy and Great Britain and that the French delegation would approach its task in a conciliatory spirit.

British Uncertain as to Future

LONDON, April 21 (A.P.)—Reports to-day from Paris that Count Massigli was returning here with definite instructions not to yield on the French policy regarding naval replacements beyond 1936 left British officials circles uncertain as to the future negotiations for the tripartite naval accord.

The position cannot be analyzed fully until the French case is completely stated, but it is virtually certain that Great Britain will insist upon examination of the French alternative proposals, and it was expected that heroic efforts would be made this week to save the accord from failure.

BAPTIST PASTOR LEAVING VILLAGE

Rev. J. B. McCormack Preaches His Farewell Service in Lakefield Church.

ELDERS ARE INDUCTED.

LAKEFIELD, April 22.—(Examiner Correspondence). — On Sunday evening Rev. J. B. McCormack preached his farewell sermon as pastor of the Lakefield Baptist church. There was a large attendance as the United churches waived their evening services to allow their congregations to hear Mr. McCormick. During their three years' sojourn in the village Mr. and Mrs. McCormack have made a great many friends who regret to see them leaving the community. Mr. McCormack was a singer of real talent and his sweet voice was raised many times to comfort the bereaved and suffering. Mrs. McCormack was a real helpmate, always lending a helping hand to those who needed help, and at the farewell service, there was a note of sadness which could not be dispelled. Mr. McCormack preached a sermon which showed his unbounded faith in God's judgment and His care of His people and sounded the note of optimism in referring to the earthly separations which are but a preparation for the life in unity in the Great Beyond.

Sacrament Observed.

The Sacrament of the Lord's Supper was administered at the morning service in Knox United Church on Sunday morning and Messrs. W. W. Yale and George Mullen were made elders. This latter was a very impressive ceremony. Rev. T. M. Wesley was in charge.

A BORATED TOILET SOAP

In a Lonely House in Cornwall, England a Man Was Murdered

Five Men Were Suspected. A Finger Print Said "This One Did It"

An old man, reputed a money hoarder, living by himself in a remote part of Cornwall, was robbed and murdered. Scotland Yard experts came and searched for clues. They found a finger print on a dusty hat brim.

Of five men suspected of the crime, a poacher, well known in the neighbourhood, seemed the most likely. It was necessary to obtain his finger prints without arousing suspicion among any of the five. One evening when he went to his favourite inn for his usual pint of beer it was served to him in a specially polished tankard. The police secured the tankard.

The finger prints thus obtained were fatal to him. They compared identically with those found in the dead man's house. The murderer was sentenced to death and hanged.

So You Leave Dangerous Prints—on Food

This true story is not told to warn you against committing crime. It is told so that you will realize the danger that lurks in finger prints and how you leave them on everything you touch. Those prints are germ laden.

The germs have come from touching things that other people touch. People who have a cold, the "flu" perhaps, and have maybe coughed or breathed into their hands. Other germ diseases too.

We cannot escape those germs. We cannot avoid mingling with people and touching the things they have touched, or shaking their hands. Life Extension Institute lists 27 diseases, many very dangerous, which may be conveyed in this way.

Your hands, laden with germs, touch food, some fruit, or a candy which you are conveying to your mouth. The germs enter your system and start trouble.

More Than Safety

Here is something worth thinking about. The safe way is to kill those germs before they reach your mouth. Wash your hands often with the soap that contains a germicide. That soap is Lifebuoy.

Not only safety, but real luxury is yours when you use this famous soap. Based on two fine palm oils its pleasing lather gives you luxurious cleanliness and valuable skin care. Millions have proved this.

Think of the Family

The topic from the study book was taken by Miss Eleanor Johnson; a reading was also given by Miss Florence Nevins. SLIGHT FOOD CHANGES AFFECT THE BODY TREMENDOUSLY.

My grand niece weighed less at eight months than at birth, due to "Infantile eczema." Was plastered with ointments and unbathed for seven months—entire household exhausted from lack of sleep. I added vegetable juice to each bottle feeding, nothing more. After two days she slept fourteen hours without waking. Ointments then discontinued, baths resumed. No rash, no itching in four years since. Why? Vegetable juice alkalinized her blood, killing the acid-caused eczema. Alkaline Roman Meal has kept her blood alkaline since.

Alkaline Roman Meal also saved my life when the great Osler told me twenty-two years ago I could not live four months. Now at 72 not two per cent. of men 30 have muscles, strength or endurance equal to mine, built up out of alkaline Roman Meal. I'll send you a free booklet, "HOW TO KEEP WELL," and other literature, also sample of Roman Meal and Kofy-sub, the new alkaline beverage, if you'll write for them to ROBT. G. JACKSON, M.D., 502 Vine Ave., Toronto 9, Ont.

ROSENEATH UNITED

ROSENEATH, April 22 (Examiner Correspondence).—The beautiful Sabbath evening brought out a large congregation to the United Church and Rev. R. W. Paton, M.A., delivered a very inspiring talk from the text "We would see Jesus," St. John 12 verse 21. Speaking of the Greeks, their habits and ways of worship, their language and customs. They wanted to see Jesus and find out for themselves if there was in Him that which Judaism had failed to give them. They had been depending upon the formalities and ritualism of Judaism to lead them to God. Their longings were unfulfilled and now they have come to Jerusalem, hoping to see this great Leader and Teacher and as soon as they met one who could speak their language they cried out "We would see Jesus. It was the expression of a craving for a Saviour and Redeemer.

"As we meditate upon the unfolding plan of God, we see God as a Redeeming God, from before Eternity, and we do not hesitate to say, "The absolute vocation for which every one was born into the world, is to see Jesus and to show Him to others. We see God's love everywhere manifest in the life of Christ, as He identified Himself with sinners, and eventually died, in order that we might live. Then after His death and resurrection, the windows of heaven were again loosened, and the Holy Spirit was sent. All this was done in order that all God's people might see Jesus.

There are several reasons why we should want to see Jesus. It was His desire that all should see Him "Look unto me and be saved, all ye ends of the earth" were the Master's words. His whole ministry was one great effort, to have all men see Him.

Then we should want to see Jesus, because He's now seated on the throne of judgment. How absolutely necessary that we should learn to know Him, during this probationary state of our existence.

But we should want to see Jesus, because a view of the Saviour transforms our souls and moulds them unto His likeness. If we would reflect something of the character of Jesus, we must first have had some contact with Him.

Then we have another illustration of this truth in the last words of St. Stephen, the great Christian martyr. As he was about to pass out, he looked up and said, I see the heaven's opened, and I see Jesus, at the right hand of God.

Then having seen Jesus, he imitated Jesus, in his death by saying, "Father, lay not the sin to their charge." Such was the experience of another devoted Christian, who had seen Jesus.

"If any man be in Christ, he is a new creature, old things are passed away, all things are become new."

The selections by the choir, "Open the way" and "What a fellowship, what a joy divine" blended nicely with the sermon.

TOMATO DISHES LEAVE THE JUICE

Healthful Juice May Be Served Separately at Table as Cocktail.

TYPICAL RECIPES.

Many recipes for appetizing, healthful, economical "Tomato Dishes" actually require the removal of at least part of the juice from canned tomatoes, in order to have drier solids for combining with other nutritious foodstuffs.

For that reason canned tomatoes are a particularly economical food. There is no waste whatever. The juice, in whatever quantity is desired, is easily separated by straining and is then available for feeding to baby or for serving at the table as a cocktail or as a refreshing "pick-me-up" at any time of the day. The solids so obtained can be served in scores of ways.

The following typical recipes are all of tested "tomato dishes" and all will be found to be as inexpensive as they are delicious and healthful:

Tomato and Cheese Toast.

2 cups tomato pulp
½ level teaspoonful sugar
½ level teaspoonful salt
sprinkle pepper
½ level tablespoon butter
¼ to ½ cup grated old cheese
4 slices hot buttered toast

Add seasonings, butter and grated cheese to tomato pulp, obtained by draining off juice from canned tomatoes, and heat in top of double boiler until cheese is melted. Serve very hot on the buttered toast.

Tomato Scrambled Eggs.

4 eggs
½ cup canned tomatoes, from which some of the juice has been strained
1/3 level teaspoonful salt
sprinkle pepper
1½ level tablespoons butter

Beat eggs just enough to mix yolks and whites; add salt, pepper and tomatoes. Heat a frying pan, add butter and when melted add eggs. Stir frequently until eggs become set and creamy. Allow mixture to stand a minute to slightly brown. Serve at once on a hot platter with toast.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D.

COOKED FOODS ARE BEST.

There will likely always be a controversy between the raw food enthusiasts and those who liked their food cooked, as to which diet is best for the body.

No one can deny that in some methods of cooking where the food is cooked by boiling water in an open vessel that a considerable portion of the mineral salts and vitamins is lost. Where the housewife uses this later in soups these valuable food factors are of course preserved.

But where care is taken to preserve these valuable salts and vitamins of the food there is no question but that every thing considered the cooked food, at least a considerable amount of cooked food, is best for this present civilization. Cooking brings out odors and flavors that appeal to all the digestive juices. It was known for some time that these odors and flavors made the mouth water—that is the digestive juice of the mouth, the saliva, but it was not known until just a few years back, that they made the stomach juice flow. And just recently it was discovered that they make the pancreatic juice flow also.

You can thus see that food with a flavor and odor that appeals to the individual has so much of the digestive juices waiting for it that it is very easily digested and the body gets the full benefit of all its food values. That harmful organisms in raw foods are destroyed by cooking makes cooked foods safer, must be admitted.

What about the actual food value of cooked meats for instance aside from the value of the odor and flavor? Has cooked meat the same food value as raw meat?

Drs. A. Scheuner and H. Bischoff have experimented on young animals with raw meat and cooked meat for one and a half hours. Better growth was observed with the cooked than with the raw meat.

Dr. W. Hilsinger gave raw and cooked meat, and raw and heated milk to three children and one adult and the heat production measured for from five to ten hours after eating. The meat experiments showed that more heat was produced by the cooked meat and the heat was evident more promptly than with raw meat. In the milk experiment cooking did not produce any different effect than the raw milk.

Now don't forget Dr. McCollum's advice that some raw fruits and vegetables should be eaten every day to make a well balanced diet. On the other hand it is well to know that cooked foods, generally speaking, are not only more appetizing, but are more nutritious than raw foods.

Jean Paton Favors Basqued Jacket For Morning Wear

BOLERO JACKET IS ALSO PROMINENT FEATURE OF NEW MODE

(1) A charming turquoise blue and black ensemble worn by Rose Hobart. It is trimmed with black seal. The brief bolero jacket is lined with the lighter shade that is found in the novelty pin with rhinestones. Her hat suggests new spring bi-corne with a pert feather where the veil begins. (2) One of the new Paris models of shiny straw, cut with an off-the-forehead tilt and trimmed with flowers. (3) One of Jean Patou's new basqued jacket suits of grey and white diagonal weave. A blouse of heavy white crepe has a neckline which follows that of the coat and the hat is of white felt.

Now that Spring is here it makes everyone feel so much better and we don't seem to mind so much about the unemployment, do we?

• • • • • • •

However, if we all look on the bright side things will turn out ever so much better than if we continually look on the dark side. There is a silver lining to every dark cloud, so the saying goes.

• • • • • • •

Those of us who have work seek to hold down our jobs while those who are trying to get work should just take a little inventory of their capabilities.

• • • • • • •

There are certain things that we can do better than others and it is well to find out just what that particular work might be.

• • • • • • •

When once you have secured a position, carry out your obligations to the very best of your ability. Of course every person may be unfamiliar with the details of work when new to a job.

• • • • • • •

The rapidity and the ability of the worker to take hold of the work are carefully watched. The capability of the worker is the chief factor in determining his or her success.

• • • • • • •

In families where there are wage earners among the youger members this idea of competent filling of a job can be impressed on the minds by parents.

• • • • • • •

Parents can help a good deal in this way and it is a kindness, not by words alone, but by seeing to the preparation for future work and by providing every opportunity for improvement in a present task.

• • • • • • •

There may be courses that can be taken; lectures that can be attended and books that can be read in order to further fit a person for a position.

• • • • • • •

If the worker is interested in his work he will welcome the chance to know of these ways of learning.

• • • • • • •

If he lacks interest, something is wrong, either he is in the wrong sort of work or he lacks ambition. Both interest and ambition are essentials for success in any vocation.

BEDTIME STORY

By Howard R. Garis

UNCLE WIGGILY'S RUBBER COAT

"Well, it hasn't stopped yet," said Uncle Wiggily as he stood at the window of his hollow stump bungalow one morning and looked out. He had his paw on his pink nose. Perhaps it tickled a bit and he wanted to see of the twinkle had stopped. Anyhow Uncle Wiggily had his paw on h's nose as he said again:

"It hasn't stopped yet."

"What do you mean—the toothache?" asked Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy, who was taking one of the keys out of the piano to see if it would open the front door. Nurse Jane was always doing funny tricks like that.

"Toothache!" cried Uncle Wiggily. "What do you mean? I didn't say anything about a toothache, did I?"

"No," answered Miss Fuzzy Wuzzy. "But you said it hadn't stopped yet and I saw you had your paw on your face—"

"I had my paw on my nose," spoke Uncle Wiggily. "That is begging your pardon for interrupting you, Nurse Jane. "And who ever heard of anyone having a nose ache?"

"I did once," said the muskrat lady "Who had the nose ache?" asked Uncle Wiggily, surprised like.

"The elephant," answered the housekeeper. "And let me tell you when an elephant has the nose ache it's bad!"

"I should think it might be," Uncle Wiggily agreed. "An elephant's nose is in his long trunk and it is so big that—well, let's don't talk about it."

"What's the matter with you, anyhow? If you haven't the nose ache nor the toothache, waht is it? You said it hadn't stopped yet," spoke Nurse Jane.

"I wa speaking about the rain," Uncle Wiggily said. ", mean the drops haven't stopped fall ng yet, and want o go out."

"What for?" asked Nurse Jane.

"To look for an adventure," the rabbit gentleman replied.

"Well, then go ahead," advised Nurse Jane. "You can wear your rubbers and take an umbrella—"

"No!" interrupted Uncle Wiggily. "Begging your pardon again, Nurse Jane, for speaking out of my turn, but the last time I went out with my umbrella in my rubber and it got full of water."

"What got full of water—your umbrella?" asked Nurse Jane. "You must have been carrying it upside down."

"No, it was my rubber that was filled with water," explained the rabbit gentleman. "I stood my umbrella in one of my rubbers and then along came Uncle Butter, the goat, and he stood his umbrella in my other rubber and they were both filled. So, no more umbrella and rubbers for me."

"What will you do, then, to keep dry?" asked Nurse Jane.

"I'll wear my rubber coat," said Uncle Wiggily.

He put on his long, black rubber coat and hopped out into the rain.

He had not gone far before he reached the kennel house of Mr. and Mrs. Bow Wow, the dog lady and gentleman. Mr. Bow Wow was working down in the bone factory, but his wife was home so Uncle Wiggily went in to ask how her husband was.

"Oh, Uncle Wiggily, I am so glad to see you!" barked the dog lady. "Come in! Jackie and Peetie will soon be home from school and they will be anxious to see you. Come in."

"Thank you, I will," Uncle Wiggily said. "But I will hang my rubber coat and my hat on this nail outside on your porch. Then I will not dribble any water on your clean floor."

Uncle Wiggily hung his rubber coat on a nai and put his hat on top of it. Then he went in the house of the lady dog.

Now while the rabbit gentleman was waiting for Jackie and Peetie to come home, Uncle Wiggily talked with Mrs. Bow Wow. And when he was in her house along came the Fox and the Bob Cat.

"Look!" whispered the Bob Cat. "There's Uncle Wiggily on the Bow Wow porch!" The Bob Cat pointed to Uncle Wiggily's rubber coat which, hanging on a nail, looked almost like the bunny especially as the hat was on top.

"Good!" howled the Fox. "You jump at him from one side and I'll jump at him from the other. Between us we'll catch him." The two Bad Chaps slipped up on the porch. Together they sprang at the rubber coat thinking the rabbit gentleman was inside it. But the coat was hanging on a nail with the hat, and Uncle Wiggily wasn't in them. So when the Bob Cat and Fox jumped, they grabbed nothing but one another and they scratched and bit themselves and how surprised they were when they found that Mr. Longears wasn't in his rubber coat. Then the Bad Chaps ran away and the bunny uncle hopped safely home.

A program of repairs and improvements to the Children's Shelter is being undertaken by the Board of Management, the chief item being the installation of proper fire escapes and equipment, on the recommendation of Fire Chief Gimblett. The total will amount to about $700.

ANGLICAN DIOCESE OF PETERBORO' OUTLINED TO ST. JOHN'S LAYMEN

mentioning that it was voluntary and a moral obligation, whereas the latter was for the upkeep of Synod and hence necessary. Dr. Blagrave also spoke of the necessity of a new organ for the Church and referred to the dilapidated state of the present organ. He spoke of the organist having to transpose the Easter music in order to escape faulty notes etc.

Change Magazine.

Reference was also made to Rev. Kingsford's plan to change the Northumberland and Durham magazine to one which would include the whole Archdeaconry. For this purpose Terry Hall, Bill Sangster and E. Brakefield-Moore were appointed to the Publicity Committee, the last-mentioned to act as chairman.

In his address Rev. M. R. Kingsford referred briefly to his booklet entitled "A Diocese of Peterborough" and added information which he had gleaned since its publication. He stated that when the Anglican National Commission visited Peterborough in January, no mention was made of the $76,000 which had been left in three bequests for the formation of a new diocese. Mr. Kingsford mentioned the sources of his information as being the Toronto Synod Journal, the Canadian Church Year Book, and F. D. Kerr, K.C., of Peterborough. He also mentioned that 30 years ago, Canon Marsh told him, $10,000 had been collected in promises by the church in Lindsay for the project.

The speaker maintained that of the 26 dioceses of Canada, the new Peterborough one would be the wealthiest and the 12th largest. It would comprise nearly $2,000,000 in church, parish hall and property evaluations. Only one rector in the present Archdeaconry was receiving the minimum salary of $1,800 per annum. He held that the necessary endowment for the proposed diocese could easily be raised.

Speaking of the suggestion that Peterborough, Northumberland and Durham should be joined to Ontario Diocese whose Cathedral is at Kingston, Rev. Kingsford pointed out the discrepancies in having the See City some 130 miles away. "Ontario Diocese" he said "should be able to help itself in the matter of promoting men from one parish to another. Ontario is better off than 18 other dioceses in Canada, and it will grow in population." The speaker also mentioned the fact that some 40 ministers left Canada every year for the States, and as it cost about $5,000 to educate each, it netted a loss of $200,000 a year to the Canadian Church. A new diocese would serve the better to utilize some of these men.

Movement 75 Years Old.

Mr. Kingsford stressed the point that the new diocese movement was already 75 years old. In the past when a new unit was separated from Toronto, its share of diocesan revenue was handed over, and this he stated would most likely be also the case with Peterborough. He spoke of the inability of the Bishop of Toronto to visit this city and this vicinity, excepting only once in the past three to five years. Besides banning the idea of amalgamation with Ontario, Rev. Kingsford also discouraged the appointing of a Suffragan Bishop who would live in Peterborough. He mentioned several of the "red herrings" which had been placed before the advancement of the new diocese project.

The speaker outlined a few of the difficulties which could be cleared up, such as the payment for the transportation of a rector going from one parish to another, the guarantee of salaries, the frequent visiting of parishes by the Bishop, and the expert placing of men in the several parishes.

Upholding Dr. Blagrave's action in the matter of the magazine for the Archdeaconry, Rev. Kingsford also stressed the importance of such a paper to the individual members of the parishes. It would be "the written word to supplement the spoken word" The magazine would keep the people of parishes, unable to be visited except once every week or two, in touch with the Church and help bring in the assessments due.

In concluding, Rev. Kingsford enumerated those likely to be opposed to the Diocese of Peterborough—the Bishop of Ontario who wants Peterborough for his own diocese, the Bishop of Toronto who would want to hand on the heritage of his diocese undivided, the Executive Committee at headquarters who know little of the movement, the hostile Synod, and the Anglican National Commission. "However" said the speaker, "we have ourselves — clergy and laymen—as forces against these; we must think out our own solutions of the problems facing us, and adopt our own line of policy in the ensuing struggle."

Endorsed By Mayor.

His Worship Mayor Denne arose to uphold the movement sponsored by the rector of Gore's Landing, and urged that the plan must be pushed ahead in order to make up for lost time, as the Deanery meeting is to be held next week. Jack Pattee backed Mayor Denne in his statement and stated the necessity of aiding the rector, Dr. Blagrave, in bettering Peterborough in the proposed manner.

Dr. G. S. Cameron, however, was of the opinion that for the present the appointing of a Suffragan would be more satisfactory. He stated the diocesan question was under discussion by the Laymen's Association of Peterborough. "The time for action has come now" said the Doctor; "something must be done at once in the matter of cutting up the huge and unwieldy Diocese of Toronto". R. N. Stuart said that delegates should be appointed to represent the laymen at the forthcoming Deanery meeting at which the discussion of the formation of the new diocese would be the live question.

The meeting was closed with the saying of the Grace by Rev. E. R. James.

Dates Set For District Bowling Tournaments

LARGE REPRESENTATION AT C.O.L.B.A. MEETING

Question of Affiliation With Provincial Body is Thoroughly Discussed by Delegates.

MEMBERSHIP FEE SET.

In their agreement upon the dates of the district tournaments to be held in the season that seems already here, the executive of the Central Ontario Lawn Bowlers' Association achieved their major objective last night at a meeting in the McDonnel Street Club house.

Organized last fall in the hope of bringing together the bowling clubs of this section of the province for their mutual convenience and also to promote the game to the fullest possible extent, this group survived the winter with an enthusiasm that was indicated by the comparatively large attendance of representatives in the splendid new quarters the Peterborough bowlers have provided for themselves. Outside, the spacious, level lawns were emerald green in the electric light, creating an effect that seemed theatrical and unreal in the sheer depth of their matching colour.

Mark Bredin presided as chairman with Jack Mayneord as secretary. A preliminary open meeting enabled the bowlers to pick up the threads from their organization last fall, and to make sure that their determination to cement their plans for a harmonious working arrangement between the individual clubs in the district had not relaxed. In the general discussion J. D. Fitzpatrick of Peterborough reviewed the intentions of the bowlers as expressed at the time of the organization, pointed out that there was no desire to dictate to any of the component clubs, and emphasized the benefits that would accrue from arranging tournament dates to avoid conflict with other clubs that might otherwise choose the same days.

Membership Fee Set

M. Booth of Cobourg moved that the club membership fee be five dollars to cover incidental expenses. The scope and extent of the Ontario Lawn Bowling Association's authority was also mentioned and questioned in discussion. E. J. Goodman of Oshawa said that the impression in his club was that district winners could not be decided for provincial honors except through affiliation with the provincial body. Other members, including Mr. Bredin, expressed the opinion that affiliation with the Ontario body was an action that rested entirely with the clubs themselves and not with the Central Ontario Association.

The district association's membership in the Ontario body would be $25 and 25c for each bowler. No action was taken in regard to the provincial association. It was practically unanimous that the schedule of tournaments in this district will provide the bowlers with a long list of engagements, and that they can get all the bowling they desire within their own constituency.

The List Of Dates.

The following tournament dates for rinks except as otherwise indicated were agreed upon by the executive:

The game was a mound duel all the way with each club being held to five hits. Cascarella and Smythe pitched for Baltimore, while Fussell and Wertz toiled for the visitors.

KEYS END LOSING STREAK.

READING, Pa., April 22.—Reading rallied for three runs in the ninth to defeat Montreal, 9 to 8, for its first victory of the season. JERSEY CITY, N.J., April 22.—The Jersey City Skeeters made it three straight over the Rochester Red Wings here yesterday by winning a 7 to 5 verdict.

The Skeeters started to peck away at Herman Bell in the first inning and continued to give him plenty of trouble throughout the rest of the battle. Altogether the Skeeters nicked Bell for 11 singles to score 7 times. Perkins, Hartmann and Nekola collaborated to hold the Red Wings at bay.

Ray Pepper connected for his second home run of the series in the fourth off Perkins.

Manager Is Needed C.G.E. Softball Team

Unless someone who is vitally interested in the promotion of softball among the girl employees of the C.G.E. plant comes forward soon and offers to take an active interest in the formation of a team, it is doubtful if there will be one. This alone seems to be the only obstacle in the path of a successful season as there appears to be sufficient playing material to form an outstanding team.

At a meeting held last night in the Employment Building it was decided to hold another meeting on Thursday of this week after five o'clock in the same building and in the meantime the girls who wish to play will make an effort to locate a coach or manager who should be present at this meeting. Every girl in the plant who wishes to play this year is requested to be on hand also, in order that the organization may get underway as the team should be practising now.

Softball Leagues Are Formed At Lakefield

LAKEFIELD, April 22.—(Examiner Correspondence). — A softball league with four teams has been formed among the older boys in the Public school with some of the younger High school boys.

A junior league has also been entered in which a girl's team has entered.

BOSTON BRAVES HOLDING PLACE NATIONAL LOOP

McKechnie Crew Cop Off Sixth Victory Yesterday by Downing Giants 5-1.

ROBINS AGAIN LOSE.

Senators and Yankees Win Victories in American By 12-run Margins.

By HUGH S. FULLERTON, Jr.
Associated Press Sports Writer

Bill McKenchnie, a successful pilot of baseball clubs for a good many years, seems to be meeting with success in his efforts to build up the Boston Braves even sooner than he expected.

McKechnie took over the Boston management last year under a four year contract, which, he said, would give him just about enough time to change a losing club into one which stood a good chance of winning. The first eight games this season already have put the Braves into the light of a pennant contender.

Boston now is second in the National League with six victories to their credit and appear to have everything that is needed to go right on winning. In the pitching line, Ed Brandt pitched and won his second full game yesterday, allowing the New York Giants only five hits for a 5 to 1 triumph. Socks Seibold also has won two games and old Tom Zachary one. Behind this hurling, the Braves are hitting hard and at appropriate moments, averaging nearly ten blows a game.

Whatever can be said about the Braves may well be reversed and applied to Brooklyn so far as the early season showing goes. Rated as one of the leaders in the pre-season dope, the Robins took their sixth defeat in seven games yesterday. Jim Elliott, former Brooklyn pitcher, hurled the Phillies to a 7 to 3 victory over his former teammates, keeping nine hits well scattered. Elliott was the first Philly pitcher to go the route this year. Three hurlers toiled for Brooklyn.

One-Sided Showing

In the American League, the Washington Senators and New York Yankees staged 12 run uprisings to make the day's showing rather one sided. Washington slammed the Boston Red Sox around for 16 hits and scored ten runs in the first four innings to win 12-3. Fred Marberry made his first start of the season and gave the Sox only seven hits. It took the Yanks only two innings to get ten runs off a trio of Philadelphia hurlers and they downed the worlds champions 12-1. Herb Pennock likewise gave a seven hit performance to win his second straight game.

Cleveland had a real battle on its hands before it could join the three-way tie for the American League lead by beating out the Detroit Tigers 5 to 4. With the game apparently won for Cleveland and Jonathan Stone hit his fourth homer of the season for Detroit and brought in three tallies of a four run rally that tied the score. The Indians came back in their half of the inning to get the winning run.

Cold weather in the west stopped the two clashes of the Chicago and St. Louis teams which Cincinnati and Pittsburgh had no game scheduled.

NEW PURSES

The purse that is deeper than it is wide is the smart shape. Many women are having their monograms worked out in jewels for the fastenings. Others have them done in silver for a corner decoration.

SPORTS by JIMMY THOMPSON

SPORTS IN SPORT

Sports in sport is apparently Percy Williams' creed. Strange as it appears, a flip of a coin made a year's difference in the athletic life of the Vancouver flash. When Williams made his first journey east in 1927 to the Canadian track and field championships, he met with probably the hardest fate that any athlete has had to face. After travelling across the entire breath of Canada to have his first wallop at national fame, he arrived in Toronto on the morning of the day that his race was to be run, therefore allowing himself no time to get into condition for the event. During that eventful afternoon Williams showed his stamina in qualifying for the first heat. When the officials lined up the contestants for the final dash it was discovered that there were not enough lanes around the track to permit all of them to run. It was decided that the two runners with the slowest time would toss up for the final position. This incided Williams, who lost the toss. To show that there was no hard feelings Williams turned and wished his opponent the best of luck, returning to Vancouver to await his opportunity to race again.

LEAF BATSMEN HELD TO FOUR HITS BY BEARS

Newark Tallies Two Markers on Costly Error By Joe Rabbitt.

FINAL COUNT 3-2.

Toronto Has Collected But Ten Hits and Four Runs in Last 18 Innings.

NEWARK, N.J., April 22. — Base hits are essential in ball games, especially if victories are to be counted. It was the lack of safe blows here yesterday that cost the Maple Leafs a victory. They lost to the Bears, 3 to 2, and in doing so collected but four hits off the delivery of the three hurlers whom Manager Al Mamaux sent into action. They were Leo Mangum, Don Brennan and Byron Speece.

Certainly the Leafs are a much stronger aggregation than they have proved in the past two days. In the last eighteen innings they have collected but ten hits and four runs.

Before going into the sad facts Steve O'Neill, pilot of the Toronto Club, is a little happier now that he has secured Pitcher Frank Barnes from the Yankees. O'Neill will likely use him to-day or in the farewell game of the series on Thursday.

O'Neill thinks that Barnes is a fine pitcher who will win a lot of games. The Toronto pilot said he believed Barnes to be the best southpaw in the International, with all the qualifications of becoming a real star.

The Leafs ran against some classy pitching yesterday from the arm of Don Brennan, the undertaker. Before opposing Don the O'Neillmen had the satisfaction of driving Leo Mangum to the showers in the first frame. Only one was out when Leo was thumbed to the dugout and two runs were registered in favor of the Leafs.

Rabbitt Misses One

That the Leafs lost was partly due to a hit and error by the usual reliable Joe Rabbitt. It happened in the fourth, and enabled the Bears to tie the score. Up to this time Warren ("Curley") Ogden was pitching a nifty game of ball for the Leafs. In fact, during the seven rounds he worked only five hits were made off his delivery. Shanklin who relieved him, allowed one. "Curley's" worst frame the the seventh, when two hits were made and the game flittered away to the Bruins.

FRIDAY SATURDAY MARIE DRESSLER And Polly Moran In "REDUCING"

NO NEW ENTRIES IN CITY LEAGUE

Officers Elected at Annual Organization Meeting With Exception of Secretary-Treasurer.

NEW GROUNDS PLAN.

No new entries were announced at the City Baseball League meeting last night at Duffus' and the date for closing them was put back till the next meeting a week from this Friday. Officers were elected, with the exception of the secretary-treasurer who will be appointed by the executive of the league. The fixing up of the diamond at the Exhibition Grounds, the inviting of nearby villages to enter teams, and other business occupied the time of the small gathering last night for nearly two hours.

Mike O'Brien, president last year, refused to stand for office again, and after some discussion of various nominees, Harry Dinsdale was the unanimous choice. He accepted the office and the chair was turned over to him to conduct the meeting.

Art Moffat is vice-president for this year. He offered to do his best, but pointed out that his work took up considerable of his time.

A great deal of time was spent trying to get some one to take the office of secretary-treasurer. A number of names was suggested, but the nominees all declined the position on the grounds that it took up time which could not be spared from business. It was then moved and carried that the executive appoint a secretary-treasurer for the next meeting.

The executive this year will consist of the managers of City League teams. This point came in for some dispute, some of those present holding out for outside appointees on the executive, and others arguing for the generally-followed rule of naming the different managers on this body. After everyone had given his opinion it was put to a vote and the executive composed of managers won, though not by a big margin.

Those present thought it might be a good idea to include places not too far away from Peterborough who wished to enter teams in this league to do so. Such places as Havelock, Norwood, Keene, Lakefield, Warsaw and others were mentioned. They may signify their intention of entering an outfit up to the first of May. In the meantime, efforts will be made to induce some of the local factories to sponsor a bantam, juvenile or junior team this year, to help round out the league.

A committee composed of Jack Deannard and Art Moffat will look over the location of the proposed new diamond at the Exhibition Grounds this Saturday to see what should be done to put it in shape for City League games. The city has promised to help the league in fixing it up. There will also be the obtaining and arranging of wire nettings to be looked after. This committee will report back at the next session.

Art Moffat also expects to get a number of baseballs from some of the shops around town who are interested in the youngsters' league. Confidence was expressed that the loop would get good support once it was started. No playing date has been announced yet.

In order to give those thinking of entering teams more time, the president decided to call the next meeting a week from Friday. That will be Friday, May 1st, and the session will be held again in Duffus' at eight o'clock. The meeting was then adjourned.

CASUAL COMMENTS

Leave it to the softballers, they always come out in force when the Men's City Softball League meets. The session is called for 7.30 in the Duffus Bowling Academy, to-night.

• • • • • • •

Five teams are entered now, and the league will have no trouble getting at least one more in. Better still if they can get an eight-team loop operating. There's a live bunch of officers at the head and they will dig up one or more entries before the season starts.

• • • • • • •

Just where the games will be played is still doubtful, but most likely Central school grounds will be available. The new ball this summer will call for a larger playing field as an ordinary double with last year's ball would probably go for a homer this year, unless the field is longer.

• • • • • • •

The Maple Leaf juvenile team will work out at six o'clock Friday at the Stevenson Park, and all juvenile players are welcome to try for a position. And Pat Calladine will have his juveniles out for another session on the same diamond Saturday afternoon at three bells.

• • • • • • •

Well, Bailieboro will go in with the Lakeshore League this year. That leaves just three teams in the East Peterborough Loop so far. Evidently Bailieboro figured the local league would be too strong and decided to cast in their lot with a bunch more in their own class.

• • • • • • •

What other team will round out the E.P.L. is hard to say. Maybe someone will take hold of the Crescents again, or perhaps an out-of-town team will be invited in. Well, we'll know all about it after the 28th, which is closing day for entries in this league.

• • • • • • •

Every night at the Exhibition Grounds, the same bunch of payers work out, no matter what team calls the practise. They wont commit themselves yet and say what outfit they'll play with. And what can the managers do? That's right, they're doing just that: nothing.

• • • • • • •

However, another week or so and most of the players will declare their intentions, and sign on the dotted line. Until that time, the boys are having a lot of fun, and the various managers are just sort of holding the bag. And supplying the balls.

• • • • • • •

The seniors are at it tonight on the south end diamond, starting at half past five, if it isn't raining. They're keeping in shape and marking time till after the C.O.B.L. meeting Saturday.

• • • • • • •

The Cogs are going to practise tomorrow night at King Edward school grounds at six, and the manager is looking for a good turnout.

• • • • • • •

Rotary Juveniles have the Stevenson Park on Saturday from 1:15 till three o'clock. That diamond seems to get all the City League workouts while the Exhibition Grounds gets the faster teams.

• • • • • • •

The City Baseball League has a good president this year in Harry Dinsdale. He knows his baseball and has always been strong for this league. Too bad the job of secretary-treasurer could not have been filled last night, also.

• • • • • • •

Jack Deannard and Art Moffat are going to look over the Exhibition Grounds and figure the layout of another diamond for use of City League teams. This town certainly hasn't got too many good ball fields.

• • • • • • •

Maybe more entries in the local league might be obtained from Norwood, Keene, Havelock, Warsaw, Lakefield, or some other place not too far away. If any of these villages felt like putting a team in any division of the league, they should get in touch with some of the league officers soon.

TOTTENHAM OR WEST BROMWICH

Tottenham lost two points last Saturday, by losing to Bristol City, that may cost them promotion, for in their two remaining engagements they will meet teams liable to purloin more points from the Londoners, Barnsley (home) and Burnley (away). The latter game is the harder. West Bromwich's two remaining games are against Stoke City (away) and Charlton (home). Next Saturday, of course, West Bromwich are engaged with Birmingham in the English Cup final, and so interest in the race for promotion is temporarily suspended. The Midlanders are leading Tottenham by one point, and it appears from this distance that the promotion riddle will not be solved until the last kick of the ball. Tottenham are nearer promotion than at any time since they fell from grace a few years ago. Meantime, West Bromwich are still shooting at "the double"—the Cup and promotion. —Toronto Globe.

WHEN ENGLISH CUP FINALISTS MEET WILL BE MIDLANDS DAY AT WEMBLY

Goalies for West Bromwich and Birmingham Were Born at Tamworth.

HOW ENGLAND LOST.

(By Bob Hayes.)

TORONTO, April 22.—Birmingham's Day! Such will be this year's F. A. cup final at Wembley on April 25. West Bromwich Albion and Birmingham will be there. What a triumph for the Midlands, especially when you bear in mind that in the majority of their cup battles this season these teams have been confidently tipped as losers.

Messrs. Bassett and Everiss, the men who have a lot to do with running the Albion, do not like their club called a Birmingham club. West Bromwich, after all, is a county borough on its own. Perhaps we had better call it the Midlands' Day.

It will be a meeting of friends from the Midlands at Wembley as well as a meeting of rivals. Relations between the clubs and the players are extremely cordial. The game, whatever the result may be, should be a clean and healthy encounter.

At any mid-week game at St. Andrew's you will find directors from West Bromwich cordially received. The same thing happens to Birmingham directors at the Hawthorns. These relations indeed are epitomized by the fact that Hibbs and Pearson, the rival goalkeepers, were both born at Tamworth.

It will be a neighbor's day at Wembley all right, and there will be no dirty washing on view.

Of Course They're Lucky.

A lot of people are shouting aloud that Brum and the Albion are the luckiest teams imaginable to be in the final. Certainly they are lucky, but did any side ever reach the last stage, let alone win the cup, without a good slice of luck? That seems to be part and parcel of the tournament.

The Midlanders are in the final because they took their chances. Everton and Sunderland are beaten sides because they had chances and did not take them. A team which does that usually claims bad luck as the reason for defeat. But that is not right.

The Albion's goal at Old Trafford was a tragedy for Everton and a fluke effort. But there was a ton of merit about the winners' display. It is a long time since there was better back play than that provided by George Shaw and Trentham. Defence won them the day, as it did for Birmingham at Leeds.

The Wembley meetings suggest that two great defences will be on view. Goals may be scarce. And if it is a draw, what about a replay at Villa Park? That would provide a fitting finish to the Midlands' duel.

It is not often we get local rivals in the last throes of the cup. In fact, it is 36 years since two sides from the Midlands were there. Then, in 1894-95, the Villa beat the Albion by one goal at Crystal Palace. Twice previously these clubs had been final opponents. In 1886-87 the Villa won 2-0 at Kennington Oval. In 1891-92 the Albion triumphed by three goals on the same ground.

In all, the Albion have reached the last stage on seven occasions (including the event of April 25) and have been semi-finalists eleven times. Birmingham have no such record

When known as Small Heath Alliance they reached the semi-final in 1885-86, only to be beaten 4-0 by West Bromwich Albion! Birmingham are sheer novices at the gentle art of cup-fighting when compared with their friends from the Hawthorns.

His One Error.

These semi-finals of last week-end will be quickly forgotten by many who witnessed the struggles, but one man who is likely to remember them for many a long day is Bill Coggins, the Everton goalkeeper. It was a mistake by him which gave the decisive goal.

But if Coggins made one mistake, how many did the Everton forwards make? At least four.

Coggins is not the only man in the Goodison side who blundered. Everyone should remember that. Twice the Everton goalie stopped shots which looked like scoring. At least four times did the Everton forwards miss chances which were scoring chances. Coggins cannot carry all the blame.

The teams for the final will probably be:

Birmingham—Hibbs; Liddle and Barkas; Cringan, Morrail and Leslie; Briggs, Crosbie, Bradford, Firth, and Curtis.

West Bromwich Albion — Pearson; Shaw and Trentham; Magee, Richardson (W) and Edwards; Glidden, Carter, Richardson (W. G.), Sandford and Wood.

How England Lost.

How England bit the dust of Hampden Park and lost an international title which seemed well within her grip will add another chapter to the history of representative football. Here, crystallized, is the why and wherefore of it all as told by two old country experts.

"The attack was a complete failure—about the worst failure England have experienced at Hampden since the war—and that is saying something.

"Not a single man in the line was really a success. Not one lived up to his reputation."—Ivan Sharpe.

"When the Scots had to face the breeze, they let themselves go with an enthusiasm and determination, allied to traditional Scottish dourness, which upset all the English preconceived notions of dictating how the game should mould itself . . . was David Meiklejohn." —Alec McNair.

The international title is jointly held by England and Scotland. The end of a season in which England threatened to carry all before her is a set-back at Hampden Park, where Scotland, restricted to home Scots, won deservedly.

The result was a victory for control of a dry and lively ball, which Stevenson and McPhail possessed and England's inside forwards did not.

It was also a triumph for Meiklejohn, the Scottish captain, and a decided check of a policy, becoming all too common in English football, of a centre-half becoming a third back.

One of the chief glories of football is lost when the pivot is no longer an attacker, for he is the fly-wheel of a team, and is the man to take a share in dictating tactics by opening out the game or passing the ball along the centre of the field.

There is a serious shortage of class centre half-backs in English football, as was reflected by the promotion, without experience in internationals, or trials, of Roberts, of Arsenal, known throughout the game as a "stopper," and a very good "stopper," but as nothing more.

The lesson of it is that the pivot must be a pivot, and that clubs must encourage centre half-backs to take a fuller share in attack.

Unfortunately, the importance of points in league play tends to the adoption of a safety role—of defence first.

AT THE REGENT

"ONE HEAVENLY NIGHT"

The beautiful blonde Evelyn Laye, who stars in "One Heavenly Night," at the Regent Theatre until Friday night, inclusive, this week, has a gorgeous singing voice which she uses to perfection. The funny part of it is that her speaking voice is harsh, perhaps because she is mostly always annoyed, or seeming to be.

It is one of those fantastically charming and entertaining talkies that delineate the love of a prince for a commoner in one of those romantic countries that lie far over the sea. In Budapest, Lilli (Evelyn Laye), is the lovely flower girl of a famous cafe where Fritzi, the charming dancer, captures the hearts of her admirers and incidentally brings on a raid that threatens to land her in exile for the next six months. She hits on the simple expedient of sending her admiring companion, Lilli, in her stead, and the efforts of the latter to live up to Fritzi's high-powered reputation form the basis of the plot of "One Heavenly Night."

Lilli goes obediently to Zuppa, where Mirko, Count Tibor, (John Boles), reigns supreme and where he, thinking she is Fritzi, Queen of Budapest and its cafes, attempts to subjugate her to his will in a rather Petruchio-like manner. But Lilli is almost as insolent as Shakespeare's famous Katherine, the Shrew, and this is where her imperious and typically English manner and her rather harsh English voice have their innings. It is a manner that is absolutely different from the well-known American demureness in heroines, and is, to say the least, just a bit out of joint. She is lovely throughout, however, and her voice is simply divine in "Along the Road of Dreams" and the other songs in which she and Boles sings in melodious carols of love.

There are two playboys in the picture, the chief being Leon Errol who is as funny as ever in the role of Otto, confidante and protector of Lilli and her teacher of singing. Fritzi's part, a very triumphant and glittering one, is splendidly done in the hands of Lillyan Tashman.—Jeanette.

Halifax Wanderers, who last night stepped into the Trinity Excelsiors squad of Montreal to emerge with a 39 to 19 victory, will go on the floor for the second and final game overwhelmingly favored to repeat.

In the second the local Reds scored 20 points to the visitors 8, rattling in 16 points without a reply in the period.

SOFTBALL LOOP MEETS TO-NIGHT

General Business and Playing Schedule and Field Will Come Under Discussion.

MORE ENTRIES EXPECTED.

More entries in the Men's City Softball League are expected at the meeting to-night which will be held at 7.30 at Duffus'. To date, five teams are entered: Sugar Bowl, Imperial Oil Co., Westclox, All Saints' Club and Brintons. The completed league will probably consist of either six or eight teams, and the entries will close about the first of May.

The committee, which was appointed to interview the Council and the Board of Education in regard to a playing field will report back to the officers and executive at to-night's gathering. It is thought likely that Central School grounds will prove the most satisfactory place for all concerned.

The opening date of the schedule will also come in for some discussion this evening, with the loop hoping to begin the games by the middle of next month.

The questions of umpires, schedule, playoffs, finances and other details which come up at this time of year, should be cleared up if possible at this session. Most likely, one more meeting will be necessary before the season opens, but considerable work could and should be finished now. Another good turnout is expected to-night.

EXAMINER WINDOW DISPLAYS BICYCLES

Bicycles Are Manufactured By Canada Cycle and Motor Company.

The showing of bicycles in The Examiner window is the first of its kind that has appeared on these premises since the time some years ago when A. H. Stratton had the largest bicycle agency in the city and carried such well-known bicycles of that time as the Whitworth with solid rubber tires and the Dodge.

In those days bicycles sold from $100 up and in comparison with the prices shown on the samples now to be seen in The Examiner window of $37.50 up it will be seen that the owner of a bicycle now has a means of travel which is comfortable and very inexpensive. Peterborough has always been looked upon as a good bicycle town and the C.W.A meet held here a couple of decades ago drew one of the biggest outside crowds the city has ever had.

The display is the only one of its kind on our main street and is attracting a good deal of attention. The models are the very latest in bicycle manufacturing.

With frames and mudguards enamelled in red or blue, striped narrowly in gilt, they are attractive models, their comfortable-looking saddles in brown leather and their curved handlebars carrying out the latest in bicycles, which are coming back to popular favor stronger than ever.

These bicycles, manufactured by the Canada Cycle and Motor Company, of Toronto, are sold exclusively in Peterborough by Millard's Sport Goods Store, at 212 Charlotte street and T. H. Ashby, at 200 Rubidge street.

ness and effort on the part of the Rangers and the full co-operation of the settlers that a serious fire situation is avoided this season. This he explained is owing to the abnormal dryness of the woods and forests, where there is almost a total lack of water or moisture of any kind.

"The Forest Fire Laws are to be rigidly enforced, he stated, and persons lighting brush fires without the necessary permits are to be prosecuted."

Mr. Crosbie has 59 Rangers under his control, operating in the north of Peterborough, in Hastings, Lennox and Addington, Frontenac, Lanark, Renfrey and part of Nipissing district.

This morning (Wednesday) he stated, the situation is now under control, a number of fires which broke out in Wicklow Township last evening having been successfully combatted.

DECIDED POLITICAL IMPORTANCE HINGES ON SOVIET AGREEMENTS

German Industrialists Have Faith in Union System, Says Investia Editorial.

SHOULD FOLLOW LEAD.

MOSCOW, Apr. 22 (AP).—Recent trade agreements under which German business men granted the Soviet union additional long term credits of approximately $12,000,000 were described today by the newspaper Izvestia as of decided political importance despite assertions in the German press that the credits are purely economic.

"German industrialists having studied our system, apparently have concluded that we are standing firmly on our own feet," said the editorial. "They have decided that the Soviet Union can be trusted with credits, and such conclusions have important political significance.

"We would like to see industrialists in other countries follow the German example and convince themselves of the baselessness of fears that the Soviet government may fail, realizing instead the wide field of opportunity opened by the industrialization of the Soviet Union.

"The German press is mistaken in thinking that we are trying to be absolutely independent economically. Such a thing is impossible in this world. The independence which we hope to attain means only that we hope to have sufficient power to stand against those capitalist countries which would enslave us."

SPANISH CABALLERO MUST TAKE FAMILY

fall in love with her at first sight but dare not speak. Every male in her family down to the most distant second cousin would demand explanations, apologies and all the rest of "the how come" racket if I did that. I scout around to find someone who knows her father. My friend tells the father that I would like to meet his daughter. It is arranged. In the presence of the assembled family which includes aunts, uncles, cousins, in-laws and everybody except the family doctor, I make my bow. The thing is about as romantic as an execution. But you have to make love by rule over here.

So now I know the girl of my dreams but can't do anything about it. Do I wish to take her to the bull fight, I must invite the whole works. This calls for 20 or 30 tickets. Army officers pay being what it is, and the prices of good bull fights what they are, it looks as if the young lieutenant has to forget the fights or dig up a quart size loan in a hurry. He does this sometimes pledging as security the dowery he is going to get from the girl. Figure that one out and guess what chance a girl has whose parents are poor but proud.

But in this case the courtship proceeds for, say, four years. Never under any consideration must the young couple be alone. This is the same in Cuba, as I have already written, but the rules here are far stricter and the penalty of a foul ball is social disgrace and scandal.

Gets Down To Business.

After a few years of playing Santa Claus to the family the young man really gets down to business. He tells his father, or the head of the family, that he wants to dive off the deep end. The father makes a solemn appointment with the girl's father and they go into a pow wow over the dowery. What has the girl collected; what is she going to add to her collection and when? What gifts can they depend upon? Most important of all how much cash is the bride's father going to produce? It's all very businesslike and formal and important. Each family goes into a huddle to decide where the honeymoon will be, where the newlyweds will live, what outsiders will be invited. The committee on ways and means paws through the details while the bride and groom are busy at the business of making love from a distance.

Then the mothers have their little say. The groom's mother goes to see the trousseau and here is where she often does the pooh pooh act. It happened right here in Vigo this spring. The groom's mother was indignant. Her feelings were not only hurt but gashed and bleeding. Why the trousseau was no better than she herself had had 27 years ago! Madre de Dios! It is impossible! There shall be no wedding.

The other family rushes to placate her. They will get more. Are there no rich members of the family in America? Of course. They will supply many dollars. Everything will be all right. Pollyanna and the Rover Boys are on the job.

So it goes. Then comes the wedding; Elaborate, beautiful, impressive, with many priests. A sort of field day for the beggars who must get alms. But even at the wedding the heads of the family are the important figures. They outshine the bride and groom. In them is vested the family pride and yet the head of the family might be a babe in arms.

Head Of Family Rules.

Suppose, for instance, you are this Spanish bride; blushing and beautiful, trying not to be excited. Your dad would be there, of course. But dad would not be the high hooper dooper if he had an older brother. The older brother would be the head of the family the same as he would be the king if you happened to be that sort of a family.

But suppose you are the daughter of the oldest male member of your family. Your father is dead. He has many brothers. They have grown sons. You just have one brother. He is a tousled lad of eight. That boy is the main duke in Spain. He mightn't suspect it but he rules the roost and while it may not work out that way, in theory at least, what he says, goes.

But now our young couple have married. Do they drop out of the family connection for awhile to really get acquainted with themselves? They do not. They entertain. And how they entertain. They do it for years and years and then perhaps they start all over again when their own sons and daughters grow up. A great life if you don't weaken. More about this tomorrow.

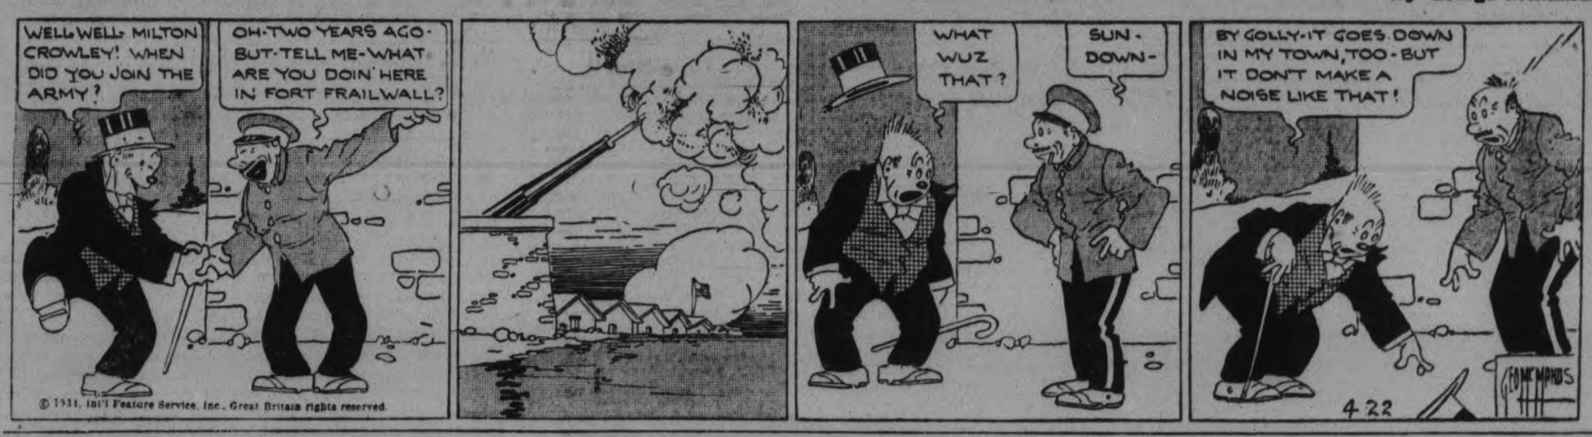
TILLIE THE TOILER — By Russ Westover

BRINGING UP FATHER — By George McManus



TOOTS AND CASPER — By Jimmy Murphy

THE happy, unconscious health of a child—the play-filled days, the long nights of restful sleep—these are the outward signs of inward health. You too can be "well outside" and look it—if you learn the safe and easy way to keep "clean inside."

Doctors pretty well agree that (barring germ diseases) most drowsiness, lack of pep and ambition, are due to failure to keep "clean inside."

In blaming this condition for much of our sickness, so they also agree that the Nujol type of treatment is the safest way to relieve it. Nujol can't possibly hurt you. It isn't a medicine at all. It has no drugs in it. It is colorless — tasteless — and children love it.

Remember two things if you want to enjoy "Nujol health."

One: Don't expect results overnight. This is nature's own method, and nature is never violent.

Two: Don't accept any substitute. Your druggist has Nujol—always in a sealed package — always trademarked "Nujol" so you will be sure to get it.

Here's a way to get a result you know is good for you, without using drugs which you know are bad for you. Don't you think it's worth trying? Begin Nujol today!

ELDER ALLEGED

Church last Sunday morning," Mr. Ellis said. "I am giving these particulars because I don't want it written up from street corner gossip. I was conducting the service at the church that morning. After the service we had an informal meeting of the session during which Mr. Truman McMahon, one of the elders of the church, demanded of me that I furnish scriptural proof of a statement which he declared that I had made in the course of a sermon on March 22, and which he claimed I had afterwards reepated. He accused me of saying, from the pulpit, "That who were baptized were undoubtedly regenerated.'

"I denied having made that statement. I said that what I actually had said on the occasion in question was "Grace and salvation are not so inseparably annexed unto the ordinance of baptism so that none can be regenerated without it, or that all that are baptized are undoubtedly regenerated." This statement, Rev. Mr. Ellis continued, was a direct quotation from the Confession of Faith, from the section on the authorized Order of Baptism. He showed the passage in his book to the press representative and showed the same passage, word for word, in his own handwriting noted on the sermon which had started the controversy. Further argument followed. Rev. Mr. Ellis continued, "Mr. McMahon still continued to assert that I had made the statement which he accused me of making. I denied having done so. I told him that he went to sleep during sermons and that consequently he had caught only a part of what I actually said, thus giving rise to the misunderstanding."

Struck Minister in Face

"What happened then?" asked the reporter. Is it true that Mr. McMahon made a physical attack on you?" "He struck me in the face with his clenched fist," said Rev. Mr. Ellis slowly, as if unwilling to make any statement that would create difficulty for his elder. "I did not move, nor make any attempt to retaliate," he added, "but I reminded him that he was furnishing a poor example to the congregation. I positively refused to discuss the matter further with him, and left. I made no attempt to retaliate; all I said was that I would not strike an old man."

"After I had previously received a letter from Mr. McMahon about this matter," Rev. Mr. Ellis continued, "a letter which involved the whole congregation; I repeated my original statement from the pulpit in such a way that it would be quite impossible for any one to misunderstand it."

Mr. McMahon, an elderly but still sturdy looking man at Hawkestone, five miles south of Eason, refused to either deny or affirm the story of the affair. "I haven't a thing to say," he said, "You had better make for your car," he added.

His fellow elders also refused to be quoted on this matter.

car at the time, the rest of the party occupying the rear seat, the survivors told the police. It would appear, according to police, that the victims were thrown out and crushed under the weight of the car as it rolled. It was apparent that they were instantly killed.

Their bodies had not been touched when the officers arrived at the scene. The body of Isaac Jefferson was lying with the head close to the wreckage. The bodies of Mrs. Jefferson and William Fowler lay in the ditch close to the car, while that of Mary Ladd, was probably 12 feet from the wreckage. What remained of the automobile was facing in an easterly direction, with the rear section of the shoulder of the road, bearing out the theory that the car had rolled. No persons were in the vicinity at the time but several quickly gathered as passing motor cars were stopped.

With difficulty they raised the wreckage under which Mrs. Fowler was pinned. She was senseless at the time, and at first, it was thought she was dead. It was stated that she was in danger of choking.

The woman quickly revived, however.

Inquest Ordered

Coroner Hanks of Blenheim, was summoned, and after rendering first aid to the injured ordered the bodies removed to the Downey garage at Cedar Springs. An inquest was ordered and a jury hastily empanneled. After viewing the remains at the garage, and inspecting the scene of accident, the jury adjourned until 1:30 Tuesday, April 28, to meet at Blenheim.

The car had Michigan license 256-574 and is registered in the name of Charles D. Powell, of 3633 Ardnett street, Detroit. Powell was not with the party. It was driven to Chatham a few days ago by Johnson, who claimed a part ownership in the machine. Powell is said to be a relative of Johnson.

THE SON OF TARZAN No. 45 (Metropolitan Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.) By Edgar Rice Burroughs

Meriem opened her eyes. Her heart stood still! Creeping silently toward her was a huge bull ape that she never had seen before. Behind him was another like him. With the agility of a squirrel Meriem was on her feet. At the same instant the great bull lunged for her. Leaping from limb to limb the girl fled through the jungle while close behind her came the two great apes. Above them raced a bevy of screaming, chattering monkeys.

The little creatures hurled taunts and insults at the Mangani, encouragement and advice to the girl. From tree to tree swung Meriem working ever upward toward the smaller branches which would not bear the weight of her pursuers. Faster and faster came the apes after her. The clutching fingers of the foremost were upon her again and again, but she eluded them by sudden bursts of speed or reckless chances as she leaped.

Now after a particularly daring leap, the swaying branch she grasped bent low beneath her weight and with a rending sound ripping from the tree trunk. Releasing her hold Meriem dropped through the foliage, clutching for a new support. She had fallen many times before and had no terror of it; only the delay appalled her. Right too, for one of the huge apes dropped at her side and a great, hairy paw went about her waist.

Almost at once the other ape reached his companion's side. He made a lunge for Meriem, but her captor swung her to one side, bared his fighting fangs and growled ominously. Meriem struggled to free herself, striking at the hair breast, fastening her strong, white teeth in one shaggy forearm. The ape cuffed her viciously across the face, then he had to turn his attention to his fellow who quite evidently desired the prize for his own.

CLAIMS $768.77.

A claim for the sum of $768.77 is down for hearing at a special sitting of the County Court to be held on Friday, in which the plaintiffs are Charles Max Rishor and Duncan C. Morrison of this city, and the defendants E. P. Jackson of Jackson Motor Sales and Fargo Motor Corporation of Canada Limited. Plaintiffs are represented by J. F. Strickland, K.C., M.L.A. The solicitors for the defendant Fargo Motor Corporation are Smith, Rae and Greer of Toronto and for E. P. Jackson, Hall, Hall and Stevenson. It is probable that the action will be heard before His Honor Judge Ruddy of Whitby.

RANGERS' ROUTE MARCH.

With a soldierly precision and bearing that reflected the enthusiasm and pride that the men are taking in their unit, the Peterborough Rangers Regiment stepped off from the Armouries last evening on a route march through the principal thoroughfares of the city.

In command of Lieut.-Colonel M. H. Park, V.D., and headed by the scarlet-coated bandsmen, the Regiment, which turned out at full strength, presented an inspiring spectacle. The route march, which is now becoming something of an annual institution, was the first of the season, and signalized the commencement of a strenuous season of training.

RECEIVE FOX PELTS

Seven choice Red Fox pelts have recently been received by Messrs. Curvin and Peeling, fur buyers of this city, direct from Alaska, while they have also accepted consignment direct from Russia of forty Marten skins.

TRAFFIC BY-LAW

stop at "stop" signs is not observed. Cars parked all night without lights anywhere in the city will also receive police attention, and if continued the police will order the cars towed to a garage and the owners will have to pay storage.

Provisions of the city parking by-law were reviewed. The by-law sets out a special parking area bounded by Brock, Aylmer, Sherbrooke and Sheridan Streets. Angle parking in this area is permitted on the east side of streets running north and south for one, and no parking is permitted on the west side. Similarly on the south side of streets in this area angle parking is permitted for an hour and no parking on the north side.

Business Men Worst Offenders.

Business men themselves are one of the worst offenders of the parking by-law, commented Chief Newhall. "Motorists who plan to remain down street for some time should park their cars on the Market Square or some of the side streets," he said. "If they don't there is going to be trouble."

He stressed the fact that the business district was congested by these too-longed parked cars, which made it difficult for farmers and other outside shoppers to do their business here. "We want to assist in every way to make Peterborough a shopping place, and a whole string of parked cars outside all stores isn't going to do it," commented the Chief.

Parking Outside Theatres

Theatre-goers who park their cars outside the theatre came into scorn from the chief. "The market square and side streets is going to be the place where those going to the theatres must leave their cars. One night last week 24 cars were counted parked between Charlotte and King streets on George and at that time there were only three cars on the market square, the proper place. Parked cars on George and Water streets leave only a narrow lane for other cars making it dangerous. Special attention is going to be directed toward this parking business."

Car dealers as a class are the worst offenders of the parking by-law. The chief stated that last night his men had moved 16 parked cars belonging to one dealer. "He was using the street as a show place, leaving his cars there all day. That's going to stop, too" declared the chief.

Cars can not park on highways without lights, and they certainly are not going to be left on the city streets all night without lights, he stated. The constables will order a garage to remove such parked cars and the owners will have to pay all cost of removal and storage.

"The City Council or the Police Department has no desire to increase the citys' revenue by levying fines on motorists rich and left as is done in many cities in Ontario. Compare Belleville with Peterborough, there they have 600 to 700 motor vehicle cases every year, and we have less than a hundred. But if motorists are going to continue to carelessly break the law and so increase the danger of travel on the streets then the number of fines will take a big rize, because I mean to enforce the law and clear up the traffic congestion" concluded the chief.

FIRE INSPECTOR STARTS CLEAN UP

Building in East City is Ordered to be Torn Down by W. L. Clairmont.

APPEALS NOT ALLOWED

The building situated at 50-52 Hunter street east, near the proposed creamery at Driscoll Terrace, has been ordered to be torn down by W. L. Clairmont, Inspector of the Fire Prevention Branch of the Fire Marshall's Department, who is visiting this city to-day. A complete clean-up is being made of all buildings, residences, barns etc., of a dangerous nature.

The Hunter Street building is owned by S. J. Murphy, and is at present occupied by a shoe repair shop and a blacksmith shop. Mr. Clairmont reported the structure as being in too dilopidated a condition to admit of repair. A building in the south end of the city has been condemned, though no official statement has been issued as yet. Several other structures will be examined by the Inspector during the next few days.

As a result of new fire laws recently passed through the Ontario Legislature, there will be no appeals considered from the orders of the Inspector. Fire escapes will be recommended, and their erections will consequently be compulsory.

RECKLESS DRIVERS ARE FINED $25.00

One License is Suspended For Seven Days and the Other For Month.

"He was demonstrating the speed the car could do, your Worship," A. L. Elliott, counsel for Bob Conlan, local car salesman, said in explaining why Conlan was driving at 60 miles an hour on the Chemong Road.

"With a new car like that, there is really no more danger going 60 miles an hour than forty," added the lawyer.

"Oh, isn't there," commented Magistrate Langley. "Well, any motorist caught going sixty will be fined in this court."

Conlan was charged with reckless driving as was also Percy Hozer, of Lindsay. Both were stopped by Patrol Officer Hornick as they speeded side by side along No. 7 highway on Thursday evening.

Both pleaded guilty and were taxed $25 and costs. Conlan's license was suspended for ten days and Hozer's for a month.

"Guilty," said Fred and Wellie Fallis, who were charged with being intoxicated last night on Hunter street. A $10 fine each set them free.

First Consideration Should Be Markets

WASHINGTON, D.C., April 22 (C.P.). — The market rather than production should be the first consideration of any business man, according to a report which will be made by a committee of American business men to the International Chamber of Commerce meeting here in May.

The chairman of the committee is F. P. Valentine, assistant vice-president of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company.

The report asserts the primary concern of producers in recent years has been maximum production and distribution, whereas it should have been to fit production and distribution into the economic mechanism that supplies consumers.

The report continued: "The primary responsibility is to allocate and evaluate consumption and demand."

Wife Pleads in Vain For Husband to Open Locked Bathroom Door.

SCREAMS ROUSE NEIGHBORS

Entrance Forced Through Window Too Late to Prevent Tragedy.

TORONTO, Ont. Apr. 23—(CP)—Slashing his throat with a razor after he had drowned his two and a half year old son in the bath tub at his home here early today, Wilbur Bunker, 40, employed by a local contracting firm until a week ago, was removed to St. Joseph's hospital was reported as serious.

Hearing unusual noises in the bathroom, his wife, who was washing dishes in the kitchen, hastened up the stairs and found the bathroom door locked. Fearing something terrible was about to happen Mrs. Bunker pleaded with her husband to open the door but the man continued his awful mission.

Neighbors Come To Aid

Mrs. Bunker's scream attracted the attention of neighbors, one of whom mounted a ladder and entered the bathroom window, finding Bunker lying on the floor covered with blood.

First intimation of the tragedy was made to the fire department, when a call was received revealing something was wrong at the Bunker home. According to a neighbor, there are three children in the Bunker family; two young girls who attend school, and the infant son who was drowned.

The Weather

A change from mid-summer temperature to comparatively cool weather has occurred. This morning the thermometer was at 2 degrees below the freezing point. The rainfall last night was very light, and only measured .05, or one-twentieth of an inch. In Toronto it was .29, and in most places in the western peninsula it was still heavier. Around Lake Simcoe it took the form of snow.—W.P.

CONCORD, N. H., April 23 (C.P.)—Mills were silent in New Hampshire to-day and stores were closed for the Granite State was observing Fast Day, a holiday that has come down from earliest colonial times.

The day originally was set aside each year by the Puritans as one of fasting and prayer in which to offer thanks for surviving the bitter New England winter and in which to pray for the success of crops in the forthcoming season.

No special observances now mark the day for changing times and customs have made it merely a holiday.

BUDGET MYSTERY GIVES MEMBERS GUESSING TO DO

Flurry Starts as Premier Departs From Usual Phrase in Making Announcement.

MONDAY SET AS DATE.

LONDON, April 23. (By George Hambleton, C. P. Staff Correspondent).—Parliamentarians are agog over the last budget mystery.

Prime Minister Ramsay Macdonald announced in the House of Commons this afternoon that Rt. Hon. Philip Snowden, Chancellor of the Exchequer, would personally introduce the budget on Monday. He followed this with the announcement that the three days following the House would consider the business arising from the budget speech."

Why? Says Baldwin

Rt. Hon. Stanley Baldwin, Conservative Leader,—was immediately on his feet with a query as to why the formula was changed from the usual phrase—"the House will consider the budget speech."

Premier Macdonald declined to tell the secret. To answer now would mean a revelation of the budget, he said. He was prepared however to answer any questions after the budget speech.

"I assure the House it is nothing to raise a flutter of any kind" the Prime Minister said.

"Well, whatever the mystery is we will discuss it on Tuesday," said Mr. Baldwin.

"Yes" Premier Macdonald answered.

And with that the House had to be content.

RED PATCH CLUB COMMEMORATES BATTLE OF YPRES

Members Are Urged to Help in Economic Crisis as They Aid in War Time.

MUST BACK LEGION.

Meet Not to Commemorate a Feat But to Commemorate a Service Rendered.

Pleas that they exhibit the same spirit of sacrifice and service, in this present economic crisis, as they did at the call to arms in the summer of 1914, were voiced to the members of "The Red Patch Club" (1st Division Canadian Expeditionary Force), during the course of several very eloquent speeches delivered last evening in the Armouries, at the banquet in commemoration of the sixteenth anniversary of the second battle of Ypres.

More wholehearted support and co-operation, on the part of all returned men, was also urged on behalf of the splendid efforts that are being expended in the interests of returned men by the Canadian Legion, B.E.S.L.

Major H. K. Clifton, M.C., Medaille Militaire, Croix de Guerre, President of the Red Patch Club proved to be a capable toastmaster. He explained at the outset that they were gathered not so much to commemorate a feat of arms, but rather as Major the Rev. W. E. Kidd, M.C., had remarked on a recent occasion, to commemorate a great service that was rendered to Canada—the greatest service that could be rendered, when her sons had repulsed the first gas attack at the second battle of Ypres, sixteen years ago—and to rededicate themselves to the service of their country.

Other speakers included Captain James Abraham, past-president Canadian Legion; Lieut-Colonel Charles Ackerman; Captain G. Marryat, D.C.M., Order of St. George of Russia; His Worship Mayor Roland Denne; Capt. J. F. Strickland, K.C., M.P.P., Major G. G. Winterbottom, M.C. (bar), D.C.M. and Lieut-Colonel W. G. Hall, V.D., O.C., 7th Infantry Brigade. Apologies for absence were received from Major-General Garnet B. Hughes, C.B., C.M.G., D.S.O., and From Lieut.-Colonel M. H. Park, V.D., O.C., Peterborough Rangers Regiment.

It was a pleasing function which drew together some seventy members of the organization, and knit them more closely together in those bonds which were established overseas. The banquet hall was tastefully decorated with bunting, and the Divisional and battalion signs, and while a spirit of festivity pervaded the atmosphere,

AUNT OF ALFONSO TAKEN BY DEATH

Infanta Isabella Dies in Paris After Less Than Week in Exile.

WAS 80 YEARS OLD.

PARIS, April 23 (C.P.), — The Infanta Isabella, aunt of Alfonso of Spain, died in a hospital here this afternoon. She was eighty years old.

Infanta Isabella's sister, Infanta Eulalia, and Infanta Beatrice, sister of Queen Marie of Rumania, were at the bedside. Victoria was notified at her hotel in Fontainebleau, and she arrived at the clinic a few hours later.

Her death ended in less than a week of exile, for the ill and aged Princess fled Spain shortly after King Alfonso left last week.

Was Left Behind.

The other members of the immediate Royal Family followed separate paths into exile, leaving Isabella in her private palace, not even telling her that the throne had fallen.

They knew that she would not be disturbed in the confusion of that week, but the Princess had seen the throne fall once before, and when she heard the din outside her windows she demanded to know what it was all about.

Then they told her what had happened.

Dismayed but determined she set about packing her bags and turned her face from Madrid.

Last Monday she crossed the frontier with Infanta Beatrice, sister of Queen Marie of Rumania, on the way to Paris.

She was desperately ill and her condition naturally was aggravated by the excitement through which she was passing.

She made the trip by train and at Hendaye, the border point where passengers change for Paris, they carried her from one train to the other on a stretcher.

Still her doughty self, she smiled wanly and chatted with the aristocratic emigres who were at Hendaye to meet her.

Taken to Hospital.

She and Beatrice had an otherwise uneventful journey, but when Queen Victoria left for Fontainebleau she could not go along.

She had been taken to the hospital on the day after she arrived.

Isabella saw her mother, Queen Isabella, dethroned in 1873, and she went with other members of the Royal Family into exile during the brief life of the Republic which was established then.

She was married in May of 1868 to Gaetan, Count de Girgenti and Prince of Bourbon. He died in November of 1871.

Worker Discharged, 200 Japanese Men On Hunger Strike

TOKIO, April 23 (C.P.).—Two hundred men, employed by the Japan Dyeing and Weaving Company at Hashibasho, a suburb of Tokio, are on a hunger strike as a protest against the discharge of a fellow-worker.

They locked themselves in a warehouse on Tuesday, and leaders announced that they had eaten nothing since, despite the company's efforts to tempt them with various kinds of food, including raw and fried fish and boiled eggs, ordinarily considered dainty morsels. In addition sympathizers are tossing fruit, candies, and other dainties through the warehouse windows, but to no avail.

One hundred girls employed in the factory stopped work in sympathy with the men, but refused to join the hunger strike.

VILLAGE OF BLIND FOUND IN MEXICO

Residents Numbering 900 Venture Forth Only After Sun Goes Down.

INSECTS CAUSE MALADY.

WASHINGTON, D.C., April 23. — (AP)—A village of 900 people, all totally or partially blind, who never venture from their homes until after sundown was described by Dr. Miguel Bustamente, Mexican delegate to the second Pan-American Conference of Directors of Health.

The village is Tiltepec, in the State of Oaxaca, Mexico. Hidden away in the mountains, it is reached only by a few horse trails and has almost no contact with the outside.

The malady which blinded the inhabitants is known in the medical world as onchocrocels.

Tests have shown, Dr. Bustamente said, in his speech yesterday, that an insect has been found the cause of the blindness. Eradication of this insect, he added, have given hope in the fight against the malady, of which little is known.

The disease caused blindness and, in addition, sensitiveness to light, so that person stricken with it cannot stand sunlight. It is estimated there are 20,000 cases in Mexico.

Tiltepec, Dr. Bustamente said, is in a remote mountain valley. When Dr. Ramon Pardo went to the village recently he had difficulty in establishing contact with the people. They speak Zapotec, an Indian language complete in itself. They live in crude huts. There is not a school, church, a store or a public building in the village.

The inhabitants grow a little corn and some sheep. From the wool, they make simple garments.

BUILDING COSTS AT LOWEST LEVEL IN PAST 10 YEARS

Those Thinking of Building Should Find Every Encouragement in Prices Charged.

BUILDERS FAIRLY ACTIVE.

Citizens Who Have Repairs to Do Could Aid Unemployment Situation.

Building construction costs have declined to the lowest level in eleven years, contractors report as an evidence of the favorable conditions which have developed this season.

"Any person who is thinking of putting up a house or going ahead with some other building should find every encouragement in the prices of material and also in the prevailing wages," a contractor remarked to The Examiner this morning. "This is perhaps one reason why the new Matthews Creamery, the Card and Board Company, and two of the local churches have work either under way or ready to call for tenders. I can also think of seven or eight houses that are in course of construction, and in all this work there is bound to be a very substantial saving as compared with the probable cost based on the prices that have prevailed since 1920.

A report from Toronto a few days ago showed that the National Bricklayers reduced their scale of wage 25 cents an hour, and I understand that all their men are employed. Carpenters and laborers have also adjusted their wages to the present conditions as a means of encouraging work. Lumber costs are quite a bit lower, and the same applies to some of the other lines that are used in building."

Are Fairly Active

Several other contractors have mentioned these same factors as applying to actual and prospective work in this city and district, and lumber companies, referring to their deliveries, state that the outlook is somewhat better than they had expected. The season would be even more active, it is said, if many persons who are contemplating the letting of contracts of one kind or another would appreciate the advantages which are presented to them this Spring.

In this same vein, Mayor Denne has been considering the advisability of making as Mayor an appeal to the citizens to go ahead with work which they know should be done, but which they may be inclined to postpone under the influence of a negative psycological sentiment that is hampering the entire country.

How Citizens Could Help

"I feel sure that there are many

Overheated Shaft Blamed For Blaze In Milling Plant

Tweed Milling Company's Mill and Offices Are Completely Destroyed By Fire, Causing Loss Estimated at $100,000 Partly Covered By Insurance.

FANNED BY STIFF BREEZE FLAMES GAINED HEADWAY SEPARATE SCHOOL AND TEN DWELLINGS WERE IGNITED

Large Wood Pile is Also Destroyed — Mill Was a Four Storey Structure 100 Feet By 75 Feet and Contained $18,000 Worth of Grain Ready To Be Milled.

TWEED, April 23 (Examiner Correspondence). — One of the most disastrous fires in the history of this village, yesterday wiped out the mill and offices of the Tweed Milling Company, causing a loss estimated at $100,000, and which is partly covered by insurance.

Believed to be due to an overheated shaft, the fire was first discovered about 2 o'lock in the afternoon. Fanned by a stiff breeze the fire gained rapid headway, and had the wind been in any other direction it is believed that the consequences to the village itself might have been disastrous. As it was, the business section was in jeopardy, but hard work on the part of the Fire Brigade, under Chief Orr, kept the fire confined more or less to the locality in which it originated. At one period during the long fight, the Separate School was ignited, and also ten dwelling-houses across the river, without serious consequences; while a large wood yard was also prey to the flames. The latter situation, while constituting a serious menace to the surrounding countryside owing to the extreme dryness, was admirably handled by the Fire Rangers under District Forester Crosbie.

$18,000 Worth of Grain.

In the mill itself, a four-storey structure 100 feet by 75 feet, it is estimated that some $18,000 worth of grain was consumed in the flames, which were visible for miles around.

Till an early hour this morning the firefighters worked without respite, while two men are now posted on the smouldering ruins watchful for further signs of a renewed outbreak.

While assisting the Fire Brigade, Police Chief Wallace Moon was struck in the back by falling embers, receiving injuries requiring medical attention. He was removed to his home, and will probably be confined to his bed for some days. Several of the firemen were also victims of minor mishaps, but were able to remain on duty.

Explosion Occurs at Killarney Dock When Effort is Made to Start Craft.

OPERATOR IS UNINJURED.

SUDBURY, Ont., April 23 (C.P.) — Four of five people who were on the vessel at the time were severely injured when the Killarney Quarry mail boat blew up at Killarney dock late yesterday, hoisting the roof completely off the craft and setting it afire.

Walter Burke, operator, succeeded in coming out unscratched, but Mr. McNair, manager of the Dominion Mines and Quarry Company, near Killarney, was bruised about the head and had his coat torn off; Mrs. Joseph Turcotte suffered injuries to one of her legs; Miss Tyson received injuries to her legs, and Rose Esquimaux had three fingers broken and was otherwise bruised. They will all recover.

Cause Unknown

The exact cause of the explosion is not known; but it is surmised by Burke, that gasoline must have accumulated around the base of the enclosed engine due to carburetor leaking. When Burke stepped on the started there was instantly a deafening explosion, which shook the surrounding village, and lifted the roof off the boat into the air and breaking all the windows of the vessel as well

FIRE DESTROYED EAST CITY BARN

Old Barns on Driscoll Terrace Were Burned to Ground Early This Morning.

HORSE LOST IN FIRE.

A most spectacular fire occured last evening when a group of old barns on Driscoll Terrace, immediately north of the proposed Matthews creamery burned to the ground in a few minutes. Although the firemen were not table to save the old building, which was adjacent to that condemned to be torn down by Inspector Clairmont yesterday, they prevented the flames, blown everywhere by a raging north wind, from spreading to nearby buildings.

The barns were joined together and were about 70 feet in length, and from 20 to 30 feet in width. The south end of the structure was used as a paint shop, while the north unit was rented by Walter Harran. Most of the paints had been removed. Furniture had been stored in Herran's part of the barn but had been removed that day. However, he had left his wagon in the barn and his horse was stabled in the north end. The barns were the property of Jim Matthews, and were due to be torn down in a short time.

Started in Paint Shop

A small blaze in the paint shop, was first noted by J. Jacques, hotel owner on Hunter East, at 12.45 a.m. and an alarm was immediately sent into the Fire Department. Within a few minutes the whole structure burst into a mass of flames. To those coming up Hunter street and half way across Ashburnham bridge it looked as if the east side of the Quaker Oats factory was on fire, and reminiscences of the 1916 fire caused a great deal of anxiety.

Mr. Jacques attempted to free the horse, but the smoke was so great that he could not. The structure burned like match-wood, and the

ROMANCE TABOO.

By GORDON A. SINCLAIR

PONTEVEDRA, Spain, April 23.—(Copyright, 1931).—Death holds all the aces in the game of love as it is played in the land of matadors and mantillas. Poverty holds the deuces. The rules are strict.

Yesterday you heard of a Spanish courtship, as played by class folks. Involved, expensive, boring and about as romantic as a bread line. But that was a normal courtship. They don't all work out that way. Now and again one actually become exhilarating and tender. Now and again one gets tragic.

Peden And LePage Hold Grind Lead

MONTREAL, Que., Apr. 23.—(CP)—William "Torchy" Peden of Victoria, B.C., and Henri Lepage, Montreal, team mates in the six day bicycle race here, held their place at the head of the pack at the eleven o'clock mark today, having covered 1,179 miles and three laps since the race started one minute after midnight last Monday morning. Horder and Bartell were tied with the leaders for distance but had amassed only 109 points to 194 for the leaders. Gachon and Stubecke, although seven laps behind the leaders, had amassed 197 points, leading the field in this respect. The teams of Gadou-Dempsey, McNamara-Laporte and Baggio-Blondet, were tied one lap behind the leaders, their point score respectively standing at 157,140 and 72. The New York-Toronto team of Black and Fickling were five laps behind with 178 points.

CELEBRATE GREAT ANNIVERSARIES ENGLAND, IRELAND, WALES TO-DAY

Many Ceremonies Staged in Honor of St. George and Shakespeare's Birthday.

DAY OF ZEEBRUGGE ATTACK.

LONDON, April 23.—(By Thos. T. Champion, C. P. Staff Correspondent.)—To-day was a day of great anniversary; the anniversaries of Shakespeare's birthday and of the epic attack of Zeebrugge, and St. George's Day.

Welshmen and Irishmen, it must be admitted, make more of the festival of their patron saint than do Englishmen. St. George's Day passed almost unheeded among the mass of folk. But there was a goodly show of the trappings of old-time chivalry when members of the Order of St. Michael and St. George attended the annual service at St. Paul's to-day. The banners of three knights who had died since the last commemoration were ceremoniously removed from the Order's chapel in the Cathedral.

The army keeps the festival with more zeal than the civilian and the Northumberland Fusiliers, who bear St. George and the dragon in their colors, held a special parade for trooping the colors.

Shakespeare's Birthday

The day was much more greatly observed as Shakespeare's birthday anniversary. Stratford - on - Avon hangs out its banners on the outer walls of its half-timbered old houses and the bells of the church, in the chancel of which the immortal poet lies buried, rang out merrily. At noon the flags of all nations were unfurled in the high street, symoolical of the world's homage to Shakespeare. Today's ceremonies at Stratford-on-

The pilot's death was the 37th fatal accident to a member of the Royal Air Force this year.

Premier Baxter Sees Russia Great Menace

ST. JOHN, N.B., April 23 (C.P.). —Russia to-day presents a greater menace to the world and civilization than the Germans did during the years 1914-1918, declared Premier J. B. M. Baxter, speaking before the Red Chevron Club of St. John at its annual meeting.

"I pray to God the five-year-plan of the Soviet Government is unsuccessful and I really feel it will be," he said.

The Second Battle of Ypres was commemorated by the club members of the First Contingent during the evening.

SOVIETS PLAN TO EXTINGUISH KULAKS CLASS

Former Wealthy Peasants Must Register, Report Movements to Police.

3,000,000 REMAIN.

Children Over 14 Years to Receive Good Standing Must Renounce Parents.

MOSCOW, Apr. 23.—(AP)—A new campaign of extermination against the Kulaks, or land owning peasants, is being planned by the Soviet Union.

Under its provisions the hated Kulak will be branded openly as an enemy of the Communistic Government, compelled to register with and report his movements to police wherever he may go, and relegated to unimportant work to earn his bread.

Details of the new scheme published in Izvestia, official organ of the central executive committee of the Soviet Union, reveal its wide scope, which, banning the glass from Government jobs, will force them to resort to manual labor or cease to exist.

Crime To Own Land

The Kulak's crime is that he once owned land, and sometimes a horse or cow, with which he maintained himself and his family. He resented the collectives, which took these holdings away from him, and put him on an equal footing with those who owned nothing at all.

It is estimated that there are still 3,000,000 Kulaks in Russia, not including the number who have been banished to the Arctic regions where they live in lumber camps on a no work, no food basis. Many of them have been shot on conviction of counter-revolutionary activities. Recently it has been discovered that many were pretending not to be Kulaks and were reaping rewards usually reserved for Soviet citizens of good standing. The Kulaks in most cases were prosperous peasant farmers before the revolution.

It is now proposed, as the first step in the new campaign, to make a complete census of these outcasts to facilitate placing them completely under police supervision. Children under fourteen years old will not bear the stigma of their Kulak parents, but above that age to receive good standing they will have to renounce their parents and swear to have nothing to do with them.

Police Dog With Keen Sense of Justice Frees Owner's Freshly-Dug Fish Worms

CAMPBELLFORD, April 22 (Examiner Staff Correspondence). —We have often heard of the "wise old owl," but here is the tale of a wise dog. A cottager at Trent River, thinking to take a little exercise, went into the garden and dug worms, placing them in a can. Going back into the cottage, he emerged later only to find that Yvonne, the police dog, objecting to his actions, had taken the can of worms and redistributed them over the garden from where a few minutes before they had been dug. But that was not the end of the morning's sport. Feeling the call of the "inner man," this worthy cottager peeled a pot of potatoes in readiness for the midday meal, and placed them on the table. But this again did not please Yvonne, who took the "murphies" and strewed them over the garden from whence they were dug. Who says a dog is not human?

Veteran Journalist Dies In Hamilton

HAMILTON, Ont., April 23.—A veteran figure was removed from the field of journalism in Canada yesterday when Jones Lewis, former editor of The Hamilton Herald, died suddenly. Mr. Lewis passed away at his home in this city, where he had lived since his retirement from active life several years ago.

As an editorial writer, Mr. Lewis wielded an eloquent pen, and his views gained attention throughout the Dominion. He was born in Belleville, and came to Hamilton in his 22nd year. For twelve years he was a member of the editorial staff of The Spectator, and later was with the old Hamilton Times. POLISH CITY FLOODED.

VILNA, Poland, April 23 (C.P.).—The lower part of the City of Vilna was under water to-day, with a number of houses threatening collapse, while the floods which have covered a large part of the Vilna Province became increasingly serious. Both the Dvina and the Niemen are rising rapidly.

One house at Vilna collapsed yesterday but all the inmates escaped.

GRAIN EXPORTERS PLAN TO ATTEND MEET IN LONDON

Conference Will Not Gather With Any Cut and Dried Scheme.

Orderly Marketing is Goal.

One Suggestion To Be Considered is International Clearing House For Wheat.

LONDON, April 23 (By George Hambleton, C.P. Staff Correspondent)—Spade work is well under way for the conference of wheat exporting nations of the world which will open at Canada House here on May 18, under the chairmanship of Hon. G. Howard Ferguson, Canadian High Commissioner to Great Britain. A number of acceptances to the invitations have been received, and it is expected all the exporting countries—European as well as overseas—will send representatives, though some doubt is felt about the United States.

The conference, it is emphasized in authoritative circles, will not meet with any cut and dried scheme. The idea is to thoughly thresh out the situation with a view to devising some scheme for orderly marketing of the world's wheat.

Clearing House

One suggestion, it is understood, is the creation of an international clearing house for wheat. The clearing house would not itself attempt the action buying or selling of wheat. Its function would be rather to survey the world wheat supply and demand and bring the buyer into contact with the seller through agreements whereby the flow of wheat would be regulated and more equitably distributed. Under this scheme the actual buying and selling would be conducted through existing agencies, but to give such a scheme force some governmental action, in the way of export licenses or similar methods, would probably be necessary.

The clearing house idea remains only a suggestion. No formal proposals have been submitted nor are any expected until the conference itself has had an opportunity to review the situation.

An important feature of the coming wheat conference is the effect it is likely to have on the proposed Empire wheat quota. A British quota for wheat from the wheat-growing Dominions has been under examination by the Labor Government since the last Imperial Conference. One recent report had it that the British delegates intended to offer a wheat quota at the coming Imperial Economic Conference at Ottawa in return for a Canadian quota on British coal. There has been no confirmation of this report, and in any event the British wheat quota could hardly be put into force for another year.

May Influence Quota Plan.

But the decisions at the London Wheat Conference are likely to have considerable bearing on the proposed Empire wheat quota. Should the London Conference result in satisfactory and equitable agreements among the exporting nations, it is felt in some circles here that the institution of an Empire wheat quota in the British market would no longer be necessary.

Meanwhile, preparatory to the London Conference, sugar and tin quota schemes are being examined and all available data collected.

MILL WORKMAN LOSES HIS HAND

Accident Occurs at Norland When James Quinn Gets Tangled in Roller.

RUSHED TO LINDSAY.

LINDSAY, April 23.—(Examiner Correspondence).—James Quinn, of Norland, Victoria County, met with a distressing accident on Tuesday. He is employed in Bryant's mill at that place, and while operating a machine had his hand severed at the wrist when it became tangled in a roller. After being given first aid treatment by the mill hands, he was rushed to Ross Memorial Hospital in a weakened condition. Quinn is a married man.

John Cunningham, of Fenelon Falls, brother of Robert Cunningham, of Peterborough, passed away in that village a few days ago. The deceased, who was in his seventy-fifth year, is survived by his wife and one son.

The Third Battallion, of Toronto, known as the Toronto Regiment, will visit Lindsay on May 24 and 25, and will take part in the program arranged for the reunion of the 109th Battalion on Victoria Day.

Bennett Uninformed Claims Western M.P.

WINNIPEG, Man., April 23 (C.P.). — If one were to judge by his remarks, Premier R. B. Bennett could not be well informed regarding Western conditions, according to Thomas Wolstenholme, chairman of the Manitoba Legislature Agricultural Committee. Mr. Wolstenholme is also a farmer and member in the Provincial Government for Hamiota.

Commenting on Premier Bennett's address in the House of Commons on Tuesday in regard to conditions in the West, the Agricultural Committee chairman declared himself astonished to hear that the Prairie farmers were not experiencing undue hard times. From his own experience, he declared, he knew conditions were difficult throughout the farming West.

Deposed Monarch Chats With Waiter

LONDON, April 23 (A.P.)—Alfonso de Bourbon, an unemployed king, and Juan Fernandez, a head waiter with a job, have renewed an old acquaintance of Alfonso's happier days.

The deposed Spanish monarch, visiting at the Kinsington Hotel last night looked up Fernandez, who has put arroz con pollo on the Kinsington menus, and chatted with him for a while.

Fernandez expressed regret that times had changed in Spain, and Alfonso rejoined: "I suppose I had to give them an opportunity."

Fernandez then commented that he hoped Alfonso would soon return to Spain, and Alfonso answered: "We shall have to see about that."

The deposed monarch also visited the Marchioness of Portago, a noblewoman of his Madrid court, at the hotel.

NO FOUNDATION FINANCIAL FEARS

Banks Offer Co-operation in Preventing Withdrawal of Capital for Export Abroad.

SPANISH NOBLES RETURN.

MADRID, April 23. (AP)—Representatives of almost all the banks of Spain have offered the new republican government their co-operation in preventing withdrawal of capital for export abroad.

The bankers say that fears held by many, principally aristocrats and monarchists, for Spain's financial future are without foundation, and they will recommend to their institutions that they forbid withdrawals which will be contrary to government policy.

City councils throughout Spain have been asked to make a complete check of transactions, particularly loans and credits, during the Primo De Rivera dictatorship and report back to the Madrid authority before May 15.

Dispatches from northern Spain say that many aristocrats who fled to France upon the establishment of a republic are now returning; San Sebastian papers say that the deposed King Alfonso, asked this of them.

A government announcement says that all military officers must sign a loyalty pledge to the republic within four days or be placed on the reserve lists.

ONTARIO FEELS WINTER WEATHER

Hearts of Farmers Gladdened at Fall of Rain—Snow Blankets North.

FEAR FELT FOR FRUIT.

TORONTO, Ont., April 23. (CP)—A biting northwest wind, bringing a threat of snow, brought a sudden change in weather conditions to Ontario to-day.

Yesterday the hearts of farmers and city lovers of emerald green lawns and gardens were gladdened by the most refreshing rain in months. A prolonged drought has been experienced during winter months by agriculturists in nearly all parts of Western Ontario and yesterday's downpour in addition to improving crop prospects filled wells empty for months.

While south, east and western sections of the province were benefiting from the much needed rain, however, parts of Northern Ontario, suffered from a prank of the weatherman's. Snow—four inches of it—fell in the district of Swastika, while as far south as Barrie, it fell to the depth of three inches.

Some apprehension is felt over the cold snap in the fruit growing districts. Early fruits are near the blossoming stage and snowstorms or frost might prove disastrous at this stage of maturity.

FIRE DESTROYED

large amount of hay in the north end of the barn proved easy prey to the flames. Two lengths of hose, totalling 700 feet, were laid and firemen labored incessantly both to subdue the blaze and prevent the nearby houses from being destroyed. Huge sparks were blown right across Hunter street, and the roofs of the adjacent houses had to be kept moist with water. Nearby fences and a lumber pile caught fire two or three times, but were finally saved by the firemen.

Within a few minutes after the breaking out of the fire over a hundred people made their way to the glowing scene. Mayor Denne was at the fire almost as soon as the Fire Brigade, and two or three policemen came to patrol the section near the fire.

Within about half an hour the firefighters had the fire under control, but they were obliged to continue battling with flames which broke out again here and there until after 3 o'clock. This morning the structure si a blackened mass of ruins, while in places the rubbish is still smouldering. Total losses will not be in excess of $1,500, partly covered by insurance.

Conjecturing as to the cause of the fire, it was thought that spontaneous combustion took place in the paint shop, which was in itself a fire-trap. The hay in the other end of the barn was most likely at a high temperature due to the same cause.

REDUCED FARES ASKED ON MOVE BACK TO LAND

Both Manion and Gardiner Oppose Bellanger's Plan to Aid Unemployment.

RAILWAYS HARD HIT.

Bourassa to Move Motion Making it Optional With Member Whether He Vote.

OTTAWA, Ont., April 23 (C.P.) — Estimates of the Department of Public Works were before the House of Commons to-day. Hon. Hugh A. Stewart, the Minister, was the first departmental head in the Bennett Government to present his itemized accounts to Parliament and attempt to pilot through his estimates for the coming financial year.

The House yesterday devoted practically the entire sitting to the answering of questions by the Government and the adoption of motions calling for the production of documents and information by the Government. Some progress was made on the discussion of a resolution introduced by Oscar Bellanger (Lib., Bellechasse), which called upon the Canadian Railways to establish reduced fares for a back-to-the-land movement. Residents of cities and towns wishing to take up farming would be provided with lowered fares, to relieve unemployment.

Manion Opposed

Although the discussion was not finished, Hon. R. J. Manion, Minister of Railways and Canals, said he did not believe the times were propituous to ask the Canadian railways to take on additional financial burdens. Since he assumed office about eight months ago he had received requests from all parts of Canada for more than $200,000,000 worth of capital expenditures on the part of the Canadian National Railways, including branch lines, freight sheds, new stations and hotels. The Government had no right to attempt to dictate to the management of the national system, Dr. Manion

MUMBY IS GUILTY AND IS FINED $10

Charge of Assault is Heard Before Magistrate Langley at Havelock.

FIGHT OVER SKINS.

HAVELOCK, April 23 (Examiner Correspondence). — A fight over muskrat skins in which Randall Quakenbush, 17, was beaten up by Frank Mumby, both of Belmont Township, had its sequel before Magistrate Langley at the Town Hall here yesterday, when Mumby was found guilty of assault, and fined $10.00, and costs of $17.35.

The hall was thronged by residents of Belmont Township, and they heard Marcus Quakenbush, father of the assaulted boy argue the prosecution.

Mumby, it was learned, attacked young Quakenbush, slapping him, punching him, and choking him, when he discovered the boy taking muskrats from traps which Mumby claimed were his. The assault took place ten miles north of here just east of Stoney Lake road.

A. L. Elliott conducted Mumby's defence.

CHEESE MAKING IS LEADING BRANCH OF DAIRY INDUSTRY

them in turn. He spoke of the delight it gave him to renew old friendships with the makers, and hoped that the season's work would be even more successful than last year.

Leading Branch

Mr. Griffin spoke of the interest that he had in the cheese branch of the industry declaring that it was the leading branch. He had had an uphill fight with the directors of the Association to make them realize the truth of this fact, he declared, but said he was glad that they were coming round to the conviction that the cheese industry is the leading branch of the milk concern. He stated that there had been more milk turned into the factories this year than in some time past, pointing out that some of the Borden plants were going into the manufacture of cheese instead of powder. There was no fear to be anticipated from the butter branch he thought, as the price was very low and had recently taken another "flop."

"With the quality of cheese we have, we need have no fear of the industry" declared Mr. Griffin. He had come to the conclusion however, that cleanliness has as much to do with that quality as anything. He suggested that the makers should have a complete cleaning up of the plants before the season opens and emphasized the necessity of the sterilition of the cans and if possible milk pails. It was better to take every precaution at the beginning he thought, and so save trouble during the season.

The speaker also pointed out that the patrons are credited with the highest number of defects in defective cheese, declaring that this was one of the big problems that the association was up against. He thought that one way to deal with it was to get the trade journal into the home of every patron and so give them an idea of the necessity of cleanliness in the handling of milk. "We've got to co-operate and work together for success" the speaker declared, pointing out that the cheese industry was the market for surplus milk and therefore every precaution should be taken to preserve it. Mr. Griffin also said that he was pleased with the interest that the Campbellford group had taken in the Herd Competition last year and hoped that they would take hold of the situation this season and do even better.

Prospects Are Good

Mr. Irwin, speaking of the opening of the season, said that prospects for the year looked good, but that there was room for improvement in the quality of the cheese, although the Campbellford group had a good record. He wished to see a decrease in off-flavors this year he said.

Of the price of cheese, the speaker said it was not too encouraging at present, but stated that the present price would not rule for the season. There was no need to worry about the creamery opposition as prices on that market were very low and if a high standard of cheese was maintained it would remain the leading factor. It had been decided Mr. Irwin stated, to cut out all specials, as there were not sufficient of them to make a market, but this, he said, would not go into effect until 1932.

Of the Herd Competition for the coming year the speaker stated that he was anxious to get all patrons interested. There were special inducements offered this year for increasing and improving over last year's records, and a special entry for factories will be made in which the whole patronage will be included, the prizes being $30, $20 and $10, which will go to the president of the factory to use as he thinks fit.

Of grading, Mr. Irwin stated that there would be no change from last season. Last year's Canadian cheese had stood three cents higher on the Home market than New Zealand cheese and he thought that this could be increased.

Mr. Murray, cheese instructor for the group, stressed the importance of the necessity of cleanliness in the factory and among the patrons, to eliminate one of the great difficulties, rancid flavors. He pointed out that the man who had the highest score last year was one of the most particular men along this line and he thought that his success was directly due to this fact. "Rancid flavor has been the big trouble here" he declared, and said that he thought that most of the pickouts come from the farm. He thought that it would be a good idea to make use of a granite can for the starter and to use a special dipper.

Speaking of the Herd Competition Mr. Murray was able to state that W. A. Fraser, M.P. was awarding a prize this year for the highest average score in cheese plus score of factory surroundings.

Mr. Williams addressed the meeting in regard to a group insurance which is being taken up by the association for all members. This is a blanket policy covering accident and sickness liability and life insurance. Mr. Williams went into details in regard to this question, but no definite action will be taken until after the next meeting.

REDUCED FARES

proceeded. The road was forced to curtail services in many parts of the country, but if any community had a protest to make, it should be directed to the Board of Railway Commissioners, not the Ministry.

In support of his motion, Mr. Boulanger said a back-to-the-land movement would prove to be a great relief for unemployment conditions in the cities. Canada assisted immigration until a short time ago. Why not assist colonization?

Robert Gardiner, U.F.A. Leader, said under present agricultural conditions not one dollar of public funds should be spent to take one person back to the land. Rather than open up new sections of the West, they should be closed to colonization until agricultural conditions improved.

Echoes of Impasse Arise

Echoes of Monday night's impasse when eleven members of the House at one time were on the point of being named by the Speaker, rumbled through the chamber yesterday. The members refrained from registering their vote; being under the impression they were within their rights; basing their stand upon rulings of former Speaker Rodolphe Lemieux. For a member to be named would mean his suspension from the House, for a short time at least.

Henri Bourassa (Ind., Labelle) recalled the incident when he gave notice he would introduce a motion later which would change the rules of the House, making it optional with a member whether he voted.

The questions answered by the Government were directed by private members, the majority dealing with patronage. They ranged from the circumstances surrounding the dismissal of a janitor in a public building to the amount of salary paid the Governor-General.

CATTLE, GRAIN, PRODUCE

MONTREAL PRODUCE

MONTREAL, April 23.—The downhill trend of butter prices was stopped when the brakes were applied on the produce and dairy market here yesterday. Cheese and egg quotations were easier, while potato prices held unchanged.

Light receipts and the re-entry of large buyers into the market took the grease off the skids, and prices held, with regraded butter showing a slight improvement. No. 1 fresh pasteurized was quoted unchanged at 22c, and regraded gained a ½c, at 22 to 22½c a pound. To retailers, solids and prints declined 2c at 26c and 27c a pound, respectively. Settlements made with farmers for the week ended yesterday was announced at 22c a pound. Receipts were 283 boxes.

Ontario colored cheese dropped a ½c at 10½c a pound, and settlements with farmers were announced at 12¼c a pound. Receipts were 27 boxes.

Carlot prices of Quebec, Maritime, Ontario and Prairie fresh eggs lost ½c to 1c a dozen. Extras and firsts both declined ½c, at 22c and 23c and 20c to 21c a dozen, respectively. Seconds were off 1c at 17c to 18c. Asking of British Columbia fresh extras, in carlots, were 24c; firsts, 22c; and seconds, 19½c. Quotations to retailers were unchanged, and receipts were 1,250 cases.

New Brunswick Green Mountain potatoes, in carlots, were quoted at 80c per 80-pound bag, and to retailers 90c.

TORONTO, April 23.—Country egg shippers suffered another reduction in prices for supplies shipped to the local market yesterday. Wholesalers were quoting 18c for extras, 16c for firsts and 13c for seconds, delivered, ungraded, cases returned, which was 1c lower on extras and firsts and 2c lower on seconds. Receipts were far too heavy for the demand, due to lack of storage activity and brokers found trouble in clearing supplies, graded and in free cases, at 21c for extras, 19c for firsts, and 16c for seconds, steady with the week's decline of 1c to 1½c. Retailers were quoted 25c for extras in cartons, 23c for extras loose, 21c for firsts loose and 17½c to 18c for seconds loose.

Butter

Brokers were asking steady prices of 26c for No. 1 and 25c for No. 2 creamery solids yesterday, but there were no sales of any kind at these levels, and a general weak undertone was apparent. Buyers were not showing any signs of becoming interested at the current prices, and even offers slightly lower did not bring sales. Brokers were of the opinion that some sales would be made this week, but at lower levels than those prevailing Wednesday. Buyers have been adopting an attitude of patient waiting until levels were stabilized, and this condition might ensue in the very near future. Retailers were offered prints at 30c for No. 1 and 29c for No. 2, the second reduction for the week, or 3c per pound lower than asked last week.

Cheese

All cheese prices were lower yesterday. Brokers dropped their quotations for new makes another ¼c per pound to make a decrease for the week of 1c to 1¼c, while wholesalers reduced the prices on new and old cheese to retailers ½c. Brokers offered new large at 10½c, twins 10¾c and triplets 11c. Wholesalers asked 13c for new large, 13¼c for twins and 13½c for triplets, with old cheese at 19½c for large, 19¾c for twins and 19¼c for triplets. New Stiltons were offered at 14½c and old Stiltons at 22c.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, April 23.—Grain price rallies fizzled out yesterday, the dominating influence finally being stock market unsettlement, together with uneasiness over a big Australian bank failure.

Transient upturns earlier in grains were associated with trade reports that a more definite statement of the Federal Farm Board's export policy was probable. The reports suggested that when the 1931 United States' wheat crop entered the market, the Farm Board might announce a decision as to whether the board would keep in storage for a year or more the remainder of Government-sponsored old crop holdings.

Wheat closed nervous, ⅛ to ¼ cent lower, corn ⅛ to 1¼ down, oats ⅛ to ⅝ off and provisions showing 7 to 35 cents decline.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, April 23. — Liquidation in the waning minutes of trading induced by weakness in the stock market broke a recovery from early declines and values in the wheat pit at close were 1¼c to 1½c lower than Tuesday's finish.

May closed at 61½c, down 1¼c. July at 62¾c to 63c was down 1¼c, while October dropped 1¼c to 64¾c.

Pit operations for the first hour were entirely local and of mixed character. Around mid-session a strong close at Liverpool and forecast of frost in the United States induced fair buying, but this was more than offset by a dip which set in just before the close when values eased to the low points for the day.

Cash wheat trading was draggy with spreads unchanged. Barley for export featured the coarse grains sections with futures prices following the trend of wheat.

TO RELIEVE CATARRHAL DEAFNESS AND HEAD NOISES

If you have catarrhal deafness or head noises go to your druggist and get 1 oz. of Parmint (Double Strength), and add to it ¼ pint of hot water, and a little sugar. Take 1 tablespoonful four times a day.

This will often bring quick relief from the distressing head noises. Clogged nostrils should open, breathing become easy and the mucous stop dropping into the throat. It is easy to prepare, costs little, and is pleasant to take. Anyone who has catarrhal deafness or head noises should give this prescription a trial.

THE POLICE CAMPAIGN

Chief Newhall's announcement of a campaign against motorists who disregard the parking laws and other traffic regulations is a development that was inevitable in view of the traffic congestion on down town streets recently with conditions at their worst last Saturday.

There is no evidence of any general desire on the part of car-owners to co-operate with the authorities in improving the situation or of any feeling of appreciation of the lenient treatment they have received, and that being so nothing remains but for the police department to let the law take its course and have the offenders dealt with in police court.

Conditions especially on Saturdays have become almost intolerable; the congestion is not only inconvenient but it is dangerous, and Chief Newhall is right in deciding to wage warfare upon those responsible.

The Examiner hopes that in this connection he will also take action against the most flagrant offenders who are making speedways of many of the city streets.

No one can deny the fact that there is too much fast driving and that a great many motorists are daily guilty of recklessness in this regard.

If when he is cleaning up the parking law violators, the Chief will also turn his forces loose on the speedsters, he will be adding materially to safe driving conditions and perhaps save a few lives.

HIGHWAY EXPENDITURE AND REVENUE

In another of its interesting bulletins the Citizens' Research Institute presents a study of highway expenditure and motor vehicle taxation in the Provinces of Ontario and Quebec, dealing with the period 1920-1930.

From the figures given it is evident that in Quebec the current expenditures on highways exclusive of debt changes have increased largely during the period under review while on the other hand the capital expenditures from provincial funds on highways were 48.6 per cent lower in 1929 or 1925. The increased current expenditures have just about kept step with the increased revenue for highway purposes.

Much the same situation exists so far as Ontario is concerned.

Highway expenditure has kept fairly good pace with the motor vehicle revenue and the Institute finds that on the average the ratio between the two has not changed greatly and it not widely different from the same ratio for Quebec.

In Quebec, according to this report, the motor vehicle revenue in 1930 was 54.2 of the total highway expenditure while in Ontario for the same year the revenue from motor vehicles represented 55.7 per cent of the total expenditure on highways.

Quebec collected $5,199,091 in motor vehicle licenses, etc. and $3,730,428 in gasoline tax, while her highway expenditure, current and capital, amounted to $16,404,490, while Ontario raised $5,276,894 in licenses and $10,756,836 in gasoline tax and spent $28,798,202 on highways.

AND NOW TO BUSINESS

The debate on the address in reply to the speech from the throne has at last come to a close in Canadian Parliament, after having been dragged out to record length by the more than one hundred members of the House who took part.

Nothing was accomplished in the weeks of talk, the government was never in danger of being defeated for it was inevitable from the start that when a decision was reached the administration with a clear majority over all would be sustained.

The only unusual feature about the debate, in addition to its length, was the fact that the Liberal opposition after having early in the session introduced an amendment condemning the government, surprised the House by supporting a non-partizan sub-amendment proposed at the last moment by the Progressive groups.

The country will be glad to know the preliminaries are finally over and the way opened for important business.

For weeks the Government has refused to give any details as to its policies, taking the position that until the address had been accepted it was contrary to custom for the administration to make any such announcements.

Now however that the address is out of the way the country expects to and has every right to hear from Mr. Bennett as to what he proposes to do about unemployment, the wheat situation and other important problems.

There is no longer any reason why such information should be withheld.

TEMPERANCE EDUCATION

From W. D. Bayley, B.A., Director of Temperance Education in the Manitoba Department of Education, The Examiner is in receipt of some most interesting information as to the program of temperance instruction that has been developed in recent years in Manitoba.

Included in a leaflet, "Bigotry and Bigamy," which presents a summary of the educational policy known as the Independent Temperance Education Co-operative, that should commend itself to every thoughtful citizen.

This article, "says the leaflet," is a frank appeal—perhaps a challenge—to Canadians to accept as a temperance policy for the next decade that upon which substantial agreement can be secured, namely the education of youth. Differences on legislative issues should not be allowed to deprive our children of their undoubted right to be adequately and reliably informed regarding alcohol and its action in the human organism.

The writer fears that Canada may commit temperance bigamy, in other words having messed up the prohibition experiment, by neglecting education she may repeat her former mistake by failing to make education a vital factor in the control regime and adds, "At this time peace on the liquor front is essential to further progress."

"Compulsory total absence in this generation," says Mr. Bayley, "is evidently not an attainable objective. Total abstinence or at least strict moderate for the next generation through education and example may be a practical program."

The program that the I.G.T.C. suggests as an objective for Canada by 1935 and one that deserves serious consideration is as follows:—

1. A Director of Temperance Education for each half million people, functioning mostly under the Provincial Department of Education, but financed by the Government as a whole.

2. The appropriation of an amount equal to 1 per cent of the Provincial liquor profits for Temperance Education.

3. A similar appropriation from Federal revenues for National activities, such as Research and Experimentation, preparation of Literature, Exhibits, etc., training of Directors, and other activities calculated to encourage and assist the Provinces in carrying out their programs.

4. The setting up of Federal and Provincial advisory committees representing various public and educational bodies, to advise on program, methods, etc.

REMEDY FOR SLOW BUSINESS.

(From the Atlanta Constitution)

Leaders of authority in the industrial and utilities fields are trying to impress the business men of the country that the cure for consumers' paralysis is steady and plentiful advertising.

The bases for the counsel are the two facts that we are moving now in an advertising and reading era. The two facts co-ordinate. There are more newspaper readers in the nation to-day than ever before and the readers expect to find what they need and want brought before them in the advertising pages. The business man, the housewife, the fashion fan and the movie addict all turn daily to the advertising pages of their daily newspapers. Every merchant distributor of goods and purveyor of amusements know those things to be true.

But the singular delusion prevails among the general run of such public suppliers that they should advertise flamingly their business is booming and cut down their advertising space and expenses when business is slack and their customers few. They pursue just the policy that keeps business slack. They go squarely against the policy that has built up many of the largest businesses in America.

John Wanamaker, the most typically successful merchant in our history, held religiously to his policy: "When business slows down I swell my advertising, for the people will always buy bargains." His great stores in Philadelphia and New York continue that policy and thrive upon it richly. The Marshall Field Store in Chicago became famous and gathered the richest custom in the United States by its lavish advertising and complete service to poor and rich alike. In that store any day you may rub elbows with a scrub-woman on one side of you and a millionairess from Chicago's gold coast on your other side, all at the same counter.

Still it seems as hard to convince the mill-run of merchants that "as the early bird gets the worm," so the nervy advertiser sells the goods, as it is to convince Scott McBride that prohibition is a failure. Nevertheless every merchant with gumption confesses that it is the best advertised goods of the nation that sell most readily and in largest volume.

Local business depression can best be overcome by keeping before the eyes of the people, in attractive advertising, the goods the people are known to universally want and the favorable prices for which they may "now be had."

FIREMEN'S PENSIONS.

Establishment of compulsory firemen's pension schemes by cities and towns of Ontario has been deferred for another year at least by the throwing out of a bill by the legal committee of the Legislature, to the great satisfaction of several of the Border Cities which would have been involved in heavy capital costs.

The bill as drafted provided for the municipality setting up a capital fund to represent the accrued cost of the scheme—that is, it would be considered as if the pension plan had been in operation in the past and that so much was now owed to it by the municipality to enable the fund to pay full benefits to the firemen as their retirements came along or if they were injured or killed in service. This capital fund was the sticker, as it amounted to $72,000 for Windsor, $120,000 for London, and smaller sums for smaller places. The bill was particularly obnoxious to Windsor because the Council is even now working on a comprehensive municipal pensions scheme, from which the firemen would be divorced under this legislation.

It is quite possible that before the bill is submitted again, the Windsor pension plan will be working; but even if it is not we are inclined to think that the accrued cost provision will have to be modified. The terms of contribution as proposed in the bill were two per cent. from the city of the firemen's pay, to come from the city treasury, while the firemen themselves would pay a maximum of seven per cent. of their pay. This seems a fair enough basis, but would it not be better if the city's contribution were increased to say 2½ or 3 per cent. of the payroll, until such time as the reserve of the fund was built up to the required total? The city's contribution could then be reduced to two per cent. In this way the necessity of finding a large sum for accrued liability at the start would be eliminated, and while the fund would not for a few years be on an acturial basis, it would eventually reach that point. Probably a scheme such as this would find more favor with the municipal councils, although it might be open to some objection from those who maintain that all such funds must be on an actuarially sound basis from the very beginning.—Border Cities Star.

TANAR OF PELLUCIDAR

BY

EDGAR RICE BURROUGHS

"This is a much nicer death," said Tanar, "for when we are sufficiently exhausted we shall simply sleep and awake no more."

"I do not wish to die," wailed Jude.

"You have never seemed very happy," said Tanar. "I should think one as unhappy as you would be glad to die."

"I enjoy being unhappy," said Jude. "I know that I should be most miserable were I happy and anyway I should much rather be alive and unhappy than dead and unable to know that I was unhappy."

"Take heart," said Tanar. "It cannot be much further to the end of this long corridor. Mow came through it and he did not say that it was so great a length that he became either exhausted or hungry and he not only traversed it from end to end in one direction, but he had to turn around and retrace his steps after he reached the opening into the cavern which we left."

"The Coripies do not eat much; they are accustomed to starving," said Jude, "and they sleep less than we."

"Perhaps you are right," said Tanar, "but I am sure that we are nearing the end."

"I am," said Jude, "but not the end that I had wished."

Even as they discussed the matter they were moving slowly along, when far ahead Tanar discerned a slight luminosity.

"Look," he said, "there is light. We are nearing the end."

The discovery instilled new strength into both the men and with quickened steps they hastened along the tunnel in the direction of the promised esape. As they advanced the light became more apparent until finally they came to the point where the tunnel they had been traversing opened into a large corridor, which was filled with a subdued light from occasional patches of phosphorescent rock in walls and ceiling, but neither to the right nor the left could they see any sign of daylight.

"Which way now?" demanded Jude.

Tanar shook his head. "I do not know," he said.

"At least I shall not die in that awful blackness," wailed Jude and perhaps that factor of their seemingly inevitable doom had weighed most heavily upon the two Pellucidarians, for, living as these people do beneath the brilliant rays of a perpetual noonday sun, darkness is a hideous and abhorrent thing to them, so unaccustomed are they to it.

"In this light, however slight it may be," said Tanar, "I can no longer be depressed. I am sure that we shall escape."

"But in which direction?" again demanded Jude.

"I shall turn to the right," said Tanar.

Jude shook his head. "That probably is the wrong direction," he said.

"If you know that the right direction lies to the left," said Tanar, "let us go to the left."

"I do not know," said Jude; "doubtless either direction is wrong."

"All right," said Tanar, with a laugh. "We shall go to the right," and turning, he set off at a brisk walk along the larger corridor.

"Do you notice anything, Jude?" asked Tanar.

"No. Why do you ask?" demanded the Himean.

"I smell fresh air from the upper world," said Tanar, "and if I am right we must be near the mouth of the tunnel."

Tanar was almost running now; exhaustion was forgotten in the unexpected hope of immediate deliverance. To be out in the fresh air and the light of day! To be free from the hideous darkness and the constant menace of recapture by the hideous monsters of the underworld! And across that bright hope, like a sinister shadow, came the numbing fear of disappointment.

What if, after all, the breath of air which was now clear and fresh in their nostrils should prove to be entering the corridor through some unscalable shaft, such as the Well of Sounding Water into which he had fallen upon his entrance into the country of the Buried People, or what, if, at the moment of escape, they should meet a party of the Coripies?

So heavily did those thoughts weigh upon Tanar's mind that he slackened his speed until once again he moved in a slow walk.

"What is the matter?" demanded Jude. "A moment ago you were running and now you are barely crawling along. Do not tell me that you were mistaken and that, after all, we are not approaching the mouth of the corridor."

"I do not know," said Tanar. "We may be about to meet a terrible disappointment and if that is true I wish to delay it as long as possible. It would be a terrible thing to have hope crushed within our breasts now."

"I suppose it would," said Jude, "but that is precisely what I have been expecting."

"You, I presume, would derive some satisfaction from disappointment," said Tanar.

"Yes," said Jude, "I suppose I would. It is my nature."

"Then prepare to be unhappy," cried Tanar, suddenly, "for here indeed is the mouth of the tunnel."

He had spoken just as he had rounded a turn in the corridor, and when Jude came to his side the latter saw daylight creeping into the corridor through an opening, just in front of them—an opening beyond which he saw the foliage of growing things and the blue sky of Pellucidar.

Emerging again to the light of the sun after their long incarceration in the bowels of the earth, the two men were compelled to cover their eyes with their hands, while they slowly accustomed themselves again to the brilliant light of the noonday sun of Pellucidar.

When he was able to uncover his eyes and look about him, Tanar saw that the mouth of the tunnel was high upon the precipitous side of a lofty mountain. Below them wooded ravines ran down to a mighty forest just beyond which lay the sparkling waters of a great ocean that, curving upward, merged in the haze of the distance.

Faintly discernible in the mid-distance an island raised its bulk out of the waters of the ocean.

"That," said Jude, pointing, "is the island of Hime."

"Ah, if I, too, could but see my home from here," sighed Tanar, "my happiness would be almost complete. I envy you, Jude."

"It gives me no happiness to see Hime," said Jude. "I hate the place."

"Then you are not going to try to go back to it?" demanded Tanar.

"Certainly, I shall," said Jude.

"But, why?" asked Tanar.

"There is no other place where I may go," grumbled Jude. "At least in Hime they will not kill me for no reason at all as strangers would do if I went elsewhere."

Jude's attention was suddenly attracted by something below them in a little glade that lay at the upper end of the ravine, which started a little distance below the mouth of the tunnel.

"Look," he cried, "there are people."

Tanar looked in the direction in which Jude was pointing, and when his eyes found the figures far below, they first went wide with incredulity and then narrowed with rage.

With a cry of fury, he leaped swiftly downward in the direction of the figures in the glade.

Stellara, lying upon a pallet of grasses beneath the shade of a large tree, above the beach where the Korsars were completing the boat in which they hoped to embark for Korsar, knew that the fever had left her and that her strength was rapidly returning, but having discovered that illness, whether real or feigned, protected her from the attentions of Bohar, she continued to permi the Korsars to believe that she was quite ill.

In her mind there constantly revolved various plans for escape, but she wished to delay the attempt as long as possible, not only that she might have time to store up a greater amount of reserve strength, but also because she realized that, if she waited until the Korsar boat was completed, it would be unlikely that the majority of the men would brook delay in departure for the purpose of gratifying any desire that Bohar might express to pursue and recapture her.

Again, it was necessary to choose a time when none of the Korsars was in camp and as one of the two, who were detailed to prepare food and stand guard, was invariably on duty it appeared possible that she might never have the opportunity she hoped for, though she had determined that this fact would not prevent her from making an attempt at escape.

All of her hopes in this direction were centered upon one contingency, which her knowledge of nautical matters made to appear almost a certainty of the near future, and this was the fact that the launching of the boat would require the united efforts and strength of the entire party.

She knew from the discussions and conversations that she had overheard that it was Bohar's intention to launch the boat the moment that the hull was completed and to finish the balance of the work upon it while it floated in the little cove upon the beach of which it was being constructed.

This work would require no great amount of time or effort, since the mast, spars, rigging and sail were ready and at hand; bladders and gourds already prepared to receive fresh water, and food provisions for the trip, accumulated by the hunters detailed for this purpose, were neatly sewn up in hides and stored away in a cool, earth-covered dugout.

And so from her couch of grasses beneath the great tree Stellara watched the work progressing upon the hull of the boat that was to carry Bohar and his men to Korsar, and, as she watched, she planned her method of escape.

SHERRITT - GORDON ENGINEER HAS HAD BROAD EXPERIENCE

Charles D. Kaeding Been in Mines Since 12 Years of Age.

VARIED CAREER.

(By Ralph M. Radford.)

TORONTO, April 23.—"They have completed a splendid job and made an outstanding contribution to the Canadian mining industry," was the wholehearted comment passed by a prominent Canadian mining man on the work of officials and staff of Sherritt Gordon Mines. The property, situated over a hundred miles north of The Pas in Northern Manitoba, came into production recently, just a little over three years from the time it was acquired as an almost raw prospect by the present owners.

In common with base metal producers throughout the world, Sherritt Gordon is feeling the strain of depressed metal prices, and initial capacity is considerably below that originally intended. Nevertheless, from a purely mining viewpoint, it ranks among the larger enterprises of the Dominion and stands as an example of the vision, determination and ability which forms the background of Canada's growing importance as a mineral producer.

Youth, with its enthusiasm and aggressiveness, was an important factor in the undertaking. The majority of members of the staff were under thirty years of age, recent graduates of the University of Toronto, of Queen's and of McGill. They brought to the organization the careful training which has gained for Canadian engineers a high reputation in the world of mining.

Leading the effort, however, was seasoned knowledge and broad experience, for which there is no substitute. Charles D. Kaeding, when he joined the company as consulting engineer a few months after the purchase of the property, carried with him the benefit of over a quarter century of close association with mine development in practically every field in the world. His position with Sherritt Gordon required the combined qualities of not only a geologist and mining engineer, but of a metallurgist, purchasing agent and business executive. He had been all these, and even a brief sketch of his career shows how excellently his experience had fitted him for the work.

When Mr. Kaeding was about 12 years of age, his father, a merchant of San Francisco, moved his family into the Motherlode country of the California foothills, which, incidentally, has produced $1,800,000,000 in gold to date and is still producing. The placer deposits of the days of '48 were practically worked out, but lode mining was flourishing, and the young boy, wandering about the workings, became inoculated with the virus. At fourteen he was working during vacations in the mines. Later he took mining courses at the California School of Mechanical Arts and the University of California.

Started as Shift Boss.

His first mining position after leaving school was that of shift boss with the Oriental Consolidated Company in Korea. This company, organized in the United States and acquired in 1900 by the Wehner-Belt interests of London, was developing a large low-grade gold concession. Operations, carried out with native labor, included opening of nine mines, development of waterpowers and erection of four mills. The first land battle of the Russian-Japanese war was fought within thirty miles of the properties, but the forces moved into Manchuria and the concession was left untouched.

Mr. Kaeding, while still in his twenties, advanced to the position of assistant general manager. In 1906 he took a well-earned vacation, encompassing the globe from east to west, and spending months in the Mysore field, India, and the Rand and Mimberley camps of South Africa. This trip, which took about a year to complete, he considered was invaluable from an educational point of view.

He returned to San Francisco in 1907, taking up general engineering. After several years among the Mexican and lower state mines, he became superintendent of mines for the Goldfields Consolidated of Nevada, then operating the largest gold mine in the world with an uannal production of between $10,000,000 and $12,000,000.

The next move was to Copper Cliff, Ontario, where he was placed in charge of mines by the International Nickel Company. Mr. Kaeding was associated with J. C. Nicholls, present general manager who had been with him in Korea. It was their problem to put the mines in shape to meet the enormous demand for nickel caused by the great war. Decelopment of practically a new mine in the Creighton, which appeared to be working out, was one successful outcome of their efforts.

Interests behind International Nickel were also behind the Dome Mines at Porcupine. Mr. Kaeding was sent to this relatively new operation as vice-president and general manager early in 1914. Grade was then running low. Under his supervision additional equipment was installed, shafts sunk, new ore developed and the plant built up from 600 tons a day to its present capacity of 1,500 tons.

Equipped Bluestone.

In 1916, while still with the Dome, he supervised the development and equipping of the Bluestone Copper mines near Mason, Nevada, owned by Capt. J. R. Delmar, Dome president and celebrated mining figure. Leaving Canada in 1920, he opened an office in San Francisco as consulting engineer. In the ensuing years he did consulting work for a number of operations in Mexico, chiefly silver, and was associated with four Nevada companies, building and placing in operation three mills.

In January, 1928, he became consulting engineer for the Lindsley interests of Toronto, with his attention chiefly directed to Sherritt-Gordon. The story of development of this property, involving winter freighting of machinery and supplies construction of a 42-mile railroad branch and erection of a town, is one of the most interesting in the annals of Canadian development, and will long remain an epic in the minds of those interested in mining.

On the results of pilot mill tests, Mr. Kaeding associated with William Dunne, designed the 1,800-ton flotation mill. This plant was to incorporate three units of 600 tons capacity each, but the drastic decline in prices of copper and zinc forced a change in plans. Only one unit has been installed and brought into production for the present. Concentrates are now going forward to the Flin Flon smelter, with recoveries exceeding expectations. The larger installation, for which all preparations have been made, will await improved metal prices.

To Mr. Kaeding, life's pleasure lies in ability to grasp the raw materials at hand and fashion a finished product of which he can justly be proud; his interest is not in the fruit, but rather in the culture and growth of the tree. It is almost a oregone conclusion, therefore, that other developments will require his services. What distant mining frontier will be the next scene of his efforts, he does not know yet; just last year he was forced to reject an offer to go to Africa as chief consulting engines for large interests developing the famed Rhodesian copper deposits.

Nominally his home is in San Francisco, and he manages to visit there several times a year. His recreations are hunting and fishing and he enthusiastically recommends the northern portions of Manitoba and Ontario for these sports. Affiliations include the American Institute of Mining and Metallurgical Engineers, Bohemian club and of San Francisco and the Wun Sun Mines Club of Korea, of which he is an honorary life member.

What To-day Means To You

"TAURUS"

If April 23rd is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9:30 a.m. to 11:15 a.m., from 3:15 p.m. to 4:30 p.m. and from 7:10 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. The danger hours are from noon to 1:30 p.m. and from 5:15 p.m. to 6:45 p.m.

The astrological signs of April 23rd denote a day of inactivity, barren of results, except insofar as the accomplishment of routine work is concerned. In the evening, a marked improvement can be anticipated, and the influences will favor social activities.

Children born on this April 23rd will be endowed with strong and attractive personalties, and will have the gift of being able to influence others with whom they come in contact, either for good or evil. They will be acquisitive of information, and, though undemonstrative, will love with a strong passion.

Born on April 23rd, you are, to acquaintances, an enigma. To those who are really your friends, you are generous, sympathetic, and understanding. To the outside world, you hold yourself in reserve, and are distant and constrained.

You are not spontaneous or self-revealing, and always act as though on the defensive. When, however, the barriers are broken down, you are at heart a very human sort of person, with warm affections and kindly thoughts.

Although not exceptionally clever, you possess a fund of common sense, and have a clear insight into the workings of others' minds. You are not fated to scale the heights, but you will always "get along." You would do infinitely more, of you could only be more natural, and were more disposed to thaw than to freeze. You have many fine qualities, and these are freely revealed in the home circle or to your intimates. You have courage, strength of purpose, good judgment, and, if a woman, unerring intuition.

If you sometimes feel that you are not appreciated as is your due, this lack of appreciation by the outside world is attributable to the fact that you put your bad apples at the top of the barrel, and carefully stow the good ones at the bottom, with the result that would-be purchaser are afraid to buy.

A Thought

INSTINCT

Mankind's common instinct for reality has always held the world to be essentially a theatre for heroism. In heroism, we feel life's supreme mystery is hidden. We tolerate no one who has no capacity whatever for it in any direction.

Alfonso May Resign From British Army

LEEDS, Eng., April 23. (AP)—The London correspondent of the Yorkshire Post to-day expressed belief that Alfonso, deposed Monarch of Spain, probably would hand back to King George his British Marshal's baton and resign his post as Colonel in Chief of a Lancers Regiment.

The correspondent points out that high posts in the army, when given foreigners, are tributes to their positions as Kings, Princes or head of states, and adds: If King Alfonso conceives it to be his duty to leave the British army his resignation will be received with deep regret by all ranks, who regard him as a grave and good soldier.

TORONTO PIVOT ISSUES SHOW ADANCES TO-DAY

Short Covering By Speculators in Early Trading Accounts For Rise.

LATER DROP CHECKED.

TORONTO, Ont., April 23.—(CP)—Short covering and buying by those who believed the market had hit bottom after having broken through the December lows combined to bolster prices at the opening on Toronto Stock Exchange to-day. A few issues continued downward, but the majority of pivotal stocks showed recoveries ranging from ½ point to as much as four points.

Nickel, Brazilian, Bell Telephone, C.P.R., Walkers, the foods showed fractional gains which they retained until the end of the second hour. Steel of Canada sold under last night at the opening but later firmed slight y. Page Hersey, however, was weak and lower at 82. Ford of Canada rebounded 1½ points to 23, Smelters shot up from 101 on initial sales to 110, where it showed a net gain of 4 points.

Just after the end of the second hour the list weakened again as New York started to sell off but this decline was checked before it had an opportunity to really get under way. Oils, however, were weaker on this midday reaction, nor did they enlist hopeful support. B. A. Oil, Imperial, International Petroleum were all selling about ¼ of a point under last night after having opened unchanged while Supertest reacted one point to a new low of 18½ and McColl Frontenac dipped to 14.

TECK-HUGHES IS IN DEMAND

Lake Shore and Wright Hargreaves Also Appear Stronger To-day.

FEW CHEAP GOLDS ACTIVE.

TORONTO, Ont., April 23.—(CP)—Prices appeared to strengthen on the opening of the mining market to-day; but the buoyancy was short-lived. Trading continued at a reduced rate but loses from last night predominated throughout the list at noon.

In the gold section McIntyre was off a quarter to $23.75, Dome down 10 to $19.90, Lake Shore firmed a quarter to $27.50 in odd lot trade and Wright-Hargreaves and Teck Hughes appeared to be in slightly improved demand. Among the specialties Eldorado lost a couple and Nipissing 5.

Action was confined to a few issues in the cheaper gold group. Central Manitoba and United Kirkland were up a cent apiece. McLeod lost a point and Central Pat was fractionally lower at 4.

Noranda, called for trading on the New York Stock Exchange to-day sold up for a time but was off to $21.60 at midday. Nickel managed to move to $1.50 and hold that level, but Hudson Bay was 10 at $5. Lindsleys were quiet.

Imperial, International Pete and B. A. Oil were all fractionally lower, Home Oil off a couple and the cheaper oils practically unchanged in quiet trade.

FUTURES SESSION HELD IN PRIVATE

Canadian Commission Meet in Sir J. Stamp's Hotel Suite in Minneapolis.

CHICAGO NEXT STOP.

BY GILLIS PURCELL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Apr. 23. — First United States session of the Canadian Royal Commission inquiry into futures trading in grain opened today in the hotel suite of Sir Josiah Stamp, chairman. Unlike the open hearings on the Canadian prairies, the meeting was informal and private.

Members of the Minneapolis Board of Trade, requested to offer opinions to the commission, visited Sir Josiah's suite to explain the intricacies of United States grain dealings. The inquiry seems to determine the effect if any of trading for future delivery on the price received by the grain grower.

Following today's interviews the commission, which has just completed a ten-day evidence-taking tour across the Canadian prairies, journeys to Chicago for its final sitting. Arthur W. Cutten, former Guelph, Ontario, resident, who is now one of America's most prominent grain men, is expected to be heard at Chicago. Alexander Legge, former Chairman of the United States Farm Board, may also meet the commission.

BUSINESS GAINS IN MARCH SECOND MONTH IN ROW

Business operations recorded gains in March slightly greater than normal for the season. As measured by preliminary calculations the level of the preceding month was exceeded moderately. After adjustment for seasonal gains between the two months the preliminary business index of The Financial Post was up about one point.

While the gain in March was slight, the upturn repeated for two months in succession forms a sharp contrast with developments during the latter half of 1930 when marked declines were continuous.

Winnipeg Review

Special Service to the Examiner through the courtesy of E. J. Bawlf Company, Grain and Stock Brokers, of Toronto

The wheat market was again erratic and nervous, with prices during the first period declining 5-8 under the close Tuesday night then making a sharp recovery, reaching points about one cent over the close on Tuesday and again sinking to the lows of the day finally closing around the bottom. The main features were the facts that there was no export business overnight and nothing came in yesterday morning. This caused the early decline despite the fact that cables were quite firm. Later there were numerous reports of frost damage coming in from winter wheat states and this combined with the continued dry conditions in spring wheat territory, both sides of the line caused considerable nervousness and prices were advanced to new highs on the movement. The market evidently advanced too fast and became overbought and with New York stock market acting weak, local longs commenced to take profits which found a very poor and indifferent support, and prices slid away quite easily. The market yesterday was almost entirely a local affair, very little outside interest being shown from any quarter. The demand for cash wheat was not active but offerings were not pressing and spreads generally were unchanged aside from some of the toughs which were a fraction off. The flour situation was again unchanged and without any special feature although there is some inquiry from abroad. Liverpool closed 1¼ to 1 3-8 higher, and Buenos Aires was ¼ to ½ lower at mid-day. Winnipeg futures closed 1¼ to 1 1-8 lower, while Chicago closed 1 cent to 1 1-8 lower.

Coarse Grains.—These markets held up remarkably well considering the late decline in wheat. Outside of a little oat business to Eastern Canada there was nothing doing but there was no particular pressure on the futures market, and what dips took place, support appeared. Oats closed ¼ higher to ¾ lower, barley 3-8 to ¼ higher and rye 1-8 off to 1-8 higher. Flax market quiet. Closing prices were ½ to ¾ lower.

Liverpool Cables due ¾ to 5-8 lower based on Winnipeg.

BANK DEPOSITORS BECOME ANXIOUS

Many in Poor Circumstances Did Not Withdraw Money From N. S. Wales Institution.

LOAN COUNCIL MEETS.

MELBOURNE, Australia, April 23 (C.P. Cable, via Reuter's).—Intense anxiety prevails among those depositors in the Government Savings Bank of New South Wales, who are in poor circumstances and did not withdraw their deposits before the bank closed its doors to-day for an indefinite period.

The situation was not altered by the meeting of the Loan Council today. The meeting was attended by representatives of all states except New South Wales, which, under the Extremist Premier, J. T. Lang, has been endeavoring to boycott the Loan Council.

The general financial position, including the short-term indebtedness, was discussed by the Loan Council but no decision was reached. The question of the New South Wales Savings Bank was not brought up.

The Loan Council summoned Sir Robert Gibson, chairman of the Commonwealth Bank, but he was unable to leave Sydney immediately. He will confer with the Loan Council on Sunday.

Meanwhile the board of the Commonwealth Bank is considering the proposal of the N. S. W. Savings Bank for amalgamation and has already promised that the interests of the depositors will be safeguarded.

DECADE OF QUIESCENCE ENDS AS MATACHEWAN EXPLORED

Matachewan is being rediscovered after a decade of quiescence, says The Financial Post, Toronto.

The indomitable spirit of prospectors, backed by an aggressive mining company, is bringing Matachewan to public attention as a gold camp, as has no other find in recent years. It must be regarded as fortunate that an established mining organization with ample resources, such as Mining Corp. of Canada, is pioneering this rediscovery. Had a prospector with limited finances or a lesser established company made the find, it would not have created the interest that it has. When the area attracted attention a decade ago it is significant that no property was under development by a strong, well-financed organization, and the properties that showed the most promise were forced to suspend through lack of funds to complete a definite development programme.

While it must not be thought that the area is an established or proven gold camp, the indications to date at the Mining Corp. find are most promising. Intelligent, well-directed effort alone will reveal what the future has in store.

NEW YORK LIST DROPS TO NEW LOW AS CONCERTED EFFORT TO ROUT "BEARS" FAILS TO-DAY

Abrupt Declines in Few Isolated Issues Unsettles Entire Market.

EARLY GAINS WIPED OUT.

Baltimore and Ohio and Fox Films Sent Down Four Points in Attack.

NEW YORK, N.Y., April 23 (C.P.).—A concerted effort to rout the bears in today's stock market failed miserably, and the list plunged to a new low for 1931.

Several prominent issues were bid up 2 to 3 points during the morning, but advance attracted a large volume of offerings, and by mid-day, sharp shooting from the bear quarter caused abrupt declines in a few isolated issues, which soon unsettled the entire list. The early advance was wiped out, and numerous losses of 2 to more than 4 points appeared. Then there was a moderate rebound, but prices tapered off and trading turned dull.

Baltimore and Ohio and Fox Film were sent down 4 points and more, in the bear counter attack. Westinghouse Electric and U. S. Industrial Alcohol were also among the first to give way, losing about 3 points. They were joined by American Telephone, Case and McKeesport. Motion pictures generally weakened, both Paramount and Warner breaking to new low ground. U. S. Steel lost an early rise of 2 points and sold off to another new low. Early gains of 2 or 3 were cancelled in some of the chemical and miscellaneous shares. Auburn shot up 11, then more than lost its advance.

SNOW BLANKETS STATES IN WEST

Severe Drought in Nevada Broken—Scores of Cars Stalled on Highways.

WIND STORMS IN OREGON.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., April 23. — Snow blanketed a large area of the west to-day. Spring flitted restlessly over the Rocky Mountain and Pacific Coast States, favoring some sections with drought-breaking moisture and fanning forest fires in others.

Snow covered parts of Montana, Wyoming, Colorado, Nevada and the Sierra Mountains. A severe drought in Western Nevada was broken by the heaviest fall of the year, which continued early to-day.

Scores of motor cars were stalled on the highways of the State. Tuesday the mercury touched 82 at Reno, a new high mark for the year. Two feet of snow was reported at Red Lodge, Mont.

A light rain broke a 67-day spell in Los Angeles yesterday and showers were forecast for to-day. There was a heavy rainfall at Modesta, Cal. A forest fire in Gentry Canyon, Arizona, was drenched by rain.

High winds swept Oregon, Idaho, Utah and Northern California. Foresters worked vainly to check timber fires in Oregon and Idaho. A gale, carrying clouds of sand and dust, wrecked wire transmission lines. Oliver Allen, 40, was killed by the falling of a tree near Medford, Ore.

Rain, hail and dust storms visited Arizona and air mail planes on the southern route were grounded.

JOHNNY BAKER DIES IN DENVER

Was Foster Son of Buffalo Bill and One Time World's Champion Rifle Shot.

DENVER, Colo., April 23.—Johnny Baker is dead. To men who like the crac kof a rfile shot or the flush of a sunset from Lookout Mountain, that will mean a lot.

Johnny Baker, 62, was the foster-son of the old plainsman, Buffalo Bill, whose real name was William F. Cody. For many years after Buffalo Bill's death, Baker operated a sight-seer's tepee within a stone's throw of the Indian fighter's grave on the top of a mountain only a few miles west of Denver.

Once acclaimed as the world's champion rifle shot, Johnny Baker's hero worship for the fighter, buffalo hunter and showman never wavered.

I want you to stay on at Pahaska (the tepee), he told his wife, after I am gone. I want you to keep alive the memory of the Colonel.

Even at the age of 10 Baker was unapproached by the boys of his age as a marksman. Cody picked up the youngster at North Platte, Neb., to put him in his wild west show and bill him as the boy wonder. A few years later the Colonel legally adopted him.

FIVE IN GANG ROUNDED UP.

MONTREAL, Que., April 23 (C.P.). —With four men and a woman in custody and a fifth man under arrest at Port Hope, Ont., waiting the arrival of Montreal police officers, local detectives believe they have rounded up a gang responsible for a long string of automobile thefts, gasoline station robberies and hold-ups.

National Breweries Re-elect Directors

MONTREAL, April 23.—Norman J. Dawes, President and Managing Director of National Breweries, Limited, presiding at the annual meeting of the shareholders here yesterday, stated that during the past year there had been an increase of over 100 per cent. in the number of holders of the common and preferred shares.

The directors were re-elected and annual statements and reports were adopted.

During the past year, Mr. Dawes stated, there was a small increase in the sales and a corresponding increase in the trading profits of the company.

STEEL OF CANADA HAS GOOD YEAR

Results of First Six Months Offset the Preceding Period.

OFFICERS RE-ELECTED.

TORONTO, April 23.—The annual general meeting of the shareholders of the Steel Company of Canada, Limited, was held Tuesday at Hamilton. The report of the Directors and annual statement were received and adopted.

The following were elected as members of the Board of Directors for the ensuing year: A. J. Brown, K.C.; H. H. Champ, H. G. Dalton, G. H. Duggan, H. M. Jaquays, Ross H. McMaster, F. G. Osler, Hon. Smeaton White, Charles Seward Wilcox, the Right Hon. Sir Thomas White, K.C.M.G.; Major-General the Hon. S. C. Mewburn, K.C., C.M.G.

Officers are Re-elected.

At a subsequent meeting of the Board of Directors, the old officers were reappointed as follows:

Chairman of the Board, Charles Seward Wilcox; President, Ross H. McMaster; Vice-President and Treasurer, H. H. Champ; Vice-Presidents, H. M. Jaquays, R. G. Wells, H. T. Diplock; Secretary, H. S. Alexander; Comptroller, S. E. LeBrocq.

In the course of his remarks the President, Mr. Ross H. McMaster, indicated that the comparatively satisfactory results realized during 1930 were almost entirely due to the operations of the first half of the year. Since that period, tonnage, prices and profits had suffered declines.

To Conserve the Resources.

In view of the fact that a statement had so recently been issued by the directors regarding the dividend policy of the board under the decision of the Privy Council, no further announcement was made except it was stated that the uncertainty of the duration of existing business conditions made it desirable to conserve the resources of the company, in order to provide any deficiency which might be encountered in continuing the rate of dividends now being paid.

Plans regarding future plant extensions were referred to as being dependent upon business conditions as well as the adequacy and stability of tariff protection. The heavy plant investment involved in the development of the steel industry render it essential that there should exist an assured dependence upon a stable fiscal policy.

Imports Equal to Production.

Canadian imports of finished steel are approximately equal to domestic production. In the United States, with a population ten times that of Canada and with an output of steel forty to fifty times as great, the annual imports of finished steel are less than half of those entering Canada.

Three of the boat's complement were in the rear of the craft at the time. Burke, who miraculously escaped harm, assisted the Esquimaux girl out one of the broken windows; and the other three succeeded in making their way to the dock in safety. The boat, Marshal Foch, conveyed the injured to Little Current, where they are progressing favorably.

Craft Beached

Immediately after the explosion, two tugs towed the burning mail boat into the channel and beached it on the shore, quenching the flames. The vessel is badly damaged and will require a substantial sum to reconstruct. The boat was about 50 feet long, and was powered by a 50-h.p. gasoline engine.

Eights Reached To-day In British Tournament

HUSTANTON, Eng., Apr. 23. — (C. P. Cable)—The eights were reached today in the British native amateur golf championship tournament, the favorites, including William Sutton of Cheshire, Irish open amateur champion, A. G. Pearson, former army champion and E. B. Tipping, prominent Scots amateur, chalking up victories today.

The field became congested owing to the deliberate methods of Ivor Thomas of Formby, who repeatedly consulted lengthily with the caddie standing with folded arms carefully surveying the position for every stroke. But his deliberation was unavailing, however. Fogg of Liverpool winning 3 up and 2 to play.

BRITISH STEEL MAKERS EXAMINE CANADIAN MART

Seek to Find Canada Takes Bulk of Steel Imports from United States.

TRANSPORTATION LESS.

SHEFFIELD, Eng., April 23. (CP) In an article on "Marketing Steel in Canada" a special contributor to the Sheffield Chamber of Commerce official publication examines the difference in transportation rates in seeking to find why Canada takes such an overwhelming amount of steel from the United States, in comparison with British steel.

"Canada imports over a million tons of iron and steel a year (1,385,000 tons in 1929), mostly from the United States," he says. "The quantity supplied by the Americans in that year was 1,119,000 tons, whereas we sent only 117,000 tons to the Dominion. Why have we failed to meet American competition? There has long been an idea that the Americans have had the benefit of a cheap transport. Please let this idea be tested.

"A steel-making firm with its plant near Sheffield, almost as far from a port of shipment as a British steel works can be, and a plant, moreover, with no iron ore mine near-by, has figured out its total inland transport costs at $7.20 per ton of finished steel up to the ship's side. That is to say, the inclusive railway rates on the ore, lime, fuel, etc., used to make the pig iron for one ton of steel; the rail rates on the fuel and other materials used in the steel works, per ton of finished steel—all the costs of inland transport. A calculation made to-day would scarcely show $6 per ton. In the case of steel made in the West of Scotland, South Wales, or the Middlesbrough district, where the works are nearer shipping ports, and in some cases much nearer iron ore mines, than are works in the Sheffield area, the inclusive inland transport costs are obvously considerably lower. But Sheffield and other inland steel makers can meet American competition in Canada if they try.

"To the $6 per ton, or less, here calculated as the inland transport cost carried by a ton of our steel up to the ship's side, there has to be added the freight to Canada. Except when the St. Lawrence navigation is ice-blocked, steel products up to $100 per ton value are carried from British to Dominion ports—Liverpool, for example, to Montreal—for not more than $6 per ton. Even light products, many of them difficult to stow, or which occupys much shipping space are carried across the Atlantic for a freight rate of only $8 per ton. However, for ordinary steel products—plates, beams, bars, structural shapes, and even thin galvanized steel sheets—the transport cost per ton up to Montreal, is little more than $8 per ton on Sheffield steel, or Midland counties steel, whilst on steel made in Middlesbrough and other places near our docks, the inclusive transport cost is less. How does this compare with American costs.

Business in Force Exceeds Half Billion

The monthly statement of the Mutial Life Assurance Company of Canada shows that at the end of March business in force exceeds $501,000,000. A comparison of the returns of the first quarter of 1931 with those of 1930 reveals that new paid business is being maintained at practically last year's level, and that net lapses are slightly less this year than for the same period of 1930. There is also a noticeable drop in the rate of mortality of the Company.

FIRMER TONE MONTREAL LIST

Consolidated Mining and Smelting Registers One Point Gain at Mid-day.

STEEL OF CANADA OFF.

MONTREAL, Que., April 23.—The Montreal stock market showed a slightly better tone this morning.

Consolidated Mining and Smelting sold up 5 points to 110, and then slipped back to 106 at noon for a net gain of one point on the morning's trading. Steel of Canada lost a point at 33 and Hamilton Bridge dropped 1½ points to 13. Nickel gained 3-8 at 15 5-8 and Brazilian Traction picked up ½ at 18¾. Canada Car lost ½ at 13. Dominion Bridge sold up a point to 42 and then slipped back to 40½, a loss of ½ over yesterday's close.

National Steel Car gained 5-8 at 26½ and National Breweries was up ¼ at 30½. Canadian Pacific Railway moved up ⅛ to 35½. McColl-Frontenac, Gurd, Bell Telephone, Cement, and Dominion Steel and Coal "B" held firm.

Early Grain Declines On Chicago Exchange

CHICAGO, Ill., April 23.—Grain prices here went downward early today influenced by Liverpool quotations lower than expected and rumors of a bank failure at Amsterdam. Falling off in the volume of wheat shipments from the Black Sea and from Argentina failed to act as an offset. Opening at ¼ to ¾ cents down wheat afterward held near to the initial limits. Corn started 1-8 to 1 off and established a new low price record for the season.

REFINERY CAPABLE OF TURNING 300,000 OUNCES OF PLATINUM

Distinguished Gathering Attends Formal Opening of Mond Nickel Plant.

IN ACTON, ENGLAND.

LONDON, April 23.—(Canadian Press Cable)—A distinguished gathering to-day attended the formal opening of the enlarged precious metals refinery of the enlarged precious metals refi the Mond Nickel Company, subsidiary of International Nickel Company of Canada, at Acton, not far from London.

Robert C. Stanley, president of the International Nickel Company of Canada, said the refinery had been so modernized and enlarged that it was capable of turning out 300,000 ounces of high purity platinum metals every year. It meant that the British Empire could supply three-quarters of the world consumption, for the concentrates are coming to Canada.

"This figure when compared with the tonnage of copper and nickel which the company produces, may seem small, but when attained it will be sufficient to give to Canada through the company, world leadership in the production of these precious metals, just as the Dominion now has in nickel," Mr. Stanley said.

"Thus platinums, traditionally associated with Russia, join the Empire. The fact that potential Canadian production to be refined in England is equal to previous normal world production is disquieting to the platinum industry and would be more disquieting were the company unprepared to cope with the problem.

"Just as aggressively modern as this refinery here at Acton, is the program of development and research which has been inaugurated to stimulate demand and create new uses for the platinum metals. Platinum is precious not because of popular whim, but because it possesses certain desirable qualities. Study of their application to the needs of modern civilization is a proper function of the platinum producer. Only in this way can we meet the responsibility of substantially increasing the world's supply. Only in this way can we take advantage of the opportunity which the company has in its vast warehouse of mineral wealth overseas.

"Already these promotional activities are bearing fruit. As the result of co operative research platinum metals are now being applied as a non-tarnishing finish for sterling silverware. At the same time palladium which is second only to platinum, is being studied and made better known to the jewelry trade, as well as to industry. It is the all-precious white metal with approximately the same price range as white gold. The company has a special interest in palladium, because of the consistency of ores makes us the worlds one great source of this metal." Rt. Hon. J. H. Thomas attended on behalf of the British government, and Hon. Howard Ferguson represented Canada. The luncheon, at which the speeches were made, followed the opening ceremonies and was presided over by Lord Weir.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Apr. 23 (C.P.).—Williard T. Cannon, vice-president and general manager of the Utah-Idaho Sugar Company, announced last night the sale of the Raymond, B. C., Plant, a subsidiary of the Utah-Idaho concern, to the British Columbia sugar refining company.

Cannon, who declined to state the amount involved, said the deal was consummated here with E. T. Rogers, president of the British Columbia firm.

OBITUARY

WILLAM T. MOFFATT

MARMORA, April 25. (Examiner Correspondence). — Profoundest respect was paid the memory of the late William Thomas Moffatt at the funeral which left the residence of his mother, Mrs. Thomas Moffatt on 4th concession, Marmora township at 1 o'clock on Wednesday for service at Zion United Church, North Marmora.

The funeral was under the auspices of Nickle L.O.L. 285 of which deceased was a member and brethren from Marmora L.O.L. 319 and Springbrook L.O.L. 442, besides other visiting brethren, helped to swell the attendance of Orangemen to over fifty. Past County Master Wor. Bro. James Nickle was Director of Ceremonies. Relatives and friends were also present in large numbers to join in the expressions of sympathy.

Seldom has Zion Church seen so overflowing a congregation as assembled, the greater majority of which were unable to gain admittance. Rev. F. H. Howard conducted the very impressive service, assisted by Rev. H. A. Bunt of Springbrook. Mrs. Ed. Post officiated at the organ and the singing of the hymns was led by a special choir. These were, "The morning flowers display their sweets," "A few more years shall roll" and "Asleep in Jesus". The choir also very beautifully sang "The Haven of Rest." Rev. H. A. Bunt read parts of Ecclesiastes 11 and 12 and John 14 and preached a very striking sermon upon words taken from his first reading. His appeal was chiefly to the youth of to-day and at the conclusion touching tribute was paid to the characteristics of the deceased. Rev. T. H. Howard also spoke a few words of consolation to the bereaved. After the committal at the graveside, rites of the Orange Order were taken by Wor. Bro. H. Gawley W.M., of Nickle L.O.L. and Wor. Bro. W. J. Cottrell chaplain of Marmora L.O.L. 319.

The pallbearers were relatives of the deceased—William and Elmer Moffatt and William and Hugh Jones.

Besides his mother the late William T. Moffatt is survived by two brothers, James and Norman at home and one sister, Mrs. Harry Woodbeck of Stirling.

Left to mourn his loss are his wife and eight children, two daughters in the west, Mrs. H. Hulin, Mrs. Roy Bush, Flossie, Gladys and Ernest at home and Norman on the homestead.

INDIANS FINED FOR TRAPPING

Raymond Maracle and Brant Brant Are Convicted in Belleville Court.

PAY $83.00 EACH

BELLEVILLE, April 23.—His Worship Magistrate Mikel delivered judgment in the case of Raymond Maracle and Brant Brant, Indians on the Mohawk Reserve, charged under the Game and Fisheries Act, with destroying muskrat house, finding the accused guilty in each case. The fine was set at $10.00 and costs for each offence amounting to $83.00 in all against each man. The men were given until Monday to pay their fines, and in default they will serve one month in the county jail.

Magistrate Mikel found that the men were trapping on land in Thurlow Township instead of Tyendinaga Township, where they had a right to trap. "There is no doubt in my mind after looking over the situation personally that the offences were committed in Thurlow Township," said His Worship. "There is no excuse based on the merits of being residents of the Reserve and the Indians may have special rights on their own Reserve, but where these offences took place they were not on Reserve land. If the Indians have special rights on the Reserve with that I am not concerned in this particular place. The Indian feels that he is an ally and not a subject but this view is entirely wrong."

Court of Revision Is Held At Tweed

TWEED, April 23 (Examiner Correspondence) — The village council met recently with all the members present when Howard Smith asked for a reduction on sewer and water connections from street line to dwelling and it was left to S. Bowley to adjust.

The Court of Revision on frontage assessment on North Victoria street was then opened. H. B. Austin was reduced from 100 to 82½ feet the balance to be measured and charged to C.N.R. and other minor adjustments made.

Charlie James and others presented a petition for water and sewer installation on Arthur street and this matter was laid over, until proper petitions are presented.

James Ryan and W. E. Tummon, M.P., representing the Board of Trade interviewed the council re the C.P.R. local train being discontinued. Mr. Tummon promised to take the matter up with the adjoining villages and townships.

A by-law was introduced amending by-law No. 338B regarding the rates charged for water, received its several readings and numbered 363. The clerk was intructed to write the secretary of the Unemployment Relief Fund re Bert Cornell. On motion, W. H. Sayers was granted an honorarium of $75 in connection with the waterworks installation on North Victoria street.

The following accounts were ordered paid: Rashotte Bros., cement, 65c; I. D. Corcoran, law costs, $74.10; Paul Rashotte, cement mixer, $18; Louis Rashotte, labor and supplies, $13.80; Municipal World, Hydro debentures, $35.67; Hydro Electric Company, supplies and labor, $24.06; Alex Clark, labor, $8.95; W. J. Rivers, damage to car, $6; C. Moon, hauling engine, $2 Dominion Foundries, repairs, $4.75; Grand and Company, office supplies, $4.25; C. P. Railway, 45c; William Vilneff, labor, $11; J. W. MEN WHO KNOW STEEL PREFER THE VALET —MEN WHO KNOW FACES PRESCRIBE IT

PRECISE calculation enables the astronomer to plot the course of a comet with absolute accuracy—predict its return to the minute. In the modern precision factory where the new Valet blade is made—scientists supervise every operation—guard comfort for the world's most discriminating class of shavers. Perfect shaving results are foretold with certainty — for mathematically exact standards always prevail.

Meticulous care from the selection of material to manufacture of the finished product has made the new Valet a ruling favorite among scientific men everywhere. Metallurgists and dermatologists—men who know steel and men who know faces —recommend and prescribe this finely finished blade to friends and patients.

One clinical test after another has positively proved the Valet is easier on the face. It is invaluable for the prevention and relief of skin troubles caused or aggravated by improper shaving.

Valetite-processed steel is triple-hardened by secret formula and finished to a micro-perfect edge. Electro-magnetic inspection assures uniform quality. The Valet blade is made exclusively for and held at a scientific angle by the Valet AutoStrop Razor. Stropping and cleaning do not require its removal.

Learn the advantages of precision manufacture by actual experience. Shave with a blade that is really gentle with your face and skin. Give it a thorough trial. Buy a package of Valet blades today.

The new blade can be identified by the word "Valet" cut through the steel

Monument To French Heroine Of Orleans

Quebec to Honor Joan of Arc's Memory, Marking 500th Anniversary.

TORONTO, Ont., April 23.—(By the Canadian Press.)—"The 500th anniversary of the martyrdom of Joan of Arc is not to pass unnoticed in Canada," says Fred Williams in the Mail and Empire. "It will be celebrated at Quebec some time this summer; the monument to be erected at Bergerville, in Sillery parish, will not be ready for the actual date; it was on May 30, 1431, that the Maid of Orleans gave her life for France; but it is hoped to have the ceremony take place before Autumn.

"The monument to be erected is quite a pretentious one. Joan of Arc will be shown mounted on a white charger, saluting Canada with her spear. Around the base of the statue will be large figures representing women and men who have played their part in Canadian history. On one side will be Mgr. de Laval, first Bishop of Quebec; the Venerable Mother Marie de l'Incarnation, foundress of the Ursulines; Mother Catherine de Saint Augustine, the first of the Augustines: Father Dolbeau, the first Recollect priest in New France; and Jeanne Mance, foundress of the Hotel Dieu of Montreal. On the other side will be figures of Jacques Cartier, the discoverer of Canada; Samuel de Champlain, the founder of Quebec; Louis Hebert, the first farmer in Canada; the Venerable Mother Marguerite Bourgeoys, foundress of the Congregation of Notre Dame; Maisoneuve, the founder of Ville Marie (Montreal); Jean de Brebeuf, the martyr; and Abbe de Queylus, the first Sulpician. The figure of Jacques Cartier has been supplied by the Province of Quebec; that of Maisoneuve by the city of Montreal; and the others by the religious orders concerned or by private donors.

London Is Planning Big Art Exhibition

French Art of Three Centuries Will be Shown in Burlington House.

LONDON, April 23 (By The Canadian Press) — Three centuries of French art will be seen at Burlington House next year, when the Association d'Expansion et d'Exchange Artistique, which is under the French Minister of Fine Arts, will co-operate with the governing body of the Royal Academy here in arranging with the governing body of French art. About 400 paintings will form the bulk of the exhibits, but sculpture, goldsmith's work, tapestries and general objects d'art will be included, to make the story of French art as vivid as possible.

The contributions will be world-wide, only about one-fifth of the picture total being drawn from the Louvre. Great Britain, the French provinces and the United States possess examples of such high quality that they will not be eclipsed by the great treasure-house of Paris. A tentative "ideal list" has been made, but many of the pictures have to be tracked down and, if unobtainable, suitable alternatives arranged.

"French art cannot take us back to such dimly distant days as that of Italy, but, once in motion, its currents are rapid," says Gui St. Bernard, art critic of The News Chronicle. "In no country do we find painting and sculpture of more vitality, or more ordered ambition. Politically, 18th century France was chaos, and art achievement was as inconsistent as the aims of the provincials who produced it. From Sienna in Italy, the English illuminators, Cologne and the Netherlands came ideas, but Paris as a Court centre, limited its ambitions to having its face painted a la mode.

"Times changed. The 17th century produced Poussin, the 18th Watteau, painter of elegant philanderings in an age of careless luxury. The world-famed 'Embarquement pour Cythere' will probably be sent to London. Fragonard and Boucher, not quite so great, and the earnest Chardin will be represented too."

LESS ACCIDENTS REPORT SHOWS

R. B. Morley Claims Reduction Indicates Greater Interest in Prevention.

CONVENTION IN TORONTO.

TORONTO, Ont., April 23 (C.P.)—Increasing interest in accident prevention was reported by R. B. Morley, General Manager of the Industrial Accident Prevention Associations in his annual report presented at the annual convention to-day. This, he said, indicated that industry had seized the possibilities.

Last year, Mr. Morley said there were 69,267 accidents reported to the Ontario Workmen's Compensation Board, including 520 fatalities, a sharp falling off from 87,103 in 1929. He said the particular job of the associations was to keep information constantly before employer and employee so that practical steps may be taken inside the firm under compensation, looking to a reduction in both severity and frequency. F. M. Morton of Hamilton, Ont., was nominated for president; G. G. Cockshutt, of Brantford, Ont., and R. T. Herdegen, of Walkerville, Ont., being nominated for first and second vice-presidents, respectively. W. S. Campbell was nominated honorary treasurer and Mr. Morley, general manager.

Accident prevention is establishing itself as an internal part of business management, said H. W. Heinrich, assistant superintendent of the engineering and inspection division of the Travellers' Insurance Company, Hartford, Conn., and is being considered in discussions of national problems. His address purported to show that industrial accident cost was unnecessarily and burdensomely high, progress being retarded by lack of appreciation of the existing opportunity to prevent major injuries by attacking the near accidents from which they arise.

RICHARD POWER HAS BIRTHDAY

Former Superintendent of Famed Halifax Public Gardens Reaches 90th Year.

NATIVE OF IRELAND.

HALIFAX, N.S., April 23.—(By the Canadian Press)—An Irishman who came to Halifax sixty-nine years ago and built up the public gardens of this city to an international reputation celebrated his ninetieth birthday on April 6. He is Richard Power, Superintendent of the gardens here from 1872 to 1915, and actively associated with their care until two years ago.

One of a family of forticulturists, he was born in Lismore, Waterford County, Ireland, and at seventeen years of age was foreman of the Duke of Devonshire's estate there. Four years later h came to Halifax and was placed in charge of the Halifax Nursery, the first public nursery in this city. Some years later he took over charge of the Public Gardens, which have since them become outstanding among city gardens on this continent. His interest embraced more than this area in the heart of the city however, and trees planted by him tower to-day over many of the education and public buildings of Halifax.

Thrice married, Mr. Power, had fourteen children. Among those living to-day are Robert Power, assistant superintendent of the Boston Park Public Gardens, and George Powers, now studying floriculture in Halifax. A grandson learned the craft under the veteran, and is now following this work in the United States. All of Mr. Power's brothers, of whom one survives, have superintended parks and gardens.

BUST FOUND MAY BE INDIAN RELIC

Stone Figure Unearthed In Montreal Bears Evidence of Indian Work.

MONTREAL, April 23 (By The Canadian Press).—What may well prove to be one of the most remarkable discoveries of buried Indian relics on the North American continent was made recently by Douglas Barnes, young son of Lieut. R. Barnes, of the Montreal police force, who uncovered a stone bust buried underneath four feet of virgin soil in Notre Dame de Grace, a suburb of Montreal.

The discovery has already been hailed as a most remarkable one by McGill museum authorities and the figure has been placed on exhibition at the museum. The carved stone figure is actually somewhat longer than the conventional bust. It weighs some 30 pounds and has an over-all length of 18 inches.

The carving has been made from a single piece of stone. The head is approximately natural size with eyes marked roughly, nose almost perfect and ears carved without symmetry.

The lower part of the figure shows the hands resting above the hips with fingers nearly meeting across the abdomen.

The ground from which the strange object was taken is close to the last remaining forest trees in Notre Dame de Grace on King Edward avenue.

"An extremely interesting discovery and one which bears strong evidence of Indian work," E. Lionel Judah, curator of McGill museum, stated in commenting upon the find.

While not wishing definitely to commit himself on whether the stone figure was actually of Indian origin before further investigation, Mr. Judah made a number of comments which indicated that the find may well throw North American Indian historians and particularly museum officials into a flurry of excitement.

The discovery being mad four feet below the surface of the ground would indicate that the carved figure dates back long before the arrival of Jacques Cartier in Canada, he said.

In fact it is quite readily admitted that many tribes of Indians, about most of whom there is nothing known, may have lived in the area in which the discovery was made.

Only one piece of stone carving at all similar to this find exists in the museum at McGill University. The example of Indian stone carving at the university is made from Utica shale and was obtained from the old Montreal Natural History Society. Little further is known about it.

North American Indians have not been great stone carvers, as evidenced by the few stone relics existing in the museums of this continent. However, there is one tribe of Indians on the Pacific coast known as the Haida Indians who have left a considerable number of stone utensils and decorative objects.

The fact leads McGill Museum officials to believe that the stone figure discovered in Notre Dame de Grace came originally from the Pacific coast.

HOMELESS PAY BENEFACTORS WITH THEFT OF CLOTHINL

LETHBRIDGE, Alta., April 23.—(By the Canadian Press)—Kindly acts of Lethbridge police officers in securing overnight lodging and feed for drifters have proved to the benefactors the ingratitude of men.

As many as 15 in a single night have been given accommodation. Some have been grateful, others have repaid the kindness by stealing articles from police quarters in the early hours of the morning and making their escape.

At various times officers have discovered the loss of shirts and blankets, but recently came the last straw when a complete suit of clothes disappeared when the clerk in charge absented himself from the station for a few minutes.

Donor Of Paintings Amazing In Modesty

Gives Many Valuable Works to Manchester's Art Gallery.

MANCHESTER, England, Apr. 23 (By The Canadian Press).—A. E. Anderson is the name of a modest benefactor of this city in the way of giving valuable works of art, so modest indeed that un il Th: Manchester Guardian made special mention of him in anticipation of a recent exhibition of paintings in the Whitworth Gallery here comparatively few citizens had ever heard of him. The Guardian says:

"Nothing has ever been made public about this modest benefactor of Manchester, It is odds that if you offered to confer the freedom of the city on him he would decline because of the public appearance which would be entailed. He had never been in Manchester, whose Whitworth Gallery he first learned of through a casual newspaper paragraph, nor has he any intention of coming here. When the show of his wonderful gifts is opened, there will be no photograph of the donor. Mr. Anderson has never been photographed, except once, as a member of 'the crowd' at a football match. Watching football matches, giving away pictures, and going to flower shows are his hobbies.

"This giver to Manchester of hundreds of works of art, worth many thousands of pounds, lives in a tiny cottage in Surrey, which gives him cover from the publicity he dreads. His first gift to the Whitworth Gallery was made in 1906. It was John Varley's drawing of Harlech Castle. One picture was given in the next year; then for two years the gifts ceased. In 1910 there came three pictures by David Cox, and from that year up to date, even including the years of the war, there has never been a year in which pictures have not come from Mr. Anderson. In recent years they have tended to increase; the benefactions have been princely in taste and value.

"Some of the loveliest of Manchester's drawings by Turner, Constable, and Gainsborough have come from Mr. Anderson. Bone, Breughel, Cezanne, Corot, Cotman, Cox, Cozens, Crome, Daumier, Degas, De Wint, Fantin-Latour, Gertler, Gill, Girtin, Harpignies, Innes, John, Legros, McBey, Matisse, Millet, Nash (Paul and John), Orpen, Ospovat, Picasso, Rodin, Seurat, Sickert, Steer, Thirtle, Turner, Ethel Walker, Gauguin, Clare Leighton, and Gwen Raverat—those are among the names which figure on the list of Mr. Anderson's amazing benefaction. He has given three busts by Epstein. The latest, which has not yet been exhibited, is 'The Senegalese Girl.'"

STONE UNVEILED TO M. FARADAY

Earl of Bessborough Transmits Messages Over Trans-Atlantic Telephone.

CENTENARY OF DISCOVERY.

OTTAWA, Ont., April 23.—(C.P.)—Over the trans-Atlantic telephone, through a message from the Earl of Bessborough, a stone of commemoration was unveiled to-day in London, England, to Michael Faraday.

From Government House, His Excellency — a former director of the London Power Company—paid tribute to Faraday, whose epoch-making discovery one hundred years ago led to the birth of the electrical industry. The remembrance stone is erected in the Batterseas power station by the banks of the Thames.

The commemorating inscription of the stone reads:

On St. George's Day in the year of the centenary of Michael Faraday's great discovery this stone of commemoration unveiled at a moment about noon and by a message transmitted from Ottawa by His Excellency the Governor-General of Canada, the Right Honorable the Earl of Bessborough, G.C.M.G., a former director of the London Power Company, shall abide as a landmark in the development of larger London's light and power and shall serve as another memorial of the scientific heritage derived from famous Englishmen.

NEXT ELECTION LABOR BATTLE CRY WILL BE "PEOP LE OR THE PEERS"

Lords Tossing Out of Clauses in Land Utilization Bill Raises Storm.

PRESS COMMENTS BITTER.

LONDON, April 23 (By George Hambleton, C.P. Staff Correspondent). — The people or the peers, will be a Labor battle-cry in the next general elections. The action of the House of Lords yesterday in throwing out some of the most important of the clauses in the Government's Land Utilization Bill has left Labor indignantly protesting. The Bill was designed to relieve unemployment by putting unemployed on the land with Government aid and supervision, and had passed the House of Commons.

The Labor newspaper, The Daily Herald, editorially describes the amendments as another count in the long reckoning against the House of Lords: As another proof of their impenitent Toryism — another proof that they perform no useful function in our machinery of Government. They have become an intolerable nuisance which must and will be dealt with in the very near future.

Expect Further Rejections.

The amendments to the Land Bill follow closely the Upper Chamber's rejection of the Government Bill to raise the school-leaving age from 14 to 15. And around Westminster the common expectation is that still another important Government measure, the Alternative Vote Bill, now reaching final committee stage in the House of Commons, will meet the same fate in the House of Lords.

The Government has announced its intention to apply the Parliament Act which means that defeated measures will be reintroduced at the next session with a view to their being passed over the veto of the House of Lords. But this takes two years, and much may happen to a minority Government in two years. The Laborites are already talking of fighting out the issue at the polls.

Mark Street United Church is holding a Father and Son banquet on Friday evening, April 24, Rev. C. V. McLean, of St. Andrews Church, is the main speaker and J. Ellis will be toastmaster. The boys have planned a number of stunts for the occasion, and supper starts at 6.30.

Over the week-end the local Boys' Work Board had C. F. Plewman, secretary of the Ontario Boys' Work Council, as their guest.

He attended a banquet at the Y.M.C.A. on Saturday, making the presentation of medals to the bond sellers, and later he discussed problems of boys work and leadership.

Sunday morning the leadership discussion was continued and many of the leaders of Trail Ranger and Tuxis groups in the city received much valuable information and new ideas fo their own groups. Mr. Plewman then went over a plan for new Trail Ranger groups just starting and explained the different parts of it. He addressed the Trail Ranger and Tuxis boys at Mark Street Church in the afternoon, and in the evening he addressed the congregation of Park Street Church, on the subject "Boy Life."

Boys Work in the city is progressing rapidly. Many young men are being developed into splendid leaders with training. All groups are urged to get into training for the athletic meet to be held this Spring.

The groups should now be working on the Bible Study Tests which are outlined by the different Church units.

A new Trail Ranger and Tuxis hat has just been put on the market. Of splendid material it will be useful for camps, games and many occasions.

All boys who would like to spend a week at the Rotary Camp on Clear Lake this summer under the leade ship of Trail Ranger and Tuxis groups should give their names to their mentors. At the camp there will be splendid opportunities to earn thier ummer badges.

BENSFORT ROAD BEING IMPROVED

"Flat Road" Has Been Taken Over By the Suburban Area Commission.

REQUIRE LOTS OF WORK.

The Suburban Area Commission has begun its recently assumed job of improving the "flat road" in Otonabee leading to Bensfort Bridge. And any one who has driven over that road this Spring will realize the extent of the Commission's contract. There will have to be a lot of improving and rebuilding to long sections of that road before it will deserve to wear the brand of the Suburban Commission.

Two graders were started yesterday, but one of them was held up by some broken part and needed mechanical attention. The "flat road" extends south from below the Locks to what the Otonabee residents call the "base line," and the "base line" is part of the road extending from Keene to Bailieboro. The "flat road" to Bensfort Bridge will have to be considerably widened in stretches and some parts of it will evidently have to be built up. Its importance stands out as a county road from the city through Otonabee and South Monaghan, a pleasant sideline from the city to the highway.

Motoring over it of late has been a hazard for springs and other vital parts of cars, and in places second gear is almost dangerous. That may give an impression of the condition of this road as Frank Kitney's men start to iron it out and make a real highway of it.

Department Engineer Praises Road Grader

Mr. Fellows Addresses Douro Council on Upkeep of Concession Roads.

DOURO, April 23—At a meeting held recently in the Town Hall, Douro, Mr. Fellows, engineer of the Department of Highways, gave a very instructive and interesting address to the members of the Douro Council on the most improved method of constructing and maintaining public roads.

Mr. Fellows was very emphatic in his support of the power grader as a means of maintaining concession roads. The Department of Highways is very much interested in the building of roads in Douro as the Government is putting up dollar for dollar with the municipality and wishes the money wisely spent. Mr. Fellows paid a glowing tribute to J. J. Leahy's ability as Reeve, saying that it was wholly through Mr. Leahy's efforts that Douro was receiving the extra ten per cent grant to building and maintaining of township roads.

Mr. Elliott, County Treasurer, accompanied Mr. Fellows to Douro and gave the Council a short talk on the science of perpetual motion, casting some new and interesting views on that age-old theory.

On motion of R. Bolton and H. Quinn, it was decided to rescind the motion of February 9 meeting reducing the wages paid to man and teams on township roads. On motion of the same gentlemen it was decided to pay the same rate of wages on township roads as in former years.

On motion of H. Quinn and J. Mahoney the Clerk was instructed to send a letter of condolence to the wife and family of the late Maurice Condon. Mr. Condon served the municipality in the capacity of auditor for more than forty years, having been appointed to the position in 1890 and his associate auditor at the time was Henry Reid. The personnel of the council board in 1890 was John Maloney, reeve; W. Garbutt, Mr. Allen, Mr. Foley and Mr. Walsh, councillors.

ST. GEORGE'S DAY ONE OF CHIVALRY

Englishmen Are To-day Glorying in Their National Festive Day.

BIRTH OF SHAKESPEARE.

This being the anniversary of the birthday and deathday of Shakespeare and the name day of St. George of England, it has a very great significance for the Englishman wherever he may be. St. George is a prototype of the chivalry and sense of honor that form the grain of the English character and Shakespeare has made the English language predominant and potent wherever the highest civilization has spread.

Englishmen may well glory in this national festive day, in what it means in the way of achievement, in all that represents the spread and upholding of the highest civilization, and its manifestations in all the arts, enterprises and best agencies of human advance.

At the head of the list of the world's great statesmen, its great warriors by sea and land its great explorers and builders of nations, its great apostles of religion and the great figures in all spheres of human endeavour, are the names of Englishmen, scions of a noble homeland and men with an inborn love and reverence for sport and the sporting chance.

There is not a flurry on the calm of the city's life. Irishmen, Welshmen, Scotsmen on St. Patrick's, St. David's and St. Andrew's day's grow enthusiastic, but that is not the way with the Englishman. He is satisfied with possession without making a fuss over it. He is not emotional. He believes that the best brand of loyalty is that kept in the heart and lived up to.

Flaunt and vaunt and display are not needed to show true reverence and devotion, and so to-day—St. George's Day—passes without a stir.

Ten-Minute Tornado Wrecks Ancona Homes

ANCONA, Italy, April 23. (AP)—A ten minute tornado to-day wrecked three earthquake proof houses which had survived the devastating July and October tremors, and unroofed many houses after flooding the town with rain.

A score of persons were slightly injured and three others more gravely hurt. The wind blew a hundred-yard wide path through the old quarter of the town which suffered badly in the quake but in other sections the population was hardly aware of its violence.

Shakespeare's Birth Is Celebrated To-Day

STRATFORD-ON-AVON, England, April 23. (AP)—Visitors flocked here by the hundreds to-day for celebration of Shakespeare's birthday. A picturesque feature of the commemorative ceremonial was a procession of pilgrims with votive offerings from the poet's supposed birthplace to the parish church where floral tributes were placed on his tomb.

At a luncheon John Drinkwater, playwright, proposed a toast to the immortal memory, and Sir Nigel Playfair, to the drama. A winter's tale, will be performed to-night by the Stratford Festival Company.

Shakespeare was born, it is believed, in 1564.

RED PATCH CLUB COMMEMORATES BATTLE OF YPRES

the occasion was also marked by a period of silent remembrance in tribute to those who paid the supreme sacrifice overseas

The toast to "Fallen Comrades" was briefly and adequately proposed by Captain Abraham, after which the Last Post was sounded while the assembly stood to attention in the darkened room and was followed by the Reveille.

Outlining the stirring events that led to Great Britain's entry into hostilities, of the despatching of the first contingent B.E.F. to France, and of Canada's magnificent response, Colonel Ackerman proposed the toast "Originals and Contemptibles."

"On August 4th," he stated, "thanks to the Canadian system of militia development we had 60,000 officers and men trained in the elementary rudiments of war, and within six weeks from the time war was declared, Canada had one complete division of militia men enrolled and on the way to take an active part in the war brought about by Germany, and which the speaker hoped was a "war to end war."

"It is fitting that we who had the privilege and honor of serving in the First Division C.E.F., should realize now as private citizens that we can serve in identically the same way today. We are faced with problems, almost as big as those faced at the outbreak of the war by the British Expeditionary Force, and we must still carry on and play our part."

The speaker proceeded to point out how by personal precept and example, his comrades could help their country in her present need, as they did on active service.

"If we could all put into this country one quarter of the energy, that was expended by the Canadian Corps in the war, we should soon solve our problems," he contended.

"I do not wish to be pessimistic," he proceeded, "but the fact remains that the problems facing this country to-day are great. Problems facing the ex-service men who are physically impaired are greater."

He warned his listeners to look ahead, and to be prepared to face conditions during the next two years, which he thought would probably be worse than they are at the present time.

Must Back Legion

"The spirit of the Canadian Corps as an asset to the Dominion of Canada is going to be lost unless ex-service men back their organization—the Canadian Legion," was a further warning Colonel Ackerman issued. "The Legion," he proceeded, "is the only organization in Canada that can express the thoughts in the minds of the ex-service men. The united effort of men as expressed through the Canadian Legion can be of great assistance to Canadians in these days."

The speaker expressed his admiration, "For the way one of our members here to-night has carried on since he came back from overseas service. I refer to Captain Abraham. It is impossible for any of us to know much about the time he has devoted to the problems, which are not his own problems. Many of you have fallen down and unless you do assist with the work James Abraham has been carrying on a lot of men in our community are going to suffer."

The speaker thought that Captain Abraham had a worthy successor in charge of the Legion, in the person of Arnold Everett, a man he stated, "With a good record and an intimate knowledge of the needs of the returned men. I trust that you will all get behind him."

Captain Marryat of Hastings an "Old Contemptible and Original," who served in the Engineers responded to the toast in humorous vein.

The Mayor

Greeted with a hearty ovation, Mayor Denne is proposing a toast to "Our City and Province," touched upon the present economic depression as it has affected the city, and stated that to date and since November last from $140,000 to $150,000 has been expended in relief work undertakings.

"The Council is unanimous in being of the opinion that it is better to give work than charity," he stated adding, "the spending power of the city is limited and we hope that Premier Bennett will afford further assistance next winter if conditions do not improve."

There is to be a conference at Ottawa next week of representatives of all cities in Ontario, who are to meet the Government to discus ways and means for relief work. This would seem to indicate that such assistance is needed, the Mayor thought.

He spoke also of the fact that there are at present 775 unemployed registered in the city, and of the hard task of dividing the relief work equally among such a number of people. He assured his listeners, however that the City authorities are all working to the best of their ability.

"Peterborough is the second best city in the Province," he pointed out so far as present trade conditions are concerned, a fact which he thought went to prove that everybody has been pulling together and doing their part.

The Best City

Captain Strickland who responded to the toast, did not think things were quite so bad as previous speakers had suggested. "We are living," he said, "in the best city in the best Province in the Dominion."

Making a comparison between conditions in the Province of Ontario and in other parts of the world, he contended that we have a great deal to be thankful for.

"We cannot expect conditions to come back overnight to what they were three years ago, but we must remember that by looking at the bright side of things we will be adding materially towards the re-establishment of brighter conditions. We have every reason to be proud of this city, and of those responsible for its government, as also we have reason to be proud of our Province and Dominion."

The speaker recalled the shock which the community at large had suffered after the casualty lists were made known following the second battle of Ypres, and contended that the results of that shock are still making themselves felt.

"The Dominion of Canada lost assets at that period and subsequently through the war period, that were incalculable and irreplaceable," he said.

"Canada with a population of about eight million people at the beginning of the war, enlisted nearly one million men and women in war service. Of that million 200,000 were casualties and 50,000 killed. In life alone Canada lost 5 per cent of her population, while of the other 15 per cent of that number many of them are charges upon the country as well as many who should be charges upon the country, but who are managing to struggle along alone. Having regard to all the circumstances we are fortunate to be living in the city and Province that we are."

"Our Guests," was the toast proposed by Major Winterbottom, who read a letter from Major-General Hughes in which he regretted his inability to attend the function, stating that he had intended to present a photograph of his father on the occasion to be hung in the Peterborough Rangers mess.

Colonel Hall responded and during the course of a brief address congratulated A. E. Everett, newly appointed president of the Legion. The speaker was of the opinion that such organizations as the Red Patch Club and the 21st Battalion Club, should get behind the Canadian Legion which was working so hard in the interests of the returned men.

The following artists contributed greatly to the musical success and enjoyment of the evening, Mr. Jack Smith, Sergeant "Bob" Hendry and Mr. George Chandler.

ECONOMIC VALUE OF CANADIAN BIRDS STRESSED AT MEETING

O. E. Kelly, Honorary Game Warden for Northumberland, Addresses Y.P.S.

AT MILLBROOK

MILLBROOK, April 23 (Examiner Correspondence) — The economic value of birds and the necessity for their protection, stressed to-day as an important feature of the educational life of young Canada, was well presented by O. E. Kelly, Honorary Game Warden for Northumberland county, in his illustrated lecture, "Bird Life in Canada," was given at the weekly meeting of the Young People's Society held on Monday evening under the auspices of the Citizenship Department, the convenor, Oliver Brock, occupying the chair.

Recommending the study of birds as an interesting informative hobby, Mr. Kelly spoke of their song, plumage, and the task of identifying the various species as being happy features of the spring season, pointing out also that thirteen hundred different species are already known to scientists, while many others wait to be classified. "Approximately three hundred and twenty-five species are found in Ontario, though only about half of these are common, and probably not many of you know that there are five varieties of blackbirds, lovely songster we call the canary, really a member of the warbler family, is but one of the thirty-three branches of that large connection."

With the coming of man, the speaker said, many changes took place in the bird life, which rapidly began to decrease. Some were driven farther north as the land was cleared, the burning over of large areas destroying the nesting sites of the ground birds, and the draining of lakes and ponds robbing the waterfowl of their breeding-places. Others, like the passenger pigeon, were entirely exterminated, though our forefathers wrote, "These birds have been seen so thick they darkened the sun with their flocks."

The introduction of cats, which authorities claim should be confined during the nesting season, and of the 22 calibre rifle, particularly as boys are frequently allowed its indiscriminate use, all played a part in the decrease of bird life. Scientists began to study the reasons for this decrease, and their economic value was firmly established as it was found they are the only effective means of protecting crops from insects and weed seeds. "Even in the hawk family it was found that only five out of the twelve varieties are injurious to the farmer."

Bird societies were organized to tell people what scientists had discovered, and as these feathered migrants do not recognize any international boundaries it was necessary to secure co-operation on both sides of the border to gain their protection. Eventually a treaty was drawn up, the Migratory Birds Convention Act, giving protection to game birds, non-game birds, and to water-fowl, in Canada and the United States. The only birds excluded were the crow, the blackbird, the cow-bird, the sparrow and the jay.

Game wardens were appointed to carry out the treaty, and others acting in an honorary capacity, have promised time in educating the people, and especially the children, on why they should protect the birds. There are three standpoints of appeal: (a) scientific; (b) sentimental, Jack Miner, and Major Allen Brookes, the great bird artist in the world, being outstanding examples of this side which reaches the heart of the largest number of men; (c) economic.

To the Small Boys

B. B. Dawson managed the lantern for the slides which depicted bird life from coast to coast in Canada. Mr. Kelly's final remarks being particularly toward the small boys of his audience as he urged feeding stations, bird baths, and bird houses as constructive activities for the current season in a locality which the speaker believed to be eminently favorable to the conservation of bird life.

The meeting opened with community singing of favorite hymns, Mrs. (Rev.) W. W. Jones presiding at the piano; Fred Coulter read the scripture lesson, and Oliver Brock gave the devotional talk on, "What is Success?" A vocal solo by Edward La Silence, and a piano solo, "At Daybreak," by Miss Estelle Hetherington, were enjoyed and warmly applauded.

The president, Mr. Dawson, announced the play, "Yimmie Yohnson's Yob," to be given in the basement of Saint Andrew's Church on Monday, April 27, under the auspices of the Y.P.S. and each member was made responsible for the sale of a definite number of tickets. The pastor emphasized the fact that this entertainment gains in importance when it is remembered that it is taking the place of the annual banquet. The dramatic club of Knox Church, Peterborough, presents the play.

Before dismissal, Mr. Kelly mentioned his early departure from the community, expressing gratitude for personal kindness toward himself and Mrs. Kelly, and urging steps toward study of bird life and its protection that his educational work might bear lasting fruit. A number of pamphlets on the attraction and feeding of birds and kindred subjects, with a copy of the Migratory Act, were distributed at the close.

The meeting on Monday, May 4, will be under the Christian Fellowship committee, Miss Jean Burnham, convenor.

Plan To Probe Death Of Bigamist's Wife

CATSKILL, N.Y., April 23. (CP)—Canadian authorities to-day were believed to be investigating the death at St. Catharine, Que., in 1926 of Meta Narock, first wife of George Roediger who is in jail here charged with bigamously marrying two other women. It was said here that Roediger's first wife died of poisoning.

Meantime state authorities were investigating the allegation of the second Mrs. Roediger's brother-in-law that her husband was responsible for her death. She died in a bath tub.

The charge of bigamy was brought by the third Mrs. Roediger who claimed she had been married to Roediger for two years before the death of the woman who died in the bath last January.

Schools And Empire In Australian Tour

British School Boys Will Visit Commonwealth on Voyage Round World.

LONDON, April 22 (By The Canadian Press)—An Australian tour, or rather a voyage around the world, has been arranged for a party of 30 British school-boys this summer under the auspices of the Public School Empire Tours organization. In a letter to The Times by M. J. Mitchell, noted educationist, Chairman of the School Empire Tours Committee, as well as Chairman of the League of Empire, the proposed tour is explained.

"We propose," he states, "with the encouragement of the High Commissioner of Australia and other officials, to send 30 boys to visit Australia, sailing out by the Panama Canal on August 14 and returning by the Suez Canal at the beginning of January, 1932. On the voyage round the world they will touch at Wellington, Colombo, Suez (for Cairo), and Malta. But Australia is their main objective; and they will visit each of the six States in turn.

"Boys must be over 17 and under 19½ on August 1. The cost of the tour seems likely to be about $800 or $850. The director of the party will be a Winchester Master, J. W. Parr. He will have on his staff an Army officer and a civilian, who will act as advance agent.

"The aim of the tour is twofold, educational in the widest sense and Imperial. Boys will, of course, have a full opportunity of meeting Australians old and young, in their homes and at their stations; they will see great scenery, and take part in various kinds of sport."

THE WOMAN PAYS IN SUNNY SPAIN

on his hip ready to shoot up the town if any swanky caballero gets friendly toward his daughter. Papa is on the job at the fetes of course, but his Rosalinda is masked and Papa seems to work on the theory that what can't be seen can't be loved—or something. Sometimes he even gets so far away from his daughter that she, if willing, can be kissed and this, if you know Spain, is indeed a bold move.

Ramon danced with Rosalinda. He came to love her. They went through the strict formality of courtship. She "trunked." He played fairy godfather to the family taking them to the opera, the bull fights, the concerts. This lasted seven years. The details of the dowery, the honeymoon, the new home were all completed. The invitations were issued. Then death played his ace. He claimed Rosalinda's father and the entire family had to go into deep mourning for two years. Sometimes the loss of a close blood relation calls for three years mourning.

The wedding could not be thought of. They delayed. When Ramon was 35 the date was set again but his mother died. That meant another two year delay. Between that day and this the other two parents have died. Ramon, who was a lieutenant when he met his betrothed, is a colonel now and a bit pudgy along the waistline. He is the head of his family too but he will not break the rules and marry at once. The book says his period of mourning will not be up until August. So in August they hope to be married.

I can't quite imagine Canadian girls abiding by the rules of courtship strictly like this but it's also a bit hard to see their fathers kicking in with a stray thousand or two in gold or the married ones keeping strictly at home unless hubby agrees to take them place and bring them back again.

So much for class folks. But here in Northern Galicia, one of the poorest provinces, women go everywhere and do everything. A great caravan of tourists spread up through the fringe of the Pyrenees to-day to Santiago de Compostella a mellow old cathedral town.

Women Doing All the Work

Tourists are always taken to cathedral towns. Some even go into the cathedrals. But others watched the people and what they saw were women doing all the work. They were repairing the road we drove over; driving great creaking loads of stone on which men rode. The women hurried up and down the road in bare feet urging on the placid teams of oxen. Not a drop of oil had ever been on the wheels of those hulking carts and they squeaked and groaned unmercifully.

In the vineyards women and girls were here and there training up the newly budded vines while boys sat on the ground minding the babies. Where there were no boys the mother's had the babes fastened to their backs papoose fashion. The girls always worked. None of this baby minding for peasant girls. Once in a while we passed really pretty senoritas wearing black lace on their heads. A lady, in Spain, must never on any condition appear with her head uncovered. A peasant girl seldom appears any other way.

Women strode past with enormous bundles on their head, their bodies straight as an arrow, their feet flat as an elephant's. They rushed the water troughs which were set up wherever an artesian well flowed. Some carried six gallon cans on their heads with other cans in their arms and nobody spilled a drop. Some carried great cans of water into fields to water their plants.

The country was beautiful and warm. Lemon trees lined some roads. They blossomed and bore fruit all at the same time and when tourists spotted them the vandalism that happened there was just nobody's business. Whole branches were pulled off and carried away in triumph. This part of Spain is one of the few spots on earth where it's difficult to find the English tongue and this too seemed to annoy the trippers. Some thought it was uproariously funny. At a small wayside convent we were taken in and shown cells which could be rented for meditation. The worshipper has to pay a fee and live there in rigid simplicity for two weeks. One woman in the party, a jewess who would seem to be uninterested, took the vow and disappeared.

Other tried to talk her out of it but she was adamant and left the car to spend a fortnight in a stone cell sleeping on a stone slab, "just for experience.' So have three women dropped from this cruise. One missed the ship, one suddenly decided not to leave home, one decides to go into religious retreat. But there are plenty left. They outnumber the men three to two and 648 people on a Mediterranean cruise doesn't quite look as if business has all gone to pot, does it?

NEW PURSE.

ARMY OF BIRDS IS FLYING NORTH

First Warm Days Bring to Canada Many of Our Summer Friends.

COLOR AND MUSIC.

A vast army of birds has left its winter quarters in the tropics and is flying northward in easy stages, bound on conquest. The advance scouts of this annual migration, the gay robins, the hardy woodpeckers and stray members of the dove family are already among us. The army in full force will reach the Trent and Kawartha districts in the closing days of this month and the first week in May.

Residents here well versed in bird lore may recognize nearly 100 different specimens among the birds they will find about the countryside. Local ornithologists report that among the more familiar birds due are the scarlet tanager, Baltimore oriole, bobolink, barn swallow, wood thrush, the rose-breasted grosbeak of the finch family, the purple martin and scattering numbers of the mourning dove.

The first warm days of May bring the scarlet tanager, the most brilliantly colored bird to reach this area. It is easily distinguished by its conical beak and unusually gaudy coloring. The male of the species is scarlet with black wings and tail, while the female is dressed in less gay plumage of olive green with dusky wings.

The Baltimore oriole, like the scarlet tanager, appears in early May in large numbers. This oriole is one of the most conspicuous birds that the Spring migration brings into southern Canada, not only because of the splendor of its plumage but also because of its loud musical whistle. Its gay plumage has won for it such names as golden robin, firebird and fire hangbird. The male of the species is about eight inches long and is a brilliant fire orange in color, with the whole head neck, wings and middle tail feather black, and with considerable white on the wings.

The Bird Songsters.

"The Caruso of Birddom" is the name often aptly applied to the beloved wood thrush. This shy bird is one of the finest songsters in the Western Hemisphere. It is large, with a brown back and speckled breast. Some specimens are as much as ten or eleven inches long.

The bobolink is so named after its call. It is easily distinguished by its rippling song, which it sings while fluttering from place to place. It winters in the forests of South America and even in the warmest days of summer rarely ventures north of Maine. Insects form a large part of the diet of the bobolink and the barn swallow, which are often found together. They are familiar friends of the farmer. The barn swallow, in particular, is unafraid of mankind and makes its nest near the homes of human beings. Of lustrous blue and reddish brown, the barn swallow sings a sweet bubbling song. It is an unusually hardy bird and it has been known to range as far north as Alaska and Greenland.

Color as well as Music.

The rose-breasted grosbeak arrives here during the first fifteen days of May It is a member of the famous family of finches, varios species of which are found in all parts of the world except Australia and New Zealand. They are small, seed-eating birds, characterized by their short, thick conical beak. There is much variation and beauty in their plumage.

The purple martin does not wait for the main migration northward but leaves its home in the Brazilian jungles early enough to get here early in May. It is a common bird, found from Patagonia to within the Arctic circle. It is a foe of insects, feeding on them almost exclusively, and is small, with black plumage above and white underneath.

The doves, too, strive to get here earlier than the main army of man's feathered friends. Among the more conspicuous members of the doves is the mourning dove or the turtle dove. It loves weeds and gardners love it for that reason. The doves are never found here in great numbers but their beauty and their historic association as messengers make them universal favorites.

Other birds due to announce their arrival soon, are the myrtle warbler, the vesper, Savanna chipping, seashore and sharp-tailed sparrows, the ruby-crowned kinglet, the yellow plam warbler, the whip-poor-will, the house wren and the cat-bird.

1,557 Competitors Entered Contest

Designs for a new canned soup label sufficient in number to cover a wall space 88 feet long by 8 feet high when they were displayed for the inspection of the judges in the head office of W Clark Limited, Montreal, were entered in the Clark's soup label contest which has just closed.

They came from 1,557 competitors in all parts of Canada and numbered in all 2,767 designs. A very representative number came from this locality, and while there were no prizewinners among contestants from this city the judges commented very appreciatively on several entries.

The first prize of $300 went to R. Favreaux, Toronto, Ont.; second, $100 to L. S. Norwood, London, Ont.; third, $25, to Louis W. Lowthian, Winnipeg, Man.; fourth, $25, to E. J. Lewis, Toronto, Ont.; fifth, $25, to Constance Nicoll, Toronto, Ont.; sixth, $25, to Raoul Bonin, Montreal, P.Q.

OUR MAIL

Dear Anne:

Why do so few write to you? Surely sometime someone could. It seems to me you are almost fighting against a stone wall, though I know that many, very many, read your pages gladly and derive much benefit and do appreciate the page, but there are so many other things—the day hardly seems long enough.

A palmist once told me I could wish there were forty-eight hours in the day. Mother smiled and agreed. The days often do not seem long enough; there seems to be so much dependent on me, but I love "managing" and get plenty of it.

Anne, have you brought in a bowlful of the dear little hepatica yet? Some places the woods are white with them. Other places are white with blood-root, but there is no satisfaction plucking them for they fall to pieces so soon.

Spring is rushing on so fast that I do not know whether or not I will manage to get the garden work done. If this weather keeps up lots of things should be in by the end of this month. Men are rushing their part too much to do the little that I require done.

I would like to meet you Anne, but I do not believe you would like me. It is only very old people and babies that love me, and animals. Men as a rule stand in awe. Very rarely does anyone say anything nasty about me. I dance and play cards but am mid-Victorian in some of my ideas; am fair, fat and nearing the double of forty; old enough or cantankerous enough to be a law unto myself in the matter of dress.

Now have I scared you?

Yours sincerely,

QUID EST.

Now, Quid Est, you haven't scared me one little bit; in fact I rather like the frank way in which you describe yourself. Many thanks for your letter and I have forwarded the part about the wool to Jane! I am sure she will appreciate your interest. It was lovely of you to enclose the hepatica and I hope I may be able to get out into the woods and get some before it is too late.

Mrs. Ernest Timlin Entertains Members of Roseneath W. A.

ROSENEATH, April 23 (Examiner Correspondence)—Mrs. Ernest Timlin entetrained the ladies of St. James' Women's Auxiliary on Wednesday afternoon, when twelve members and two visitors were present.

The president, Mrs. James Timlin presided over the opening exercises. Rev. Francis Battersby was present and read the scripture lesson from the gospel according to St. John, chapter 20 and also gave a brief talk on the words of the lesson read. The secretary's report was very satisfactory. The treasurer reported that the receipts for March were $3.95 and expenses $1.20.

On motion of Mrs. James Webb and Mrs. Clara Braithwaite Mrs. John T. Drope was chosen a delegate to the annual meeting held in Toronto in May.

During the afternoon a quilt was quilted to be packed in bale for the fall shipment to the needy.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Frank Brown on Wednesday, May 20, a week later than regular date on account of the annual meeting.

Dainty refreshments were served by the hostess and a social half hour was spent among the members.

Japanese Prince Visits Navy Yard

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., April 23. — (C.P.)—His Imperial Highness, Prince Takamatsu of Japan, moved yesterday in the atmosphere said to be nearest to his heart, when he was taken on an inspection tour of the Philadelphia navy yard.

Himself a lieutenant in the Japanese Navy, the Prince and members of his party were met at the yard by Rear-Admiral Lucius A. Bostwick, Commandant, and received a booming salute of twenty-one guns.

The Prince and his bride of a little more than a year arrived here Tuesday and left to-day.

MRS. JANE CLEMENTS 94 ON SUNDAY NEXT

Warsaw Resident Has Keen Interest in Church Affairs Although Bed-Ridden for Years.

On Sunday, April 26, Mrs. Jane Clements of Warsaw will celebrate her ninety-fourth birthday. Although she is bed-ridden and has been for several years, she is by no means idle or uninterested in what takes place around her. As her bed is near the window which overlooks the main street into Warsaw, she is keenly interested in all that passes by.

Mrs. Clements' sight and hearing are still remarkably good, as are also her retentive faculties. Many are the stories of bygone times that she can recall; her mind is a veritable storehouse of reminiscences. She delights her many visitors with her recollections and enjoys their company. Among other things reading and sewing take up a fair share of her time. She is always interested in her own church, the Anglican, and bears with patience her trying physical condition.

Portsmouth, England, has banned the use of Russian gasoline in municipal busses.

SHOWER PRESENTED LAKEFIELD COUPLE

Many Useful Gifts Given Mrs. M. Kingdon During Social Evening at the Edwards' Home.

LAKEFIELD, April 23.—(Examiner Correspondence).—Despite the drought which is causing much worry in many lives of agricultural and commercial activity, showers, of the variety given to brides, continue with unbated regularity. A number of friends gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Edwards, Queen street on Tuesday evening to present a shower of miscellaneous gifts to Mrs. Melville Kingdon (nee Eva Hill).

The presentation was prefaced by the entrance of a bride and groom in full bridal attire bearing a basket daintily trimmed in white and pale yellow with flower decked handles and filled with gifts suitable for kitchen, living room, boudoir and dining room, gifts which were both useful and ornamental. The bride (Miss Phyllis Bolton) wore the regulation bridal gown of white satin with veil and orange blossoms while the groom (Miss Jean Kingdon) wore a black suit with a white flower in "his" button hole. The young couple assisted Mrs. Kingdon in unwrapping her gifts and when the basket was empty and the last gift unwrapped, the guest of honor, in a very graceful speech thanked her friends for the gifts which had been presented so generously and assured them of her hearty appreciation of the kindness and the spirit which prompted the shower.

Refreshments were served and a social hour spent. Mrs. Earl Edwards, Mrs. William Millage and Miss Gladys Bolton were joint hostesses.

Girl Guides Parade To Stirling Church

STIRLING, April 23 (Examiner Correspondence)—A Girl Guide and Scout parade was held to St. Paul's United Church on Sunday when Mrs. W. N. Ponton, Divisional Commissioner of the Girl Guides represented Belleville and about one hundred and fifty Guides and Scouts from Trenton, Marmora, Stirling, Belleville and Campbellford were present at the service.

Officers and commissioners of the Guides who attended included Mrs. J. W. Johnston, commissioner, of Trenton; Miss Keeler, captain, of Trenton; Mrs. J. M. Potts, commissioner, Stirling; Miss K. Mundy, captain, of Stirling; Miss Dorothy Haacke, Marmora, Deloro Commissioner; Mrs. Pearce, captain, Marmora and Miss E. Wright acting lieutenant, Marmora.

Iraq has just released its income tax law to include all earning $730 a year or more.

"I urge women to use Princess Soap Flakes because they contain no harsh free caustic."

Mrs. Hilda Doran Ross

"This Pure Soap protects Clothes...prevents red hands"

says Mrs. Hilda Doran Ross

BECAUSE Princess Soap Flakes are all pure soap, they offer a wonderful saving to women.

First, they save clothes. The filmiest silk hosiery, the finest linen, the softest woolens, stay like new, wear far longer, when washed with Princess Soap Flakes. So does the entire family wash.

Hands are protected too. For just as Princess Soap Flakes keep delicate fabrics fresh and unharmed . . . so it keeps hands free from redness and roughness. Whether you're washing clothes or dishes . . . or wiping linoleum or woodwork.

Last, but not least . . . the big yellow box of Princess Soap Flakes goes so much further . . . It's such rich, concentrated pure soap. Just sprinkle in a little, add water, and see the mountain of rich bubbly soap suds.

Use Princess Soap Flakes for every bit of household cleaning where soap is used. See how they protect hands and garments. How they save soap. Write for my free book of "Household Hints." Address me at 64 Natalie St., Toronto.

Miss Gertrude Fry entertained last evening at a miscellaneous shower in honor of Mrs. J. Allan Cuzen, formerly Miss Ena Hughes, whose marriage took place in Toronto, on Saturday.

Under the auspices of the W. A. of All Saints' Church, a tea was held yesterday at the home of Mrs. Gatfield, 463 King street, when the guests were received by Mrs. Gatfield and Mrs. F. H. Dawson, president of the Auxiliary. The tea room was in charge of Mrs. James Runnett, assisted by Mrs. H. Connolly, Mrs. Stanlay Harris, Mrs. Barrie, Mrs. Williams, Mrs. J. M. McCulloch and Mrs. Harris. The tables were covered with white Chinese cutwork cloths, with green crystal comportes, yellow candles and tulips. The home cooking table was in charge of Mrs. J. H. Justin and Mrs. M. H. Bowler. Mrs. I. Boddison acted as treasurer. The program included a violin solo by Mrs. J. Foster, accompanied by Mrs. E. Goodley; vocal solos by Mrs. Howard, Mrs. C. Foster; readings by Mrs. H. E. Connolly and Miss Isabel Young; piano solos by Miss M. Minore and Mrs. E. Goodley.

A delightful period to the activities this season of the Dramatic Club of the Lyceum Women's Art Association was registered last evening at Walkerfield House, when the members and their friends were entertained at dinner, followed by a charmingly-arranged program of brief dramatic scenes, that included two bits from Shakespeare's plays and a touch of comedy that gave the final buoyant note to the evening's program, in the proposal scene between the famous beadle, Mr. Bumble, and his inamorata, Mrs. Corney, from Charles Dickens' "Oliver Twist." The guests were received by the convenor of the Dramatic Club, Mrs. L. J. Pettit, who had charge of the entertainment, assisted by Mrs. W. Blackwell, president of the Art Association, and Mrs. N. D. Seaton. The handsome rooms at Walkerfield House made a lovely setting for the dinner, which was served at several tables arranged with silver vases and crystal bowls filled with roses, daffodils and jonquils. Ferns and tiny bowls filled with delicate Mayflowers and many softly-shaded lights added a note of interest to the decorations of the rooms and large reception lounge. At the conclusion of dinner, Mrs. Blackwell was asked by Mrs. Pettit to say a few words and spoke briefly of the splendid activities of the Dramatic Club under Mrs. Pettit's guidance, concluding with a word of encouragement to all who care to embark on any artistic endeavor, in a quotation by Robert Browning: "One may do whatever one likes in art, but make sure you do like it and know how to do it." Mrs. N. D. Seaton followed with a short talk on Shakespeare, the eve of whose birth and death day was being celebrated by the membrs of the Dramatic Club. "His name is first in all the world of literature," said Mrs. Seaton, going on to give a tiny summary of the great dramatist's career and concluding with the words of Ben Jonson: "Here lies the greatest Roman of them all." In the course of her remarks, the speaker alluded to the fittingness of a dinner on such an occasion, as the people of the Elizabethan era were good eaters. A dinner of that period, she remarked, had a wonderful menu that included many courses, with shoulders of mutton, buttered crabs, deer and little pigs roasted whole, baked swans done in a 'coffin' of rye crusts, and peacocks brought to the table embellished with their own wonderful feathers, to say nothing of the many wines that accompanied each course. Later, the three dramatic scenes were presented in the front drawing-room, the audience sitting in the darkened rear room. The absence of many "props" and the inclusion of costumes that sufficed only to give a touch of atmosphere to the scenes, made them quaintly charming and carried out the informal and pleasant note of the entire evening. Mrs. Pettit made a short introduction of each scene, and also took the part of Julia, with her daughter, Miss Shirley Pettit, as Lucetta, the maid, in the love-letter scene from "Two Gentlemen of Verona." It was a delightful little bit of Shakespeare's miming, delicately done, as was the very attractive companion bit which followed, the betrothal scene from "King Henry the Fifth," with Madam Goulet in the role of the fair Katherine, Miss Isobel Connelly as the gay lover, and Miss Shirley Pettit as the demure little attendant. The laughter of the evening, however, was reserved for the comedy hit which concluded the entertainment, with much hilarious appreciation for the splendid efforts of the players in the proposal scene from "Oliver Twist." The costuming and manner of Miss Viola Fusee, as Mr. Bumble, the beadle, were extraordinarily good, and Miss Viola Payton, as the shrewdish but scheming matron of the workhouse, Mrs. Corney, made a splendid foil. They were a delightsome pair, as they "saucered" their tea, made ogling eyes at each other and conversed concerning the irritating behavior of the "owdacious paupers" of the workhouse. A vocal number which was much enjoyed and received the hearty appreciation of the listeners, was given by Mrs. W. McKee Bingham of Millbrook, whose lovely contralto voice was heard to much advantage in the song from "The Two Gentlemen of Verona," entitled "Who is Sylvia?" Mrs. T. Cruikshanks played the accompaniments. At the conclusion of the entertainment, Mrs. Blackwell proposed the vote of thanks to Mrs. Pettit for the delightful evening afforded the guests, and this was seconded by Miss Grace Reinhardt. Mrs. Bingham also spoke briefly in appreciation of the program and suggested that a Dickens Fellowship be formed in the city, or else that more attention be paid in succeeding years to the works of Dickens. Ladies present were Mrs. L. J. Pettit, Mrs. W. Blackwell, Mrs. V. S. Foster, Mrs. C. B. Adair, Mrs. N. D. Seaton, Mrs Frank Stinson, Mrs. R. J. Kidd, Mrs. R. F. Downey, Mrs. J. H. Meyers, Mrs. H. W. Morphet, Mrs. F. Hooper, Mrs J. M. McCulloch, Mrs. H. E. Connelly, Mrs. A. Barton, Mrs. W. McKee Bingham of Millbrook, Mrs. Clifford Hall of Millbrook, Mrs. J. A. Morgan, Mrs. J. Moulton, Mrs. J. A. Aylmer, Madam Goulet, Mrs. T. Cruikshanks, Mrs. G. N. Gordon, Mrs. R. Gliddon; the Misses Shirley Pettit, Grace Reinhardt, Isobel Connelly, Viola Fusee, Viola Payton, Mamie McCarthy, Tena Mathers, Linden Hall, Maida Conner, Betty Armitage, Ethel Cooper, Alma Blanchard, Mabel Wyatt, Maude Rush, Isobel Cragg, Dorothy Hall of Millbrook, Helen Staples of Millbrook, F. Halton, Nan Parsons and Cathleen McCarthy. Mrs. J. F. Allan and Mrs. F. C. Neal were unable to be present, owing to indisposition.

Just Between Us Women

A daily chat with Examiner neighbors conducted by Anne Wilcox

Numerous entertainments are being given at this season of the year which many of the older folks attend.

• • • • • • •

Many hostesses are sometimes at a loss to know just how to round out the evening so that it will be enjoyable for everyone.

• • • • • • •

And so I thought that some of the ideas to-day might be useful for those who like to instill variety into their entertainments.

• • • • • • •

These games, if you would like to so call them, are not exactly novel ones, but they are enjoyable and that is what counts a great deal.

• • • • • • •

When an evening begins to lag try one of the games and see if the interest cannot be revived. Never allow an evening's entertainment to become dull.

• • • • • • •

Players choose some word of not more than six letters for the game called "Syllables." Provided with paper and pencils each player writes the word downward, each letter being a capital and well separated from those next to it.

• • • • • • •

At some distance across the paper the word is written upward beginning opposite the final letter in the word written downward. The game is to fill in the space with words beginning and ending with the letters opposite one another which must come in the consecutive order of opposites.

• • • • • • •

The person who in a given time fills in the spaces with the longest words beginning and ending as prescribed, wins. The score is kept by points and each syllable scores one point.

• • • • • • •

For "Paris Shopping" players are seated in a circle. One says to the person at his or her left, "I've been to Paris." The player addressed says, "What did you buy?" The first player says anything she wishes which may be a Parisian hat. The person addressed now says to the player at her left "I've been to Paris", and the same formula is followed in questions and answers as described.

• • • • • • •

For "extra buying" at the beginning of rounds players must repeat articles previously given and add still another. For instance the first player will say, "I bought a Parisian hat and an evening gown" while the second player will say "I bought a Parisian hat, an evening gown and a pair of gloves."

• • • • • • •

If a person fails to repeat every item as given by the previous players as the game continues, he must drop out.

General On Trial Has Heart Attack

WARSAW, April 23 (C.P.). — The trial of General Jazwinski, which began here April 20, took a tragic turn to-day when the General suffered a heart attack, followed by paralysis of the right side of his body.

He was one of four generals loyal to President Wojciechowki when Marshal Pilsudski forced him out of office in 1926; and is charged now with failure to report embezzlements of subordinates to the War Office.

"THESE HARD TIMES"

"The hard times and scarcity of money makes it more important than ever to economize. One way I save on clothes is by renewing the color of faded or out-of-style dresses, coats, stockings, and underwear. For dyeing, or tinting, I always use Diamond Dyes. They are the most economical ones by far because they never fail to produce results that make you proud. Why, things look better than new when redyed with Diamond Dyes. They never spot, streak, or run. They go on smoothly and evenly, when in the hands of even a ten year old child. Another thing, Diamond Dyes never take the life out of cloth or leave it limp as some dyes do. They deserve to be called "the world's finest dyes!"

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D.

WE DON'T BEGIN TO GET OLD AT 35.

An employee of a Pittsburgh coal company, after 50 years of service, was called into the office and before all the employees presented with a cheque for $500, a solid gold watch, and informed that, while his wages would be paid as usual, it would not be necessary for him to report for work any more.

The employee accepted the $500 and the gold watch, but informed his employers that he would be at work at 7 o'clock the next morning and every morning thereafter.

And as we think about it, we must admit that if he wished to live long he was a wise man. The regular amount of sleep, the regular amount of food the regular amount of work, and meeting with his fellow employees and the public generally, would keep him active mentally and physically for years.

Compare this life with the average life of a pensioned workman: up at irregular hours, meals at irregular hours, more sleep or rest than he really needs, and no regular contacts with his friends and others. He doesn't usually live long.

There really isn't any physical reason for the idea that is abroad that once a man or woman reaches 35 years of age, the half-way point in life as it is called, that they should be thought to be going down the other side of the hill; that they have reached the top mentally and physically.

As a matter of fact a man should go on well past sixty, able to do as much work as when he was 35. Of course he can't do the heavy lifting, he will not be as agile, or as quick in his movements. He however has learned how to do his work intelligently, and has learned just how much his body will stand; he will be watching his sleep, and food even more carefully than when younger. Dr. Grotjahn Berlin, a professor of social hygiene, says that in most employments where the employees are in normal health, there is no reduction in their working ability before the age of 60 is reached. Even the coal miner working underground, under unfavorable conditions and artificial light, goes on till between 45 and 50 years of age, before there is any sign of any lessening of his working ability.

So let us all "keep a-going," giving our best to, and getting the best from, the world.

APRIL BRIDES ARE VERY NUMEROUS IN LONDON RELIEVING DEPRESSION

Ten Weddings a Day Are Being Held in London, England —Cost $800 Each.

APRIL IS POPULAR.

LONDON, ENG., April 23.—April brides are very numerous. Some of the outstanding weddings are to be held in the country, like that of Miss Pamela Bowes-Lyon, a cousin of the Duchess of York which was held on April 18 in the lovely setting of Beaulieu Abbey. More than a hundred society weddings will take place this month, and ten a day is the estimated average for London.

In hard cash this represents a large expenditure which must help to alleviate the depression to trade. The prime cost, apart from dresses, is the reception, which may easily be from $600 to $800, pnd then an expert staff had to be employed for the cartage and arrangement of the wedding presents. There must be flowers for the church and flowers for the home.

Miss Anne Keppel, the bride who has received gifts from two kings and queens and from three English princesses will be married at St. Margaret's, Westminster, and some $150 will be required for blooms for the adornment of this large church. Then come bellringers and attendants, special police, choirboys and other personages necessary for the success of the spectacle.

Wednesday, April 8, so far, holds the record for numbers with sixteen weddings, the most important being that of Lady Anne Egerton at Melrose. Lady Anne adopted the modern method of preventing duplication of wedding presents by inscribing her name in the Bride's Book at a London store so that her friends could cross off their gifts as they chose them from her private list Another bride of the day, Miss Betty. Hulton, who looked like a fairy queen in her gathered tulle veil sprinkled with silver stars, wore a spray of orange blossoms in her wreath which Lady Strickland had sent from Malta.

Thursday, April 9 will be remembered as the day of golden brides. A bevy of six bridesmaids in gowns of gold silk net with bright coatees of pink and gold taffeta escorted Lady Bruce-Porter's daughter to the altar while through the bride's dress of parchment moire brocade glinted a slip of golden tissue. City dignitaries appeared in force at the wedding of Miss Beryl Bywater; the spectators enjoyed the unusual sight of a carriage drawn by two fine horses which brough the Lord and Lady mayoress. But all splender was eclipsed by the bride who was attired in white satin and her train, lined with gold lame, was embroidered with thread of gold and silver. The daughter of Lord and Lady Dawson, of Penn, was one of the eight bridesmaids whose frocks of billowing gold not over gold tissue shone appropriately against the background of pink and yellow azaleas. A happy addition were the three tiny pages who wore suits of yellow satin.

FASHION SERVICE

A stunning day dress with loads of charm. Its smart simplicity is so satisfying and becoming.

A navy blue flat crepe made the original. A sparkling enamel sapphire shade buckle fastened the narrow belt at the natural waistline. And as you no doubt know any navy blue promises to be very smart all through the season.

The pretty cowl drape of the slim bodice is very kind for it disguises breadth beautifully. The curved seaming of the skirt too has a very narrowing effect on the hipline.

A BEDTIME STORY

by Howard R. Garis

UNCLE WIGGILY'S MUD PUDDLE.

Uncle Wiggily was hopping along through the woods one day looking for an adventure when he saw, coming home from school, many of the animal boys and girls. Among them he noticed Baby Bunty, the little orphan rabbit; Jackie and Peetie Bow Wow, the puppy dogs; Billy Wagtail, the goat, and some of the rabbit boys and girls from the hollow stump bungalow.

"There is Buster and Custer, and Jingle and Jangle," said Uncle Wiggily to himself, hiding behind a sassafras bush. The old rabbit gentleman wanted to see what the animal children would do and he wanted to hear what they would say when they did not know he was near.

Before he could stop he had run into the mud puddle.

"I know where there's a great, great big one!" said Baby Bunty as she skipped along over the moss which was now growing green in the woods because of the April showers. "Oh, such a big one!"

"Pooh! I know where there's a bigger one!" asked Buster.

"Where?" asked Jingle.

"Behind that fence!" said Buster, pointing.

"Oh, I don't believe it's as big as the one I saw!" exclaimed Baby Bunty. "The one I saw was so big I couldn't jump over it!"

"Pooh!" That's nothing!" laughed Buster. "The one behind the fence is so big all of us together couldn't jump over it."

"Let's go look!" said Jangle, who was Jingle's twin sister.

All the animal children hopped and ran toward the fence at which Buster had pointed. Jackie and Peetie wagged their tails, the rabbits wiggled their ears and Billie the goat went "Baa-aa! Baa-aa! almost like Mary's little lamb.

Uncle Wiggily hopped out from behind the sassafras bush, twinkled his pink nose and said:

"I wonder what it is that's so big and wonderful behind the fence? I must take a look after the children go away."

Mr. Longears watched the animal boys and girls as they ran to look behind the fence. He heard some of them say:

"Oh, isn't it big!"

"And so full, too!"

"And I guess it's very sticky!" said Baby Bunty.

"Dear me, I wonder what it is?" murmured Mr. Longears. "Something big and sticky and full and so large that all the children together couldn't jump over it. I wonder if it's a jolly circus elephant."

But Uncle Wiggily knew that it was a bit early for the circus to come to Woodland, so he tried to guess what else it might be that the children were looking at behind the fence. At last Buster, Custer, Jingle Jangle and all the others came into sight again and some of them said:

"Oh, it's wonderful!"

"The largest I ever saw!"

"It's much larger than the one I meant," said Baby Bunty.

"I told you so!" chuckled Buster. And Jackie Bow Wow barked:

"But what good is it?"

No one could answer. Then, as the children ran on through the woods, Uncle Wiggily was very curious to see what they had been looking at behind the fence. He went to see for himself and what do you think he saw? Yes, you have guessed it. A mud puddle left by the rain.

But it was a very large, muddy, mud puddle. It was thick with sticky mud and as Mr. Longears looked at it he said:

"Baby Bunty was right, that is very sticky! And it is so big that even an Australian kangaroo couldn't jump over it. Wonderful!"

Uncle Wiggily said the last word out loud as he came from behind the fence from having looked at the big mud puddle, and right then and there he saw the Woozie Wolf.

"What is so big and wonderful behind the fence?" growled the Wolf.

"Oh, nothing would you care about," answered Uncle Wiggily. "It isn't any good for you to eat or nibble. Let it alone!"

"Ha! you are trying to fool me," howled the silly Wolf. "There is something good to eat behind that fence and you don't want me to have it. But I'll get it! Stand aside and I'll get it." Rudely the Wolf pushed Uncle Wiggily to one side and ran fast behind the fence.

The Wolf ran so fast that, before he could stop himself, he had run right into the big, sticky mud puddle up to his neck and unless his wife came to pull him out the Wolf is stuck there yet.

"Ha! Ha!" laughed the rabbit gentleman as he hopped home. "I told you there was nothing good to eat behind that fence! Ha! Ha!"

But the Wolf didn't laugh. He could not. His mouth was full of mud.

25 BURMESE REBELS SLAIN

RANGOON, Burma, Apr. 22.—(AP)—Twenty-five revels were killed and many wounded when a band of 500 attacked a military police camp in the Thayetmyo district today and were repulsed. Three British civilian Government servants who were in the camp at the time assisted in repulsing the attack.

URGE PROTECTION OF HOME MARKET

Sir W. Raine Would Place 20 to 25 Per Cent. Revenue Duty on All Foreign Imports.

Would Restore Confidence.

LONDON, April 23 (A.P.)—Immediate protection of the home market as the best means of regaining trade prosperity was urged by Sir Walter Raine, President of the Association of British Chambers of Commerce, presiding at the annual delegates' conference to-day.

We learned from bitter experience, he said, that our competitors intend to continue protecting their home markets and do not intend to lower their tariff walls until compelled to do so.

The quickest and best way would be immediately to impose an all-round tariff of 20 to 25 per cent. revenue duty on all imported manufactured goods.

He expressed a belief that the immediate effect of such a duty would be a restoration of the confidence. At lease we would recapture a large amount of our home trade and this would cause a great increase in employment. Retaliation would undoubtedly be tried, but it would not last long.

First Soviet Timber Landed In U.S. Port

PROVIDENCE, R.I., April 23.—The Finnish steamer Anversoise, loaded with 4,000,000 feet of lumber from the Soviet Republic, arrived off quarantine at Fields Point early this morning. The cargo is expected to furnish the first test case as to the validity of Russian lumber for export into this country. The Treasury Department decreed an embargo against such imports Feb. 10, unless the shippers can prove the imports are not produced by convict labor.

Commissioner Lamb Draws Brilliant Picture of What Emipre May Develop Into.

Speaks On Historic Church.

LONDON, April 23.—(By Thos. T Champion, CP Staff Correspondent.)—With the utmost welcome from the regular occupants a platoon of Salvation Army folk headed by Commissioner Lamb took possession at noon to-day of the Chancel of the Church of St. Edmund, King and Martyr, Lombard Street.

This historic church, like many others half-hidden among the banks and offices of London's financial quarter, has a congregation of less than a hundred on Sundays but at noon on several working days of the week is thronged by a congregation ranging from city alderman to youth stenographers.

Empire Settlement.

The Commissioner's address at today's midday ceremony concerned empire settlement, a characteristically direct and interesting statement by a man who has worked on this matter for a great many years. He drew a brilliant picture of what the Empire might develop into under a wise scheme of settlement. He made no criticism of the present policy of any Empire Government overseas and the only remarks he had to say about the Home Government was that since the war it had found it necessary to spend five billion dollars on benefits to the unemployed.

The devotions were conducted by Rev. Father Adderley, as well-known a figure in the high church party of the Church of England as is Commissioner Lamb among the Salvation Army people. The wife of Col. Mitchell of the Salvation Army sang a number of solos.

RICHARD HEARD SMITH VETERAN IS 97 YEARS OLD

Born in Plymouth, England, in 1834, Now Confined to His Bed.

CAME TO CANADA 1853

Settled in the Township of Smith in 1858—Sister 92 Years Old.

At his farm house, now surrounded by fertile acres and which for another successive season are again under tillage, lies a 'grand old-timer' in the twilight of life. He is Richard Heard of the 7th Concession of Smith Township, confined to his bed by reason of extreme old age. He was born at Plymouth, England. It is so long ago that the exact date of the event has been lost to memory.

To see this grey haired, grey bearded old gentleman, is to divine something of the thoughts that occupy his mind through the long hours of the day, and his apparent peace and contentment of mind suggest that he can look back over the years with a certain knowledge of having accomplished something that will live on, after his struggle with life is over.

As he surveys the flourishing farm lands beyond his bedroom window, he can doubtless still picture the scene as it unfolded itself to his youthful gaze in the dim past. He can doubtless remember how when imbued with all the virility and vigour of young manhood, he had tackled the task of wresting a home from the wilderness. There were trees to be felled, land to be cleared and broken, but industry and perseverence can, and did accomplish much.

Married on July 1st

It was in the days before Confederation that Mr. Heard first set foot on Canadian soil. He was nineteen years old at the time, and having been engaged in farming in his homeland he hired out to a farmer in the Bowmanville district. It was at Bowmanville also that romance entered his life, for it was here that he met Mary Bickell, who became his wife on July 1st, 1858.

Shortly after their marriage the young couple came to Smith Township and Mr. Heard worked for his brother-in-law for a short period on the Bickell homestead and eventually bought it outright and set about the task of home-making.

He is still living on the homestead, but the intervening years have bereaved him of his wife, who died eleven years ago, and also of three sons, John, Richard and James.

The homestead is now being worked by his son Fred and his wife, while other children still living are William at Bridgenorth, Benjamin at Young's Point and daughters Mrs. William Hockaday of Douro and Mrs. Fred Boyce of Lakefield. There are 35 grandchildren and 36 great-grandchildren living.

Staunch Liberal

In politics Mr. Heard was a staunch Liberal, who to put it in his own words used to "vote for the Hon. J. R. Stratton," and in religion is a member of the Anglican Church, although he worshipped at the Methodist Church near his home on the 7th line, until it was torn down some twenty years ago.

It is worthy of note that Mr. Heard has a sister, Mrs. Sarah Hawkins, who is still living in Cornwall at the age of 92 years. She is in the same house that she was occupying at the time her brother bade her good-bye seventy-eight years ago.

Following the death of his wife Mr. Heard used often to express a longing to pay a return visit to England, but he never did take the trip, and has now apparently relinquished all desire or hope of ever going back.

TROOPS ARE SENT AGAINST FUNCHAL

Admiral Will Open Bombardment if Last Effort to Avoid Bloodshed Fails.

CABINET GIVES SEND-OFF.

LISBON, Portugal, April 23 (C. P.). — The Portuguese Minister of Marine, Admiral Correia, and a force of 600 Portuguese troops were off to the wars to-day aboard the Carvalho Araujo, converted into a transport.

Their destination is Funchal, Madeira, where the Admiral said every effort would be made to secure a bloodless surrender of rebels holding the port. Failing in this, he will initiate military measures which may involve bombardment of the little island city.

Cabinet Give Send-off.

A band played the national anthem, Portuguesa, as he and members of the cabinet boarded the transport. The cabinet, after wishing him god-speed in his mission, went back ashore. The transport also carries one hydroairplane, which can be used to drop both government propaganda and bombs.

The Colonial Office announced that an insignificant revolt had broken out in the garrison in Portuguese Guiana (presumably Bolama), but that it had been suppressed immediately by the Governor, Major Leite Majalhaes. Most of the troops there were said to be loyal.

St. Andrew's W.M.S. Hears Oshawa Lady

The Easter Thankoffering meeting of the St. Andrew's W. M. S. was held in the church parlor recently, Miss Dixon presiding. After the opening exercises, Miss Dixon read some comforting, inspiring "Easter Thoughts" by Maude Royden. Miss Sheddon of the Salvation Army sang a beautiful solo, accompanied by Mrs. Richardson.

For the Watch Tower, Mrs. Henry read an article from The New Outlook, referring to "A Famous Original Life of Jesus" written by a Japanese, Mr. S. Honda, who says "I think that Christianity is not truly Japan's own possession as long as they have to understand Jesus, in terms of foreign thought."

After the offering was received, Mrs. Kerr, offered the dedicatory prayer. The guest speaker, Miss Louise Mayowna of the "Church of All Nations", Oshawa gave an excellent description of the life and work of her people in their own native land and also of her work in the church at Oshawa.

BRIDGE IS OPENED OVER TRENT CANAL

New Two-way Traffic Bridge at Fenelon Falls Officially Opened.

LINDSAY, April 23.—The new two-way traffic bridge, over the Trent Valley Canal at Fenelon Falls, was officially opened Wednesday, in the presence of Supt. H. L. Killaly, of the T. V. C., Peterborough, Overseer Grant, of Bobcaygeon, and a large number of citizens. The honor of opening the new structure was given to Mr. Charles Williams, the contractor. The new bridge takes the place of a bridge which has been in constant use for over a quarter of a century. It was not because Mr. A. C. McFarland's horse was named "Royal Prince" that it was given the right-of-way over the bridge for the first time, but because it was driven by a veteran of the village in the person of John Fountain.

CELEBRATE ANNIVERSARY

Avon will be rounded off by the presentation of "A Winter's Tale". The new memorial theatre to replace the one burnt down five years ago; is about half finished and will probably be ready for next year's celebration.

London's Shakespeare celebrations centered in Southwark Borough where the playright had his theatre. Enthusiasts made a pious pilgrimage to the site of the old Globe theatre, though much interest is lost in view of the fact the only visible reminder of the poet is a tablet on the brick wall of a brewery. More inspiring was it to hie one's self to Southwark Cathedral; where Shakespeare's brother was married and where the poet himself worshipped for 12 years. The choir at evensong rendered music by Shakespeare's contemporaries.

Zeebrugge Attack

The anniversary of the great attack on Zeebrugge was marked by the visit of Admiral Sir Reginald Tyrwhitt, Commander at the Nore, to attend the special commemoration service at Dover, where the graves of the victims are. The mayor struck eight bells on the Zeebrugge bell presented to Dover by the King of the Belgians.

Miss Margaret Higgins, Dysart, Ont., writes:—"I was covered with boils on my arms, face and neck. I used plasters and other remedies with no results. My attention was drawn to Burdock Blood Bitters, so I decided to get a bottle. The results were marvellous, as in no time the boils had completely disappeared, and my skin was clearer and fresher than ever."

GOV'T HOLDS OWN AGAINST REBELS OVER HONDURAS

Total of 29 Killed, Many Wounded in Several Minor Engagements.

HEAVY BATTLE AT SULA.

Telephone, Telegraph Communications Between Tegucigalp and North Cut Off.

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras, April 23 (A.P.)—The government to-day claimed important victories against the revolutionary armies in Northern Honduras. Heavy fighting continued near Chamelecon, not far from San Pedro Sula, and reinforcements were rushed to aid the regulars.

A total of 29 dead and many wounded was counted in yesterday's fighting in several minor engagements, but so fierce was the battle being fought in the San Pedro Sula area that it was impossible to estimate the casualties there.

The battle at Chamelecon, which has for its prize the railway key point at San Pedro Sula, between Tegucigalpa and the coast, began Tuesday night. The Government forces repelled an attack on the town and there was a lull, but the attack was renewed yesterday afternoon.

Aid Rushed to Regulars

Latest word from the area said that the Government troops were holding the rebels, but aid was asked and troops were rushed to the regular's assistance.

Federal troops attacked a rebel detachment commanded by Colonel Salvadof Canales at Guaymas; eight kilometers from Tela, and defeated the group, killing fourteen rebels including Colonel Canale. Several prisoners, including Captain Rodolfo Montes, were taken. The Government troops lost three dead and a few wounded.

A rebel attack on Olanchito was beaten off, with a loss of twelve insurgent dead. The rebels left some baggage behind them, including a rubber raincoat with initials indicating it belonged to General Arturo Ordonez, one of the chief rebel leaders. Telephone and telegraph communication between Tegucigalpa and Northern Honduras were cut off during the night.

RADIUM FOUND IN TROUSER CUFF

Consternation Reigned at Clinic When Tube of Radium Disappeared.

WORTH $1,000.

It's quite common for a person to leave a dentist's office with several hundred dollars worth of gold in his mouth, but its something else again if a man walks out of the Peterborough Medical Clinic with $1,000 worth of radium tucked away in the cuff of his trousers.

That's what J. F. Lillicrap, of Lakefield, did, thereby causing great excitment among the doctors, if not actually turning more hairs grey.

Relating the details to The Examiner to-day of how he had nearly been urned inside out by the doctors and attendants in their search for the radium, Mr. Lillicrap said that he had just undergone a radium treatment for his ears when the loss of the tube containing $1,000 worth of the most precious element in the world was discovered.

"The undressed me several times, searched my clothes, searched carefully every nook and cranny of the room, without success" he said. "Finally they let me go home to Lakefield."

Upon reaching his house, Dr. Lillicrap told his family of the missing radium and the doctors' theory that it was somewhere in his clothes.

"I undressed again" he said, "and my grandson, Harding Stuart, went through my clothes. No success.

"Then the boy said: "I bet I know where it is" He felt along the cuff of my trousers and there, tucked away in the crease, was that tiny tube of precious stuff."

There was general jubilation among the doctors when the radium was returned.

"My two little girls had eczema very badly. It was on their hands and faces and itched and burned terribly, causing them to scratch. When they scratched the affected parts used to bleed. It caused several nights' loss of sleep.

"I tried several remedies without success. I began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment and they helped the children, and after using about six cakes of Cuticura Soap and three boxes of Cuticura Ointment they were completely healed." (Signed) Mrs. Wm. Preston, Marchbanks, N. B.

PRESS ACCLAIMS HAWKS' FLIGHT

Time of 5 and Half Hours London to Rome Causes Astonishment.

ROUGH CROSSING ALPS.

LONDON, Eng., April 23. (AP) — Captain Frank Hawks' bullet flight from London to Rome in less than five and one half hours drew the admiration of British airmen and the acclaim of the public to-day.

There was general astonishment at the immense margin by which he beat the previous best mark of Wing Commander Charles Kingsford Smith who took twelve and one half hours for the trip.

His crossing above the Alps at an altitude of 23,000 feet in high wind, rain and snow excited almost as his record to Rome; and his remark upon landing: "It was Hell crossing the Alps", caused many a chuckle.

Some London newspapers to-day gave his flight their greatest play, using big headlines to record the achievement and expressing sympathy for the misfortune which caused him to land short of Paris, from where he could have gone on to London in time for dinner.

But it was a splendid failure, said the News Chronicle. The Mail commented: The British public will warmly congratulate Captain Hawks on his fine achievement, while looking to British pilots to do even better in British machines.

Bring Lesser Known Of Artists Forward

British Artists' Exhibitions Stimulate Sale of Works.

LONDON, April 23 (By The Canadian Press)—An important movement for the stimulation of sales of works by the lesser known British artists in their own country is that of the British Artists' Exhibitions, of which Sir Martin Conway M.P., is Chairman of the Executive Committee, but founded and entirely financed by Sir Joseph Duveen. Sir Martin Conway is Conservative member of the House of Commons for the Combined English Universities, and has written a number of books on art and other subjects. Sir Joseph Duveen is known internationally as an art collector and dealer, and is a trustee of the National Gallery and also of the Wallace Collection, London, besides being a trustee of the Imperial Gallery of Art, Sir Joseph reports:

"We have now held exhibitions in the City Art Galleries at Leeds, Manchester, Bradford, Belfast, Plymouth, Liverpool, Glasgow and Hull; and last summer we had an exhibition in the Guildhall which was opened by Prince George, and consisted of works of art which had been sold at previous exhibitions and borrowed from their owners. The Press generally spoke in warm praise of the exhibition, saying that 'if one bears in mind that none of the great painters of our generation had been included in the British Artists' Exhibitions one cannot but admire the high average of the country's artistic production.' Four of the works shown belonged to Prince George himself, a fact he referred to when the Lord Mayor of London asked him to speak at the opening ceremony. The next two exhibitions will probably be held at Birmingham and Edinburgh, the idea of the committee being to cover in turn all the big cities.

"The works shown at these exhibitions are those of our lesser known artists. The whole subject, in fact, is to help the lesser known man, and the best way of helping him is by selling his work. Some 700 works altogether have now been sold. Often we discover talent of the most promising kind. At the exhibition at Plymouth, for example, we discovered Lionel Ellis, who is now having a 'one-man-show at the Redfern Gallery in Old Bond street. He got his start entirely from the exhibition at Plymouth, and we have helped him since.

"Besides the exhibitions in this country, an exhibition of representative contemporary British art is held every year in some foreign capital, and is guided by the British Foreign Office in its choice of sphere. These exhibitions contain the works of superior artists as well as those of the lesser known men. These exhibitions have been held in Paris, Brussels, Venice, Buenos Aires, Belgrade, Zagreb, Ljubljana, and Stockholm, and we are now sending out to Tokyo an exhibition which is being patronized by the Japanese Government, and will be opened in November by the British Ambassador in the presence of Prince Chichibu."

PRINCES MAY USE PLANE.

LONDON, April 23 (C.P.).—The Prince of Wales and his younger brother George may travel the last stage of their journey from South America to London by air.

They will debark from the liner Arlanza at Lisbon and pay a short visit there. H.M.S. Kent has been placed at their disposal for the trip from Lisbon, but it is thought probable that they will put into either Bordeaux or La Rochelle and travel the remainder of the way home by plane.

Will Probe Death Of Insurance Agent

OWEN SOUND, Ont., April 23.—It has been decided that an inquest will be held into the death of George Zappe, prominent insurance agent of this city, who was found dead in the back seat of a car in which he had made a business trip to Wiarton Tuesday afternoon. On returning to this city Tuesday evening his companions, Messrs. Russell Sabiston, Maitland Crawford and Mervin Kennedy, thinking him to be sleeping, left him in the back seat of the car while they went into a friend's house. Returning some four hours later, they found that Mr. Zappe was dead and apparently had been dead for some little time.

Canada Has Butter Surplus For Export

OTTAWA, April 23 (C.P.).—Enormous increases in butter production have placed Canada on the export market, and there is no immediate expectation of higher prices, Hon. Robert Weir, Minister of Agriculture, was told yesterday by representatives of the Montreal Produce Dealers' Association.

The continued reduction in butter prices led to the Minister calling a conference, attended by T. W. Grieve, A. McKergow, K. E. Olive and John Charest, all of Montreal. One line of discussion was as to whether it would be advisable to withdraw part of the production into storage, to be held for next winter, when Canada might be again in an importing position. The produce men said, however, that production was increasing so rapidly that it would be hazardous to hold butter, particularly as, with cows being turned into the fields, the later churnings would be of better quality than stocks now on hand.

As an example of increased production, the Minister was told that one creamery in Montreal had doubled its output within the last eight days.

Raw silk exported from Japan last year weighed 63,643,333 pounds.

GANDHI'S VISIT TO U.S. IS DENIED

New York Minister Claims He Has Cable From Mahatma Regarding Rumors.

PREPARATIONS DEPLORED.

NEW YORK, N.Y., April 23 (C. P.). — Recent despatches and reports from India that Mahatma Gandhi planned to visit this country next fall in connection with his attendance at the London Round Table Conference are denied by the Rev. John Haynes Holmes, minister of the Community Church in New York City.

Mr. Holmes announced he had received a personal cable message from Gandhi stating he had no intention of coming to America.

The sensational comments recently on Gandhi's proposed visit to this country and the desperate endeavors that were made by lecture bureaus and other commercial agencies to exploit this opportunity were a source of distaste to all friends of India, said Mr. Holmes.

Another circus, such as that which greeted Einstein, was already under way. It is a comfort to know that Gandhi, noblest of living men, is not to be subjected to the gross indignities of American publicity.

Later on, when India is free, and Gandhi's work is thus triumphant, it is to be hoped that he will come here under proper auspices to receive the homage of Americans.

KING TAKES REST AFTER LONG TRIP

Siamese Monarch is Guest of Mrs. Whitelaw Reid at Ophir Hall.

EDUCATED IN BRITAIN.

PURCHASE, N.Y., April 23 (C.P.). —King Prajadhipok of Siam, a slight and travel-worn figure, has settled down at Ophir Hall to gain strength for an operation on his eyes.

In his native country he is known as King of the North and South, Supreme Arbiter of the Ebb and Flow of the Tide, Half-Brother of the Sun, and Possessor of the Four and Twenty Golden Umbrellas; but there was a marked absence of pomp and ceremony upon his arrival. To the thousands who saw him he appeared merely another young man in a soft grey hat and a blue overcoat.

Educated in Great Britain, the King served in the British Army before he was called to the throne. He plays golf and tennis, prefers bacon and eggs for breakfast. He speaks French and English fluently and reads newspapers. And, by mistake, he entered Ophir Hall for the first time yesterday through the servants' entrance.

Like her husband, Queen Rambai Barnai speaks English and French. She appeared as completely cosmopolitan as the King.

For the time he remains in the United States, Ophir Hall, the country residence of Mrs. Whitelaw Reid, will be the official residence of the royal party.

Combine Exhibition Planned This Year

Combination Would Enable Citizens to See Outstanding Floral Exhibit.

The C.G.E. Horticultural Society is proving itself to be a real live-wire organization and proposes to make the current year a banner one in the interests of horticulture and the beautifying of Peterborough. Their resolution to the City Council requesting more stringent enforcement of the dog nuisance by-law has met with approval of all flower and garden lovers throughout the city while the City Fathers themselves have apparently been in accord with the resolution and have already secured the services of a dog-catcher. The co-operation of the North Monaghan Council is also being sought in the enforcement of the by-law.

This week a committee of four men from the C.G.E. society interviewed an equal number of delegates representing the Peterborough Horticultural Society to discuss the advisability of combining the flower shows of both organizations this season, a plan which would benefit everyone concerned as well as giving the flower-loving public an opportunity of seeing an outstanding floral exhibition. The results of this meeting were very encouraging and it only remains for the C.G.E. club to sanction the decision arrived at. It is understood that the secretaries of the two bodies will get together during the coming week to clear up a few details in connection with the proposal.

The members of the C.G.E. society are launching a campaign to secure the co-operation of all the employees in the works in keeping the lawns and grounds surrounding the factory in a clean and tidy condition, and a circular letter will be sent to each department to put this request before the employees.

Cruiser On Its Way To Pick Up Princes

GIBRALTAR, April 23. (AP)—The British cruiser Kent, enroute from China to England and due to stop by Lisbon and pick up the Prince of Wales and Prince George, stopped in here to-day.

The Kent will reach Lisbon Saturday and leave there with the Princes, who are returning home from South America, probably Sunday. It will go to Bordeaux, from where the Princes will fly home arriving there April 26, an official announcement at London to-day said.

Toronto Tied With Royals For Second Place

O'NEILL NINE EVENS SERIES WITH NEWARK

Pete Stack's Single Scores Ken Strong With the Winning Tally.

HARRISON IS GOOD.

Leafs Hit in Pinches to Walk Away With 3-2 Decision Over Bears.

NEWARK, N.J., April 23.—Those Toronto Maple Leafs got tired of being fodder for the Bears. They turned this afternoon, did some healthy clouting, and kicked the dust into the eyes of the Bruins. The Leafs showed they could hit, especially in pinches, and they put the skids under the locals for a 3 to 2 victory, thereby evening the series. Incidentally, the score of yesterday's contest was the same as in the past two battles, which the Leafs, unfortunately, lost.

Ken Strong, the football star; Pete Stack and Nick Harrison played the prima donna roles in turning the Bears upside down. The glory for the victory went to Strong and Stack, for the pair delivered blows that brought victory to the O'Neill men.

The score was tied at 2-all in the eighth when Strong decided he wanted no overtime session. So he blasted the round open with a rousing triple to deep right centre. As the ball bounced in the garden it just missed going into the bleachers. It was his second wallop of the conflict.

Stack Delivers Winning iHt

Here Manager O'Neill used some shrewd judgment. He called Joe Rabbitt back and sent catcher Pete Stack into the role as a pinch-hitter. "Lefty" Faulkner was on the mound, having succeeded Al Mamaux in the fifth when the Leafs broke loose and Al thought the World War was still on, the way those Leafs kept slamming rifle shots to all corners of the lot to knot the count.

Stack dropped a neat Texas leaguer to right and Strong ambled home with the winning tally. What looked like a real rally ended only too quickly for O'Neill. He sent Paul McCarren in to run for Stack. When Davis shot a single to centre, Paul over-ran second and died on Layne's fast throw to Cohen. When Daly got a life at first due to Bejin's poor throw to Faulkner and trouble still looming in the person of Nick Harrison, Mamaux derricked Faulkner for Speece. Previously Harrison had hit safely twice and the Bear boss was taking no chances. Speece throw out Nick and the scoring for the day was over.

Harrison Deserves Shutout

Harrison came through with one of his brilliant exhibitions of hurling. He held the Bruins to five scattered hits. His worst frame was the first when the Bears got two hits and two runs. The runs should not be charged against Nick, for he deserved a shutout game. A costly error helped the matter along. That miscue in the shape of a powerful overthrow was contributed by Ray Morehart.

What made victory sweeter for the Leafs was the fact that they drove Mamaux off the mound in his 1931 debut. Al lasted four rounds. Nine hits were made off his delivery. Seeing it hopeless to pitch against the Leafs who were slamming his assortment everywhere, he quit.

Here are Winnipeg Toilers, Basketball Champions of Canada three years ago, who appeared to be headed for another title, until they ran into a snag and were defeated by the U. of B.C. They defeated Grain Ports of Fort William and Capitals of Regina in their quest for Dominion laurels. From left to right they are: back row—Lynn Sinclair, coach; Bill Thorogood, Joe Dodds, Tiny Mitchell, George Wilson, A. C. Samson, Coach. Front row —A. Brown, Wallace Walkey, Mike Shea, Allan Silverthorne, Ian Wooley, Luder Phillips. The U. of B.C. will probably meet St. Catharines in the final game for Dominion honors.

ROYALS RALLY TO WIN 9-5.

JERSEY CITY, N.J., April 23.—The Rochester Red Wings snapped a four-game winning streak of the Jersey City Skeeters by taking the fourth game of the series here yesterday by a score of 4 to 3.

Ira Smith pitched a masterful game for the Wings, allowing the home team but seven hits. All three of the Skeeter runs came as the result of home runs. Selkirk hit one in the first inning while Clancy dropped one over the right field barrier in the fourth inning with West on base.

ROYALS RALLY IN NINTH

READING, Pr., April 23.—Montreal rallied for four runs in the ninth inning to defeat Reading 9 to 5 here yesterday. Reading twice came from behind to tie the score, and once was out in front, but the Keystone pitching weakened, and the Royals easily won.

TILDEN GETS RAZZ

Big Bill Tilden generally ends up on the right side in anything he undertakes, and that doesn't mean only tennis. But there was one time when he was the helpless victim of the custom generally known as the Bronx cheer. About a year ago he took a certain dislike to a certain sports scribe and simply refused to be interviewed by him. The day that Tilden lost the chance of being the eighth time holder of the national tennis crown of the United States by being defeated by John Doeg, he was passing in front of the press box on his way to the clubhouse after his defeat when his ears were shattered by a Bronx cheer. The beaten champion shot a glance at its sender and saw a member of the typewrite squad happily pounding out: "Then thousand tennis enthusiasts were saddened here to-day when."

ENGLISH COMPANY TO TOUR CANADA

Sir Barry Jackson's Birmingham Company Comes to Dominion Next Season.

TORONTO, Ont., April 23.—(CP)—Sir Barry Jackson's Birmingham Repertory Company will tour Canada next season, opening in Ottawa on or about Oct. 19. Cyril Phillips, Sir Barry's general manager, is now on his way to the Pacific coast, stopping off long enough in Toronto to arrange with Ernest M. Rawley, for years connected with the Trans-Canada Circuit, to take charge of the forthcoming tour, which will carry the company from coast to coast.

Among the contemplated plays are "The Barretts of Wimpole Street" originally produced by Sir Barry at the Malvern Festival, "Dear Brutus", "Yellow Sands" and "Quality Street". It is quite probable also that the bulk of the company will be made up from the personnel of this year's Malvern Festival, which is being held this August.

Sir Barry will himself most likely lecture through Canada, under the auspices of the National Council of Education, prior to the arrival of his Company.

Of special interest is the fact that Sir Barry has expressed the desire to open the Canadian tour in the Capital, especially as the Earl of Bessborough, the new Governor-General, is so keenly interested in the theatre.

OFFICERS ELECTED ROSENEATH A.A.A.

Association to Field Strong Baseball Team This Season.

ROSENEATH, April 23 (Examiner Correspondence).—A very enthusiastic meeting of the R.A.A.A. was held in the town hall on Friday evening and the following officers were elected:

President, Sam Ryan; vice-president, Milton McMillan; directors, C. W. Varcoe, Earl Waldie, Barton Thackeray, and M. D. Brown.

H. H. Lapp, E. Waldie and Flex McMillan were chosen to select a manager for the team and were successful in securing George Mouncey.

Practically all players of last year's ball team will be available and with several new members, Roseneath is assured of a real good team.

It was arranged to hold the first game of the season on Monday, May 25, between Harwood and Roseneath on the agricultural grounds here, which will make Roseneath a very important place to spend the holiday.

The treasurer's report for the year was read and although there is still a small deficit to carry forward this should be more than covered this season.

ROBINS AGAIN LOSE OUT.

Babe Ruth Injured Going After Fly in Boston-Yankee Tangle.

By AYLE TALBOT, Jr.
Associated Press Sports Writer

There still is nothing that quite takes the place of old-fashioned, air-tight pitching when it comes to winning ball games. And it takes no more than a cursory examination of the records up to now to discovery why the St. Louis Cardinals and Boston Braves are setting the National League back on its heels, nor why the New York Yankees are doing likewise to the junior circuit.

Yankee moundsmen have held opponents to 29 runs i n eight games and five of their starting pitchers have been in at the finish. This would seem to be as good an answer as any to skeptics who wondered what the Yanks would do for pitching this season.

By way of contrast, only one member of the Philadelphia National's staff, Jim Elliott, has managed to go the route in nine games.

Old Tom Zachary became the third Brave hurler to start and finish in as many days when he set the hapless Brooklyn Robins down with four scattered hits yesterday and blanked them, 4 to 0. So completely befuddled was the flock that Uncle Robbie sent in pinch batters for Babe Herman and Lefty O'Doul in the ninth.

Two Card pitchers. Sylvester Johnson and Jim Lindsey, have a similar masterpiece in beating the Cincinnati Reds, 3 to 2. They allowed only four hits and not a Red was left on base.

Babe Ruth Injured

Although the Yankees increased their advantage over Washington and Cleveland by trimming the Boston Red Sox, 7 to 5, there was little satisfaction in the victory. Babe Ruth was injured by a fly in the sixth inning and there was a possibility he would be out several weeks. Up to the time he was hurt the Bambino had driven in three runs and scored twice.

A three-run splurge in the seventh, touched off by Hughie Critz's home run, enabled the Giants to nose out the Phillies, 5 to 4, in their debut at the Polo Grounds. Clarence Mitchell went the route, allowing 11 hits but checking the Phils in the pinches.

The Athletics gave Lefty Grove a four run lead in the first inning, and that was sufficient. He beat Washington, 5 to 1, Joe Cronin's home run in the second depriving him of a shutout. Cochrane planted one for the A's.

Pat Caraway was invincible after the second inning and the Chicago White Sox opened before the home folks with a 10 to 2 win over Cleveland. Eichrodt led a 14-hit assault on three Indian curvers with four hits and a sacrifice in five trips. Rain kept the Chicago Cubs and Pittsburgh Pirates apart, and wet grounds prevented the scheduled Tiger-Brown skirmish at Detroit.

BERG IS FAVORED IN CHICAGO BOUT

Canzoneri and Whitechapel Windmill Will Hook Up in Battle of Titles.

CHICAGO, Ill., April 25.—(C.P.)—If the sentiment of the Chicago wagering entry is correct, the lightweight championship of the world will be transferred from Tony Canzoneri to Jack (Kid) Berg, of Great Britain to-morrow night in the Chicago Stadium.

Berg, already owner of the trick junior welterweights title, to-day had become an 8 to 5 favorite to take away the crown the New York Italian won from Al Singer several months ago. Canzoneri, however, was not without backers who figured him to knoc kout the the Whitechapel windmill early in the scheduled 10-round battle. Both titles will be at stake, Berg having weighed in at the lightweight limit, 135 pounds, yesterday after his final serious workout. Canzoneri probably will come in at 133.

The fans have not stormed stadium ticket offices ,but a gate in excess of $60,000 is anticipated.

LOOP EXPECTS TO OPEN PLAY ON MAY 11TH

Games Will Be Played in East City Bowl or Central School Grounds.

ENTRIES CLOSE MAY 2ND.

Umpire-in-chief and Groundkeeper Are Appointed at Meeting.

One more entry in the Men's City Softball League last night brought the prospective number of entries up to six. The League met at Duffus', and considerable business was cleared up. Two teams had no representatives present, but have indicated their intention of entering. Dates for the close of entries, the next meeting and the opening games were arranged, an umpire-in-chief and groundkeeper appointed, and a decision made to find out this week definitely what grounds will be used for the summer.

The new entry last night was The Examiner softball team, and was represented along with the Sugar Bowl, Brintons and the Westclox. Other teams which are expected to join are the Imperial Oil Company and All Saints' Club. The final date for having entries in was set as Saturday, May 2nd. Another meeting will be called two days later at the same hour and place.

What grounds will be used came in for much discussion, and it will probably be known for sure this week whether the East City grounds known as the Bowl, or the Central School grounds, will be used. The city has promised to help put the League diamond in shape before the schedule begins. A wire cage and a new home plate will be purchased by the officials as soon as the ground question is settled.

The entry fee will be ten dollars this year, the same as it was last year, and it was voted that the executive will decide at the end of the end of the season how much, if any, of the entrance fee can be refunded. This depends on the financial condition of the League, when the schedule and playoffs are finished. The entrance fee must be in before the third scheduled game can be played, the same as in previous years.

"Scotty" Galbraith, who was present, was appointed the umpire-in-chief for the year, and he will be responsible for having two umpires present at every game.

W. Murphy was the unanimous choice of all to continue to act as groundkeeper. His duties will commence when it is decided which field will be used. He accepted the position.

The games, which are expected to start May 11th, will begin each evening at 6.15, and at 6.30 if daylight saving goes into effect.

Receive Certificates.

A number of minor items of business followed the passing out of the certificates to managers present, and certain things had to be left over to be cleared up at the next meeting. The Men's League will co-operate as much as possible with the newly-organized Girls' Softball League, especially on the matter of grounds.

With nothing further to be done at this time, the meeting was adjourned.

CASUAL COMMENT

Wonder what the senior baseball situation in Central Ontario will be after Saturday. That's the day the C.O.B.L. meets in Belleville to decide what's doing for the summer. So far, little headway has been made, but here's hoping.

* * * * * * *

This league used to be the strongest in the province, outside of the Inter-county loop. And there is no good reason why it shouldn't be again this year. There must be enough sporting men in Kingston and Oshawa to back a senior outfit in each town. Belleville and Peterborough will enter, all right.

* * * * * * *

Something should be done by the O.B.A.A. to cities like Oshawa and Kingston, such as not permitting them to operate intermediate teams unless a senior team was maintained. That is, unless a very good reason could be advanced why it was impossible to enter a Central League outfit.

* * * * * * *

It is not likely Toronto leagues will admit Oshawa because of the expenses in travelling. And Oshawa will find it tough enough to get into any intermediate league now. So that leaves it in a position where the Motor City team can do little else but return to the C.O.B.L. And that's just where they belong.

* * * * * * *

Kingston may or may not play intermediate ball this summer. They have a swell team down there, and will not be any too welcome in the intermediate league. If sufficient backing could be obtained, the Ponies would be right back in the old Central League, and should give a good account of themselves.

* * * * * * *

No doubt, President Bob Elliott has been in touch with all those teams and has been working hard to re-organize the Central circuit once more. At any rate, he has called this meeting for Saturday with representatives of the four towns invited, and something out to come out of it, one way or another.

* * * * * * *

The Lindsay boxing tournament is to-night, and half a dozen or so boxers from here will take part. Gene Hurtubise is going up, too. He'll referee the rasslin' matches.

* * * * * * *

Some of the boys who are going from here are Len Post, Henry Noakes, Art Hamilton, "Bat" Vinette, and Gord. Chapman. There may be a few others, including Reg. Lesurf. If he goes, Reg. will meet "Red" Springer, of Toronto, again.

* * * * * * *

When those two scrappers met in Peterborough two weeks ago, they gave the fans a real battle, with Lesurf winning after an extra round was fought. They make a good pair of headliners.

* * * * * * *

Cy Horner, the Queen City welter, was to have met a colored boxer, but the latter could not be present, so Horner will not likely be seen in action to-night. All in all, it promises to be a good card, and the Peterborough mittsers ought to at least break even on the wins.

* * * * * * *

The Men's City Softball League hopes to get started on May 11. That is if the weather is suitable. The closed date for entries is set at May 2, with a final meeting called for Duffus' two days later.

* * * * * * *

It looks like there'll be six teams in the league: Westclox, The Examiner, Brintons, Sugar Bowl, All Saints' Club, and Imperial Oil Company. Of course, a couple of more entries may be in within the next week, making it an eight-team loop.

* * * * * * *

Where the regular games will be played this summer is not definitely known, yet, but it will be either the Central School Grounds or the ground at the east end of the Hunter Street Bridge known as the "Bowl." The city will help put the ground in shape for this league.

SHOWERS HALT NEW YORK FIRES

Rain Turns to Snow Near Jamestown—Temperature Drops 40 Degrees.

FIRE FIGHTERS RELIEVED.

NEW YORK, N.Y., April 23.—Welcome rain dampened Eastern States to-day.

Soggy, black barrens, in some places contrasted against glaring white patches of snow, showed in sections where stubborn forest fires had raged for days.

Heavy rains helped scores of fire fighters who were combatting fires in Cattaragus and Allegheny counties, New York, along the Pennsylvania line. The most dangerous blaze in New York State burned for 24 hours along a three-mile front in the Adirondacks, southwest of Plattsburgh. This fire was reduced to an area of less than 100 acres after farm houses in its path had been abandoned.

In the vicinity of Jamestown, N.Y., the rain turned to snow when the temperature, which had risen to 80 during the recent warm spell, fell more than 40 degrees in a few hours.

Rain and snow in the Allegheny mountain region of Western Pennsylvania quenched scores of forest and brush fires.

OFFICERS ELECTED FOR C.G.E. SOFTBALL

Jack Cameron Unanimously Returned to Presidency—Options on Playing Fields.

The followers of softball among the employees of the Canadian General Electric plant started the ball rolling for the season this week when a well attended get-together was held and officers elected for the coming season. Jack Cameron, of the Engineering Department, was unanimously returned to the presidency, a position in which he did splendid work last year. C. D. Osterland will be vice-president, and Don Emery, secretary-treasurer. The usual five-man committee was also maintained this year, and consists of: Les Calladine, Jack Playford, Harold Darling, Bill Bennett, and Charles McLeish.

Options have been secured on two very suitable playing fields, and it only remains for the incoming teams to make a choice as to which one would be most convenient for the majority. This information coming from each team should be sent in to the secretary of the league, together with the formal entry, before May 1, which is the closing date set for the accepting of entries. The managers are also requested to canvass their players and obtain an expression from each one regarding the time at which they would prefer to play the league games. A detailed report of the first meeting will be circulated throughout the works in the form of a circular letter, and the team managers should give the executive their active co-operation in order that the playing season may be started without delay.

Some of the Giant players figure the Cubs to be stronger than the Cardinals. They think Hornsby will push the boys to the limit in the coming campaign.

Lou Marsh To Handle Lindsay Fistic Tilts

LINDSAY, April 23.—Colonel R. I. Moore, O.C. the Victoria and Haliburton Regiment, and president of the 109th Battalion Reunion Association, was in Toronto recently and engaged the services of Lou Marsh as referee of the boxing bouts to be held in the Armouries here on Saturday night, May 23rd.

Lou is one of the best-known boxing referees in Ontario although he is better known to Lindsay as a hockey and baseball referee. As Lou says, he makes them work. There will be at least ten bouts with boxers from Toronto, Hamilton as well as Peterborough, Barrie and other local points. The Third Battalion which is coming down have a number of good boxers who they no doubt will enter into the contest.

Said Donie Bush when he heard that Pea Ridge Day had sounded his famous hog-call at Ebbets Field: "If he thinks he can hog-call his way through those National League hitters he's crazy. They'll knock him speechless. But the boys who played with him tell me he's a good pitcher at that. I guess he must be."

LOCAL BOXERS PARTICIPATING LINDSAY BOUTS

Gala Card of Fistic and Wrestling Matches to be Held in Armouries.

PLENTY ENTERTAINMENT.

Ring Opponents From Barrie, Orillia, Toronto and Midland Will Also Take Part.

Six or seven Peterborough boxers will participate in the Lindsay Athletic Club's boxing and wrestling tournament in the Armouries in Lindsay to-night. Gene Hurtubise will go from here, too, to referee the two wrestling matches on the card. There will be ten preliminary boxing bouts and two main ones. Besides Lindsay and Peterborough, Barrie, Orillia, Toronto and Midland will be represented in the show.

Some of the local boys who expect to go to-night are Len Post, Henry Noakes, Art Hamilton, "Bat" Vinette and Gord Chapman. It is not known for certain if Reg. Lesurf will go, though he was supposed to meet "Red" Spring, the Toronto lightweight, in a return battle. Reg. won by a narrow margin in their Peterborough bout two weeks ago. Cy Horner, Toronto welter, was supposed to meet Thompson, negro boxer from Barrie who went to the finals recently in the Central Ontario trials in Toronto. It is not known definitely whether the latter can make the trip to-night, but if he can, it should be a great scrap to see.

Art Wilman and Grant Pollard Lindsay wrestlers will meet two out-of-town grapplers just before the headliners enter the ring. The main bouts, will be the lightweight and welterweight fights featuring Springer and Horner with their opponents. The show is being staged by Art Gaskell, and it should be a good one. All the Peterborough scrappers are in first-class shape and hope to take every bout.

Softball Notes.

The All Saints' Boys Club will hold an important meeting to-morrow night at 7.30 in the club rooms. The purpose of the session is to get organized for softball for the summer, and all members are urged to attend.

The East City Girls softball team will practise from six to seven Saturday evening at Armour Field, which is at Armour Road and Douro Street. All girls wishing to try out with this team are asked to be on hand.

The Cubs made it close last year and Hornsby was a cripple through most of the season. If he can play regularly, his big bat will add plenty. Miss Margaret Wood is a guest at to the Chicago attack.

FORAN RESIGNS AS OTTAWA HEAD

Auditorium Should Handle Critical Hockey Situation in Capital City.

Unsuccessful Financially.

OTTAWA, Ont., April 23 (C.P.) — William Foran has resigned his presidency of the Ottawa Hockey Association which operates the Senator team of the National League. In announcing last night that he had tendered his resignation, Mr. Foran said he was of the opinion that hockey affairs in the Capital are now in such a critical condition that the Auditorium board, representing the owners of the league franchise and the team, and who are the only ones financially interested, should be free to deal with the situation.

The Senators play their home games in the Auditorium. Setting up two years ago of a separate organization to handle the professional hockey end of the Auditorium business has not, in the opinion of Mr. Foran, been a complete success.

The critical condition of hockey referred to by Mr. Foran presumably hinges on the many reports last winter that the Senator team would be sold en bloc because of the small crowds which attended most of the N.H.L. games here.

Dominion Association Refuses Game Sanction

TORONTO, Ont., April 23. (CP)—Glasgow Celtic, winners of the Scottish Cup this season, will not be permitted to participate in an exhibition game with Ulster United National League soccer team on June 27. Application to stage a fixture at the Toronto club's enclosure was approved by local football bodies but the Dominion Football Association refused to allow the game.

Series of Misfortunes Followed the Swat King

NEW YORK, N.Y., April 23.—(CP)—The injury which sent Babe Ruth to a hospital in Boston yesterday, is one of a series of misfortunes which have pursued him for 10 years.

Playing against the White Sox in Chicago, in July, 1925, he was injured in a manner similar to that of yesterday. Racing after a fly-ball he wrenched his left side and was out of the lineup for a few days.

His most serious illness came earlier in the same season. Returning from the training camp with influenza, he fell while getting off the train and injured his head. Later an abscess was removed from his back.

Heavy colds and infections have been his lot almost every season since he broke into the big leagues.

HALIFAX WINS 'CAGE HONORS

Wanderers Winners on Round 69-51 Although Losing Second Game 32-30.

INTERMEDIATE TITLE.

HALIFAX, N.S., April 22 (C.P.) — Halifax Wanderers are Canada's intermediate basketball champions. To Trinity Excelsiors of Montreal went the satisfaction of scoring the first and last field goals of the two-game final series, but between Harry Smith's dash from defense to fling in the first basket of Tuesday's contest, and young Frank Ward's shot from under the meshes at the end of last night's game, the local Redmen were able to account for enough good throws to beat the Montrealers by the neat margin of 18 points.

Trinity Excelsiors, flashing a reversal of form over their first night's showing, won the second encounter here by 32 to 30, but Wanderers' 39-19 victory on the previous night was a stumbling block the Ontario-Quebec champions could not whittle away.

GOOD TURNOUT AT PRACTICE

Signs Point to Revival of Canada's National Sport in This City.

BACKING NEEDED.

Judging by the large turnout of lacrosse players at the Exhibition Grounds last night, the national game appears to be reviving again in Peterborough. Prospects for a smart intermediate team are good. Coach Creighton was glad to see so many of the old players out for practise, along with a number of younger players.

Another practise is called for Saturday afternoon at 1.30 o'clock at the Exhibition Grounds and the same players with any other young fellows interested in the game are asked to come out. The following were in uniform last night: Fred Goodfellow, Arnold Hatton, B. Fisher Doug. Miller, J. Boon, C. Fraser, J. Watson, J. Palmer, Ira Dundas, Doug. Hatton, B. Reynolds, Harry Tudhope, and several others.

If Peterborough fans would get behind the effort to revive the game there is no doubt a good team would represent the town and lacrosse might soon become known as a Peterborough sport once more.

A lacrosse meeting will be held some night next week, date to be announced later, and every citizen interested is invited to attend.

NEW ORLEANS, La., April 23 (C.P.). — Dr. John E. Richard, 65, of St. Hyacinthe, Quebec, a member of a party of Canadian Acadians visiting Acadians of Louisiana, was knocked to the pavement and injured here yesterday by an automobile.

He suffered a fracture of the right arm and bruises about the face and body. Emile Solis, another Canadian, who was with him, escaped injury.

Hartwell Bunsberry, of New Orleans, driver of the car, was arrested.

J. F. STRICKLAND GIVES ADDRESS

Good Attendance at April Meeting of Ladies' Liberal-Conservative Association.

SPLENDID TALK.

The April meeting of the Ladies' Liberal-Conservative Association was held in the Paragon hall yesterday afternoon with the first vice-president, Mrs. A. E. Stinson, presiding. Mrs. J. Cridland gave a splendid report of the last meeting and read a letter asking for signatures in support of the League of Nations.

Mrs. H. G. Kelsey sang a delightful solo, entitled "In An Old-Fashioned Way."

The members were then asked to form themselves into eight alphabetical groups and each group was asked to choose a convenor, who would be responsible for the program for a meeting. It is aimed to make the meetings highly educational as well as political and that for each meeting current events will be taken up as well as topics prepared on educational subjects.

J. F. Strickland, M.P.P., was warmly welcomed and gave a short talk on the proceedings at the last session of the House, speaking of the difficulties confronting the new premier in filling the place of Hon. Howard Ferguson. He also referred to the present economic conditions which are embarrassing the government. They have been forced to levy taxes which are not very enthusiastically welcomed to meet their deficits.

In referring to world-wide conditions at the present time and comparing them with those of Ontario and the financial conditions in Ontario with industrial organizations in Canada we should be very thankful that we live in this province. If we can get back to fairly good conditions, which he hoped to see soon we will be surprised to see how our province will develop.

Mrs. Stinson voiced the regrets of E. A. Peck at not being able to be present, as it was necessary for him to return to Ottawa. This was followed by a brief talk on "What it Means to Be a Citizen," by Mrs. Stinson.

BUILDING DESTROYED

BONFIELD, Ont., April 23. (CP) Fire late yesterday wiped out a two storey building in the heart of the town but was prevented from spreading by the strenuous efforts of a bucket brigade, despite the fact that a high wind was blowing. The building, formerly a pool room, was occupied by Chief Constable F. Deschamp. The loss is probably in the neighborhood of $1,000.

Actress Asks Divorce From Negro Husband

LOS ANGELES, Cal., April 23.—(AP)—Helen Lee Worthing, stage and screen actress who once was described by Harrison Fisher, the artist, as possessing the most beautiful profile in America, has filed suit to divorce Dr. Eugene C. Nelson, her negro husband.

Her petition, filed yesterday, charged jealousy, cruelty and threats to have her "confined to some institution."

Dr. Nelson said he would not contest the suit nor resist "a proper monetary settlement to care for her during her illness."

They were married in June, 1928.

Miss Worthing's most recent screen appearances have been with John Barrymore in "Don Juan" and Adolphe Menjou in "The Swan".

COAT OF ARMS FOR FISH FRIERS

Vendors Resolving to Uphold Dignity of Profession Stage Convention.

LORD MAYOR SPEAKS.

LONDON, April 23 (By Thos. T. Champion, C.P.Staff Correspondent).—The fried fish shop, though patronized by every Englishman at some time of his life, and now popular overseas as the source of "potato chips" of "French fried"—has been the butt of music-hall comedians for a couple of generations. But the vendors of this succulent comestible who have for so long meekly endured jibes and undeserved contumely are realizing the dignity of their profession. At Leeds this week the National Federation of Fish Fryers is in conference.

When next it meets, the conference president will wear a presidential badge. And the conference has adopted a coat of arms, resolving the members should but this by private subscription. It might be thought by hardened scoffers of their products that this coat of arms would show, say, a plate surmounted by chips rampant and supported by vinegar bottles proper. Instead he design shows a lighthouse with the word "safety" in its beams, surrounded by a laurel wreath. On a shield is the single word "security" and on the scoll is a depiction of one fish

On trade matters, the conference deplored the migration of population to new housing areas where a corresponding migration of the fried fish shop is not always practicable. The Lord Mayor in his address of welcome recalled his younger days when he bouth many a pennyworth of fish and chips.

Pioneer Of West Dies On Tuesday

WINNIPEG, Man., April 23 (C.P.)—Pioneer of the West, H. Bruce Gordon, 70, for many years president of the Codville Company Limited, wholesale grocers, and since his retirement chairman of the board of directors, died yesterday. He came to Winnipeg from Stratford, Ont., his birthplace, in 1882.

During the war Mr. Gordon was a member of the Federal Food Control Board, and one of the chief promoters of the anti-waste campaign.

MOSLEY PARTY TAKING ACTION

Allan Young Running as First Candidate in Ashton-Under-Lyne By-election.

LIBERAL, TORY OPPONENTS.

ASHTON-UNDER-LYNE, Lancashire, Apr. 23 (CP).—The "new party" founded recently by Sir Oswald Mosley, brilliant and wealthy young Socialist, will run its first candidate in the by-election in this division. The by-election is necessitated by the death of Arthur Bellamy, Labor member of the House of Commons for the seat since he was elected in a by-election in October 1928.

Thus the Labor Party, which has been interestedly watching recent by-election tussles between official Conservatives and Independent Conservatives supported by Lord Beaverbrook, will now have its own by-election troubles. Sir Oswald Mosley's candidate will oppose an official Labor and a Conservative candidate.

The three nominated to-day were: J. W. Gordon, Labor; Lt.-Col. J. Broadbent, Conservative; Allan Young, New Party.

J. W. Gordon, assistant manager of the National Union of Railwaymen, and president of the Paddington Borough Trades Council and Labor Party, was an unsuccessful candidate in Paddington north in the last general elections.

Lt.-Col. Broadbent is a former mayor of Ashton, where he first entered business as a shop assistant. He unsuccessfully contested the division last election.

Allan Young, like his two opponents, was an unsuccessful candidate in the general elections, when he was Labor candidate in Sparkbrook, Birmingham, which elected Rt. Hon. L. C. Amery, former secretary for the dominions. Mr. Young was the political organizer of the Birmingham Borough Labor party from 1924 until he resigned in 1927 to become political secretary to Sir Oswald Mosley.

The vote in Ashton-under-Lyne in the general elections was: A. Bellamy, Lab., 13,170; Broadbent, Cons., 9,763; W. G. Greenwood, Liberal, 6,693.

Read what the mother of this lovely Canadian Baby says:

Bushey Ave., Mount Dennis, Ont.

Dear Sirs,

I feel it my duty to tell you what Virol has done for my baby. At 3 months it was a hard problem to find a food suitable. He had indigestion so bad and was so frail and lifeless, fretting and could not sleep.

I got a tin of Virol and put ½ eggspoon in his bottle as he could only take skim milk; he seemed more satisfied and went to sleep for 2 hours which was such a relief to me.

I have continued to give him Virol and he now weighs 21 lbs.; he will be 10 months on January 21st. I just give him ½ teaspoonful in 4 feedings and 2 I leave without Virol, "which does not please him" as he likes his Virol.

He has eight teeth and is in splendid condition with a smile for everyone.

Virol is a wonderful food and well worth the money. I am very happy to give you particulars and I am glad to give you full permission to publish any of them at any time.

Yours sincerely,
Mrs. W. J. TRACY.

SPECIAL TRAINS TO CARRY FANS

West Bromwich Albion and Birmingham Survivors of 526 Club Schedule.

TEAMS IN TRAINING.

LONDON, Apr. 23.—(C. P. Cable)—More than 150 special trains will leave Birmingham tomorrow and Saturday to carry soccer enthusiasts to witness the oldest and most historic football contests, the association cup final, which will be played at Wembley Stadium between West Bromwich Albion and Birmingham. These two teams, whose home grounds are slightly more than a mile apart, are the survivors of a series that involved 526 clubs.

The Birmingham players, Cringan, Briggs and Bradford, all of whom were tried out in a reserve match yesterday. Briggs and Cringan showed up in good form and seemed almost certain to be included in the final lineup. Bradford's prospects also seemed bright although he was still suffering from injuries. He underwent a physician's examination this morning and emerged confident that he would be fit for the game.

The probable lineup for Birmingham was as follows: Hibbs, Liddell, Barkas, Cringan, Norrall, Leslie, Briggs, Crosbie, Bradford, Gregg and Curtis. For west Bromwich Albion: Pearson, Shaw, Trentham, Magee, W. Richardson, Edwards, Glidden, Carter, W. G. Richardson, Sandford and Wood.

The Birmingham team has taken up quarters near Wembley where the players have been undergoing the lightest possible training. West Bromwich players trained entirely at home and will leave for a hotel near Wembley tonight.

BUILDING COSTS

citizens who have repair work to be done around their houses and stores," said the Mayor, "and I think they should be urged to provide this work now when it can be helpful to the whole community, and when the question of costs is so favorable. Work for carpenters, painters, plumbers, laborers and so on, even if some of the jobs amounted to only a few days, would amount to a great deal on the whole. I would like to see something done in this direction, but the Mayor of a city cannot do it all himself. He should have the support of everybody, especially those who are the most interested, because this work and the spirit behind it would be helpful to the whole community."

Another factor a contractor pointed out was that there is a greater availa-

OBITUARY

Mrs. James Alexander Crozier

The death of Mrs. J. A. Crozier of 14671 Stoepel Avenue, Detroit, occurred in Nicholl's Hospital yesterday after a short illness. The deceased, formerly Harriet Lillian Taylor, was born October 11, 1884, in Roseneath, daughter of the late Daniel and Helen Taylor. She lived in this district until five years ago when she removed to Detroit. Left to mourn her passing are her husband, a daughter, Marjorie Helen, a son, William Frank of Hanover, Ontario, two sisters, Mrs. Richard Thompson of Roseneath and Mrs. Thomas Crozier of Peterborough, and a brother, Frank Taylor of Birdsall.

The funeral will be held from the residence of her sister, 520 Elm street at 2.30 Friday afternoon. Rev. C. V. McLean of St. Andrew's United Church, assisted by Rev. Mr. D. A. Thompson of Hastings, will conduct the service, and interment will be made in Little Lake Cemetery.

Alfred James Johnston

The funeral service was held on Monday for the late Alfred James Johnston, one of Peterborough's most highly respected and deeply regarded citizens, who died after a brief illness on Saturday, April 18th, at the age of seventy-nine years. The service was held at the family residence, 19 Dennistoun Avenue, and was conducted by Rev. G. H. Johnson of Bethany Tabernacle, and Rev. Wm. Allan of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church.

The funeral was attended by the members of the Druggists' Association, representatives of the Peterborough Lodge, I.O.O.F. and a large number of friends from all walks of life. The numerous floral tributes testified to the esteem in which the late Mr. Johnston was held.

Those left to mourn his loss are his widow, three daughters, Mrs. M. R. Hilford, Asheville, N.C.; Mrs. W. W. McMordie, Toronto; Mrs. G. E. Beamish, Port Dalhousie; two sons, Rev. W. H. Johnston, La Union, Columbia, S.A.; A. H. Johnston, Mimico; two sisters, Mrs. Thomas McJanet, Ottawa; Mrs. James H. Billington, Winnipeg; a cousin, Wm. F. Green, Peterborough; and G. W. Fred Johnston, nephew, of Montreal.

The pallbearers were members of the late Mr. Johnston's Bible Class. Interment took place in the family plot at Little Lake Cemetery.

THE SON OF TARZAN No. 46 (Metropolitan Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.) By Edgar Rice Burroughs

Burdened by the struggling Meriem, the great ape could not fight to advantage upon the swaying bough, so he dropped to the ground beneath. Quickly the other ape followed and here they battled, now and then giving up the duel to pursue and recapture the girl who took every chance to break away in attempted escape. But always they overtook her and first one and then the other grasped as they tore at each other.

Often the girl came in for blows intended for a hairy foe and finally she was felled, lying unconscious while the apes, relieved of the distraction of detaining her by force, fought one another in fierce and terrible combat. Above them screamed the monkeys in a frenzy of excitement. Back and forth over the battle field flew countless birds of brilliant plumage squawking cries of rage and defiance. In the distance a lion roared.

The larger bull was slowly tearing his antagonist to pieces. They rolled on the ground, biting and striking. Then erect on their hind legs they pulled and tugged like human wrestlers. Meriem, through it all, lay still and unconscious on the ground. At last the apes went down for the last time. Then the larger one arose alone and shook himself. He waddled back and forth with deep growls between the body of the girl and his foe.

Then he stood upon his victim and gave tongue to his hideous victory challenge. The gorgeous birds flew in all directions at the terrifying noise. The great ape waddled again to the girl's side. He turned over and sniffled at her face. She lived. He stooped, and, lifting the girl to his shoulders, made off through the jungle. Korak, returning from the hunt, heard the jabbering of the excited monkeys who followed in the trees.

MAIN STREET TOPICS

Jabs and Jottings as Picked Up by an Examiner Reporter

CHECK UP BICYCLE RIDERS.

Not only motorists are going to be checked up by police in the effort to make the city's streets safe. Bicycle riders are going to be closely checked also and four summonses were sent out to-day to cyclists who had neglected to equip their vehicles with lights.

Riding without lights was stated by Chief Newhall to be the cause of most of the bicycle accidents. The Vehicle Act calls for a lighted lamp on the front of a bicycle and a reflector on the rear.

NO RADIO LICENSES.

Peterborough is still short of radio licenses. There isn't a license to be had from any of the radio stores, it was learned. One store is following the policy of taking the dollar fee and giving a receipt to serve as a license until more are received from Ottawa. The Government was severely criticized by one dealer for the poor way in which the licenses are being handled.

TWO MINOR OUTBREAKS.

Two further alarms were answered by the Fire Department this morning following the fire which razed the barns on Driscoll Terrace. At 5 o'clock a further outbreak was noticed in the smouldering ruins and the firemen had to return to the scene of their early morning battle. Again at 10.15 a.m. another little fire broke out in what used to be the paint house. Both of these outbreaks were caused by the high wind which blew the merest spark into a flame.

PLENTY OF GOLF.

Peterborough can afford full accommodation to devotees of the miniature golfing pastime, which gained such instant popularity on its introduction last summer. A new course is being erected on the LaPlant property at the corner of Romaine and George, making the fifth course in the city—an increase of two over those of last season.

NEW BUNGALOWS.

Two bungalow dwellings of a very substantial character are at present under construction on the east side of River Road in the vicinity of Frank Kitney's residence.

CLUB PLANS THEATRE NIGHT.

Members of the Y.M.C.A. Friday Night Supper Club will be the guests of their President, C. A. Salmonsen on Friday evening of this week, and following the usual supper meeting which is to be held at 5.45 p.m instead of at the usual time, they will adjourn to the Capitol Theatre.

This meeting constitutes the final meeting of a successful series of winter meetings. The members will be addressed by their President, who is deliverer his annual talk to the boys. He will also have an important announcement to make regarding plans for a social evening to be held after the new building has been opened.

Y.M.C.A. BARRICADE REMOVED.

With the removal of the barricades outside the Y.M.C.A. the George street frontage presents an entirely changed aspect. Gone is the old entrance, which was approached up a flight of stone steps leading from the sidewalk, and in its stead, although not in the same position, is a handsome portal. Inside the changes to the structure are no less apparent. Helped along by the mild winter the contract in the hands of T. C. Ephgrave, is ahead of schedule, and although definite plans are not yet laid, it is thought that the building will be formally opened some time in June.

ST. PAUL'S CHURCH CHOIR.

Practice to-night at 8, to which all members are invited.

HAIRCUTTING
Hair-cutting is one of the most important parts of your Coiffure. If your Hair is properly tapered to suit your contour, your Hair will fall softly over your face. And you can Permanently Wave, Marcel, or Finger Wave it so it will greatly perfect your appearance. Why not try our Special Hair Cut? See the difference between an ordinary Hair-cut and one cut by an Expert.

Try our G. Hogan, Russell Reid, or W. J. Welch for your next Hair-cut.
